GENERAL M'CLELLAN IN ROME, &c., &c., &c.

The steamship Etna, Captain McGuigan, which left Liverpool at three o'clock on the afternoon of the 22d and Queenstown on the 23d of March, arrived at this port yesterday evening.

Her news is four days later.

A London journal says:—The Americans resident in Rome have given a banquet on a scale of great magnificence to General McClellan, and adds that it is not a little remarkable that at this dinner citizens of both the North and the South commingled. The Americans thus showed their good sense in not carrying their quarrels into foreign countries. At present, it is said, the American community in Rome is not so large as it usually is at this time of the year.

The iron ram Scorpion—one of the vessels built by Messrs. Laird—had left the Mersey for Plymouth, to be commissioned as a British man-of-war.

The French Senate adopted the address to the Emperor by a vote of one hundred and thirty to two.

Ten thousand men are to be reduced from the Spanish army.

The mails from the Cape of Good Hope to the 11th of February were received in London. Trade was steady.

The steamships Pennsylvania, Edinburg and New York, from New York, arrived at Liverpool March 23.

The Moravian arrived off Londonderry on the 22d of March.

The American Question.

ENGLISH PROPERTY IN THE REBEL STATES—THE COTTON CAPTURED IN SAVANNAH.

In the House of Commons, on the 20th of March, Mr. GREGORY asked the Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs whether any and what steps had been taken to protect the property of British subjects purchased and paid for in the Southern States of North America before the commencement of the war, where proof had been afforded of the bonâ fide nature of the transactions?

Mr. LAYARD—I presume that the question applies more particularly to cotton. This cotton comes under two categories—that which has been destroyed by the authorities of the so-called Confederate States, and that which has been taken possession of by the federal authorities. As regards the former, the government have been advised that foreigners owning property in a country which is subject to such a war as that now existing in the Southern States of America are liable to all the accidents which may befall the property of persons belonging to that country, and if that property has been destroyed for the bonâ fide purpose of preventing it from falling into the hands of the enemy, British subjects who may be among the owners have no right to complain. At the same time, they have been requested to preserve authentic evidence respecting property so destroyed. As regards the cotton seized at Savannah, full particulars have not yet been received by the government. It appears, however, that a large quantity of the cotton has been removed to the North, and it is stated that it has been so removed under the apprehension that it might fall into the hands of the enemy. Upon these grounds there is no doubt that the government of the United States have a full right to so remove the cotton; but her Majesty's Chargé d'Affaires at Washington has been instructed to express a confident hope that no obstacle will be interposed to the claims of British subjects in respect of that cotton—that is to say, that every facility will be given to British subjects to prove their claim to British property thus removed by the federal authorities to the North.

A WAR BETWEEN ENGLAND AND AMERICA.

In the House of Commons, on the 20th of March, Mr. BERKELEY rose to call attention to the possibility of a war with America, and to the absence of guns capable of protecting the coasts from the aggression of a maritime Power. The disasters of the last American war were entirely caused by want of preparation. This country then had no ships, crews, or guns fit to contend with the Americans, and it was only about the time when the war concluded that the then government betook themselves to preparation. They should remember what happened during the American war, when an American ship-of-war came into the Channel at Bristol, and for three or four days together destroyed our trade before the Admiralty took steps to prevent it. He had heard old merchants say that they then expected to see the Americans in King Roads, making havoc among our ships, and that if they had gone there they might have done as they pleased.

Mr. PEACOCKE thought the honorable gentleman had done quite right in calling attention to the probability of a war with America, and also to the defenceless state of this country. He did not believe that either our defences would be increased, or the probability of such a war diminished, in consequence of the remarks recently made on the subject of Canada. He did not think it was the way to avoid war with an unscrupulous neighbor to tell her that we were unable to defend our colony. He had heard it stated, he would not say when or where, that Canada could not be defended, and he thought such statements were calculated to depress the courage and weaken the ability of the Canadians to defend themselves. (Hear, hear.) Nor would aggression be warded off by telling the United States that we were unable to defend the colony. We could only judge of the probability of a war with the United States by looking at the language of ministers and persons high in the employment of their government

The Marquis of HARTINGTON, on the part of the government, said:—I listened with great interest to the debate which took place the other night upon the defences of Canada, and it seemed to me that most of the speakers who addressed the House, having any sense of responsibility upon them, admitted, as we admit, that, while there is a possibility of our being engaged in a war with America, the probability of such a misfortune is very remote indeed. (Hear, hear.) I do not think it necessary, therefore, to follow the arguments of the honorable member who first spoke to-night.

THE LATEST NEWS.

LONDON, March 23, 1865.

The papers to-day warn the House of Commons of the importance of the vote to be taken to-night on the subject of Canadian fortifications.

The Mexican Empire.

WILL THE MONROE DOCTRINE BE SUSTAINED?—MARSHAL FOREY'S SPEECH ON THE WAR.

The Oesterreichische Zeitung of Vienna asserts that the negotiations at Washington, between the agents of the Emperor Maximilian and Mr. Seward, are progressing satisfactorily. It reiterates the statement that Mr. Lincoln has promised to recognize the new empire at the termination of the present war.

The Paris Constitutionnel publishes an editorial demonstrating that the apprehensions of American aggression in Mexico are chimerical, and stating that the relations between France and Washington have never ceased to be of a most satisfactory character.

The Vienna papers publish a telegram addressed by the Emperor Maximilian to the Emperor of Austria, stating that the Austrian volunteers, hardly arrived in the country, had already achieved splendid victories in the interior.

Commercial Intelligence.

THE LONDON MONEY MARKET.

[From the London Times (city article), March 22.]

Consols this morning opened at an improvement of an eighth, but soon became dull, and returned to yesterday's prices—89⅝ a ¼ for delivery, and 89¾ a ⅜ for the account, at which they closed. The government broker bought £16,000 new three per cents. Reduced and new three per cents left off at 87⅞ a ⅛. Exchequer bills 3s. a 6s. premium.

There was a full discount demand at the bank to-day, and in the Stock Exchange short advances were in request at 4½ per cent.

In the foreign market the transactions have again been few and unimportant, but such changes as have occurred have been upward. The Confederate loan is ¼ better, at 35 a 36.

LONDON, March 23, 1865.

Messrs. A. Fachin & Son, of London, Liverpool and New York, have suspended. Liabilities, £160,000 sterling.

AMERICAN STOCKS.

The Moravian news was promulgated to-day, and has caused an improvement in United States five-twenties, the closing quotation being 53¾.

Consols closed at 89 a 89⅝ for money.

Illinois Central, 54 a 55; Erie, 32 a 33; United States five-twenties, 53¾.

THE LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET.

LIVERPOOL, March 20, 1865.

The market has been exceedingly dull to-day, and the sales barely amount to 3,000 bales—500 on speculation and for export. Prices have declined fully ⅛d. per lb.

LIVERPOOL, March 21, 1865.

The cotton market still continues extremely dull, and holders have submitted to a further decline of ⅛d. per lb.; sales 1,500 bales, including 700 on speculation and for export.

THE LATEST MARKETS.

NEWS FROM MONTREAL.

Discharge of the Rebel Raiders—They are Rearrested and Sent, Under a Strong Guard, to Upper Canada.

MONTREAL, April 5, 1865.

The rebel raiders were discharged from custody this morning, the United States counsel having withdrawn the charges against them. They were immediately rearrested on a charge for breach of the neutrality law, but, on motion of the counsel for the Crown, proceedings were quashed, in order that the prisoners might be sent to Upper Canada. A strong force of cavalry and artillery guarded them to the train, much to the disgust of the people who sympathized with the raiders and who were prepared to attempt a rescue.

CUBA.

Movements of Blockade Runners.

HAVANA, April 3, 1865.

There is nothing of particular interest transpiring here.

Mrs. Ovedo, of "diamond wedding" fame, is lying in a very critical condition with the smallpox, of which disease we have several cases, reported to have been brought from New York.

Arrived, March 26, steamer Lark, three days from Galveston, with cotton.

Arrived, March 30, steamer Owl, Captain Maffitt. She tried hard to get into Nassau, but could not. The authorities there still hold Maffitt's lieutenant in durance vile for having been engaged in recruiting there. It is said that the Owl also tried to get into St. Marks and failed.

Sailed, March 25, steamers Juno, Pelican and Wren for Matamoros. On the 28th, Badger, for the same port.

It is expected that the steamer Colonel Lamb will sail to-day.

The English steamer Ajax is at Nassau, doubtless fitting out for a corsair. A rebel steamer went in there the other day, communicated with her and then left.

SOUTH AMERICA.

Progress of the War Between Brazil and Uruguay.

By way of England we have telegraphic reports from South America, dated at Rio Janeiro on the 14th of February.

The advices state that Señor Volan, Minister of War, had been replaced by Viscount Camanin.

Intelligence from Montevideo is contradictory. According to one account the garrison agreed to capitulate to the Brazilian Admiral on the 7th of February, and the Brazilians would consequently occupy the place without bloodshed.

Another account is that hostilities commenced on the 9th of February.
