DR. LOUNSBERY HAS OPENED A PRIVATE HOSpital at his office 118 Spring street, west of Broadway, for the benefit of patients who cannot get proper care at their hotels and boarding houses.

IT IS WITH PLEASURE THAT WE FIND OUR ATtention called to the paragraph in last week's Christian Intelligencer describing the baptismal ceremony of the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Van Rensselaer, of Bellevue, N. J. It is indeed, rarely that such a ceremony, graced as it was by the presence of the aged relatives of the infant child for several generations back, occurs. The sacred and imposing scene has been so beautifully and touchingly described by the intelligencer's correspondent that we forbear making any further allusions. The name of Van Rensselaer has long been associated in the annals of the history of New York, as well as in the minds of the people, as comprising one of the oldest and most respectable families in the State. Few can boast of a pedigree more ancient which has numbered so many able and distinguished members. Surrounded as we are by a flash aristocracy, the offspring of sudden wealth we need just such names to stem the tide of their aggressive waves. May the day be not far distant when names coupled with such worth will form the nobility of our republic. W.
