SILESIAN GREEN.
The undersigned beg leave to call your attention to the superior merits of the above Green. It is beyond question the finest pigment the science of chemistry has ever produced. Silesian Green (so called from its lead base) is a compound salt of the choicest Cremnitz sugar of lead, and possesses the following distinctly marked characteristics:—
Unfading brilliancy of color.
Proof against the effects of salt air and sun.
Ability to stand an acid test which will totally destroy the color of most other greens.
This characteristic effects are due to a subtle and searching mordant, of which the undersigned are the sole proprietors. For fine indoor work, for window blinds, railroads, steamships, and for all work where permanent brilliancy of color and power to resist the destructive effects of the elements are an object this Green is warranted to be without a peer.
