REMOVAL.

F. DERBY & CO.

to their new establishment,

No. 3 Clinton place, New York.

TO TAILORS.

THOS. OLIVER, 704 Broadway, New York, tenders his thanks to the tailors of Boston, with whom he spent an agreeable evening at his lecture, for their vote of approval of his system of drafting, and the number of persons that have purchased it is substantial evidence of success.

In answer to the unanimous call for a repetition of the lecture, he would name WEDNESDAY, January 26, 7½ P. M., at the same place, Evans' Hall, No. 3 Tremont row, room 20. On that occasion he will cut and try on coats for several busts, and also for several persons in the audience, proving, in the presence of the assembled cutters of Boston, that he can fit any shaped person with a perfection and rapidity impossible by any other mode of measurement.

T. Oliver is aware of the risk he assumes when he challenges the cutters of Boston; but justice to the merits of his system demand that he should encounter the most skilful cutters in the world, and if he is successful in Boston he has nothing to fear from the rest of creation.

To make all fair those who will test their skill can cut for the same figures that he does, and if they can produce as perfect fits he will award them his system of drafting and three splendid medals won by him in public contests with teachers of the art.

Professor J. B. West, of New York, has for a long time been writing against my method of measurement. He does not mention my name nor meet me man for man, but indirectly endeavors to prejudice cutters against my system. I am aware that he is satisfied it is the most perfect ever published in this or any other country, and neither he nor any other teacher dare to accept the challenge (published in my book) to contest for a purse of $500 in public. Now is your chance, Mr. West, or any other teacher, to meet me at Evans' Hall, No. 3 Tremont row, on Wednesday evening, Jan. 26, or at any other time and place, on the above challenge.

"The Past and the Future—The Next Century—the Restoration of the Lost Cause."

The above is the heading of a circular to the trade by J. B. West in his January number for 1870. "Tis a pity that such distinguished literary talent should be enlisted in a lost cause. He retires from the contest with his exploded mathematical system, and goes back a century to the old trick of fitting by patterns, and writes several columns in a desperate effort to convince cutters that thirteen patterns combine all that is necessary for their success. This may squeeze ten dollars out of a few greenhorns; but no intelligent tailor can be taken in by them. He candidly admits that the patterns won't fit anybody, but kindly instructs greeny to slink the seye half an inch, and then take out half an inch all round the seye, and then, as a compensation, get [illegible] ply of wadding in the shoulder to fit a slope shouldered man—a brilliant idea for a teacher whose leading cause was mathematical and geometrical principles. I would advise J. B. W. to secure a very large room and plenty of cutting board to accommodate the rush of "leading cutters" who will wish to witness the advent of these thirteen patterns. That will be a very intelligent class of cutters that he is getting up to see the Lost Cause restored by thirteen patterns that won't fit anybody. They are to be the "Book of Instructions" and the foundation of all his remarks. He states that he intends to prove "that a correct knowledge of cutting is acquired by the use of thirteen patterns."

Mr. J. B. W., when you prove that, take my transfer, take my medals, take my hat. T. O. leaves the next century to your care; but perhaps the morocco backed fortune you lay the thirteen patterns in is expected to draw the ten dollars, which is to be returned if the thirteen patterns that won't fit anybody don't suit the trade. This returning money is an old dodge. J. B. W. lately wanted parties to send him twenty dollars for an old work, the money to be returned if not satisfactory, and in my travels I have met with many who wanted their money back.

I have now before me one of Mr. West's Model Coat Patterns, size 36 breast, published Jan. 1, 1870. The depth of seye is 8¼ inches, first shoulder measure 27 inches. Any experienced cutter knows that a 36 coat requires 9 inches depth of seye and 27½ inches shoulder measure. This coat, to make the alterations you suggest for a slope shouldered person, to drop the seye half an inch and take out half an inch all around the seye. J. B. W., what will it fit after that half inch comes out all around the seye and the ten ply of wadding is in the shoulder.

If Mr. J. B. W. wants a 36 inch coat I will supply him with one; or if he will call upon Messrs. Butrick & Co., of New York, they will, no doubt, supply him with a 36 inch pattern, which he will find much better than the one he has cut out as one of his model patterns.

T. O. will review Mr. West's Model Pattern at his lecture on Wednesday evening, the 26th inst. Should Mr. West not be able to be there I hope some of his friends in Boston will be there to defend him.

Mr. J. B. West informs the trade that a number of the leading cutters of Broadway, New York, have taken these models, and, with one exception, approved of his models. (One sensible cutter.)

Will Mr. West in his next publication please name those Broadway cutters using those 13 Model Patterns? It may be of great advantage to those cutters, as persons difficult to fit will no doubt rush to those parties to have coats cut.

There are many celebrated scientific cutters in Broadway, New York; no better cutters in the world, and I do not believe that any one of them will risk their reputation by acknowledging they are using those 13 models.

"Palmam Qui meruit Ferat."

OLIVER'S CHALLENGE.

The author will test his New Transfer, published May, 1869, with any teacher of cutting in the United States or any part of the world, for the sum of from one to five hundred dollars.

First—That my Transfer is the most perfect method for obtaining the true shape of the human figure for all shapes.

Second—After the measure is taken the shape of the person can be transferred to the cloth in less time and give the different parts of the garments more correctly.

Third—That it can be taught to an inexperienced person in less time, and they can use it with less exercise of judgment.

Fourth—That it is better adapted for the cutter to display taste and style to the garments than any now taught.

Fifth—By cutting four coats for disproportioned busts, as well as for the following shaped persons:—

A proportioned figure. A high shouldered figure. A low sloping shoulder. A round backed figure. A very erect figure. A large full figure. A short thick figure. And any other test the committee may require.

Some may object to cutting for those busts, stating that I have had them to experiment on. To obviate this difficulty, any person accepting this challenge can have the use of those busts for two days before the test to experiment on, and they may bring forward as many busts as they think proper, and I will cut for them. Each one to cut strictly to the system as published.

STALLIONS.

ARABIAN STALLION FOR SALE.—THE PURE Arabian Horse SAID is for sale on reasonable terms as his present owner has no use for him. To breeders he will be a most valuable acquisition. The following pedigree gives the purity of his blood, with other interesting facts relating to his career:—

SAID (also spelled Sayed), as given by the groom of Nubar Pasha, Minister to France from Egypt, was foaled on the 27th of March, 1862, at the stables of Nubar Pasha. His sire was the famous Khorassan, the property of Abdul Medjid. Said's dam was Ouian, the property of Nubar Pasha, and is the descendant of the celebrated Jan zear, which leaped the citadel walls with the last Mameuke Bey when fleeing from Mahomed Ali in 1819. Therefore, Said is a cross between the Nedjid breed on the mother's side and the Anaseeh breed on the side of Khorassan.

This grand Arab stallion exhibited wonderful powers of endurance and speed in the Abyssinian war, being ridden constantly by an officer during that campaign.

For further particulars apply to Mr. FOSTER at the office of Wilkes' Spirit of the Times.
