FOREIGN PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Marshal Canrobert lives in retirement in the neighborhood of Versailles.

—M. Thiers and General Ducrot are at variance on questions of military policy.

—Hobart Pasha has had an apoplectic attack, and is about to proceed to one of the German baths.

—The Prince and Princess of Wales will, it is understood, visit Ireland during the second week in August.

—The O'Conor Don, M. P., Roscommon, has given a site for the erection of a Protestant church in the vicinity of Athlone.

—Lord Derby made a speech recently on the English criminal population before a conference of managers of discharged prisoners' aid societies.

—Captain Duraener, commander of the gunboat flotilla of the Seine, was relieved of his functions some time since.

—Photiades Bey, Turkish Minister at Florence, has been accredited to Vienna, in place of Khabil Bey, who replaces Djemel Pasha as Minister at Paris.

—M. de Moltke, Chamberlain to the Emperor of Germany and brother to the Chief of the Staff in the German army, died recently at Lugano, Switzerland.

—Comte d'Harcourt, the new French Ambassador to Rome, presented his credentials to the Pope on the 26th ult. and afterwards had a long private audience of his Holiness.

—In the sitting of the Commune recently M. Clement demanded the arrest of M. Felix Pyat for attacking in the Vengeur M. Vermorel, who had opposed him.

—It is reported that Gen. Dombrowski has said that the leading men of the Commune believe their chance is gone, but they rely upon the incapacity of Versailles to prolong the struggle.

—Essad Pacha, Commander-in-Chief of the First Turkish Army corps, will shortly leave Constantinople on a mission of congratulation to the Emperor of Germany.

—Mr. Samuel Cousins, of the British Royal Academy, has engraved from a painting by Mr. Lowes Dickinson a portrait of Queen Victoria. The work was executed by express command of her Majesty.

—General Cluseret, in an interview with a newspaper correspondent, declared he would be no party to the arbitrary measures at present enacted by the Commune, and said if these unwarrantable acts continued he would resign, whether they shot him for it or not.

—Prince Napoleon has recently sold his new and splendid chateau on the Lake of Geneva, near Nyon, for the sum of £70,000, to Mr. Lucas, the great railway and building contractor, of London, including all its superb collection of objects of art and virtu. When the purchaser asked if his Highness did not wish to reserve at least some of the latter the Prince replied, "No, nothing; let the whole go, just as it stands, down to my cane." He has bought a house in London, No. 105 Lancaster Gate, Hyde Park, one of a block of houses occupied by wealthy merchants and lawyers, &c.; a good and handsome three-window front dwelling, very much like a good Fifth avenue residence, but rather a come-down from the Palais Royal of Paris, which he is little likely ever to see again. The furnishing of it is rapidly progressing at this moment, and the Prince, with his wife the Princess Clotilde, the daughter of King Victor Emmanuel, are to go into it as soon as it is ready. They have reserved from the estate on the Lake of Geneva a cottage or chalet for summer resort. They will, of course, be greatly fêtonized by London society.
