COLLEGE COMMENCEMENTS.

THE NORMAL COLLEGE.

The daily attendance at the Normal College still remains as large as ever, although the term for study and the regular examinations for graduation and promotion have been concluded. This extra time is being devoted to rehearsals for Commencement and for competitive examinations among scholars of the graduating class. None but the best students take part in these contests, and to come out first or second in one of them is a voucher for splendid scholarship in the branch in which this success is attained. The first examination of this kind came off on last Friday, in the subject of methods and principles of teaching; but the result is not yet known. Yesterday there were two of them—one in Latin and the other in German. In both languages the examination was partly oral and partly written, and was in both cases well adapted to get at the comparative merits of the contestants. The winner of the medal in Latin was Miss Marguerite Merington, who also received honorable mention for her efforts in German. In the second contest the winner of the first prize, a gold medal, was Miss Elina Doserty, and the winner of the second prize, a silver medal, was Miss Ida Lindheimer. There will be competitive examinations to-day and to-morrow, commencing at half-past nine o'clock. Visitors are allowed to be present, and to those interested in education it would no doubt be a goodly sight to see the readiness and accuracy of the young ladies in answering questions propounded to them.

ST. GABRIEL'S GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

The eleventh annual examination of the grammar school of St. Gabriel's church, East Thirty-sixth street, took place last evening under very pleasant auspices. On the platform were Rev. Father Clowry, Rev. Father Hughes, Rev. Father O'Neill, Rev. Father Flood, Brothers Pauline and Humphreys, Lawrence D. Kernan, Commissioners Wood and Patterson, of the Board of Education; Professor Docharty, of the College of the City of New York; ex-Senator James O'Brien, Congressman Wills and several others. The exercises passed off with great success, the following being the programme:—

Address ..... Daniel A. Towle
Music ..... Orchestra
Solid and Spherical Geometry.
Grand Chorus, "O Hail us, ye Free" ..... Verdi
Algebra—Indeterminate Equations and Unlimited Problems, Probabilities and Life Annuities.
Polish Boy ..... Stevens
Daniel A. Towle.

The examination of the intermediate classes will take place to-morrow and the two succeeding days.

COMING COMMENCEMENTS.

The annual reception at the male department, Public Grammar School No. 10, Wooster street, near Bleecker, will occur on Wednesday, the 23d inst., at two P. M., when medals and diplomas will be presented, with an attractive selection of musical and intellectual exercises. On Thursday afternoon the female department will receive their friends and entertain them with a similar programme.

The closing exercises of the New York Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb are to be held on Wednesday next, at half-past two o'clock P. M. The Tarrytown special, leaving Thirtieth street at one o'clock P. M., will stop at the institution, returning at five o'clock.

Trinity church school will hold its annual reception at the school building, Church street, corner of Thames, on Friday, 25th inst., commencing at half-past three P. M.

Cards of invitation have been issued for the closing exercises of the Girard Institute, No. 36 East Sixty-second street, on Thursday, June 24, at eight P. M.

The Rose Hill Methodist Episcopal Sunday school, Twenty-seventh street, between Second and Third avenues, having completed its fifteenth year, will hold a reunion and strawberry festival on Wednesday evening, the 23d inst., when a sketch of the history of the school will be read and addresses will be made by several former pastors and superintendents. Mr. John Stephenson, the railroad car builder, has been superintendent of this school for over thirty years, with Mr. John Pullman as chief assistant.

The class of '75 of the College of the City of New York will have its ante-graduation exercises to-morrow afternoon in the chapel of the college.

The exercises of the graduating class of the Van Norman Institute, will be held in the Madison avenue Reformed church, at the corner of Fifty-seventh street, to-morrow morning, at eleven.

RUTGERS COLLEGE.

GRADUATION OF THE SCIENTIFIC SCHOOL—PROGRAMME OF THE WEEK—SPOILS FROM NEW FRIENDS FOR THE ENRICHMENT OF OLD IN THE SHAPE OF TWO HISTORIC CANNON.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., June 21, 1875.

The scientific school graduation ceremonies open the Commencement exercises. These consist of the reading of essays, which are of two kinds—chemical and engineering—the scientific course being thus divided at the end of two years. The theses this year were spoken of as more meritorious than ever before—a result, perhaps, of the addition of a year to the length of the course, of which this class of '75 is the first to take the profit. The following is a list of the theses:—

Water Wheels—H. V. Butler, New Brunswick.
The Parabolic Truss—Arthur L. Fitzsworth, Plainfield.
The Japanese Metallurgy of Iron, Copper and Silver—J. E. Hallorit, Japan.
The Hudson Water Works—Frank Van Wyck, Poughkeepsie.
Pavements—F. A. Montfort, Brooklyn.
The Horse-car Elevator on Bergen Hill—C. L. D. Washburn, Jersey City.
Water—Robert A. Meeker, Plainfield.
Averill Chemical Paint—J. E. Ward, Madison.
Aniline and Aniline Colors—Henry L. Janeway, Jr., New Brunswick.
Sugar—G. V. V. Certelyou, New Brunswick.

The most interesting of them was Mr. Hattori's the young Japanese, who is also to deliver an oration on Wednesday, at the regular Commencement exercises, in his native tongue. He leaves, much to his regret, in July to return to Japan, but he hopes to return to take a post graduate course at Rutgers. He speaks English admirably, though rather slowly. Mr. Hattori dealt of the furnaces and processes of smelting used in Japan, and he described them very intelligently. There are now five Japanese at Rutgers, all of whom take the scientific course.

There have been seventy applications for admission into the college on Saturday and to-day and the fall term will doubtless bring a few more. These take the place of twenty-two who this year graduated, and bring the total number of students at Rutgers to about 200. Of the thirty-two who graduate eleven are to be ministers, five doctors, six engineers, four lawyers, three business men, one farmer and one educator in Japan—the rest not having yet decided.

The programme of the remainder of commencement week is as follows:—

TUESDAY.—10 A. M., meeting of trustees in the library and of the Alumni in Kirkpatrick chapel; 10:30 A. M., scull race between R. L. Janeway, of the scientific section, and T. D. Swift, of the classical section, of the graduating class; 12 M., address before the Alumni by E. W. Appleton, of Chester, Pa.; 1:30 P. M., Alumni dinner; 3 P. M., base ball match between University Nine and the Trenton Club; 3:30 P. M., annual meeting of the Peithesophian and Philoclean Literary Societies; 4 P. M., address before the same by Rev. Dr. Hugh Smith Carpenter, of San Francisco; 8 P. M., junior exhibition.

WEDNESDAY—9:30, procession forms, headed by Gilmore's band; 10, Commencement proceedings; 8 P. M., President's levee.

The Junior exhibition is the favorite part of the whole exercises, there being only eight short speeches, with an abundance of music and plenty of flowers. But, indeed, commencement at Rutgers College is a much more imposing festival than it is usually made at colleges. Here there is no class day, and the interest is therefore centred upon these two days of festivity. The town already begins to assume a holiday look, and business will be almost suspended to-morrow and on Wednesday. The town, having about 20,000 inhabitants, is able to turn out in full force and fashion and make it really a gay season. The dressmakers look on this week as the end of their highest triumphs, for "Commencement dresses" have a place in the trousseau of every New Brunswick girl.

The students, by the stupidity, as they say, of the college faculty, having lost their hold on the Princeton cannon, are now to receive two fully as ancient specimens from the old North Dutch church at the corner of Fulton and William streets, New York. One of them has arrived and has been set up opposite Geve Library in the theological seminary campus. The trunnions are broken and the muzzle stopped up; but, if not an object of much use, it probably has historic interest—at least will have when the old North Dutch church becomes a tradition—and it will no doubt be tenderly cared for. There is another one coming from the same place and is to be set up in front of the college proper. It will be strange if the Princetonians, who hold their Commencement next week, do not capture it and use it as a trophy to show their fair ladies on their graduation day. When the girls ask them why they allowed the Rutgers boys to take it away their gun they can proudly and silently point to this new capture. The old weather vane which aid duty on the same church before its steeple was burned has also been sent here, regilded and set up on top of the college cupola. It is a cock with a big top-knot and huge spurs. Speaking of the Princeton warfare reminds me that the muskets which that college in revenge stole from Rutgers armory have not yet all been returned, although President McCosh promised that they should be.

To-night the New Brunswick Choral Society, a very cultivated and well practised body of a hundred singers, is giving a concert to an immense audience in the Opera House, in compliment to the Commencement proceedings and the students. The programme is a classical one, and is being elegantly rendered.

MOUNT ST. MARY'S COLLEGE.

CARDINAL M'CLOSKEY AT EMMITTSBURG—RECEPTION OF CATHOLIC DIGNITARIES BY THE STUDENTS.

EMMITTSBURG, Md., June 21, 1875.

Cardinal McCloskey, accompanied by Bishop Loughlin, of Brooklyn; McNierney, of Albany; Mgr. Roncetti and Dr. Ubaldi, was received at Mechanicstown this evening by Drs. McMurdie, Vice President, and Guedrie, Superior of Sisters of Charity in the United States, and escorted to Mount St. Mary's College. They were received here by the students in line who, kneeling, received the blessing of His Eminence, after which they gave three times three cheers. The college band played "Hail to the Chief," and the distinguished prelates were escorted to their quarters. The college was brilliantly illuminated.

DIPLOMAS FOR MIDSHIPMEN.

SECRETARY ROBESON AND THE GRADUATING CLASS AT ANNAPOLIS—THE SERVICES YESTERDAY.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 21, 1875.

The diplomas were given to the graduating class of midshipmen to-day by Secretary Robeson at the Naval Academy. A great crowd of people, numbering nearly 3,000, gathered to witness the scenes. Before the giving of the diplomas the midshipmen and cadet engineers assembled in the chapel and were addressed by the Rev. Mr. Tiffany, of the Board of Visitors. The five midshipmen entitled to special mention for merit in studies are:—Charles Amsden, of Ohio; William Cutler, of New York; Joseph Heim, of Tennessee; Albon Hodgson, of Georgia, and Cameron Winslow, of Massachusetts; and the five engineers are:—Frank Bailey, of Pennsylvania; William Catherall, of Connecticut; William Cowles, of New York; George Willits, of Pennsylvania, and Walter Worthington, of Maryland. The other diplomas were delivered without speciality. The graduates are detached from the Academy examination of candidates for admission now progressing.

WILL MURDER OUT?

THE DEADLY ENCOUNTER BETWEEN WILLIAM DEMPSEY AND JAMES BUTTERLY—"THERE'S ANOTHER DAY FOR DEMPSEY."

The investigation into the murder of James Butterly took place last evening before Justice Patrick Warren, at Jersey City. It will be remembered that on the last day of last December James Butterly was severely beaten in a saloon, at the corner of Thirteenth and Henderson streets, in Jersey City. He went afterward to the bakeshop of William Dempsey, in Meadow street, Hoboken, where he had been employed. Next morning he was found in the bakeshop so badly injured that he was taken to the hospital, where he died seven days afterward. An inquest was held, but the witnesses gave testimony very reluctantly and the jury rendered a verdict that deceased came to his death at the hands of some person or persons unknown. Every attempt was made to baffle investigation, but it has at last leaked out that some of the witnesses were under restraint and new testimony has been elicited. As already stated in the HERALD, Dempsey was arrested on Saturday evening on a warrant issued by Justice Warren. John Gapper, a journeyman baker, employed by Dempsey, made an affidavit that he was in company with Dempsey and deceased on New Year's Eve, distributing New Year's cakes among Dempsey's customers, and among other places they visited was Daniel Kelly's saloon on Henderson street. He said a fight arose there between Dempsey and Butterly, when Butterly asked a man who was fighting to wait until he had sung a song. Dempsey told Butterly to shut up and take a back seat. After some words Butterly said he was as good a man as Dempsey, and they got out into the middle of the floor to fight. Kelly seized a policeman's club from behind the bar, and said they couldn't fight in there, if there was to be a fight he wanted them to go out into the street. They had a few blows and separated. On New Year's day Mrs. Dempsey asked Gapper to go and separate Butterly and her husband as they were fighting. The testimony given at the investigation briefly will explain the circumstances.

John Anderson testified:—Dempsey came to see me on the 7th of January last and asked whether I baked in the daytime or in the night; I answered that I baked at night, and I inquired what was the matter; he said Mr. Butterly's son was dead; I asked him how it happened, and he said that he was clubbed.

Mary Anne Gapper testified:—I knew deceased and know Dempsey; last New Year's morning Butterly came into my house; he was covered with blood; he cried out, "Oh, I am killed;" I gave him a dish pan, and a quart of blood flowed from him; his tongue appeared to be mashed in his mouth; as he was going out he said, "There's another day for Dempsey."

John Butterly testified:—I remember the night of the 7th of January last; John Anderson came and told me that my son James was dead at St. Mary's Hospital; I asked who put him there; Dempsey was standing at the foot of the bed and said "I did;" I went to the Morgue and saw the body; the jaw was broken; his health was remarkably good up to the time he received injuries which caused his death.

Catharine McLaughlin testified:—On the 1st of January last, in the morning, saw Butterly come out of the bake shop, and blood was coming from his mouth; Dempsey was then in the bake house; Dempsey admitted he struck him; he said he was asleep in the bake house when Dempsey went in and struck him.

Dempsey, who was in court, is a very stout, thick-set man, about thirty-five years of age, and the deceased was of about the same age. The investigation was adjourned and the accused was remanded to jail.

ACCIDENT OR MURDER?

A BOY SHOT THROUGH THE HEART BY A COMRADE—ARREST OF THE YOUTH WHO FIRED THE FATAL SHOT.

On last Sunday afternoon about half-past two o'clock Peter James Kane, a boy about fifteen years of age, was shot by a comrade named Peter McGrath, aged eighteen, at Long Island City. There appears to be some little doubt as to how the affair occurred, and, as far as can at present be ascertained, there were no witnesses to the actual firing of the shot, although a number of persons heard the report. McGrath was employed by the Long Island Railroad to watch and take care of a spike driver which was in position near the track opposite the corner of Second and Ferry streets, near the water. Kane had in his possession for some time previous to his death a small single-barrelled pocket pistol, carrying a No. 1 cartridge. This he had lent to McGrath. On Sunday they met together and in company with a boy named John Connors began to fire at an old tin pot which was set up as a target against the spike driver. Connors left the other two about eleven o'clock and saw no more of them, he says, until after the death of Kane. From this period the testimony is very conflicting, some asserting that the boys played cards and that McGrath, having lost his money, became enraged because his companion would not return it to him, and that he therefore suddenly drew the pistol and shot Kane. The ball entered through the left nipple of the lad and pierced his heart, causing almost instant death. Another story is that the firing at the target was continued after Connors left the other boys together, and that Kane, at the moment that McGrath pulled the trigger of the pistol, while aiming at the tin can, came suddenly in the line of fire and so met his death. This, too, is McGrath's story. He, as soon as he saw what he had done, ran away. He returned to his home in the evening, however, and was arrested and locked up at Police Headquarters at Astoria.

THE CORONER'S INQUEST.

The Coroner, Mr. Mauger, of Winfield, impanelled a jury on Sunday night which viewed the body and adjourned. Last night the taking of testimony was proceeded with, but no light was thrown upon the affair by the witnesses examined, which was in a great measure owing to the manner in which the inquest was conducted. The witnesses were threatened with the lock-up and otherwise badgered at almost every turn.

THE TOMPKINS AVENUE TRAGEDY.

MRS. WATSON PROBABLY DYING.

Mrs. Lucinda Watson, who was shot by her husband on Sunday afternoon, was in such a precarious condition last night that Police Surgeon Lowenstein ordered the family to report any change in her condition, even the slightest, to the station house, so that the Coroner could at once be summoned to take her ante-mortem statement. Her pulse is very low, she cannot lie down, and death may come to her within a few hours. The result of the investigation into the matter will, it is said, cause quite a sensation.

CREEDMOOR.

THE NATIONAL GUARD AT BALL PRACTICE—TROOPS OF THE THIRD BRIGADE OUT YESTERDAY.

The following named detachments from the Third brigade, First division, N.G.S.N.Y., were out yesterday for ball practice at Creedmoor. The First battalion of infantry, forty-eight officers, non-commissioned officers, rank and file, under the command of Captain William Kelly; companies A, I and K, ninety officers and enlisted men, of the Eighth regiment, under the orders of Captain Lingham; companies G, H and D, of the Ninth regiment, 105 officers and men, in charge of Captain Pryor; companies D and F, of the Fifty-fifth regiment, eighty-three officers and men, commanded by Captain Fleischbein.

Of the forty-eight men paraded by the First battalion twenty-seven appeared without the regimental uniform pantaloons. These were excluded from participating in the practice and summarily turned out of the grounds by a man wearing a white hat and having an umbrella in his hand. It afterward proved that this was General Varian, commander of the Third brigade, who, although without any insignia of rank himself, assumed to correct the men of the First battalion. After being ejected from the practice some men in the uniform of the First battalion formed themselves into a sham guard, and, without any authority for doing so, relieved the regular guard that had been placed at the gate leading to the ranges to prevent the troops going to the hotel in quest of liquor. Once in possession of the gate, the bogus guard bolted for the Creedmoor Hotel. A corporal's guard, followed by Adjutant Seymour (to identify his men), surrounded the hotel and captured the bolters, who were brought before General Varian, still in citizen's dress, and ordered by him to be stripped of their uniforms and expelled from the grounds, an order which was forthwith executed. Sergeant Kelly, of the First battalion, is accused of instigating this disorderly conduct, in order to throw discredit on the battalion, and, if possible, to have it disbanded. Sergeant Kelly appeared yesterday in a private's uniform of another regiment to which he did not belong, as a substitute, it is said, for his brother, who is a private in it.

After the first two ranges (100 and 150 yards) had been shot over the men went to rations at about one o'clock, in doing so only the Fifty-fifth regiment observed any sort of order or discipline. This corps, after finishing scores, formed ranks and retired in military array, stacking arms and placing a guard over them during the time allowed for rations. The other regiments had the field littered over with guns, belts and accoutrements, tossed off and thrown here and there in the most disorderly manner by the men, who seemed too warm or too careless to look after them.

Of the twenty-one out of the forty-eight men belonging to the First battalion who were allowed to shoot seven qualified for the 200 and 500 yard ranges; the Eighth regiment sent sixty-three men to the longer distances; the Ninth regiment had forty-nine men who went back, and the Fifty-fifth regiment returned twenty-five men for the last two distances.

The men of the Third cavalry, who were to have been out at Creedmoor yesterday, received counter orders, and are to go there on Thursday next.

THE SCOTO-IRISH-AMERICAN RIFLE MATCH.

In consequence of the large attendance of the National Guard at Creedmoor and the difficulty encountered in getting targets on Friday next for the match between the Scottish-American and Irish-American Rifle clubs, both associations have been reluctantly obliged to fix Saturday, instead of Friday next, for the match. A good deal of interest is felt on both sides as to what the result may be.

THE BOYLAN BADGE.

The Boylan badge was won yesterday by Captain Lindsay, on a score of fifty-six out of a possible seventy points. Mr. Robertson made the same number of points, but in the shooting off Lindsay scored a centre (four points) to an inner (three points) on the part of Robertson.

MARITIME MISCELLANY.

We are indebted to the purser of the steamer Columbus, from Havana, for favors.

STEAMER LOUISIANA, which was sunk last November off Smith's Point, at the mouth of the Potomac River, has been raised sufficiently to be towed into shoal water about two miles from the scene of the wreck. Since the disaster the work of raising the hull has been continually retarded by rough weather, but now the work of entirely getting what remains of the vessel afloat is expected to be accomplished in a short time. It has not yet been determined by the Baltimore Steam Packet Company whether the hull will be rebuilt, from the fact that the new steamer City of Baltimore, now in course of construction at Baltimore, was ordered to be built by the Company to take the place of the wrecked Louisiana.

BARK REUBEN ALLEN, at Boston, from Cape of Good Hope, brought the cargo of ship Sacramento, which was damaged in Simon's Bay by colliding.

SCHR C E FLINT, Douglass, from New York April 17 for Port Remon, ran ashore at Tortugero. Captain sold cargo at auction at Greytown, for $1,500.

SCHR THOMAS J. BECKET, before reported ashore on Ipswich bar, floated off on Friday, after discharging a part of her deckload of lumber, and went ashore on Ipswich beach, inside the bar, where she lies badly strained.

SCHR J H MANSFIELD (fisherman) of Maine, was wrecked on Saturday while going into Prospect. Crew saved.
