Big Ben

On those night-like mornings

WHEN you are going full-sleep-ahead at six twenty-five and must make the stop at six thirty—sharp

—for a safe oversleep block signal—a five minute ring that means a quick stop, or ten jerks at the brakes

—for plenty of time to "coal up" at the breakfast table and pull out for downtown on schedule—Big Ben.

Seven inches of honest clock value—well wrought and well balanced. His bell is jolly, deep-toned and clear. His bold, black hands and numerals show plainly in the dim six thirty light. Let us show you.
