TERRIBLE SUICIDE.

At a late hour on Friday night Patrick Harrington, aged forty, an ex-soldier and formerly a member of the Newark police force, threw himself in front of a train on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, near Nesbitt street, Newark, and was instantly crushed to death. He had a wife and five children, and bore an excellent reputation. Ever since he left the police force, a few weeks ago, he has been in great mental trouble. On Friday afternoon he told a friend his means were exhausted, he had been unable to find employment and his wife was broken down with hard work. He was unemployed. No inquest has been held, none being deemed necessary.

SUICIDE OF AN OLD MAN.

Early yesterday morning an aged man, named John Linderman, committed suicide by hanging at his residence on Cedar street, Stapleton, S. I. He drove two large nails in the back of his bedroom door and hung himself from them with a small twine string. When found by his wife the body was still warm and the feet were resting on the floor, but life was extinct. Coroner Lea was called to hold an inquest and the verdict was deliberate suicide.
