SATURDAY, Feb. 24—6 P. M.

The markets in nearly all cases were quiet to-day, the inclement weather serving to intensify the quietude usually prevalent at the closing of the week. On 'Change business in breadstuffs was of unimportant dimensions, while prices were in many cases nominal or lower. Wheat was neglected and nominal. Corn declined ½c. a 1c., and closed dull. Oats were inactive. Flour was dull and easy. Whiskey was quiet. Pork and lard were dull and lower. Freights were quiet. Cotton, on the spot, was quiet but unchanged. Futures closed steady. Coffee and sugar were steady. Oils were firm. Petroleum was dull and weak. Naval stores were quiet and lower.

COFFEE.—Rio was quiet but steady. Sales were 5,000 bags ex Altney on private terms, and 5,000 bags ex Genius taken out of stock. Mild coffee was quiet. COTTON on the spot was quiet, without change in prices. Liverpool came flat and irregular, 1-16d. lower both for spot cotton and arrivals. Our market for futures opened 1-32c. lower, but the Liverpool market closing firm on futures with the decline of 1-16d. mostly recovered the market became firmer, and with free buyers prices soon advanced 3-32c. The market remained steady at the advance up to about noon, when there was a free movement to sell owing to the receipts at New York being reported at about 3,800 bales and prices declined 3-16c. Just before the close, however, 1-16c. of the decline was recovered and the market closed steady with the prices showing a decline for the day, as compared with Friday's closing prices, of 1-32c. a ⅛c. The net receipts at New York, officially reported at 3,854 bales, 3,352 of which came via the Erie Railroad and 3,500 being consigned to one party for export, led to an inquiry into the matter, and the party to whom it was consigned stated that he had rattron notices of only 200 bales and that he had received only 1,000 bales within a week, and he now had on hand documents for only 1,100 bales to arrive. The closing prices to-day compare with Friday's as follows:—
