EUROPEAN MARKETS.

COMMERCIAL.

LONDON, March 31, 1877.

On the Stock Exchange during the week discounts have been firm. The decline in consols at the beginning of the week was partly due to the gloomy political prospects, but was increased by the demand for money, which has also prevented a subsequent recovery to a corresponding extent with foreign securities. The latter, after a general and heavy fall on Saturday, and a further, though less decided, decline on Monday, took a turn on Tuesday and have since continued to recover, so that the movements on balance (this being settling week) are rather favorable. The stocks most affected by the political news were Russian and Hungarian, which fell two per cent on an average when a suspension of negotiations was reported; but more than recovered the decline on Tuesday, when that statement was declared untrue. French, Italian and Egyptian stocks slipped downward, but ultimately recovered. The week shows a balance of upward movements, Russian averaging over one per cent rise. Turkish are fractionally higher, and French, Italian and Egyptian are all distinctly better. Austrian and Hungarian show no material change. English railways close steadier. Brokers refuse to quote bar silver to-day. The nominal price is about 54d. per ounce. The Economist says the limit below which Germany will not sell silver here for the present is 55d.
