Try a Grin

If your lonesome, out of line
With all that's happy and sublime,
And they kicked by "Devils" blue
That make sport of only you,
Try a grin.

When your down and almost out Reached the stage of "kicked about"
And they sneer at your rags and you Then you ask, "what shall I do?"
Try a grin.

If you've climbed the highest wall Succeeded your ambition's call Then you topple with a flop
To the bottom from the top
Try a grin.

Grab 'em all by the hand
Give the best at your command
And if they're down and out and blue Tell 'em this is what to do,
Try a grin.

Saved His Life

It is probable that no class of men is lampooned more unjustly than doctors. Many of the stories at their expense, however, are both amusing and good-natured. A recent addition to the list is the tale told by T. H. Bits about the Chinaman who was asked if there were good doctors in China.
"Good doctors!" he exclaimed.
"China have best doctors in world—Hang Chang one good doctor; he great, he saved my life."
"You don't say so! How was that?"
"Me velly bad," he said. "Me called Doctor Han Kon. Give some medicine.
Get velly, velly ill. Me called Doctor San Ling. Give more medicine.
Me grow worse—going to die. Blimey call Doctor Hang Chang. He no got time, no come. He saved my life."—(Youth's Companion.)

CELEBRATE SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Friends Tender Mr. and Mrs. C. R.
Moulton a Surprise on Wednesday Evening

The twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Moulton occurred on Wednesday, Aug. 4. While Mr. and Mrs. Moulton were at mid-week prayer meeting a host of friends, led by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Morris, took possession of the Moulton home. The surprise was complete.

During the evening, W. H. Dunbar introduced J. M. Davis, who told those assembled of the lovely times Charley and he used to have in Iowa with two charming maidens, whom they succeeded in persuading to become Mrs. Moulton and Mrs. Davis.
Both ladies were present and looked as if those happy days had ever continued.

D. H. Hawn next told of Mr. and Mrs. Moulton's career as young married people, carving out fame and fortune in South Dakota. He recited Mr.
Moulton's political and business history, and attributed much of his success to the help and encouragement of Mrs. Moulton. Both were active church members in South Dakota and Mrs. Moulton sang in the choir.
Twenty-three years of intimate acquaintance with Mr. and Mrs. Moulton, brought from Mr. Hawn a very sincere appreciation.

Rev. H. J. Wood of the Methodist church next paid a tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Moulton. He spoke of their service in the church and society since coming to Grandview. He concluded his beautiful tribute of appreciation by presenting, on behalf of many friends, a handsome silver mirror and silver casserole. Mrs. Moulton made a pretty speech of acceptance of the gifts and was followed by Mr. Moulton who surprised his friends by returning the many compliments given during the evening.
Refreshments were served, and the company dispersed with wishes for many happy returns of the day.—

How Germany Was Built

In Busch's "Bismarck" there appears in that section covering the Franco-Prussian war a memorandum bearing the date of January 15, 1871, which reads:

Called to the chief at 9 p. m., I am to write an article, based upon official documents, on our position toward American ships conveying contraband of war. In doing so I am to be guarded by the thirteenth article of the treaty of 1796. We cannot seize vessels, but only detain them or seize the contraband goods, for which a receipt must be given, and in both cases we must make fair compensation.

Note the statesmanship of Bismarck.
First, strict observance of treaties; second, due regard for rights of neutrals; third, strict adherence to the laws of the high seas. No von Jagow tactics in discussing the William F.
Frye, while the Lusitania crime was utterly beyond the mental horizon of the man of "blood and iron." Of such statesmanship and diplomacy was Germany built. By its reversal is the empire being destroyed.—(Sioux City Tribune.)
