THE MAGENTA EXPLOSION.

The report of United States Steamboat Boiler Inspector Matthews was given yesterday in reference to the explosion on board the steamboat Magenta when in the channel opposite Sing Sing on the morning of the 23d of March. Mr. Matthews said an examination of the piece torn out showed that it was not more than one-thirty-second of an inch in thickness at the point where the rupture was supposed to have occurred. Further examination showed that the shells were so worn away by oxidation as to be of no use. The rapid oxidation of these chimneys is a problem not easily solved. In view of all the facts the inspectors recommended the discontinuance of the covering of steamboat chimneys, particularly where they cannot be reached for examination on the inside. After a careful consideration of all the evidence the inspectors arrived at the conclusion that at the time the Magenta was last inspected all the requirements of the law had been fulfilled, that she was perfectly safe for the service for which she had a certificate of inspection, and that the inspection of the vessel by Mr. Blake was not as thorough as it might have been, although he was warranted in granting her a certificate. The inspector was also of opinion that Frank Wilsey, the superintending engineer of the company to whom the steamer belonged, should have made a thorough examination of the boilers before entering on another season's service, and that for such a neglect he deserves the severest censure. As he is not a licensed officer of the Board a penalty cannot be imposed upon him under the law. Ephraim Houtaling, acting engineer of the boat at the time of the accident, was not guilty of any offence against the law, and he is, therefore, exonerated. In the opinion of the inspector the accident was caused by the unprecedented rapid oxidation of the shell of the steam chimney, and it was a miracle that it sustained the pressure as long as it did. The amount of the damage is unknown.

MRS. FINNEGAN'S FUN.

Mrs. Ann Gardner, of Carmansville, and Mrs. Roanna Finnegan, of No. 111 East 125th street, on Sunday last visited their children in the Roman Catholic Protectory, at Westchester. While there Mrs. Gardner lost her pocketbook, containing $41 75, and Mrs. Finnegan slyly picked it up. Both women then made a thorough search, but could not find the book. Next day Mrs. Finnegan boasted of her exploit to Mrs. Ann Feeley, and this led to her arrest. Mrs. Finnegan admitted her guilt yesterday to Judge Wheeler, but said that the money having been stolen from her on the way home by another thief she was unable to make restitution. Mrs. Finnegan was committed for trial at the General Sessions.
