Triple Knockout for Gotham Nines---Yanks, Giants and Dodgers Fall Before Foe From Philadelphia and Boston

ATHLETICS AGAIN TROUNCE YANKEES

Joe Bush Outpoints Ray Caldwell in Pitchers' Battle by 1 to 0 Score.

McINNIS SWINGS BIG BAT

Stuffy Drives Strunk Home With His Sixth Hit of Two Game Series.

By FREDERICK G. LIEB.

That Philadelphia Athletic worm surely has turned. It snipped at the heels of the Red Sox and Washingtons before it came to Broadway, but has turned the hardest on the Yankees. C. McGillicuddy's 1917 model was scheduled to play four games here and got away with all the weather man would permit. Two were postponed and the two others new rest in Mack's games won column.

Joe Bush, proprietor of the Joe Leslie Bush speed ball, squeezed out a 1 to 0 victory over Slim Caldwell on the Polo Grounds yesterday and left Will Donovan very wild and gnashing his teeth. Even the world's champion smiler found it hard to look pleasant after watching thirteen Yankees reach base without a single one of them finding his way home.

Caldwell and Bush squared off for what is getting to be a very common baseball occurrence—the pitching duel. Slim the telegrapher was better than at any time this spring. He held Mack's new team of fence busters to six hits. Four of them, however, were assembled in the seventh inning and enabled the Philadelphians to score a run.

Bush in Fine Fettle.

Always a cool kid, Bush never looked better than yesterday. Yanks got on bases in droves and in swarms, but it did not nettle Bush. He merely put more on the ball when he had the bases full and the Yankees who came up in the pinch raised dinky little pops. At times the Western youth was a little wild and walked six men, but when he had the bases full he drove his cannon ball straight over the plate.

The game was well fielded and was a maze of double plays, five of them being entered into the box score, three by the home forces. The prettiest one came in the second inning, when the Athletics filled the bases with none out, yet failed to score. Strunk walked and Thrasher hit to Caldwell. Ray tried for a force play at second, but threw the ball into centre field. McInnis then beat out a perfect bunt, making his fifth straight hit of the series. Bates hit Caldwell, whose throw home forced Strunk, and Aleck snapped the ball down to Pipp ahead of Bates for a fast double play. It still left Athletics on third and second, but Caldwell completed a good job by striking out Meyer.

Gilhooley ran full tilt into the right field wall for Bush's liner in the fifth inning. Frank almost stove the wall into 155th street, and though he appeared dazed when his dome came in sharp contact with the concrete, he did not forget to retain his clutch on the ball. Ray Bates, Mack's new third baseman, made some splendid plays at his corner.

McInnis Collects Six Hits.

Stuffy McInnis, the crack Athletic first baseman, is laying in quite a store of spring base hits. A spring slump prevented McInnis from hitting .300 last season for the first time since 1909, and he is taking no chances of a repetition. It was he who smacked out the single which drove in the winning run. During the series Stuffy Jack collected six hits in eight times at bat, proving the Yankee pitching staff is not invulnerable—at least to McInnis.

Stuffy struck his big blow for Mack in the seventh inning, a mighty busy round. As in their victory in the other game of the series, veterans of the world's champion wars attended to the Philadelphia scoremaking. Amos Strunk led off by belting a hot drive over the third base bag for two bases. Thrasher hit a long fly to Gilhooley, sending Amos to third. He came home when McInnis stabbed a wicked single to centre.

Bates bounced another hot single away from Peck, and at this juncture the crafty Mack decided it would be a good move to introduce Schang's mustache to the Saturday crowd. Wally took over Meyer's bat and filled Connie's heart with joy by driving a single to left. The joy was short lived as High's pretty throw nailed McInnis at the plate and Gilhooley attached himself to Bush's fly.

The Yankees did a lot of threatening, but it takes more than threats to score on Bush. They teased Joey for seven hits and Bush signed his name on six passes. Two Donovanites perished on double plays, Magee attempted to stretch a single into a double at Bodie's expense but Ping nailed him and ten others were stranded on the bases.

Yanks Stranded in Fifth.

The wholesale stranding began in the fourth when Maisel and Pipp walked, but Baker left them with a long fly to Thrasher. Baker flyvered even worse in the sixth. With two out High and Maisel singled and Pipp walked again, filling all the satchels. This time J. Franklin popped a dainty hoist to his old infield chum McInnis.

Hughie High did the popping up with the bases full in the seventh. Magee walked, but Peck and Aleck were easy. Caldwell's single and Gilhooley's pass then loaded all the trenches. High's infield lift was absorbed by Bates.

It varied a bit in the eighth. With one out, both Pipp and Baker hit singles to the kid Athletic second baseman, Grover. Magee hit a short fly behind second base, which many persons including Wally Pipp decided was safe. But it doesn't do to take many chances with Amos Strunk. Speaker may cover more ground than Strunk, but if he does it isn't more than an additional square inch to the square mile. Amos put all his engines to work and succeeded in getting under the fly. As Pipp was to third by this time a toss to Grover doubled him off second and another rally was over. Is it any wonder Bill Donovan looked cross as he wandered off the field?

ERROR BY YOUNG IN 14TH BEATS TIGERS

Chicago Presented With Winning Run After Long Extra Inning Game.

CHICAGO, April 28.—Young's fumble of E. Collins's grounder in the fourteenth inning gave Chicago a 2 to 1 victory over Detroit to-day in the first game of the series. J. Collins, in the fourteenth inning, was presented with a base on balls. He went to second on Weaver's bunt and scored when Young booted E. Collins's grounder.

Two bases on balls, a sacrifice hit, a single and a long fly enabled Detroit to tie the score in the ninth. Chicago made its first run in the sixth, when the squeeze play was successfully worked after a double and a sacrifice.

CRESCENTS GET REVENGE.

Beat Manhattan Collegians, 5 to 2, Avenging Last Year's Defeat.

The Crescent A. C. diamond warriors yesterday got sweet revenge for the defeat administered to them by the Manhattan collegians last year. The New Mooners reversed things and beat the New York boys by a score of 5 to 2 on the Bay Ridge Grounds yesterday. Manhattan got away to a lead in the first, but the Crescents tied the score in the sixth and won in the seventh. The added two runs bagged in the eighth were not needed. The Crescent twirlers held Manhattan to three hits.

Rixey Pitches Phillies To Victory Over Giants

Whitted, Luderus and Niehoff Bunch Hits on Anderson for Winning Run in Seventh—Score Is 2 to 1—Clan Moran Takes Series.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—In a thrilling pitchers' battle between Fred Anderson and Eppa Jeppa Rixey, the Carolina tooth puller had to play second fiddle to the Virginia southpaw here in National League Park to-day. The Phillies won 2 to 1 and took the series from the Giants, two games out of three. Whitted, Luderus and Niehoff bunched hits on McGraw's former Federal Leaguer for the winning run in the seventh inning.

Rixey twirled a corking game. He kept the New York hits well scattered. In the seventh he worked out of a dangerous hole dug for him by young McGaffigan, who went to short for Philly in the fifth after Bancroft had been put out of the game for kicking. With Kilduff on third and Holke on second and only one out, Rixey made a great stop of Rariden's bounder and Kilduff was run down between third and home. In the mixup Holke went to third and Rariden to second, where they were temporoned when Anderson grounded to Luderus.

The series showed that to the Giants Alexander the Great is Phillies' weakest pitcher. The Clan McGraw got nine earned runs off Aleck in seven innings, while New York only harvested two earned markers off Mayer, Lavender and Rixey in twenty innings.

Fireworks in Second.

The fireworks started in the second inning, when Cravath made a corking catch of Lobert's drive close to the right field wall and Stock followed with a bare hand pickup of Fletcher's grounder that brought another roar from the stands.

In the second half of the inning Cravath showed his teeth on the attack, leading off with a double to right. Moran called for the old army game and Whitted's sacrifice, Anderson to Holke, put Cravath on third. Luderus lifted a sacrifice fly to Kauff, which enabled Cactus to race across the scoring pan. Lobert threw out Niehoff.

In the third the Giants quickly tied things up. After Holke fouled out to Killifer, Rariden waited out Rixey and walked. Anderson sacrificed Bill along to second. On the hit and run Burns came to scratch with a timely thump to right, registering Rariden and continuing to second himself on the throw. George was marooned when Kauff flied to Whitted. In Philadelphia's half of the third Rixey singled with one down, but Paskert gummed the works by smashing into a double play.

Stock Left on Third.

Fletcher beat out a hit to Niehoff after two were out in the fourth and the stole second. Kilduff left Artie stranded by grounding to Niehoff. With one out in the second half of the inning, Stock singled to centre, stole second and went to third when Anderson tossed out Cravath. There he was anchored when Fletcher threw out Whitted.

Holke piled off the lid in the fifth with a single to deep short, but was forced by Rariden. Bill languished when Anderson fanned and Niehoff threw out Burns. In Philadelphia's half of the fifth Killifer got a life on Fletcher's fumble after two were down but Benny Kauff turned the Phillies back with a great running catch of Rixey's bid for a homer.

Both Giants and Phillies went down twice in a row in the sixth. McGaffigan tossed out Fletcher, starting the seventh. Kilduff bounced a single off Stock's shin. McGaffigan let Holke's grounder trickle through him, Kilduff touching third and Holke second on the error.

Rixey Spikes Rally.

Rixey made a great stop of Rariden's bounder and Kilduff was run down. Rixey, Stock, Killifer, Stock to Luderus, Holke tagging third and Rariden scored on the play. Anderson ended the agony by grounding out to Luderus.

Kilduff threw out Cravath, the first Phillie to face Anderson in the seventh. Then came the winning Phillie rally. Whitted singled to centre, Luderus put George on third with a timely thump past Holke. Niehoff followed with a smash to centre that drove Whitted home with the winning run. Killifer drove to Fletcher, and when Kilduff dropped Artie's throw to force Niehoff the bases were filled. Rixey obligingly hit into a double play, Kilduff, Fletcher and Holke.

After a lapse of seven years the Niagara University team visited Fordham Field yesterday and the up-Staters defeated the Bronx Collegians, 2 to 1. Weaver, the visiting moundsman, had the Maroon batsmen baffled at all times. He allowed only two hits, and fanned thirteen.

Besides scoring two of Fordham's runs Bill Lowe walloped the ball for a triple, stole three bases and obtained Fordham's only other safe wallop.

The visitors secured nine hits, three of which were home runs. Pengarth got a wallop about with the bases full in the third session. Until this inning Fordham had a one run lead, and Niagara had failed to score.

BOSTON, April 28.—Fred C. Snodgrass, outfielder of the Boston National League club, has been given his unconditional release. It was announced at the club's offices to-day. Snodgrass came to the Braves from the New York National League team in 1915.

His contract, which called for $6,000 a year, it is said, expired this year, and rather than pay at a lower figure he decided to go into the automobile business in Los Angeles, Cal.

RACES AT HEWLETT FULL OF BLUNDERS

Horses Travel Wrong Courses and Mar Sport at First Amateur Meet.

CROWD IS DISAPPOINTED

The amateur racing season in the metropolitan district opened yesterday afternoon at Hewlett Park, Long Island, under the auspices of the Rockaway Hunting Club, but the contests did not do justice to the occasion. The weather was ideal and a fashionable crowd, which filled the stands and overflowed into the infield, turned out to welcome the return of the thoroughbreds.

When the bugle sounded "boots and saddle" and the band played "The Star Spangled Banner" before the first race, the crowd was an excited and enthusiastic one. But when the thousands of lovers of the horse streamed out of the park after the last race, they were a disappointed and chagrined lot.

They had enjoyed a beautiful day at a beautiful course and had seen some good thoroughbreds in action, but they had anticipated seeing some stirring competitions and they didn't.

Three of the six events which made up the programme resulted in fiascos. Two of them were the features in which the hunters were to show how valuable they could be for military mounts. In each of them the riders either got lost in the woods or fell at the jumps.

Mistakes Come Thick and Fast.

After Oscar Lewisohn's imported chestnut mare Lady Edwina had won the first event, the Albro Farm cup, a dash of about half a mile, mistakes came thick and fast and marred the day's sport.

The first blunder occurred in the Roskaway Cup, an event for hunters over a three and a half mile course of posts and rails. Three horses, Nicholas L. Tilney's Ellistown Boy, F. R. Voss's Chestnuts and M. R. Bamberger's Conqueror, made up the field. They went away to a good start, but before half a mile had been covered they were all running in different directions. None of their pilots knew the course and as a result they were soon lost in the woods. Time and again some one pulled up to a full stop to ask the mounted clerks the right way around. Mr. Tilney, on his Ellistown Boy, faced best for two rounds of the route. Then, instead of riding to the infield after coming down the stretch, he continued on the main track. He did this because he found the way to the field barred by a rope.

After he had made the final round and finished a quarter of a mile in front of his opponents he learned of his mistake, but he protested against disqualification on the grounds that the officials had shut the "gate" on him. While he was claiming the victory Chestnuts and Conqueror, which had eventually completed the right course, came staggering home. Each claimed a victory, but after long deliberation the judges awarded the race to Ellistown Boy.

Sand Hog Finishes Alone.

The next race, which was also for hunters, resulted in a hollow victory for Thomas Madden's Sand Hog. He won because he was the only contestant to finish. M. J. Shannon, the favorite, ran well for half the distance. Then Harry Tucker, who had the mount, fell while clearing one of the obstacles. O'Laughlin, the other entrant, refused to "take" any of the jumps.

The climax of blunders came in the South Shore Plate, the fourth race on the programme. This promised to be one of the best races of the day. Six good horses made up the field and the speculation was brisk. It did result in a fine finish, Morton J. Schwartz's bay gelding Archdale beating home R. I. Ables's little Nearer in a driving finish by two lengths, with Mr. Tilney's chestnut gelding Toynbee third, a couple of lengths back. Before they had returned to the stables to weigh in the clerks of the course reported that every horse in the race except M. D. Bamberger's Silent Pilot, which finished fourth, had taken the wrong course. The judges interrogated all of the riders and after deliberating for almost half an hour disqualified all the field except Mr. Bamberger's gelding.

Decision Displeases.

The decision displeased the crowd. The racegoers gathered around the judges' stand and declared that the officials were inconsistent. They pointed out that the judges had failed to disqualify Ellistown Boy for taking the wrong course in the second race, and said they should allow the regular order of the finish to stand.

The last race, which Mr. Speck won in a driving finish, was the nearest thing to a competition of the day. He beat five fast sprinters over the six furlong course in slower style. At the end he was two lengths ahead of Cabaret, which was twice that distance in front of May Picnic.
