SON KILLED, WOULD GIVE FIFTY MORE

Richard Engelke, German Born, Proud of Boy's Sacrifice in France.

"THE KID" WAS ONLY 17

Corporal W. A. Leonard, Formerly City Editor of Flushing "Times," Also Dead.

"I would gladly give fifty more boys to the service of the United States if I had them," said Richard Engelke, 20 Dean street, Jamaica, L. I., last night when he received the news that his son, Private Louis Charles Engelke, had been killed in action in France, July 1. The elder Engelke was born in Germany but has been an American citizen twenty-two years. His German birth recently caused him to be rejected for enlistment in the navy. Louis, who was but 18 years old, was known to his comrades in Company C, Ninth Infantry, as "The Kid," because of his youth. He enlisted when he was 17.

Louis was a graduate of Public School 82 of Jamaica and is the second graduate from the school to figure in the casualty lists this week. His brother Richard, 21, is now in France with the Fifth Trench Mortar, Ninth Battery, Field Artillery. He has another brother, Herman, 31, in Company B, Seventeenth Infantry, at Camp Meade.

Corporal William A. Leonard, Company L, 107th Infantry, who was city editor of the Flushing Daily Times before he volunteered, was killed when fighting bravely in France on the night of July 17, according to a letter received yesterday by his mother, Mrs. John J. Leonard, of 36 Boerum avenue, Flushing, L. I. The letter was written by Eugene, another son, detailed to the headquarters detachment of the same regiment.

"He went to the front line to observe, then volunteered to help fix a railroad," the letter said. "When he got to the place the Germans opened five on the party and he was hit in the stomach. An English officer went over the top, risking his own life to help Bill. He picked Bill up, but he died before he had carried him 100 feet. The English did everything possible for him, and brought up a chaplain from ten miles behind the lines and buried him with all the honors of a brave soldier."

Capt. John L. Dunn, Hauppauge, L. I., listed as seriously wounded, is a son of the late Larry Dunn, a well known sportsman. His mother is now Mrs. Stephen Featherstone. He won his captaincy from the ranks in the Regular Army, having been commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Thirtieth Infantry November 26, 1916, at Eagle Pass, Tex.

"The harder and faster the Huns come the better we all like it," wrote Private George F. Dunlap, wounded severely July 15, to his brother Charles, June 29. They both lived in 699 Lexington avenue, Brooklyn. He is 24 years old and a member of Company K, Seventh Infantry.

Although he was 32 years old, Private Samuel Schorr, 199 Powell street, Brooklyn, registered for the draft June 5, 1917, because he was not certain of his age. He was on the list of wounded yesterday. Schorr is in Company C, 166th Infantry. He was wounded July 15. A letter in which he said he felt "fine" was received from him by his brother Charles of 1870 Pitkin avenue, Brooklyn, two hours before the receipt of the telegram announcing his wound.

Corporal George Kelton, Company A, Twenty-eighth Infantry, was severely wounded July 18, a few days after his return to the trenches from a hospital where for three months he had been recovering from mustard gas poisoning. His mother, Mrs. Mary Kelton, 451 Henderson street, Jersey City, received a letter from him dated July 4, at the same time that the War Department telegram of his wound came. "I tell you it made me feel good to get back in action," he wrote.

Lieut. George H. Morgan, 122 Sterling place, Brooklyn, severely wounded July 22, is 30 years old and a member of the Eighteenth Infantry. He is a graduate of the first Plattsburg training camp and went to France last January to attend an artillery training school. He was born in Manhattan, but had lived twenty-three years in Brooklyn.

Sergeant Isadore Bradon, 63 Bartlett street, Brooklyn, wounded July 23, is a member of Company D, Twelfth Field Artillery. He was in the regular army reserve when war was declared. He is 26 years old and married.

Sergeant Joseph Messina, 24, reported as severely wounded, has been in the Regular Army four years. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Sabastiano Messina, 130 Cherry street, and is a member of Company D, Fifty-eighth Infantry.

Lieut. Alfred S. Clements, a Spanish war veteran, 432 Seventh avenue, Brooklyn, has been slightly wounded, according to a cablegram received by his wife. He is 41 years old and has been in the army twenty-three years. He is attached to the 106th Infantry.

Private Lloyd Shuler, mentioned in yesterday's casualty list as being among the marines severely wounded, is an orphan. He made his home with an aunt, Mrs. Annie Fleming, who formerly lived in 60 West 124th street. He enlisted at Detroit a year ago.

Russell W. Mitchell, killed while helping to check the German attack, was in Company H, 165th Infantry. He lived with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Long, in 239 Howard avenue, Brooklyn. He was a bookkeeper for the Borden milk company before entering the army. "There is no German bullet meant for me," he said in a letter his aunt received a few hours after the receipt of the War Department telegram announcing his death.

Private Edward F. O'Connor, reported as being severely wounded July 20, lived with an uncle, Daniel O'Connor, 369 West Twenty-eighth street. The uncle died last December and his widow has never written the nephew the news. O'Connor is 25 years old and a member of Company A, 104th Infantry. His parents are dead.

Second Lieut. S. Robinson Ogden of 211 West Grand street, Elizabeth, N. J., does not appear in the casualty list, but has been wounded, according to a despatch received by his mother, Mrs. Samuel R. Ogden, yesterday. It was stated that Lieut. Ogden had received several shell fragments in his leg. Lieut. Ogden was commissioned from an American officers' training school in France.
