THE DEADLY TORNADO.

One more western town has been added to the list of those which have been partly destroyed by sudden storms. At Springfield, Mo.,...

WHAT THEY COST, AND WHY.

The new 2-cent postage stamps cost the government just 9 1/2 cents a thousand. They cost the contractors more than that, but the profit comes in on stamps manufactured for the countries on this continent south of us, who all ways patronize the concern which supplies our government. They have to pay from five to ten times as much as we do, but they never grumble, and in order to capture their trade the engraving companies are willing to furnish the United States at less than the cost of manufacturing. This explains why it is that the postage stamps in fact are a printing and engraving establishment of its own.

GERMAN IMMIGRANTS.

Prince Bismarck seems determined to stop Germans from emigrating to the United States, if it is possible to do it. He is as anxious to keep the young men from leaving the fatherland as he is that American pork shall be kept out of the Emperor William's dominions. He has the recently had a bill introduced in the German Reichstag which prohibits the emigration to foreign countries of persons whose obligations to their country, families, creditors and employers are unfulfilled. Thus, the claims of the country for young men to supply the army will embrace one class; those who have aged parents depending on them for support will find it impossible to leave, and others will be prevented in other ways. A man achieving a law could not be conscripted, but then, the Iron Man of Germany knows no will but his own.

A MEXICAN SCHEME.

The governor and people of Oahuila, Mexico, have offered to place $150,000 in the hands of the Baptists if they will establish five churches at given points in that country and furnish $40,000 for running expenses. Why the Baptists were selected in preference to any other denomination is not apparent at first glance, but when you come to think that Oahuila is almost entirely destitute of water, and that the Baptist doctrine cannot be propagated without plenty of that fluid, the method of the proceeding begins to be visible. If the Baptists establish five churches down there they will be obliged to provide a system of irrigation in connection therewith, and that will advance the value of land to times the amount of the proposed donation. The Mexican mind is a little slow, but it seems to be "catching on" gradually.

DAKOTA STATISTICS.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway has issued a detailed tabular statement showing the population and crop statistics for 1883, for the counties in Dakota on the lines of or adjacent to the road. The thirty counties enumerated have a total population of 191,800, compared with 180,720 in 1882. The total wheat acreage was 449,700 bushels, being 21 bushels to the acre; the yield of oats was 210,650 bushels, at 35 per acre; of rye, 25,510 bushels, at 30 per acre; of barley, 52,000 bushels, at 35 per acre; of flax, 102,240 bushels, at 15 per acre. These figures are guaranteed by the company to be correct. The statement shows a remarkable increase in population, which is permanent. The crop statistics indicate that men have settled down to stay.

A GREAT INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION.

The new prospectus of the exhibition to be held in New Orleans next year, and the preparations that are under way, show a commendable determination on the part of the managers to make the enterprise what its name imports, a "world's industrial exposition." It is to be opened in December, 1884, and continued until May, 1885. The plan is comprehensive both as to exhibits and visitors, embracing all agricultural, mining and industrial products, and inviting competition from all parts of the world. The exposition buildings are to cover an area greater than that used in Philadelphia in 1876. The enterprise has received the official stamp of the national government, and already a number of southern states have taken favorable action with reference to it. The people of the south are beginning to show a lively interest in it, and altogether it promises to be the greatest exhibition held in this country since the Centennial. Let the north unite with the south in making this a national enterprise and a national success, and thereby give a new impetus to southern industrial activity. The fruits of which will be shared by the nation at large.

FRENCH POLITICAL.

The French administration is showing signs of confidence and vigor. Since the opening of the present session of the chamber of deputies it has presented a bold front. It has evidently gained the support of the more conservative elements, and has little to fear from the extreme left and its allies. It firmly opposes the various demands of the radicals, insists that the concordat must be adhered to, and generally indicates a purpose to preserve a stable condition of governmental affairs. It is likely to assume in the permanent French cabinet for the next year, and any considerable length of time, but there has been none for a long while which has appeared so strong as the present one. It is essentially a Gambetta cabinet, and moving in the line marked out by the dead statesman. Perhaps there can be no greater tribute to the powers of Gambetta than this coming together of forces after his death to carry on a policy which he was unable to secure the adoption of while he lived.

SOLD THE CADAVER.

The Husband of the Fat Woman Sell Her Body to a Physician. BALTIMORE, Md., November 7.—David Moore, the husband of the lowly fat bride who died here about ten days ago, has sold her body to Dr. Alexander Hill, of this city. The body will be interred here in three days. Immediately after the funeral ceremonies at Mt. Olivet Cemetery the weeping Mr. Moore, who seemed overcome with grief, called on a Dr. Hill's office. He told the doctor who he had added: "I want to sell my wife's body. It may be stolen, anyhow." The doctor told him he would give him $100. Moore snatched up the offer, and the bargain was done. Moore concluded, Hill wanted the body for dissection and more especially for the skeleton, which he will have articulated and placed in his office. He immediately after the funeral will be here in a few days and will be present at the dissection of his bride of a month, who in death as well as in life is a source of profit to him. When taken up the body will be removed to a private apartment in one of the medical colleges, where it will be dissected. Great surprise is expressed in the city over the sale of the body. Several more efforts have been made to steal the body, and the fact that other parties may be able to get it will hasten the disinterment.

A BAD EGG.

History of Mrs. Samuel J. Hudson, Alias Frank Dubois, the Female Husband. CHICAGO, November 6.—Charles N. Dertlich and his mother, the stepmother and stepmother of Mrs. S. J. Hudson, who, as Frank Dubois, has been creating such a stir in the city, are now residing in this city. Discovering their relationship with that noted person, a reporter interviewed mother and son yesterday. Their information on the subject was as follows: The woman who is now figuring as Frank Dubois and Mrs. Samuel J. Hudson was by birth Cordelia Dertlich. She came into the care of her stepmother about eighteen years ago at the age of 16, being consequently about 34 years of age at this time. Her stepmother lived at that time at Elbridge, a small village near Paris, Ill. She lived with her three or four years ago, and then she came to Chicago, where she lived in service at a boarding-house about twenty miles away. She sent after her, and she told the messenger that she was sick and that she would come home. A few days afterward they went to bring her home, but she had departed to parts unknown, subsequently turning up in Belvidere, Ill. She was found by J. Hudson at Belvidere, by whom she had two children. She and her husband seldom staid long in one place, living at different times in Illinois, Iowa, and Wisconsin. In 1880, Mrs. Hudson ran away with one William Rowell while her husband was in Rockport. Hudson hunted her up on his return and found her with Rowell in Belvidere. Rowell "skipped out to Iowa, Last March Hudson appeared in Belvidere with their two children, and she was found by J. Hudson in a few days. Time passed by and she did not appear. Rumors that she was dead were current and generally believed by her relatives. Now she is in Chicago, a handsome, well-dressed woman, as the wife states, with a shapely, finely-developed figure and small hands. She is a woman she developed, dark, curly hair. When young she acted more like a boy than a girl, and her stepmother says she was a very good track of her own. "Oh, by the way," said the reporter, as he put his hand on the door-knob, "I suppose there is no doubt that Frank Dubois's woman, is there?" "None whatever," was the stepmother's reply.
