CONFLICT OVER FOSSIL REMAINS

Unusual Case Tried Over Bones of Mastodon in Tennessee Court.

BOYS MAKE THE DISCOVERY

Courts Are Asked to Decide Whether the Remains Belong to Discoverer or the Owner of the Farm.

He'ls, Tenn.—An unusual case has just been tried over the bones of a mastodon by the Lauderdale county circuit court at Ripley, Tenn. A few weeks ago two little boys, David Darnell and Cherrill Boone, were setting traps on the farm of N. D. Salisbury, five miles northwest of here. One of the boys hurt his foot on what they thought to be the end of a large horn. Their curiosity was aroused by the unusual size of the object, and the Boone boy went for his father to assist them in digging it out.

Tusk Weighs 98 Pounds.
The father, Ellis Boone, came with implements and dug out a tusk weighing 98 pounds and 5 feet 8 inches long. Another tusk was found, but was broken in prying it out of the ground. A jawbone with four teeth was unearthed. The teeth, when removed from the bone, weighed five and a fourth pounds each and were in perfect condition. Several other bones were found.

There was also found the jawbone of some other animal, with the teeth in it. The back teeth of this animal are an inch long and worn, denoting that it was very aged when it died.

Salisbury contended that as the bones were found on his farm they were his. He had them replevined from Boone. Boone contended that by right of discovery they should be his.

Goes to Supreme Court.
The hearing was before Esquire Kinley and Dunavant. One thousand people were present. A decision was rendered in favor of Salisbury. Boone then appealed to the circuit court and that court decided in Boone's favor. Now Salisbury appeals to the supreme court of the state and that high body will pass on the case.

Local authorities are of the opinion that there is no law, ancient or modern, to just fit the case, and that the final decision will govern all such cases in the future. Salisbury was represented in the trial by T. C. Gordon of Dyersburg and W. C. Patten of Halls. Boone was represented by W. N. Beasley of Halls.

The mastodon itself is said to have been the only party within a considerable distance who didn't manifest some interest in the case.

FIND 20 INDIAN SKELETONS

Supposition That They Were Buried Near Where They Fell in Battle.

Oregon City, Ore.—While excavating for a basement near the river bank men employed by Frank Busch have uncovered 20 skeletons of Indians in one hole.

The bodies are supposed to be the remains of Indians killed in battle, for in one or two cases arrow heads have been found caught between the bones.

The first trace of the bones was found early in the week when the workmen uncovered a skull. It was buried by itself and Mr. Busch, who has studied the find carefully, believes that it belonged to a chief or leader.

To prevent disturbing the bones the workmen began excavating in another place and they found a hole with a radius of about six feet, which Mr. Busch estimates contains the bones of at least twenty Indians. The skeletons are lying like the spokes of a wheel with the skulls in the center. Over the top of the grave was a thick hard crust of baked clay that was hardened like stone.

ELOPED TO ESCAPE LOVE

Wife Is Too Affectionate Is the Excuse of Truant New Haven Man.

New Brunswick, N. J.—"My wife was too affectionate. She was so considerate of me that I had to leave. My ego requires strife to create a perfect happiness."

This remarkable statement was made by William Custer of New Haven, Conn., when he was arrested at South River on a charge of deserting his wife and eloping with Mrs. Alice Monroe, also of New Haven.

Custer said that his wife was just "loving him to death" and that he could stand it no longer, so he left New Haven with a more agreeable soulmate. Mrs. Monroe has a husband and three children in New Haven.

Custer waived extradition and was taken to New Haven by detectives who had come here in search of him.

MAIDS SCARCE IN LONDON

Desert Households for Munition Factories and People Go to Live in Hotels.

London.—Hotels and boarding houses in London are full of people seeking to evade the servant trouble, and yet the proprietors of these establishments do not know where to find servants. This difficulty has been brought about by the demands for woman war labor.

The trim maid of other days is a waitress in a teashop. The cook roasts and boils for a hotel whose chef is fighting; the nursemaid has put on a uniform and starts the omnibus or punches a ticket on the subway.

The skilled servants, who know their work and prefer to keep in it, fit in and out of situations to the great benefit of agencies and to the despair of all who employ them. A month in a private hotel brings its circle of tips, and they are off to a new employer. Those who are really capable demand their "pound a week and all found." Those who are useless are employed for a few weeks, and allowed to wander to other fields.

In their despair employers of domestic servants are turning to old men ineligible for army service.

In these days all manner of innovations are creeping into staid English ways. Large breakfasts and late dinners are disappearing.

FINDS 173 DIAMONDS IN SEA

British Mine Sweeper Deckhand Picks Up Floating Package Worth $500.

London.—A story of a package of diamonds worth $100 ($500) found floating in the North sea by one of the crew of a British mine sweeper was told in a police station by a deckhand, Walter Gleeson, who had been arrested while trying to dispose of the gems.

At the police station the deckhand confessed that while on a trawler which was engaged in the hazardous task of gathering up mines in the North sea he saw a package floating in the water. He got it with a boat-hook and when he opened it he found 98 polished and 75 unpolished gems. The deckhand attempted, in company

NOTES
The Mother's Day program given in the Valley Sunday was very good. Everything was well rendered, especially the parts by the children. You missed something of real value by not being present. Be sure and come next Sunday.

Memorial Sunday was fittingly observed in a union service at the Methodist church. Rev. R. P. Eubanks preached a strong and appropriate sermon. It was the truth and full of inspiration. This was a very unique service in some ways. Rev. Eubanks is the son of a Confederate Officer in charge of Salisbury Prison, where W. H. Carr was confined for some time. It was by invitation of Mr. Carr that Mr. Eubanks delivered the sermon. Our brother preacher was born and raised in the South and he knows their mind. His address was intensely patriotic, full of deep thought and good lessons. The spirit of the South is for unity. We are one. All very much interested in the sermon and all well pleased.

The sympathy of the church goes out to the brothers, John and Wm. Rundell, in the loss of their brother, who died recently in Michigan.

The church is here to minister to the community. We are interested in all that pertains to the betterment of the community. You can get the most out of the church by attending the services.

The Ladies Aid met last week at the home of Mrs. James Perkins. Entertainment was provided in a liberal fashion by Mrs. Perkins and Mrs. E. C. Rundell. Although somewhat muddy, a goodly number was present and all had a pleasant time. A good place to go. "Welcome always to a Home-Like Church."

Health statistics of New York show that of 3,648 people in that city bitten by dogs last year only one died of the bite. This ought to allay the unreasonable dread which exists of the ravages of hydrophobia and of its frequency in dogs. The fact is further impressed by the report that out of 35,500 dogs collected only 103 were rabid. These figures are important for their bearing on a menace which it is highly necessary the general public should not overestimate.

The inflow of gold to the United States, which has been going on since the opening of the European war, has proceeded until now the stock of yellow metal in this country exceeds two billions of dollars. This is by far the largest stock of gold in the world. The financing of continued large purchases in the United States will give European bankers occasion for fresh negotiations from time to time.

A cynic is a person who jumps quickly to the conclusion that after all the centuries the world is fuller of fools than ever, and the whole continent of Europe stands up to swear he is right about it.

There is nothing more tiresome than to hear an inland landlubber who has never smelled salt water trying to explain what's the matter with the American navy.
