SEWING MACHINES.

THE FLORENCE. It has many improvements over any and all SEWING MACHINES. It has the reversible feed, feeding the cloth either to the right or left, to stay a seam or fasten the ends of seams. It takes four different stitches, the Lock, Double Lock, Knot and Double Knot—each being alike on both sides of the fabric. Its motions are all positive; sews the thickest or thinnest fabric without change of tension. Hems and width hem, fells, braids, quilts, blads, gathers, and sews in a ruffle at the same time.

DAILY LEADER.

Letter from Warren, Pa.

WARREN, Pa., May 28.

MESSRS. EDITORS: This sequestered and rural little village lies about sixty miles in a southeasterly direction from Erie, and is one of the very prettiest towns in Western Pennsylvania. Till communication was opened by railroad it lay remote from the lines of travel, and the advent of a stranger amongst the quiet denizens was an event of note. The shores of the Allegany river, a clear and beautiful stream, which almost everywhere rise abruptly into lofty and evergreen clad hills, here widens out into bottoms of rich dark soil. On a little more elevated plateau, on the north bank of the stream, overshadowed by towering heights, lie clustered, like snowy eggs in a bird's nest, the white houses of the town. Away to the north a deep cleft in the hills shows the course of Cussewago, a clear mountain stream whose waters here find their way into the Allegany. The main street is built up only on one side, and the dwellers have an unobstructed view of the limpid river and the climbing heights beyond, each receding swell towering above its neighbor till lost in the blue and hazy distance. Away eastward the long sharp ridges run sloping from either way their outlines crossing each other, clear and sharply defined as they sink, showing the devious and winding flow of the waters, as if reluctant to quit the shady solitudes. And so the smiling and tearful Alleghany passes on till mingling in the mighty river and the great ocean far away under the tropic sun

Your correspondent sought out and climbed one of the loftiest elevations, and from his eyrie drank his fill of a view worth going a hundred miles to see. Except the top of a village, the bottom of the Alleghany, and an occasional clearing low down on some distant slope, all looked as wild as if the axe of the lumber-man had never laid low any of the monarchs of its noble forests. The sun was shining sweetly and delightfully warm, the only vegetation was just far enough advanced to have put on its most lovely and transitory hue, and the rollicking blue jay was wild in his notes of gladness, and the blue bird and robin, though more modest, uttered not less joyous songs. A gentle breeze just awoke to life the funeral music, or more properly moan, that hardly ever ceases in forest or pine, and

"Murmuring leaves and waters near,
Made music to the lonely ear."

While seated on a moss-covered stone, I adapted the following verses:

"I would my household gods were here,
Where the monarch pine is waving,
And the Alleghany near,
Broad, magestical and clear.
Wanders on the valley leaving
Where tall peaks to kiss the cloud
Far above his side are swelling,
Beauteous when a misty shroud
Hovers round their foreheads proud,
I would make my sylvan dwelling.

"Round my home therein would throw
Tints of rosy light when dying,
Though the vale far, far below
Shine not with the sunset glow
In a robe of shadow lying.
From the blasted pine his throne
I would mark with folded pin'on
Feathered sovereign, fierce and lone,
While the rocking bough made moan,
Gazing on his wild dominion.

"I would rove with hound and gun,
When the dawn of day was breaking,
And the dim stars, one by one,
Paled before their lord the sun,
In a blaze of glory waking;
I would blow a bugle blast,
Loud, romantic echoes rousing,
Then, with footsteps fleet and fast,
Seek the greenwood, deep and vast,
Where the antlered deer was browsing.

"With the spoils of chase at night,
Gladly to my home returning,
I would haste, with footfall light,
Guided by a beacon light,
On my rugged hearth-stone burning
There my wife, in accents clear,
While my frugal meal preparing,
With a song would lull my ear
And repay her mountaineer
For a life of toil and daring.

I have wandered away, you see, from this sordid world, if not into the clouds, close to them. A temporary forgetfulness of the things of earth does not quite fit one to live perpetually in companionship with sylvan divinities, so I shall have to find my way back to the haunts of men, and if I want to worship real divinities, seek them in a more tangible form. It is not necessary to go far, for there is rarely to be found in a country village more female beauty than in this pretty town on the Allegheny. You see that gray hair is no index of want of susceptibility to feminine loveliness.

The woods in this part of the Key Stone State are extensive and many a wild deer furnishes cruel sport to the hunter. If you are more peacefully inclined, O, reader, come with me, armed with rod and line and fly, and in these solitudes we will seek out many a roaring brook, where play the speckled "birds of paradise" of the waters. Deeper and deeper you can wander into the solitude of the forest, till the air is unvexed with the sound of civilized life, and you can hold uninterrupted converse with primeval nature. B.

Mr. Lincoln—A Domestic Incident.

An Ambassador from some great Power once visiting Henry the Fourth of France, found him playing with his children, who had contrived to throw him down, and were rolling over him on the floor. The diplomatist reported the circumstance, and said that happy must the nation be which had for its ruler a man who, casting State difficulties aside, loved to be the play-fellow of his little ones. The late President was such a man, and was delighted when he could enter into familiar companionship with his youngest son—the lad now familiarly known as "Tad." He entered very freely into this boy's amusements and pursuits, and always endeavored to help him on in the latter. A proof of this lies before us in the shape of a card addressed by Mr. Lincoln to Mr. William Dickson, (son of Colonel Dickson of Philadelphia,) who is Chief of the United States Fire Brigade at Washington, and was oftenest to be found at the headquarters of the Hibernia Company, within a square or so of the White House. The lad had a taste for mechanics, and spent a good deal of his time at Mr. Dickson's. He was anxious, while his father was preparing the second inaugural address, to have something done by Mr. Dickson, and the President, interrupting his own labors to please the boy, wrote the following, upon a small card in his peculiarly legible hand:

"Mr. Dickson, Chief Engineer of Hibernia, please pump the water out of a certain well, which Tad will show? Feb. 27, 1865.

A. LINCOLN."

This was written within five days of the second inauguration, and, trifling as this matter may appear to some, we are confident that many parents, many children too, will be pleased with this illustration of the home affection and domestic charm of the Martyr-President's character. To us, Abraham Lincoln, writing at his son's desire to an engineer about "a certain well," stands as nobly before us, as Henri Quatre rolling at all fours upon the floor with his little ones. —Washington Chronicle.

The proposition made by the Century Club, that Mr. Bancroft should be invited to represent America at the forthcoming Dante festival in Florence, by a contribution in verse and prose, has been quietly anticipated by the most distinguished of our poets, Mr. Longfellow. Mr. Longfellow, who has for many years past been engaged upon a metrical translation of the Divina Commedia, which he has at last completed, has caused a single copy of the work to be printed in the most exquisite style, and forwarded to Florence.

The New York Tribune, in the course of an editorial upon President Johnson's opinion concerning negro suffrage at the South, says: "So from thinking that colored people ought not to vote, we infer from a pretty full exposition of his views to which we very recently listened, that the President will exert whatever influence he believes himself fairly entitled to in the premises in favor of such suffrage. The only ground that exists for imputing him hostility, inheres in his conviction that loyal Constitutions are not subject to change by Presidential edicts nor by orders from the War Department."

GIBSON, Formerly of New York City, will pay one hundred dollars for the proof that he ever fails to cure the above-named disease. He will pay the same sum for the proof that any other Physician in the United States treats the same diseases with equal success. After many years of laborious study and experience, Dr. Gibson is happy in being able to announce to the unfortunate, that he has perfected a system of treatment for THE SPEEDY AND PERMANENT CURE of the above, and also all contagious diseases of the Reproductive Organs, with all bad effects arising therefrom, including Gonorrhœa, DEBILITY OR NERVOUS PROSTRATION. He has succeeded in curing cases in this city, some of whom had expended hundreds of dollars with self-styled physicians, who profess to treat all private maladies with success, and without receiving the least particle of benefit. Dr. Gibson does not boast that he is a member of some College in London or Paris, or perhaps some others do for the purpose of ensnaring the innocent, and who boast of great experience in curing the diseased. But what Dr. G. might boast of is this, that he is able to give entire satisfaction to those who repose confidence in his ability and integrity, and that he has perfected an American system of treatment which challenges any Physician of London or Paris, or any patent medicine, to equal for the radical cure of seminal weakness and all diseases or derangements, both mental and physical, arising from sexual or secret abuse. Dr. Gibson also claims for his new treatment the following advantages over all others yet discovered—and first, the agents used are in no respect disagreeable; he uses no relics of the Dark ages, such as Mercury, nor any other deleterious drug; secondly, no restrictions in diet or business is required; thirdly his treatment is positive and certain in all cases. He stands prepared to go into any public or private hospital in the United States and demonstrate the immense superiority of his new treatment over any other now known to the world, in point of promptness, permanency, mildness, safety and convenience to the patient. Dr. Gibson is permanently located in Cleveland, and has during the past five years performed many cures of disease which had for years resisted all other modes of treatment. References can be given to individuals of the first respectability in Cleveland, Boston, New York and other cities, in regard to skill and integrity in all professional transactions. Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Scrofula, all Diseases of the Urinary Organs, and all Chronic Diseases treated with superior success. ☞ Medicines sent to any part of the country on receipt of ten dollars. PRIVATE AFFAIRS, IN WHICH All Classes are Interested. Farmers Drovers, Merchants, Lumbermen, Mechanics, Miners, Bankers, the rich and the poor, should ask themselves if the slightest Scrupulous, or so-called Private Disease, taint is lingering in their Systems, if so, they should apply in person, if possible; if not possible in person, by letter, and receive by return mail a blank circular of questions, which will enable any one to know positively just how they stand. To the intelligent reader it is not necessary to publish the names of the many complications and forms assumed by this terrible scourge, yet it may be advisable to mention some of the most Syphilitic Primary, Syphilis Secondary, and Syphilis Tertiary, the latter involving the bones in its deathly action. Every one should know, also, that many of the most obstinate and severe Chronic Diseases proceed from this cause, and will, if not properly handled, ultimately result in loss of venis. Look to your true interest, and consult by letter, or apply at DR. DEHART'S UNITED STATES HOSPITAL AND Private Medical Dispensary, 130 Jefferson Avenue, Detroit, Mich., Near the Michigan Exchange hotel.
