PARK CITY MEN MAKE OFFER TO BOSSES

Agree to Return to Work If Wage Increase and Other Amended Concessions Are Granted Them.

In resolutions adopted by the Park City strikers, copies of which were presented to the operators, the strikers agree to return to work provided an increase of 75 cents a day, an 8-hour day from collar to collar and the re-employment of all strikers. The resolutions as adopted are:

The strikers of the Park City district, in mass meeting assembled, June 10, 1919, by unanimous vote, adopted the following resolution:

Therefore, be it resolved, by the strikers of the Park City district, in mass meeting assembled, June 10, 1919: That we, the strikers, are willing to return to work at a flat wage increase of 75 cents per shift over the wage paid before the walkout, and eight hours from collar to collar, and no discrimination against any men taking part in this strike.

Therefore, be it resolved, That in event of no response from the respective mining companies on or before June 15, 1919, that the strike committee be instructed to issue a bulletin to the effect that all strikers are advised to seek employment elsewhere, and the strike be declared on indefinitely.

Therefore, be it resolved, That the strike committee be instructed to mail a copy of this resolution to each of the respective mining companies of the Park City district, and a copy to the Utah State Labor News, and a copy to the Butte Daily Bulletin for publication.

Respectfully submitted, remain on the job during the strike.

The strikers also received reports from President Konenhamp that 2,519 members of the Commercial Telegraphers' union employed by the Western Union had gone on strike, instead of the 710 as stated by Carlton. The message also intimated that an extensive walkout of Western Union employes who are still at work may be expected Friday night.

The local wiremen have been advised that the new schedule demanded by the Commercial Telegraphers had been signed on June 9 by both the Federal Telegraph company on the Pacific coast and the Montgomery Telegraph and Telephone company in Illinois.

At Helena, it is reported, the Postal office is being kept open with Manager Pat O'Reilly, alone, in charge. At Great Falls, the only employe of the company at work is said to be Manager Clark.

HOTEL STRIKERS AT FALLS MAKE STATEMENT

Attention of Public to Conditions There Is Called in Open Letter Sent Broadcast.

An open letter telling their side of the controversy which has been raging between the striking employes of the Rainbow and Park hotels at Great Falls and the hotel managers, has been issued by the strikers. The communication, addressed to the public at large, is as follows:

Your special attention is called to some of the facts in regard to the strike now in effect in this city between the Park and Rainbow hotels and the hotel and restaurant employes' union. In an effort which began about the first of May of this year and lasted until the first of June, our local used every honorable means at our disposal to try and make the management of the two hotels raise the wages of the maids from $8.90 per week to $12.50 per week. Waitresses who formerly received $14.75 per week are now asking $16.50. All other kitchen help, with the exception of cooks, to receive $16.50 per week.

It is our belief that we are entitled to the same wages that other members of our craft have been receiving for the past year in every restaurant in this city. We ask you, dear reader, if the small restaurant man can afford to pay our scale, "why can't the large hotels?" Furthermore our members working in the restaurants work eight hours straight, while those working in hotels work split shifts, consequently they have to work 14 hours to get in eight. Imagine yourself, dear reader, with others dependent on you, trying to maintain yourself on $8.50 per week. We are asking only what we think is fair and we are sure that no fair-minded person will dispute our claim.

In regard to the living conditions in one of the hotels in particular, the room provided for the help is unsanitary and if the health department functioned along right lines, it would not be tolerated. Imagine eight cots with the same number of men sleeping in a basement with practically no ventilation. Imagine what this means with absolutely no privacy. It tends to debase man and place him on par with a beast.

The managers of those hotels inform us "they are not in business for profit." Their statement is partly correct, they are in business to create good fat jobs for political henchmen. We have the moral support of every fair-minded citizen in this community, and still the chosen few contend they will not pay a living wage to men and women who toil long weary hours in order that some may glut a mad, inordinate lust for gain.

We wish to inform the workers to stay away from these hotels, pay no attention to their luring inducements, give them a wide berth, pay no attention to the voice of their vicious press, heed not the rantings of their paid hirelings. This is your fight as much as ours. Help us to win. With best wishes.

Y. M. C. A. IN WORLD WIDE ENTERPRISE

LEADING NATIONS WANT AMERICAN WORKERS TO ESTABLISH ASSOCIATIONS

If the war work program of the Y. M. C. A. in serving all the allied armies seemed a colossal undertaking, certainly the program that is outlined for the Association partly as a result of the war work must be staggering to even the most optimistic.

Men of the armies of India asked the "Y" men who served them on ship board, in the camps and trenches, "Why do you do it." The answer was—"The ideals of the Association are the ideals of our Christ—that of unselfish service."

"If that is Christianity, we want it in our villages and cities of India," was the reply.

In the midst of the Russian revolution the United States government asked the Y. M. C. A. to send 25 of its strongest home secretaries to carry the message and ideals of America to them. What diplomacy could not do, the American Y. M. C. A. was able to accomplish. Some of them lost their lives, but Russian leaders say now "The hope of Russia is the Y. M. C. A. with its leadership and ideals."

France, Italy, Japan, China, England—all are calling for some of the strongest American Y. M. C. A. leaders to help them establish the regular "Y" work in their countries, in addition to the continuance of the work in their armies.

American philanthropy will provide for the beginnings of this enterprise and until national leadership is well enough developed to finance and man the work in each of these nations.

Simultaneous with these foreign appeals comes the ever increasing call for the extension of the organization to the uttermost parts of our own nation.

The department of agriculture has asked the international committee to place a county Y. M. C. A. secretary in at least every county where there is an agricultural agent.

Every state office is besieged with requests for an organization of some sort, not only for the returning soldier and sailor, but also for the boys and men of these communities who kept the "home fires burning."

In line with the nation wide policy for response to the appeal to occupy the entire territory, the Montana state committee is adding several men to its executive staff.

These men will organize cities, railroad points, counties, communities, colleges and schools as time and interest will permit.

In every county there are several towns and open county communities. The boys and men in these places have as much need for and right to the "Y" influence and ideals as those in the cities.

The Association will organize these counties and place a trained secretary under the direction of a committee of men in the county. The county secretary organizes and supervises the adapted non-equipment program in each of these communities.

In towns of larger population, the community work, involving the placing of a secretary in that place for non-equipment work and co-operation with the home and school and church is organized.

The corresponding membership system carried on by the state committee plans to ask a man in each village and city in the state to act as representative for the committee to follow by letter any and all young men leaving for other places of residence.

The state office forwards these letters to any point in the United States, and when the young man arrives he is helped by the Association or corresponding member to form the right kind of friends and to get employment if necessary.

The idea is to serve boys and men regardless of race, creed, occupation or location, or paid membership in the organization.

The spirit of the organization is well expressed in a recent statement by one of its leaders.

"We should adopt a positive aggressive course. An army on the defensive is already defeated. There are those who would like to maneuver us into a defensive position. Therefore, persist in fixing attention on the vast vast area of our war work at home and overseas which is not under fire. Demand evidence of each critic and do not let him off with general, vague, sweeping or hearsay charges. Let us as individuals and as Associations lay ourselves out as never before in positive, unselfish service for the returning soldiers and sailors, regardless of complaints and ingratitude. Love and kindness ultimately, and often very soon, win out. Launch forward movements in the regular Association work.

"We should recognize the present situation as both a test and an opportunity for true leadership. Before we are through with our difficulties it will be revealed who the real leaders are. What are leaders for and when are they needed? Not alone or chiefly for days when all is well and when the cause is most popular, but rather when there are real problems and weaknesses to be dealt with, when many have missed the way and are perplexed; when subtle, sinister influences are at work and when men yield to discouragement and pessimism.

"Let us give ourselves to prayer, that light may dispel darkness, that faith may conquer distrust, that good may vanquish ill, that stumbling blocks may be turned into stepping stones and that, as a result of all of us working together positively, constructively, hopefully, believingly, our movement may come forth from this testing time purer, stronger and more serviceable than ever."

IT WOULD SEEM SO.
