THE DAILY APPEAL.

FRIDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 25, 1857.

ASBURY CHAPEL.—Divine services will be held in this church, corner of Linden and Hernando streets, at half-past 10 o'clock A. M. Rev. J. H. LEIGH, pastor.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH—Poplar street, Rev. RICH AND HINES, rector. Christmas day, service at 11 A. M. The Bishop of the Diocese will preach. The seats are free. On Sunday services at 11 A. M. and 3½ P. M.

☞ We make our most polite bow to our young and good-looking friend, Mr. C. C. MORRIS, for the very acceptable present made us yesterday. We have been ruminating upon it ever since.

DISCHARGED—Alderman FENNIE was yesterday charged in the Recorder's Court, with having carried a concealed weapon. After hearing the testimony, Esquire EAST decided that the charge was not established, and the accused gentleman was dismissed.

GRACE CHURCH.—Services held in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association, every Sunday, at 11 A. M. and 7 P. M. Rev. G. P. SCHETKY, rector. The seats are all free. The Apostolic rite of Confirmation will be administered on Sunday night next by Bishop OTEY.

NORTH BRITISH REVIEW.—Scott's re-print of this able periodical for November contains Sir A. ALISON's Histories, Genesis and Science, LUTTERELL's Theory, Scottish Metaphysicians, Slavery and the Slave States, Memoirs of Jonas DAUTON, BURKHARDT and Travels in Arabia and Palestine.

CHRISTMAS EVE OUT OF DOORS.—The weather set in last night, about dark, rainy and gloomy. Notwithstanding this, Young America illuminated the streets with rockets and other fire-works, being determined not to have his Christmas eve frolic disturbed by the freaks or frowns of the sky.

CALVARY CHURCH.—There will be divine service in Calvary Church this morning at 11 o'clock, this evening at 7 o'clock, and to-morrow (Saturday) evening at 7 o'clock.

On Sunday morning the Right Rev. Bishop of the Diocese administers the Apostolic rite of Confirmation, or "Laying on of Hands." Heb. vi., 1 and 2.

ANOTHER OF THEM.—Jno. DENIS, a partner in the firm of WALLICK & Co., slave dealers and auctioneers, was yesterday charged, before the Recorder, with having been concerned in the rebellious outbreak of the Sepoys in Court Square, on Wednesday. He was found guilty. The Court being inclined to mercy, did not sentence him to be blown from a gun, as John deposited in the city treasury and left.

CITY THEATRE.—Mr. Edwin Booth appears this evening in SCHULTZE's thrilling play of the Robbers. Also at this house, the Dancing Master will be represented. Mr. Booth's pretensions, in Memphis, have won him a host of admiring friends. We cannot doubt that with so attractive a bill, this elegant place of amusement will be crowded on Christmas night. Notwithstanding the inclement evening there was a fair house at the Gaiety last night.

CONFLICTION.—The Local of the APPEAL yesterday received a communication, referring to the Sepoy rebellion in Court Square, on Wednesday. It is signed "A. WALLACE, Auctioneer," and the writer modestly complains that our report of the investigation before Esquire EAST, mounts him higher on a box in Court Square than his ambition aspires to. "Merit is always modest," and we think Mr. WALLACE's merits as the head of a family, demands that we dis-mount him, and the public will please consider him dismounted accordingly.

TAKING THE FIELD.—Parson BROWNLOW informs the "Border Methodists" some of whom he says are cutting high shines on the subject of slavery in portions of Virginia, that he expects to pass leisurely through the Valley of Virginia, in the next spring, giving the public a few ideas upon slavery, and "the merits of that abolition organization known as the Methodist Episcopal Church, North." The reverend gentleman adds, "we are not sentering any one, but as we are the advocate of free thoughts, free speech, free lighting, and a free press, should any conscientious freedom shriek or wish to defend, we will divide time, after the free style of Tennessee stump-speaking!"

CHRISTMAS EVE IN DOORS.—The rain fell last night—drizzle, drizzle—drop, drop—so miserable. The clouds hung dark and portentous, like a heavy bill over a poor debtor. The "prospect for cotton" lowered as ominously as giant Despair, in BUNYAN's Doubting Castle. Such was Christmas Eve in Memphis. But was it sad, melancholy, miserable, misanthropic, gloomy, suicidal, unhopeful? No, it was Christmas Eve, and Memphis citizens, having faith in the past, and confidence in the future, enjoyed themselves, laughed, eat, drank, recalled old time reminiscences, school-boy adventures, scrapes with the girls, the wild oat sowing time—in short, they carried out an inflexible determination that, spite of weather and cotton, Christmas should be merry Christmas, and it was so. We wish all our readers may find it a merry Christmas to the end.

THE GAIETY.—As we have already given our opinion at large of Mr. BOOTH, as an actor, it would be superfluous to add another word in his praise. As "Sir Giles Overreach" we do not think he did himself justice, but we can easily account for this: "Justice Greedy," true to his character, tarried too long at his supper and was not ready when called on the stage; this confused every thing; besides this, he was poorly supported, Mrs. MENKEN and Mr. BENSON being the only ones who acted well their parts." Mrs. M. is a clever actress, and Mr. BENSON is always excellent in his profession. Last night "Brutus" everything was better; Mr. BOOTH was himself again. Miss GAILY was well, and Miss MORELLE, who is a new actress on these boards, speaks her parts with emphasis and good judgment. She will with proper study become a good actress.

THE RAINBOW'S LIFE PRESERVERS.—When the melancholy affair of the burning of the Rainbow occurred, the APPEAL was the only paper that published an account of the occurrence derived from spectators of, and participators, in the sad event. We stated that the fire was doubtless the result of incendiarism on the part of five persons, previously part of the cabin crew of the North Star. This statement has been termed by several papers, who had not access to the sources of information within our reach, "an exaggeration." In speaking of the proposed action of the Steamboat Inspector at St. Louis, we made statements that have also been called into question by papers that have not the opportunity of obtaining independent and disinterested information.

The Cincinnati Enquirer of Sunday last has the following:

"The Memphis APPEAL learns by a letter received from David Embree, Esq., Superintendent and Inspector of Steamboats at St. Louis, that he finds it to be his duty, by the steamboat law, to investigate closely all such occurrences as the alleged acts of incendiarism of the Pittsburgh cabin-boys and cooks of the sunken North Star, who had been taken on board the Rainbow. That investigation, says the APPEAL, will show facts in connection with these fiends in human shape of the most flagrant character; and will also bring to light some interesting particulars respecting the filling with water the air-tight life-preservers, by which many persons were saved, who would otherwise have reached the shore in safety.

We have never before heard of any damage to the life preservers, and think there must be some mistake about it. Already have many false rumors been circulated in reference to this disaster, the facts of which are bad enough without exaggeration. The officers of the boat were the chief owners, and are the heaviest losers. The clerk, Mr. Hutton, one of the most correct and honorable men in the city, was passenger on the Pacific yesterday to Memphis and New Orleans, on business in connection with the Rainbow."

We have not been among those who "circulated false rumors in reference to this disaster," for we gave no rumors, nor amongst those who accused the officers of the Rainbow; but, we repeat, when Inspector EMBREE makes his investigation our statements respecting the incendiaries, and also respecting the deadly life preservers, will be found correct to the letter.

ORIGIN OF THE BONNET.—The first bonnet worn in England was brought from Italy in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and its form was a compromise between the present round Italian peasant hat and the French hood. The materials employed in constructing these head ornaments were crimson satin, elaborately embroidered, cloth of gold, and similar rich materials. The Leghorn flat, with the perpendicular crown and a wide brim standing out far around the face, was the first legitimate bonnet worn, and this appeared long after Elizabeth's time. It was trimmed with artificial flowers and immense bows of ribbon. Our present neat and exquisite delicate head covering is but a modification of this huge affair.

THE SMITHS AND THE JONESES IN BRITAIN. The annual report of the Registrar General of England, discloses the interesting fact that the Smiths and Joneses of that Island number over half a million; in fact every 134 person is a Smith, and every 76th is a Jones. The Smiths are paramount in England and the Joneses in Wales.

River Notices.

The river came to a stand yesterday.

The following boats arrived yesterday: From New Orleans, the R. J. Ward for Louisville, and the Woodruff for St. Louis; from Cincinnati, the Queen of the West for New Orleans; for Napoleon, the Dunbar Lee.

The Hill leaves to-night for New Orleans.

The Kate Frisbie, this afternoon, leaves our landing for Napoleon. This boat is an established favorite. Capt. Shirley is one of our most respected citizens. Capt. Hicks, and the courteous clerk, Fuller, are amongst the most esteemed officers on the river. The Kate is a favorite boat and deserves the patronage she receives.

The splendid passenger packet Southerner, TRIPLETT, master, will leave for Louisville this evening at 4 o'clock. Her officers are all accommodating gentlemen, and will be sure to make their passengers as comfortable as possible. We are indebted to her officers for full files of late papers.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—A newly married pair, Mr. and Mrs. Ross, were riding in a buggy at Point Pleasant, seven miles below New Madrid, Mo., last week, when the horse ran off and sprang over the bluff into the river. The horse extricated himself and swam out below, but the buggy and the inmates went down. Mr. Ross soon rose, supposed to be standing on the buggy bed, and appealed to a gentleman on the bank to help save his wife. About that time she rose up, and he caughthold of her, and she, at the same time, took hold of him around the neck, when they both went down and never were seen after. At the time Mr. Ross was seen standing, blood was running from his mouth.

A HUMAN DEVIL.—A letter from Washington, D. C., of the 15th, says:

Yesterday afternoon a brutal murder was perpetrated upon the body of Mrs. Hall, living in Alexandria, Va., between five and six miles from this city. It appears that while Mr. Hall was temporarily absent from his residence, and other white members of the family were attending church, a black woman named Judy, the property of Mr. Hall, put a lot of dry plank on the fire. Mrs. Hall ordered her to take it off. The negro obeyed the command, but soon threw the wood on again. Mrs. Hall then repeated her orders, when the vile wretch seized her mistress, pressed down her head and backed her into the fire. Three or four times did the unfortunate woman break loose from her fiendish assailant, but was as often overpowered, and Mrs. Hall was literally forced into the fire. On the last occasion the screams of Mrs. Hall, brought her husband and others to her rescue, but she died at midnight. It was with difficulty that Mr. Hall was restrained from shooting the wretch. She was conveyed to prison. The testimony from the lips of the dying woman is very intelligent and conclusive. Medical aid was quickly sent for, and no pains were spared to alleviate the sufferings of the unfortunate Mrs. H. before she died.

☞ Maria Redmond, about fifty-five years of age, died suddenly on Thursday night, at No. 19 Mulberry street, New York. While a governess in the family of the Livingstons, on the banks of the Hudson, about thirty-four years ago, she became enamored with the negro coachman, and eloped with him to New York; abandoned herself to the most dissolute life, and finally died neglected in the garret of the premises where she resided. She was a woman of intelligence and good education. Upon a book-shelf in her room were found a number of volumes by favorite French and Italian authors, which she had frequently perused.

☞ The Paris Patrie states that the American engineers, who undertook, by means of a special apparatus, to raise the Russian ships of war sunk in the harbor of Sebastopol, have given up and returned to Constantinople, declaring that their contract cannot be performed except at an enormously disproportionate cost. The last accounts from the Philadelphia adventurers state they were getting along successfully.

HIS BOOTS.—The Charlestown Advertiser says that a whale of the hump-backed species was driven ashore at Nahant, a few days ago, and, upon being cut open, a pair of boots, marked "J," in a good state of preservation, were found in his entrails. It is supposed that the boots, as they were marked J, belonged to Jonah, and were taken off and left behind by accident, when he made his exit from the big fish.

A GALLANT "SACKED."—A Chinese woman, surprised by her husband, had just time to hide her gallant in a sack, and set it up against the wall. The good man coming in, asked: "What is there in that sack?" The woman was confused, and hesitated for a moment for an answer. The gallant, afraid she would blunder, called out from the inside of the sack: "Nothing but rice!"

THE ARTESIAN WELL.—We learn that the Messrs. Dupont, at the paper mill, have sunk the shaft, or bored their well to the depth of 1,660 feet. They had reached water, but it was not of a vein of sufficient density to satisfy their purpose, and the work still progresses. After passing through a continuous strata of blue limestone for over 800 feet, they came to sand, then a vein of pure chalk.—Lou. Cour.

Fever and Ague.

A Case of Eight Months Standing Cured by Hostetter's Holland Bitters.

MICHAEL KELLY, No. 117 Sycamore, near Grant street, Pittsburgh, says:

"Last July, while running on the river, on a cotton boat plying between Natchez and New Orleans, I was taken with Fever and Ague. For eight long months I suffered with this dreadful disease. The greater part of this time I was unable to work, and spent at least fifty dollars for different medicines, but found no permanent relief. Two weeks ago, one of my friends insisted upon my trying HOSTETTER'S HOLLAND BITTERS, saying that a cure was guaranteed. After taking it for one week, I must say I was a sound man. I have been at work now for two weeks, and have had no return of the Chills or Fever whatever."

I certify that the above statement is true.

Monetary and Financial.

MEMPHIS DAILY APPEAL OFFICE,
FRIDAY, December 25, 1857.

CINCINNATI.—From the Enquirer of December 23: The demand for money yesterday was very active, owing in part to the fact that it was the last day for paying taxes. Renewed apprehensions for money at the discount period, and the general impression that there will not be the usual facilities for discounting after the 1st of January, in the shape of renewals, have caused a hardening tendency in the money market. The rates for discounts range from 1 to 2 per cent per month. The rates for Southern exchange are firmer, and the demand for it is quite active. The rates for New Orleans are nominal at from 7 to 10 per cent. A gentleman who has lately been shipping to New Orleans favored us the following dispatch dated, "New Orleans, December 4, 1857. Sterling, 108@110. Lyons, Hull and Stevenson sold at an average of about 9 cents. Good demand." Cincinnati paid for sterling, 108 to 110 premium, and for sight exchange on New Orleans, 10 to 12 per cent. The Cotton was sold immediately on its arrival.

Receipts by Railroad.—Per M. & C. Railroad, Parker, Keller & Burt, 82 bales cotton; Harris, Wormsley & Co., 27. Wholesale by Bingham & Schoolcraft, 5; R. D.
