THE DAILY APPEAL.

TUESDAY MORNING, JANUARY 28, 1858.

☞ We tender our thanks to the Adams Express Company for late New York and Boston papers.

☞ We are obliged to H. C. CLARK, whose periodical store is near the Post Office, for late copies of the St. Louis Republican and the New Orleans Crescent.

☞ For late papers we thank S. S. DEAN of the Memphis, the officers of the Joseph H. Oglesby, J. B. RUSSELL, of the Uncle Sam, and the steamer Daniel Boone.

RECORDER'S COURT.—Saturday nights and Sundays are prolific times for justice. Folly and liquor obtain the rule and the tax is levied by Squire EAST next day. That active magistrate had fifteen cases before him yesterday.

ENTERTAINING SLAVES.—P. D. WEDGEWOOD was for the second time found guilty, before Esq. EAST, yesterday, of entertaining slaves and supplying them with liquor on Sunday. He was fined twenty dollars. The police are closely watching this class of offenders.

CONCEALED WEAPONS.—Notwithstanding repeated warnings, there are people so foolish, or stupid, or unacquainted with the newspapers, as to carry weapons concealed about their persons; for this offence WM. SHERIDAN was yesterday fined $10 by Squire EAST.

FORGERY.—DANIEL G. ANTHONY was last week held in one thousand dollars bail by Esq. HORNE, to answer at the Criminal Court the charge of having forged the name of WILLIAM JOHNSON to an order upon JONES, BROWN & Co., for $215. He acknowledged having committed the offence.

☞ Odd-Fellows' Hall was crowded to overflowing last night, with the beauty, fashion, and gallantry of our citizens. The Concert passed off with entire satisfaction, and to the delight of every one present.

Let it be remembered that this evening a Fair and Supper will come off, under the auspices of the ladies of Grace Church.

ARRESTED.—A short time ago, a gentleman named CLARKE handed a negro porter a carpet sack, containing ladies' fine wearing apparel to the value of over $100, with instructions to take it to one of the railroad depots in this city. The sick and negro were not seen afterwards until Sunday, when our police arrested three negroes suspected of being concerned in the robbery. The police expect to recover the goods.

STILL THEY COME.—Mr. T. B. HALLEWOOD, of Courtland, Ala., will accept our thanks for a club of twenty-five subscribers to our Weekly at his office, accompanied by the cash for advance payment. We are daily adding to our already large list of subscribers, and it would seem that the APPEAL is constantly growing in public favor. We shall continue our exertions to merit and receive the good opinion and patronage of the public at large.

PISTOLS AND CROCKERY.—A young gentleman, who was primed with whisky to the rejoicing height, entered the White House the other day, with a loaded pistol, which he threw upon the table as violently that it went off. As the bullet was not caught by either himself or companions, it pitched into the crockery, playing the crash and smash chorus with a fragmentary afterpiece. Esq. EAST charged him ten dollars yesterday for the music.

STATE NORMAL COLLEGE.—We ask the attention of the public to the advertisement of this institution, located at Holly Springs, Miss. The President, Rev. Mr. S. G. STARKE, has been so long and so well and favorably known throughout the country, that it would seem like supererogation in us to say a word commendatory of an institution over which he presides. He is surrounded by an able corps of professors. The regulations of the College are judicious and wise, and we have no scruples in recommending it to the favor, confidence and support of the public.

THE WEATHER.—Sunday was a miserable rainy day, with considerable high wind. Yesterday morning the rain continued, but more moderately. The streets again became "sloughs of despond." The fountains of the muddy deep were broken up, and curses hoarse and numerous were provoked from bespattered citizens. The denizens of the streets formed a "stay party," expansive crinoline shrinking from contact with the expanse of mud. In the evening the deep pall of gloom rolled off, and ethereal blue and sunshine once more imparted life and brightness to this soiled spot of creation.

THE GAIETY.—Business is dull and the weather is dull, but while the Blondin Troupe are at the Gaiety, there is a certain antidote to the "blues," within the reach of all. The gorgeous pantomime with its irresistible drollery, the fascination of the ballet and the amusement offered by an unrivalled exhibition of gymnastic skill, are all exhibited for the entertainment and amusement of our citizens, after the cares and fatigues of the day. To-night the comical, laughable, fun-concentrating pantomime of The Secret Marriage will be performed. Also the ballet of Aurora and the fairy spectacle of the Green Monster. This is a fine bill and will draw a fine audience.

FINED.—A number of drays clogged up the alley on Front Row, near Madison street, yesterday, and PATRICK RENNIGAN placed his at the entrance, so as to stop all progress on the sidewalk, while the unknown depths of liquid mud made it impossible for pedestrians to proceed by the open street. PATRICK was, however, deaf to all argument and objurgations. He was bound to have the next turn up the alley; but his courage fell when Officer MCINTAINE led him off to the Recorder's Court, and he looked completely crest-fallen as he handed over two dollars, the amount of the fine imposed upon him for obstructing the street. Drivers should take warning by the fate of PATRICK RENNIGAN.

ROBBED HIS FRIEND.—On Saturday, THOMAS HOGAN, finding it desirable to leave Memphis, begged a friend of his to lend him as much money as would take him to St. Louis. The friend consented and the two entered a coffee house to take a few farewell drinks. The friend became wearied with his industrious efforts at the tumbler, and fell asleep. Some spectators saw the heist of the faithless Thomas in suspicious contiguity with his sleeping friend's pocket. The friend afterward discovered he had been robbed. Officer MCINTAINE arrested and searched Thomas, and found twenty of the missing dollars upon him. The culprit was taken before Esq. HORNE, who committed him to jail to await trial at the February term of the Criminal Court.

NEW PILOT RULES.—We learn that the Supervising Inspector of this district has had before him a case of collision between the steamers Atlanta and Exchange, in White river, on the morning of the 1st of January; and that he has found that both pilots neglected to comply with the 6th rule, as established in October last, which was to be enforced on the first day of the month throughout the United States; and that they were each liable to a fine of thirty dollars.

The subject of damages for property does not properly come before Inspectors, under the law of 1852.

The collision took place in less than four hours after the rule went into operation.

The fines were promptly paid. The rule is as follows:

RULE SIXTH.—When any steamer, whether ascending or descending, is nearing a short bend or point in the river, where, from any cause, a steamer approaching in an opposite direction cannot be seen at a distance of six hundred yards, the pilot of such steamer, when he shall have arrived within six hundred yards of such bend or point, shall give a signal by one long sound of the steam whistle, as a notice to any steamer that may be approaching; and should there be any approaching steamer within hearing of such signal, it shall be the duty of the pilot thereof to answer such signal by one long sound of his steam whistle, when both boats shall be navigated with the proper precautions, as required by rule second.

KATE AND DANIEL.—The union of Daniel Boone and Kate Frisbee, the two popular Vicksburg boats, was celebrated at Vicksburg last week by a convivial party on board the Kate Frisbee. The True Southern says:

"We had the gratification yesterday of joining in convivial union with many friends in the social hall of the new Memphis and Vicksburg packet Kate Frisbee, "the beautiful craft" under the special supervision and control of its worthy commander, Capt. J. T. Shirley. Indeed, one must 'speak volumes' of those who, in common sentiment, express a wish that success might crown the enterprise which has required the investment of so much capital and energy necessary in the accomplishment of that end which must result in the advancement of the two points so peculiarly linked by natural causes. Our worthy confrere of the Whig, Mr. T. M. Pettus, received honors of the occasion. The elegance with which he discharged the pleasurable duties devolving upon him, we can only say was commensurate with that peculiar characteristic which entitled him to the appellation. It is necessary also to mention that not only the Press was fairly and fully represented, but also the professional and mercantile community spread the occasion with genial wit and humor. The toasts were appropriate and to the point."

River Matters.

The river has again commenced swelling slowly. After a considerable fall of rain, which had rendered the steamboat landing and streets almost impassable for pedestrians, the weather has cleared off quite warm, and, from present indications, we are to have no winter at all. Business on the levee yesterday was tolerably brisk, several packets discharging and receiving.

The regular packet departures yesterday were: The Daniel Boone for Vicksburg, at 2 o'clock; the Hosea McLellan for Louisville, at 5; the Nebraska for New Orleans, at 6.

Capt. Bowman's excellent packet steamer, St. Francis, leaves to-day at 2 o'clock, for St. Francis river. Arkansas travelers will find excellent accommodations, and clerk and attentive officers on board.

The excellent steamer Memphis, Capt. Mann, brought down a good trip from Cincinnati. She will leave on her return trip to-morrow at 4 o'clock p. m. Passengers bound up stream, cannot find a better boat or more attentive officers than those of the Memphis.

The John Simonds is in port, and receiving for New Orleans, for which port she leaves on to-morrow evening, after the arrival of the evening trains. Travelers bound South should secure berths in the magnificent saloons of the Simonds.

The new Memphis and Vicksburg lines, composed of the model packets Boone and Frisbee, we are pleased to see, are doing an excellent business. Both boats and their officers are old favorites with the business and traveling public, and their success in the new trade they have recently entered, is very gratifying to their many friends.

VICKSBURG.—From the Southron, January 19: The river continues rising at the same rate as was reported in our last, which was about four inches in twenty-four hours.

LOUISVILLE.—From the Courier, January 22: The river was rising a little yesterday—just enough to call it a rise, with 5 feet 4 inches water on the falls for steamboats. In the canal there were scant 8 feet water by the mark. During the previous 24 hours the river had risen a little over an inch.

From the Boot and Shoe Makers of Memphis to the Public.

MEMPHIS, January 25, 1858.

IMPARTIAL PUBLIC: We, the Journeymen Boot and Shoe Makers, have again opened our court of common pleas. Before you the case in question is, man vs. task masters. You, the public, are aware that you cannot do without the shoe makers. We, the shoe makers, are also aware we cannot do without the public. They, the Bosses, seem not to be aware that they are dependents on both, but with that conviction on our minds, we place ourselves on a level with them, aye the proudest of them, their opinion to the contrary notwithstanding.

They seem to imagine that we are but tools wherewith to shape their fortunes; that when they have deformed and blunted us with hard and ill-requitted labor, they can cast us off for others more pliant to their hands, but in this they are mistaken. We will try to learn them that the instruments are self-willed and self-acting to boot.

The Bosses have tried to gain the public ear by inserting in the APPEAL what they call a statement of facts; but we are aware of their nature—call them a tissue of fictions. First, they charge us with burning a bill of wages which they had the audacity to send us; and, as they say, burned it to ashes—leaving great emphasis on the ashes. We took that bill in decency and silence and burned it even to ashes, as you say. But, good, kind Bosses, if you did not like your bill so reduced, why did you not divulge unto us some secret chemical process which might prevent that missive of your high authority being burned to ashes? We, in our ignorance, knew not how to reduce, it to coke and cinder. We put it to the flame, but being of too flimsy a nature to stand it, as you say, it was burned to ashes. It was, and we'll tell you why. You required our labor. We sent you a bill of rates, stating the terms on which we would work, previous to your sending us one. How did you receive it? With foul epithet and scurrilous language against us and it. You told our Committee that you would never submit to be dictated to by a set of idle, drunken shoemakers, and asked them (with a view of sowing dissention among us) if they were niggers to be led or driven by us.

Idle and drunken, forsooth! when the hands of these very men, where hempen threads, waxy and wiry, have often cut their weary fingers to the bone, have clothed you and yours in broadcloth and fine garments. "Idle and drunken!" when every stitch that was set and every peg that was driven by those ceaseless toilers, when the clock was telling the "wee small hours" of approaching midnight, added another brick to their rising structures or another dollar to the glittering pile which has puffed them up with this "little brief authority," tipping the tongue with a barefaced insolence, which tells us we are idle and drunken shoemakers. Out upon ye, you foul-mouthed slanderers, nor dare to ask again why we burned your bill.

Another one of your true statements is, that one or two men went around and made all the rest discontented. That is also false, being a unanimous and impulsive movement of the men, as proven by a resolution passed at a late meeting, repelling your insinuation. You may have found some poor epitome of a man—some specimen of meanness, fit to give utterance to such fabrications. If by any chance there is such a one in our Society, we are confident there is not two. Another of those facts: you said we wanted to see your books, and told some of your customers so. Will you oblige us by stating the name or names of any person or persons who asked you to show your books.

Again, you say the Bosses that joined us never paid the wages. Mr. GEORGE CARROLL always paid them; Mr. ARY also, and Mr. FERGUSON, and others, which you well k[illegible]

That the public may fully understand what little difference there is between what the men want and what the Bosses will give, we will now draw up a list of each:

What the Bosses say now they will give: First-rate boots, $4; footed boots, $3; second-rate, $3 75; footed second rate, $2 75.

What the men want: First-rate new boots, $4; footed boots, $3 25; pegged heels, $3 75; footed, $3. They want no second rate, as the customer pays the boss as much for one as the other. They do not agree to pay extra on boots; the full sense of the matter is, they don't want a society; they wish us to be at their mercy. We do want a society, and merely wish to protect ourselves.

Again, we will tell the public that they can see it is false when the bosses say that those that joined us never payed the wages before. We will now see how many among their party pays. As for ONELL, HOTTER & Co., BONNER and others, they are mere boot-footers and cobblers; trifles like them we don't mind. We will give a suitable reward to know the whereabouts of Mr. GRUFF; his name is not against us; neither is it with us. And now, we will ask them a few questions more.

When did LINKHAMER (as you are pleased to call him) ever pay the wages for any kind of work, or for extras on any work? the Society would like to know. When did BOTTO pay—that allen to our trade,—that superannuated showman of merry Andrew ability, who is now doing some of his old tune wire-pulling with you and your party, which he may find puppets enough to play with; but, if he wants to play, let him try his hand at organ-grinding, and he may get sweeter notes from that than trying to grind journeymen shoemakers.

And so, Mr. HARDEN, you have hardened your name. I hope your heart has not undergone the same process. Perhaps the weight of a LINKHAMER may have accomplished the forgery—worked you and your party into a white heat, which squeezed out those funny facts you gave as Sabbath Readings to the public.

But HARDEN may harden himself to the superlative degree, and LINKHAMER may have to do his own hammering. As for MILLER, we can prove him as remiss in giving full wages as the worst of them. But before we're done with him, we'll make him a true Millerite, by raising him above the littleness of his own terms to the summit of ours, which will be more creditable to himself hereafter.

We would advise this great committee of five, when they put their wise heads together, let each bring at least one of the human senses, that the five senses may be found in the party, that with their combined sense (cents) the citizens may say they are worth at least one pizayune.

BY ORDER OF THE SOCIETY.

As the public papers of the surrounding States were requested by the Bosses to copy their article, we hope they will do us the kindness of copying ours.

☞ We are indebted to the officers of the fine steamer Hosea McLellan for late St. Louis and Louisville papers.

LADIES' SUPPER AND FAIR.—The ladies of Grace Church design having a Fair and Supper, at Odd Fellows' Hall, on Tuesday and Wednesday nights, the 26th and 27th instants. As the proceeds are to be applied to church purposes, we hope the ladies will be rewarded by a full attendance. Price of admission, 25 cents. On Wednesday they will set an elegant lunch, from 11 o'clock A. M., till 3, P. M.

Commercial Matters.

MEMPHIS DAILY APPEAL OFFICE, TUESDAY, January 26, 1858.

COTTON.—The influences that have added Cotton during the last week have probably been of a depressing nature, which has tended to counteracting that period of time, which, in the ordinary course of events, commercial institutions and the difficulty of obtaining facilities for purchase, has greatly checked the demand. The demand for the better qualities still continued, the commoner qualities are not sought after, and can meet with buyers only at very low rates.

News was received yesterday of the arrival at a steamer of the Europa, which intelligence that cotton had experienced an advance, but the last market before the steamer sailed, closed dull and heavy. At first, this gave an impetus to business and some cotton was bought at about Saturday's rates, but on the whole, the news was regarded as having little that was encouraging; which, when connected with the fact that the next arrival will probably not show a decline, from the influence of the news which will be received by the steamer due in New York. Cotton reached a short time ago, caused the market to terminate languidly. Holders, however, were somewhat firmer in their rates, without commanding any specific advance. We quote as follows:

Inferior	5¾@6	Middling	6¾@7
Ordinary	6¼@6½	Strict Middling	7@7¼
Good Ordinary	7¼@7½	Good Middling	7¾@8
Low Middling	7¾@6	Middling Fair	10¼@10½

Freight to New Orleans is 3/16 bale.

January 19, Montgomery, stores small, Strict Middling 10c. January 19, Augusta, demand not good, price tending downwards; receipts 6,000 bales. January 20, Savannah market dull, little offering for sale; prices from at 10¼@10¾c. Charleston, Low to Strict Middling, 10@10¾c. Middling Fair, 11c. January 21, Galveston, prices advancing, choice Cotton 11c.

The New Orleans Delta, of January 21, says:

Holders have been disposed to raise a little from their previous rates, and buyers have shown a better extent of about 5,000 bales. Prices have been in point and the whole season have prevailed especially for the finest. Middling Fair, Interior Ordinary to Middling, 5@10¼c. Ordinary to Middling, 5@10½; Middling to Good Middling, 9¾@10¼c.

The Augusta Dispatch has the following on the business of holding Cotton:

A cotton factor illustrated to us, on yesterday, the effect of advising planters to hold their cotton in this way: "I, as a planter, have 100 bales of cotton and my cotton which I was selling at 14 cents. Cotton commenced to decline, and, at this time, it would not bring enough to pay my acceptance upon it. The draft falls due to-morrow and I must either pay the draft myself, get someone to let the cotton be sold, making up the difference out of my own funds, or I must the disposition of one of my best customers. I shall sell this cotton."

This is not a solitary instance. Nearly every factor in the city has experienced similar results from the determination of farmers to hold on. And this is what keeps the banks, and the merchants and the people in distress for money. The money drawn on cotton in the fall was all appropriated to speculative purposes, buying land, negroes or anything else.

The New Orleans Crescent, of January 19, says:

There gives evident their disappointment in the character of the advices by the America. Nevertheless they have been correct in some respects, which, if they had it were, that now it is turn about, with a prospect of a great falling off in the crop of cotton for 1857 [illegible] accounts of heavy rains and floods, the most erroneous of all. Accounts of heavy rains and floods have been received, and it is 3@5 c. for higher prices, and the falling off in prospects is too great to warrant any estimates over the above figures. The accounts of our crops were very light. Was there prematurely? The question will be one long where is the cotton?

The week through opening cotton quiet, yet has an improved aspect. The commercial community, or that part of it connected with foreign trade, were occupied with the congratulations for the Africa, which reached us this morning, or a part of it did. The correspondence, in some respects, does not think the report adequate to the intelligence received. The spinners in Manchester will take a diff ent view when they receive accounts that the decrease in the receipts at the ports of this year has already passed half million of bales; and by the several packets which arrived yesterday and to-day from Memphis, Vicksburg and Red river, it will be seen that the crops are extremely light. Unless there is a large increase before the first of March, which is only forty days off, short crop views may well be taken into consideration. There will be a very large deficiency in the quantity of cotton, or in all its conditions from Middling up. Ordinary and Inferior, there will be a larger proportion than known for some year—in fact, there will be an abundance of dirt, rubbish and leaves blown up with the cotton, occasioned by the frost and bad weather. Some of this may prove wholly unmerchantable, and not meet the obligations valued against it.
