THE DAILY APPEAL.

SATURDAY MORNING, JANUARY 30, 1858.

☞ We are again under obligations to the Adams Express Company for the late dates.

☞ Our thanks are due Hons W. T. AVERY, J. V. WRIGHT and J. D. C. ATKINS, for late favors from Washington.

PERSONAL.—L. P. HOLLADAY, President of the New Orleans and Cairo Mail Company, arrived in this city yesterday.

CRIMINAL COURT.—The February term of the Criminal Court commences on Monday next.

BRIDGE.—A body of workmen are busily engaged at the second bayou, on Beal street, preparing to build a new bridge there.

NILES' REGISTER.—Sixty odd volumes of this valuable political repertory for sale at half price. Apply to J. R. McCLANAHAN or LEON. TROUSDALE, at this office.

DIRTY.—We beg to inform Messrs. EWIN, FAULKNER and COPELAND, the Jail Committee, that the Jail is in urgent need of soap, water and whitewash. Its present condition is disgraceful.

THE NEW MARKET.—The citizens in the south portion of the city are anxiously waiting the action of Council upon the subject of the projected new market. Hurry it on, you who have the matter in hand, for it is wanted.

☞ Those wishing to get an excellent likeness should call at the Star Gallery, No. 219 Main street. It is there only where those beautiful Chromiotypes are taken, which are so much admired. 1t

CARE RUNNER.—A couple of rogues broke open a box-car at the Charleston Railroad Depot last evening, and stole therefrom a quantity of goods. One of them was arrested and placed in Jail. The police officers expected to find the other.

SUNSTRUCK.—The dry, hot wind of Thursday had as happy an effect in Memphis as a wind on an occasion some centuries ago had in a more eastern part of the world—it caused the flood (of mud) to subside. The streets were passable in many places yesterday.

CLOSED.—Our police found the coffee houses so generally closed at 9 o'clock on Thursday night, that not an arrest was made. We understand the proprietors of taverns and saloons are unable, in most instances, to procure their licenses, because the blank forms are not yet printed. Rip Van Winkle asleep again!

WATCH STOLEN.—A countryman from Mississippi became so intoxicated yesterday, that he fell insensible in the street. He was taken to the Station House, but before his removal, some thief had stole his watch, which was valuable. Seventy-four dollars, which he had in his pocket, escaped the plunderer's search.

SMALL PROFITS.—Recorder EAST had twelve applicants for justice before him yesterday, whose contributions to the city treasury, in the way of fines, amounted only to eleven dollars—a small business. A portion were discharged and several entered the public service of the city for a limited term.

FLOWERY.—Some friend in our absence placed upon our desk yesterday a rose in full bloom, and beside it another in the bud. They were sweet visitants, coming unexpectedly but most welcome. Such blooming evidences of winter are unusual and suggestive of the happy lands of eternal spring.

FLAT BOAT ROBBERY.—CHAS. LAMBERT was yesterday arrested by officer CAIN for stealing from a flat boat lying at the mouth of Wolf river, a silver watch and a pistol, the property of Henry DAVIS. He was examined before Esq. EAST, and was committed for trial on the charge.

SOMETHING TO REFLECT UPON.—In this city there is a public square, several churches, two theatres, considerable railway property, a jail and a large array of drinking places. In this city there is not a public library, a winter course of lectures, a lyceum, an American gymnasium, an American military company, a chamber of commerce, or, word of all, a single public school-house.

NEW MAP.—Mr. ROCKER, the City Civil Engineer, is preparing a new map of the city on a large scale. It gives the true relative dimensions of the Mississippi river, and includes Fort Pickering and the intervening land, and also the village of Hopefield across the river. The ward boundaries of the city, the course of the gas main pipe, and many other particulars, will be indicated. If published, it will be an acquisition.

GAIETY.—This is now the only place of amusement open in our city. The Martinetti Troupe have been playing to tolerable houses the past week—not as good as we would like to see them have. Their performances have been of a very mirth-provoking nature, as all who have seen them will attest. Those who are troubled with the "blues" cannot derive a better plan than to go to-night and see the antics which "Jocko" will cut up in the South American pantomime.

NOT COMMENCED.—The raised platforms and seats ordered by Council to be placed in the Council Chamber, for the benefit of the public attending to see and hear the proceedings of their constituents, have not yet been commenced. We know the city treasury is low, but any appropriation from it that will induce a constant attendance of citizens in the Council Chamber will by no means diminish its contents. On the contrary, the effect will be similar to that of Elijah's blessing on the widow's cruse of oil.

IMPROVEMENT WANTED.—The inhabitants dwelling on Echols street, south of Vance, are very anxious to see the countenance of the Street Commissioner in their neighborhood. They wish him to be accompanied by his train of infantry, bearing pick-axes and shovels, and a detachment of cavalry with carts. It is two years ago since the City Civil Engineer laid out the street, and it is not graded yet. Wake up, Rip Van Winkle! As the street stands, it is impossible to lay any pavement down, and a great portion of the citizens there have been literally prisoners in their houses during "the muddy term."

PEACE AMONG THE SHOEMAKERS.—As will be seen from their publication in another column, peace and harmony has once more been established between the bosses and the journeymen shoe makers. The journeymen have succeeded in the establishment of their Society and in the enforcement of a recognition of their bill of prices. It is essential to the success and prosperity of every branch of business that a good understanding should exist between employer and employee. Their interests are mutual and reciprocal, and there should at all times be a constant effort and desire to harmonize all differences calculated to produce dissensions between them.

OLD HARTFORD FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY. This old and reliable company (of forty-eight years standing) presents, with its accustomed regularity, to its patrons and the rest of mankind, its semi-annual statement, in compliance with the laws of Tennessee.

A glance at this statement cannot fail to gratify those who are so fortunate as to hold the policies of this reliable company, and it must be a great satisfaction to them to know that the success and present management of its business, and a disposition on the part of the stockholders to make it still more worthy of the patronage of the public, have induced them, during the past year, to increase its cash capital from $300,000 to $500,000.

We take pleasure in saying that of the large number of companies, both local and foreign, doing business in Tennessee, there is none more reliable, liberal and prompt, than the above well-managed company, and we cheerfully commend it to the patronage of our readers. Our neighbor, J. E. CHADWICK, its efficient agent in this city, will always be found ready and willing to attend to its business with dispatch.

Referring to the subject of insurance statements, we would ask if it would not be well for the companies chartered by the State of Tennessee to occasionally make a showing of their condition, so that their patrons might be enabled to form some opinion as to what they are relying on for indemnity?

River Matters.

The river was still receding yesterday. The weather was clear and sunny, with a cold wind. The landing was in good order, and a pretty brisk business doing.

Since last report, the following boats have arrived: From St. Francis river, for Memphis, the Comet; from New Orleans, for Nashville, the Nashville; for Cincinnati, the Pringle; for St. Louis, the St. Nicholas; from Evansville, for Memphis, the Southerner; from Cincinnati, for Memphis, the Hickman.

The Rilers leaves for White and Little Red rivers this evening. She brought in 228 bales of cotton, with her this trip.

The Belfast left last night for New Orleans, with 2,700 bales of cotton on board.

MEMPHIS, JANUARY 29, 1858.

MESSRS. EDITORS: If you will please make this statement public through the columns of your paper, you will greatly oblige me.

I arrived in this city on Sunday, January 17th. My occupation for the last six years has been a book-keeper. My endeavor has always been to gain an honest livelihood, and my intention was to have permanently resided here.

On Tuesday evening, the 26th inst., about 9 o'clock, I was asked by my friend, Mr. R. T. Hood, to accompany him as far as the Gaiety Theatre. On arriving in front of the Theatre, two gentlemen stepped up to us. One of them inquired of Mr. Hood if he had repaired his ring. He answered that he could have it tomorrow. The other gentleman then made some remark about coming down the river from Cincinnati. I asked if he had resided there. He said he had. I said I, too, had resided there about twelve years ago. At this point of the conversation, Mr. Hood and the other gentleman went into the Theatre, I telling Mr. Hood I would take a walk, and would join him again at the close of the performance. I then asked the gentleman his name, and he told me "Morgan," when I remembered having seen him there, and slightly knew some of his relations, who are very respectable people. I then asked about one or two persons with whom I was acquainted. My friend, Mr. Hood, had not been in the Theatre more than three or four minutes, when a person put his hand on Morgan's shoulder, and they went to the front of the side-walk, and remained in conversation some time. What the subject was, I know not. I stood there smoking a cigar, when the person ordered some officers to arrest Morgan. He then ordered some officers to arrest me. I begged he would let me explain, or call some person out of the Theatre who knew me. He would not listen to anything I had to say. Two stout looking men, armed with clubs, pounced upon me and dragged me off. I then asked the officers what it all meant, and how it was, that a gentleman was dragged to jail in such a manner. All the answer they would give me was, that Capt. Johnson was responsible; that they were acting by his orders. On passing Mr. A. Mereto's door, I again begged that they would permit me to inform him what had become of me. I was told they had no time; that they were not allowed to do anything of the kind. I then offered to leave $50 as a deposit for my appearance in the morning, but I might as well have talked to wood or stone. On arriving at the office of the jail, I was searched, and all the money I had about me, $60 55, a penknife, and portmonnaie taken from me, a gold watch escaping their notice. I then asked as a particular favor that they would put me in a cell to myself. Whatever I said was not noticed. Morgan and myself were placed in a cell where there was one man chained to the floor, charged with the crime of murder, and two others for robbing. The man chained to the floor performed the office of chambermaid by turning down an old dirty straw mattress and inviting me to lie down by him, and he would keep me warm. I declined, preferring to stand against the wall all night and walk occasionally to the small aperture in the door, and watch the rats fight, of which there was no scarcity, and from the way my fellow prisoners scratched themselves I thought their bed fellows were numerous. In the morning I was invited to take breakfast with them, which I most respectfully declined. About 10 o'clock the jailor made his appearance and ordered out the two prisoners that were put in the evening before. I went to the office and found Capt. Johnson, and thanked him for the entertainment. I then said I had fallen into bad company. You are already informed how. I told him I could give as good references as could be desired, and also had my bill and letters and other papers which would show who and what my standing in society was. We were both set at liberty without an examination before some judicial officer. Capt. Johnson stated he had no desire to have me before court. I told him I preferred he would, that I desired to have a full investigation.

This surprises me—'tis true my knowledge of law is limited, but I have yet to learn that the public have endowed one man with the power to arrest and discharge a prisoner, or to others words, to act in the double capacity of officer and judge. If such can be done, no stranger visiting the city is safe. It would be well for all who come to be prepared with references, or not go out unless in the company of some gentleman who is well known. The matter is placed in the hands of an attorney, and it will be tested before a proper tribunal, whether the liberty of a citizen of this glorious Republic can be interfered with in such a manner. Craving your pardon for the trouble I am occasioning you,

I remain, yours, very respectfully,
JOSEPH DEAN.

MEMPHIS, January 29.

MESSRS. EDITORS: We, the journeymen boot and shoe makers of this city, have the pleasure of announcing to the public that the bosses have all accepted our terms, except Botto. We hope they will still continue their patronage at the old places, as usual.

☞ I believe it saved my life. Jacob Wenger, of Bush Creek, New Berkshire township, says:

☞ For a long time I was afflicted with Costiveness, Nausea and Headache, attending Dyspepsia, sometimes so severely as to incapacitate me for any effort—at times, to confine me to my bed. My bowels were often so constipated as to oblige me to use the most powerful purgatives to relieve myself. Indeed, I at last found it necessary to use something of the kind constantly. Last fall I commenced taking SHROFF'S HOLLAND BITTERS, and found in just what case required. I can now recommend it to history, for I believe it saved my life.
