THE DAILY APPEAL.

SATURDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 13, 1858.

☞ We thank the clerk of the Ocean Spray for late New Orleans papers.

☞ We tender our thanks to our friend Mr. TEMPLE, the very accommodating clerk of the Ben Franklin, for our latest dates from New Orleans, Natchez and Vicksburg.

HACKS.—North Court street has been selected as the spot where hacks for hire are to stand, in accordance with the provisions of a recently passed ordinance.

CLOSED.—The New Orleans Delta states that the Gaiety in that city has closed its season. The troupe, it is stated, will come here. CLARKE is spoken of approvingly by the New Orleans press.

☞ We learn that the remains of Mr. WADE HAMPTON, of South Carolina, who died recently on his plantation in Louisiana, were brought to this city yesterday, and deposited in one of the Cenotaphs, where they will await removal to his native State.

DR. BARBER'S LECTURE.—Those citizens who were present at Dr. BARBER's lecture on Thursday evening, express a hope that it will be repeated before a larger audience. The subject is one of great interest to the religious world, and no denominational differences ought to operate when the defense of the broad principles of revelation is in question.

RECORDER'S COURT.—Recorder EAST was yesterday engaged in a sort of family-dispute case, in which the keeper of a boarding house had threatened a boarder of his, who is a lawyer, with a pistol. He was fined $25. The lawyer was then charged with drawing a knife on the occasion. The trial was continued until dark, then held over until this morning.

POLICE OFFICERS AND WEAPONS.—A doubt having been expressed as to whether police officers are allowed to carry concealed weapons, by the provisions of the Concealed Weapon Ordinance, we state that the provision in that ordinance upon this subject says: "No policeman shall carry such weapons concealed without the permission of his commanding officer, or of the Mayor; such permission not to extend beyond the day or occasion for which it was granted." This language is precise and unmistakeable.

CRIMINAL COURT.—At the Criminal Court, yesterday, the business was confined to cases of alleged breach of the liquor law. About thirty of them were disposed of. In one case the trial proceeded before a jury which returned a verdict of guilty, and a fine of $25 was passed. A motion in arrest of judgment was then made. The Judge reserved this decision until the arrival from Nashville of an official copy of the tippling act recently past, shall enable him to consider the question in the light of the new law. Other cases stand over by consent until the decision be rendered.

CREPE'S GAIETY.—The Marsh Troupe will give an afternoon performance to-day, commencing at half-past 2 o'clock, for the amusement of the little ladies and gentlemen who may desire to attend. The pieces that have been selected for the occasion, are the fairy story of Beauty and the Beast and the admired farce of Cousin Joe. The juveniles of our city will certainly attend this afternoon, and see how well they can be entertained by the "little folks" of the Marsh Troupe. They will never regret their visit to see them.

To-night is positively the last appearance of these juvenile actors, on which occasion will be presented The Forty Thieves, to conclude with the very laughable farce of Toodles, making the most attractive bill since their engagement. Those who have not seen these interesting children, should by all means attend to-night, it being their last appearance, positively.

THE CITY CODE.—We suspect that some day when the book of City Ordinances comes to be put in evidence in the law case which the city is a party, that it will be found utterly worthless. This is the result of the want of method and precision so common in our city legislation. As an instance we may mention the fact that the last ordinance in the book, which is entitled, "Ordinance Ratifying Code," reads thus:

Be it ordained, &c., That the foregoing Code of Ordinances be and the same is hereby ratified and adopted, and shall be in full force and effect from date; and that all ordinances and parts of ordinance coming in conflict with the foregoing Revised Code be and the same are hereby repealed.

The intention of this ordinance was to fix the date when the various ordinances contained in the book should come into operation; yet, will it be believed? The above ratifying ordinance is without a date, and there is no evidence as to the time when a single ordinance in the book became operative.

NEW STEAMBOAT LAW.—The correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer informs us that Mr. WEBERBURNE, of Illinois, from the Committee on Commerce, has reported, in the House of Representatives, a bill very important in its character to the navigators of our Western lakes and rivers. The bill is entitled "An act to provide for the better security of the lives of passengers on board of vessels propelled in whole or in part by steam." Section first extends the provisions of the various "Steamboat laws" over ferry boats, with the exception of some few specifications, which are only appropriate for first-class steamers. Section second exacts, that steam-tugs, tow-boats and freight-boats shall also be liable to such provisions of the law as may be appropriate for boats of their class. Section five allows turpentine and oil of vitrol to be carried on board steamers under strict precautions against accident. Section eight declares that barges carrying gunpowder and other dangerous articles, shall be liable to the same precautions and restrictions as steamers, whenever said barges are towed by a steamer.

Section ten provides that if any steamer shall be published, or advertised, or designated in any manner, by any other than her registered name, her owner, or owners, shall pay a penalty of $100 for each offense. High-pressure boilers, whether old or new, are made subject to the same rules of inspection and test as is prescribed in the first part of the ninth clause of the steamboat law of August 30, 1852.

Section twelve describes in detail the lights which shall be used at night, their number, significance and location; also details the precautions to be used in case of fogs, snow storms, or thick weather. The bill provides that all penalties may be recovered by suit for debt in any of the United States Courts—one-half for the benefit of the complainant, and one-half to the United States. The remaining sections apply to pilots, engineers and inspectors, defining their duties and correcting faults of the primary act. Judging by the feeling with which the bill was received by the House, it will meet with but little opposition.

THE FUNCTIONS OF THE PRESS.—It is too often forgotten by editors that in denouncing and opposing what they consider measures, or evils, or unworthy objects and claimants in any degree, they are in effect extending the publicity and notoriety which is desired in the premises. Many a vulgar, obscene, or licentious book, for instance, would quietly and innocently occupy the booksellers shelves, were it not for the advertising and notoriety afforded by indignant editors who sell the work in elaborate efforts to prove that it ought not to be sold or read.

The Courier and Enquirer remarks in this view:

The mere fact that an event has happened, a speech been delivered, or a letter written, is not sufficient reason that it should be brought prominently to the attention of more persons than those who were immediately concerned in it. Some public importance or some peculiar interest only justifies an editor for lifting what otherwise would be obscure in notoriety. The press has a duty in this regard, to itself as well as to the public. It does not become a power so important, an agent so powerful for good, to lend itself, even indirectly, to the schemes of those who for bad purposes, or with no worthy purpose, strive to force themselves upon public notice. The craving for notoriety is a very pitiful propensity; and yet there are journals of standing and influence that day after day give notoriety to persons whose only spring of action is that desire.

Conductors of newspapers are forgetful or reckless of the truth that notice gives importance. They too rarely practice upon the reverse of the old maxim, and let ill alone. To notice, even for the purpose of condemnation is to give importance, and many an evil has made head, which would have died in its inception, but for the eagerness of editors to be the first to direct attention to and denounce, what should have been passed over without a line. And of so matters of news movements and events of little consequence must be mentioned, it is certainly more becoming the proper self-respect of journalism, as well as better for the moral and mental tone of the community, that such trifles should be mentioned as trifles, and in the fewest words possible. But the truth is the conductors of newspapers look exclusively to their interests, and think little of their duties. They ask, what the public will read rather than what should be laid before it; and hence the notice given to inoffensive mediocrity and ephemeral absurdity; hence that when graver matters are passed by, we see the platitudes and the vagaries of Lucretia Mott, Ernestine Rose, Lucy Stone, and Cora Hatch paraded before the public eye, as if they were really of public importance.

River Matters.

The river was falling yesterday. The ground was sleety and the levee in a horrible condition for business.

Arrivals: From New Orleans for Memphis, the Ben Franklin; for St. Louis, the Ocean Spray; for Cumberland river, the Cherokee. From Louisville for New Orleans, the Chancellor. From St. Louis for New Orleans, the Golden Age. From Louisville for Memphis, the Southerner.

The Belfast left for New Orleans last evening with 2,700 bales of cotton on board.

The Ben Franklin leaves for New Orleans on Monday.

The Comet leaves for St. Francis river this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The Golden Age leaves for New Orleans at 5 o'clock this afternoon. She takes out a large quantity of cotton.

The Winchester leaves for Napoleon at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The Return is the packet this evening for White river.

The City of Huntsville is the Nashville packet to-day. She leaves at 2 o'clock.

The Southerner arrived last night with a heavy freight, having been detained by the snow storm night before last. She will leave for Louisville at 9 o'clock this morning. We are indebted to her officers for our latest dates from Louisville.

GEN. HASKELL AGAIN INSANE.—We clip the following paragraph from the Louisville Courier, of the 9th inst., from which it will appear that Gen. WM. T. HASKELL is again insane, and confined in the Lunatic Asylum at Hopkinsville, Ky:

Our attentive correspondent, "Broomstix," telegraphs us from Hopkinsville, under date of yesterday, that Gen. Wm. T. Haskell, of Tennessee, has again become deranged, and is now confined in the Lunatic Asylum at Hopkinsville.

It will be recollected that Gen. H. was recently dismissed from the Asylum at Lexington, cured. We understand, however, that he has been drinking hard ever since, and to whisky, probably, may be attributed the cause of his relapse, if, indeed, he was cured. His recent letters and poetical contributions to the papers certainly indicated an unsound mind.

GREAT RACE AT CHARLESTON.—A great four mile race was run over the Charleston (S. C.) course on Wednesday, which was won in two straight hearts, by Col. Jno. Campbell's Lizzie McDonald (Sue Washington.) beating the renowned Nicholas 1st, Tar River, and Shockoe. Time: 7:41—7:49½. Of course, it was a bruising race.

Alfred Marks, Esq., says:
"My wife has been sorely afflicted with Dyspepsia for the last year. During this time, she had spent many medicine with it second to surpassing rather than remove the disease, that we almost despaired of her recovery. Living in the country, she enjoyed all he advantages of pure air and exercise, yet each day she seem d to be most enfeebled. With some difficulty, I persuaded her to take your HOLLAND BITTERS, which, I am happy to state, has completely cured her."

Commercial Matters.

MEMPHIS DAILY APPEAL OFFICE, SATURDAY, February 13, 1858.

COTTON.—Operations were somewhat checked yesterday by the very bad weather and the almost impassable condition of our streets. To get a bale of cotton drawn from the Charleston depot to the landing costs from 25 to 50 cents a bale. Intelligence from New Orleans, stating that the market there was dull, caused buyers to be less freely in their operations; there was, however, considerable inquiry and a disposition evinced to do business. The rates of the previous day remained unchanged. We heard of sales of a list of 186 bales at 10 and 10⅛ cents, round.

The New Orleans Picayune, of the 6th inst., says:

An active impulse has been given to the demand by the Arabia's advices, which report an active market at Liverpool, with an advance of ⅛d in prices, and the sales already amount to about 5,000 bales, with an upward tendency in the rates.

February 8, Charleston, the advices per Arabia caused an active demand and an advance of ⅛@¼c.; Good Middling to Middling Fair, 11¼@11½c. Savannah, steamer's news caused a brisk inquiry, and an advance of ⅛@¼c.; Middling, 10⅝@10¾c.; Middling Fair, 11¼@11½c. February 9, Augusta, demand active, an advance of ⅛@¼c.; Interior to Ordinary, 8@9¾c.; Middling, 10¼@10½c.; Middling Fair, 11½c. Columbia, prices again advanced a full ¼c.; sales at 8¾@11 cents.
