COMMERCIAL HOTEL!
THE undersigned has the pleasure to announce to the public that he has this day become the proprietor, and has taken charge of that popular and well known house, the COMMERCIAL HOTEL, Memphis, Tenn. The office is under the charge of Mr. M. M. TYLER, late proprietor of the Brooks House, Grand Rapids, Mich.; one of the most thoroughgoing and accomplish d hostlers then in the South, assisted by Mr. JOHN C. McALISTER, formerly of Jackson, Miss., as Book Keeper and Cashier. In that department Mr. McAlister has no superior. Mr. J. A. BRADLEY, late of Natchez, Miss., is Assistant Clerk and general Collector. The cabinet department is under the superintendence of Mr. WILLIAM ROGAN, late of Vicksburg, Miss., long and well known as a Confectioner and for several years Proprietor of the Washington Hotel in Vicksburg. Suffice it to say that in this department Mr. Rogan has no superior. Mr. CHARLES FAIRBOTHER, for fifteen years Superintendent of the dining rooms of some of the first class Hotels in the United States, will be his Assistant. The dining room department is under the charge of Mrs. S. A. TYLER, a most elegant and accomplished lady. The Commercial Hotel is situated on Jefferson street, in the immediate vicinity of Walker's, surrounded by the largest and heavy t commission, produce and dry goods houses in the city. Backed and Omnibuses will at all times and at all hours, both day and night be ready to convey travelers and passengers to and from the river and Railroad Depots. The Railroad Ticket office, and the Telegraph office are both kept in the Commercial Hotel. The proprietor being thus surrounded by such an able and competent corps of assistants, flatters himself that he can give very general satisfaction. In a word, he will hurry up the cakes, and hand round the rolls. He will give you the ham and the lamb the jelly and the tam, in the true McMactian style, all the best in the world. He so hits a very liberal share of public patronage. G. D. MITCHELL,
