THE MCCORMICK

IMPROVED

New Steel Harvester and Binder!

With Square Pipe Frame.

A SUPERB MACHINE! A COMBINATION OF IMPROVEMENTS OF RARE EXCELLENCE FOUND ONLY IN THE McCORMICK.

THE LATEST NOVELTY.

The improvements are so numerous and so important on the McCormick flarvester and Binde for the coming season that we find it difficult to condense a description of them in reasonable bounds We want to assure our friends that the McCormick can be implicitly depended on not to introduce any new feature of improvement without first lesting it in the harvest field so thoroughly that us shadow of doubt remains as to it its real and positive worth. This is one of the characteristics of the McCormick that has caused it to be so much relied on in every emergency.

The Main frame is made of two-inch square pipe, a form that secures the greatest strength from given amount of metal. This frame is strengthened at the corners by malleable iron joint plates, boundantly securing it against any tendency to twist out of true, a weakness so common to frames and of round pipe or angle from, and which accounts for many of their defects.

The spring in the platform apron, similar to that on the butter canvas, has given great satisfaction. It is self-adjusting and maintains an equal degree of tension on the canvass, wet or dry, an aithout straining on the strains. When at the start the canvass is properly adjusted and buckles tight, no further attention is required throughout the day. This will be duly appreciated by those who know what a vexation it is to be continually adjusting the canvass.

The Main Wheel is made with straight netal spokes, east solid into the hub. The outer end of the spoke is provided with an adjusting not with a large finage bearing against the rim of the wheel. This adjusting not is easy to get at, and can be lightened quickly with an ordinary monkey whench. Farmers made machine men who have found, it necessary to take a main whose entirely out of a machine in order to higher the spoke nuts, will appreciate the construction of this school.

The Steel Sway Bay on the main frame between the platform and main wheel continues to giv he most unqualified satisfaction. Working on a senier pivot, accurately balanced in all its un-ions, it is driven by a steel pitman with adjustable brass boxes and connected to a steel cran We have substituted speel for iron or wood in every part of the machine where it can be done to

THE NEW GRAIN BINDER.

We present our patrons this year with an entirely New Binder, and yet one that has been tested from the beginning of harvest to its end, and which has proved itself under all circumstances a marvel of simplicity and accuracy in binding. By the adoption of this binder, we have dispenses with two gear wheels and sixteen other pieces, making the binder considerably lighter than here tofore. Its great simplicity is considerable in this, that all the adjustment of its parts being undeat the shop, no further adjustment in the Robi becomes necessary, and it can be depended on when set at work, to make bindless, which adding regularity and precision. It can be depended to make any of four different sizes of bundles, and in making these changes it does not disarrange and other part of the mechanism, or invoice adjustment of other parts, so common in other machines.

This new binder, whether viewed in the extreme simplicity of its mechanism, the harmony of all its parts, the accurate timing of all its movements, the merring certainty of its work in bluding with the least consumption of, and delivering the bundles with clock-like regularity, will be found, like the Harvester, far in advance of all competition.

These are the essentials, the very heart and soul of a first-class Harvester and Binder, giving life, energy, reliability and long life to it. Without such principles imbedded in the constitution of your machine, we care not by what name it is known, how many or how few its parts, or how woulderful peculiarities it may contain, it will soon degenerate into a consumptive, dyspectic or astimeti invalid on your hands, constantly needing your nursing and doctoring care, and only fit for fair work when the weather and other circumstance are favorable. What you want, is a machine that is a perfect athlete, fit for work under all circumstances and able to cope with all the difficulties of time, place, and circumstance. You can not afford to buy any other, and such a one is cheap at any price.

An examination of the foregoing points will show that they are found only in the M-Cornick.
