THE APPEAL.

The Methodist Episcopal Church South.

The Fourth General Conference of this body, says the Nashville Union, which is now holding its sessions in this city, is composed of one hundred and sixty delegates, representing, we believe, all the States that belong to the Southern wing of the church. They are a fine-looking, intelligent body of men, and are making fair progress with their business, which is necessarily slow in a deliberative body of that size. The patriarch of the Conference is Bishop Soule, to whom the Nashville Christian Advocate thus refers in a recent paragraph:

Bishop Soule.—The senior Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church was present at the opening of the conference—a fact that gave great pleasure to the body.

Bishop Soule is a remarkable man. He is now in the sixtieth year of his ministry, having entered the traveling connection January, 1799. He was a member of the first delegated general conference (1808), and drew up the restrictive rules as they now stand in the Discipline. We believe he is the only surviving member of that general conference.

He has exercised the office of a bishop longer than any other general superintendent of the M. E. Church in America. He was ordained in 1824, and has therefore exercised his functions thirty-four years.

Since his ordination the following bishops have passed away, viz: McKendree, George, Emory, Roberts, Hedding, Bascom, Capers and Waugh. His mind is still vigorous, and his attachment for the church of his choice unabated. May God yet spare this venerable man as a worthy example to his younger brethren!

Excitement in Kansas.

From the Richmond (Mo.) Mirror.]

The following communication addressed to the editor of the Brunswicker, by Thomas H. Starnes, Esq., of Butler, Bates county, was handed us by the bearer for publication.

If the facts alleged in the communication are fairly represented, it discloses a truly alarming state of affairs in Kansas, in the vicinity of Fort Scott. We have known Mr. Starnes for a number of years, and known him to be a reliable man. He was one of the original proprietors of the Gallatin Sun, and was subsequently connected with the Southern Democrat, published at Parkville, Platte county, Missouri.

We have not room for comment. Here is the letter:

BUTLER, Bates county, Mo., May 3, 1858.

EDITOR BRUNSWICKER: I have an opportunity to send you a few lines—excitement is too high for comment. "Civil War" has commenced in earnest. About ten days ago, the Abolitionists attacked the United States troops, near Fort Scott, (about thirty miles from this place,) wounding Capt. Anderson and others, and killing one of the troops. Since that time they have robbed and driven out all the proslavery men and all who sympathize with them, and all who voted for the Lecompton constitution. They spare all Black Republicans. There are several hundred of those driven out now in our county; but many are yet in the Territory, and are in fears for their safety. They have threatened all the border counties of Missouri. They doubtless are now in possession of Fort Scott, as to-day was the day for the United States District Court there, and they swear another shall never be held there.

I have just returned from the Territory. It is supposed they attacked and whipped three companies of troops last evening, on their road to assist the United States Marshal. There are 500 of them on the line of this county, twenty-five miles from this place. They have sent us word they would be in our county to-night. We believe they will come. Those who have been driven out, and many of our citizens are now fortifying themselves on the line, but in the States. It is impossible to give you an idea of affairs as they exist. Their numbers are increasing every hour. Many that we thought pro-slavery, have joined through fear, whilst many honest free State men have run from the Territory. In haste.

THOS. H. STARNES.

MARY MALONEY'S IDEA OF A LOVER.—"What are you sighing for?" said I to Mary Maloney.

"Oh, I don't know, ma'am, without it's because my heart feels happy."

"Happy! are you, Mary Maloney? Let me see; you don't own a foot of land in the world?"

"Foot of land, is it?" she cried with a hearty Irish laugh. "Oh, what a hand ye be after for joking; why I haven't a penny, let alone the land!"

"Your mother is dead?"

"God rest her soul, yes," replied Mary Maloney, with a touch of genuine pathos, "may the angels make her bed in heaven."

"Your brother is still a hard case, I suppose?"

"Ah, you may well say that. It's nothing but drink, drink, drink, and beating his poor wife, that she is—the creature."

"You have to pay your little sister's board."

"Sure, she isn't my sister, she's a good little girl, is Hinny, willing to do whatever I ask her. I don't grudge the money that goes for that."

"You haven't many fashionable dresses either, Mary Maloney."

"Fashionable, is it? O, yes, I put a piece of whalebone in my skirt, and me calico gown looks as big as the great ladies. But then ye says true; I hasn't but two gowns to me back, two shoes to me feet, and one bonnit to me head, having the ould one I gave me."

"You haven't any love Mary Maloney?"

"O, be off wid ye—ketch Mary Maloney getting a lover these days when the hard times is come. No, no, thank heaven, I ain't got that to trouble me yet—nor I don't want it."

"What, then, Mary, have you to make you happy? A drunken brother, a poor helpless sister, no mother, no father, no lover, why, where do you get all your happiness from?"

"The Lord be praised Miss, it growed up in me. Give me a bit of sunshine, a clean floor, plenty of work and a sup at the right time, and I'm made. That makes me laugh and sing; and then, if deep trouble comes, why—God help's! me, I'll try to keep my heart up. Sure it would be a sad thing if Patrick McGuire should take a fancy to me, his beard is gone and ax me, but the Lord within, "I'd try to bear up under it."

The last speech upset my gravity. The idea of looking upon a lover as an affliction was too droll. But she seriously alarmed, having before her the example of her sister's household, and her drunken brother.

☞ Mr. Shillaber tells the following remarkable story: "Speaking of accidents with a scare of a gun, regarding some gunning exploits, he told me of a singular instance of a gun hanging fire, which, were it not for his well known veracity, I should feel disposed to doubt. He had subscribed his gun at a grand rejoicing, and the cap exploded, but the piece not going off, he took it from his shoulder, looked down the barrel, and saw the charge just starting, when, bringing it to his shoulder once more, it went off and killed the squirrel.

IN THE STATE OF ARKANSAS.

THEY WILL PAY TAXES on lands, and attend to the redemption of forfeited lands.

They will make personal examinations and surveys of land, in any part of the State, and report to parties the character of the soil, timber, quantity of cleared land, and the proximity to markets, and generally information in regard thereto; and in cases where owners wish to bring their land into market, they will contract to have timber deadened and fenced, and will find purchasers for either the plantations or wild lands of those who desire to sell.

Much fine land in this State has been reserved from sale for the last five years, having been reported as swamp and overflowed, and since the passage of the last Congress, was confirmed to the State, and will be subject to entry in a few months. The list of these lands consists principally of those which have been reported in error, and which are generally of a superior character, having been first from their experience as practical surveyors, and all others has been engaged in the public business of this State for the last year, and the other in Railroad and Swamp Land Engineering, having thus acquired an extensive knowledge of land throughout the State, will be prepared to make good locations for persons desiring to invest money, when this confirmation of Swamp Land shall have been published to entry, either for a stipulated share of the land or commission upon the money invested.

Important to Planters & Millers.

FELTON'S IMPROVED

Self-Sharpening Portable Grist Mill.

An Improvement on all Other Patents.

THIS is one of the most valuable inventions of the day. It possesses all the qualifications requisite to make it valuable to the farmer. It is designed to supply a want that has long been felt by that portion of community. It is so simple in construction, that any person of ordinary skill can run it and keep it in order. The grinding surfaces are of the most durable character, harder than any tempered steel, and not liable to get out of order. It will grind wheat, corn, oats, buckwheat, drugs and spices, crush and grind corn and cob admirably, or shelled corn and oats, and cob may be well ground together. The small size frame mill, with two-horse power, will grind from five to eight bushels of superior corn meal per hour, and from eight to ten bushels of good food for stock, and requires but little attention, and may be run by gin-belt without increase of expense. The large size frame mill will grind over twice that amount per hour. The meal is not heated in grinding—a valuable feature. Prices are, for sample size, from $200. We have the right to sell the States of Tennessee, Kentucky, and a portion of Texas. A rare chance is here offered for competent and responsible men to engage in the sale of Mills.

County and State rights sold on accommodating terms. All orders, with the connection, addressed to the undersigned and Mills addressed to us will be promptly responded to.

FELTON'S SELF-SHARPENING Portable Grist Mill.

EVERY PLANTER HIS OWN MILLER.

FELTON is one of the most valuable inventions of the day. It possesses all the qualifications requisite to make it the greatest service to every planter, and is designed such to supply every other mill and to supply a great want long felt in every parts of the country. It occupies only 3 feet by 3, and weighs 300 pounds.

The great distinguishing features of this are, its simplicity, durability, utility and small cost, requiring no skill to keep it in order.

IT IS THE ONLY MILL IN THE UNION THAT WILL GRIND CORN AND COB IN THE EAR, WHICH MAKES AN INVALUABLE FEED FOR STOCK.

It is adapted to steam, water or horse power, grinding to perfection wheat, corn, oats, buckwheat, drugs and spices; grinds with two horse power from a eight bushels per hour of the finest quality of meal for family use and not bushel or prime food for stock, and never heats the meal—a valuable feature.

It contains more good qualities than all other mills combined, and only needs to be seen in operation to convince every judicious mind of its great usefulness and practicability. We challenge the world for a trial before competent judges, of any other mill ever invented. Hundreds of the subscribers have been in use for the last three years in the United States and all give entire satisfaction.
