THE APPEAL.

New York Celebration.

At New York on Wednesday the day continued fine throughout, and the celebration came off according to the programme, with less confusion than might have been reasonably anticipated from the extent of the preparations and the vast concourse of people assembled to witness the show. The procession was very long, and surpassed, in effectiveness, anything of the kind ever gotten up here. The military, especially, made a very brilliant display, and the several regiments which formed the line were greeted with cheers from all sides along the whole line of march. Other divisions of the procession, especially that embracing the several trades, were also greeted with demonstrations of applause.

Most conspicuous among these was the van bearing the telegraph instrument of Professor Higbee, and that with the Bathbun sewing machine, on which was a company of female operators at work. Printers, lithographers, engravers, carpenters, cabinet makers, with other trains were also appropriately represented. Cyrus W. Field rode in an open barouche and was greeted throughout with the waving of handkerchiefs and vociferous cheers. The procession did not all arrive at the Palace until nearly 6 o'clock. That building was crowded to its extent, the scene was one of the most imposing nature, the music superb, and the speeches appropriate and eloquent. The presentation speech to Mr. Field was made by Mayor Tiemann. It was neat and complimentary, and was responded to by Mr. Field. The oration of David Dudley Field was a masterly performance and elicited the repeated applause of the vast audience. During the ceremonies, two odes, written for the occasion, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, were sung by an immense choir, composed of several of our largest musical associations.

After the services at the Palace, the torch-light procession of the New York Fire Department took place. It was a magnificent display, and formed a fitting close of the day. Broadway was a blaze of fire from the Battery to Union Park, all the public buildings, and a large portion of the private ones being brilliantly illuminated, many of them displaying magnificent devices and transparencies. Illuminated lanterns and fireworks were displayed in all the public thoroughfares.

The municipal display of fireworks in the Park was imposing, and witnessed by an immense concourse of spectators. At one o'clock, the city was comparatively quiet, the whole show having passed off with remarkable freedom from disturbances of accidents.

THE DROUGHT IN MARYLAND.—There is a general complaint in this State of the want of rain. The Marlboro' Gleaner says:

At least one-half of the growing tobacco crop consists of small underling plants, which can never get to the house, and the remaining portion is sickly and spindling for the want of rain. The corn crop, too, is suffering severely, and a full crop cannot be made. Our most experienced planters think that it is too late for much improvement in tobacco, no matter how seasonable the weather may become.

The Somerset Union says: We are suffering severely from drought. The corn crop must be materially shortened, and vegetation of every kind looks parched. Unless we have rain shortly the stock in many parts of our county must suffer for water. Our farmers—or those who have not already finished—are busily engaged threshing out wheat and oats. The hum of the threshing machine may be heard in every quarter. But we understand that the yield of both these crops is very poor.

We copy the following from the Easton Star:

It continues very dry in this section, and rain is greatly needed. The corn is suffering very much, while the pastures are literally burnt up. The roads are dusty beyond anything we have witnessed for years.

BRIGHAM YOUNG'S DAMAGES.—Brigham is disposed to make a good thing out of the Mormon war. Though it has cost some millions of dollars to bring that respectable prophet to a sense of the duty he owes the Government he lives under, he has the impudence to present a bill against the War Department of $2,000 for the use of the "church pasture" for the army horses.

The pasture was fenced in at our time, but the fence, or rather mud wall, has long since fallen away, leaving scarcely a hundred feet of continuous wall at any one point; it contained scarcely a trace of grass, and its only redeeming feature was its proximity to the river, from which the troops could procure an abundant supply of water. General Johnston is undoubtedly perfectly willing and ready to pay a reasonable and adequate compensation for anything obtained from the people for the use of the army under his control, but the outrageous demand of the church for the mere occupancy of land to which they have in reality no title, is certainly a flagrant imposition upon the kind feelings of our friends of the army.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

QUARANTINE.—On Wednesday night last the quarantine station at Staten Island was attacked last night, by a mob of one thousand men, and several of the buildings from the large hospital buildings, the buildings used for yellow fever patients, and Dr. Thompson's private residence were entirely destroyed. Several other small buildings on the premises were also burned. Dr. Thompson rallied a force of sixty men, and succeeded in saving the building, but they were all driven out. One man of the Doctor's party was shot dead. Before firing the fever hospital, the mob removed the patients, on their mattresses, to a distance, laying them on the ground. No intelligence of this outrage reached the city until three o'clock this morning, when a body of the harbor police was dispatched to the scene, but they arrived too late to be of service. The inmates of the quarantine, together with the physicians, all fled, fearing the mob intended to take their lives.

TRADE WITH THE SOUTHWEST.—The Richmond Dispatch says: "A movement has been initiated in North Alabama, which, if consummated, will result in the transportation of the cotton crop of that section—several thousand bales—to Virginia markets. It now goes to Charleston, S. C., at a cost of three dollars and twenty-five cents per bale, and for the same money may be deposited in Lynchburg. The masters of steamers on the Holston and Tennessee rivers and the Presidents of the East Tennessee and Virginia railroad are in correspondence on the subject."

CELEBRATION.—At Buffalo, on Wednesday night, the grand Atlantic Telegraph cable banquet came off. A number of distinguished Canadians were present and participated in the festivities, which were of the most pleasant character. The ball was connected with the wire of the Western Union Telegraph Company. The message from London to Cyrus W. Field was received, via Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Cleveland, about midnight, and created the most extravagant manifestation of joy. Congratulatory messages were received from the mayors of several western cities.

NIGGERS.—The Mercury, of September 1, contains the opinion of the Attorney General of South Carolina, on the subject of the negroes hired here during last year. It is to the effect that the Africans be retained by the United States Marshal, and that they are not subject to the laws of South Carolina.

CHESTNUT HILL GRAMMAR SCHOOL,

Near LaGrange, Tenn.

AT the solicitation of friends and patrons, I have determined to establish a Family School of a limited number of scholars, on the premises of the undersigned, in the institution heretofore known as Chestnut Hill, in the Methodist church, a mission for the county drilling hals in the

English Branches, Classics, Mathematics, AND Modern Languages,

Preparatory to entering College. The private family school will be conducted on the plan of Chestnut Hill, free from all those evils unavoidable in the larger and promiscuous schools. It is the school for lads away from home, who need the care and training of a home, and in the family of the competent and conscientious teacher, whose duty and whose interest it is to care for them, and to be them in the stead of parents; no school is so private and retired, and yet so accessible, as a family school, in the institution to render it, in the best sense, a home school, a nursery for the capably drilling lads
