THE APPEAL.

SANDALPHON — THE ANGEL OF PRAYER.

BY E. W. LONGFELLOW.

Have you read the Talmud of old,
In the seventh the Sabbath have told
Of the limitless realms of the air?
Have you read it—the marvellous story
Of Sandalphon, the Angel of Glory,
Sandalphon, the Angel of Prayer?

How erect, at the outermost gates
Of the city Celestial he waits,
With his feet on the ladder of light,
That, crowd'd with angels unnumber'd,
By Jacob was seen, as he slumbered
Alone in the desert at night?

The Angels of Wind and of Fire,
Chant only one hymn and expire
With the sound e'er irresistible stress—
Expire in their rapture and wonder,
As harp strings are broken asunder,
By the touch they thrill to express.

But serene in the rapturous throng,
Unmoved by the rush of the song,
With eyes thoughtfully cast down,
As one who doth ponder and listen,
Sandalphon stands listening, breathless,
To source that sendeth forth below—

From the spirit its call earth that where,
From the sea a that response and response,
By the breezy and pa sions of prayer—
From the hearts that are broken with terror,
And weary with dragging the burden
To heavy for mortals to bear.

And he gathers the prayers as he stands
And they rise upon flowers in his hands,
Into garlands of purple and red;
And beneath the great arch of the portal,
Through the streams of the City Immortal,
Is wafted the fragrance they shed.

It is but a legend, I know—
A fable, a phantom, a show
Of the ancient Rabbinical lore;
Yet the old mediæval, strange superstition,
The beautiful, strange superstition,
But heralds one and heeds not the voice.

When I look from my window at night,
And the welkin above is all white,
All throbbing and pulsing with stars,
Among them majestic is standing
Sandalphon the angel, expanding
His pinions in nebulous bars.

And the legend, I feel, is a part
Of the hunger and thirst of the heart,
The aspiration of the soul for the beyond,
That prompts all the efforts sublime;
The golden spring-water of Eden,
To quench its fever and pain.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

Steffani, the new tenor, has not met with the same success in Il Trovatore as he did in Rigoletto, at the New York Academy of Music. His vocalization is said to be inferior to Brignoli's style of performing the part. M'lle Gassier's "Lucia" was the next great card of Maretzek.

M'lle Colson's second appearance as "Marie," pleased the critics very much, one of whom says: "Her voice is a pure, rich, sympathetic and powerful soprano, and the witchery of her manner and acting, the beauty of her eyes, and the exquisite expression of her lips, must be seen to be credited."

Burton gives alternate performances of tragedy and comedy, with Strakosch's opera troupe. Mr. J. B. Roberts has made his first appearance there, and in New York, in "Sir Giles Overreach." The opinion concerning him is favorable, but the critics await further displays ere giving a decided opinion. Mark Smith and Miss Ada Parker are two leading performers at Burton's.

Laura Keene is filling her theatre nightly by her excellent presentation of sterling comedies. She has one of the best comedy companies in the world. The School for Scandal was last given with this cast: "Sir Peter," W R. Blake; "Sir Oliver," Burnett; "Joseph Surface," Coulstock; "Charles," Sothern; "Crabtree," Jefferson; "Sir Benjamin," Peters; "Lady Teazle," Miss Laura Keene; "Mrs. Candour," Mrs. Blake.

The Bourcicaults are playing Jessie Brown at Niblo's.

English opera is the "thing" at Wallack's, but it succeeds only tolerably. The Tribune, however, speaks very favorably of it.

The Ravels are now in Philadelphia; will play a short engagement at Niblo's, and spend the winter in New Orleans and Havana.

The Boston theatre has opened with Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Davenport, Miss Charlotte Crampton, Mr. Marshall, Mr. Edwin Adams Mr. Holland, Mr. Charles Bass, Mrs. France, Miss Mary Devlin, as the leading actors.

John Drew has just concluded a highly successful engagement at Nashville, and commences another which promises to be equally successful, at the Memphis Gaiety, to-morrow night.

Miss Logan is at Cincinnati; Hackett at St. Louis. On dit that the Baron has received overtures from some of the London managers to revisit England. "On" does not always speak the truth.

Mr. Murdoch opens in Nashville early this week.

Mr. W. A. Chapman has married Mrs. Silsbee, the actress.

Herr Formes, the celebrated basso, is out West, giving concerts.

Yankee Addams and Miss Caroline Chapman are in California. Conner and Mrs. Wood, ditto.

Sir William and Lady Don have separated, so it is reported.

A new and splendid Indian play has been written for Mr. Neafie, the tragedian.

Mrs. McMahon is to be one of the earliest "stars" at the Adelphi, Troy, next season. She also plays an engagement at the Pittsburg theatre.

Miss Cordelia Cappell has been engaged to play the leading business at Porter's theatre, Pittsburg.

Mr. Charles Fisher has joined the company at the Howard Athenæum, Boston; a Mr. Geo. Jordan Wallack is also playing there.

Sallie St. Clair is at Toronto, Canada.

Mr. James Anderson and Miss Ellsworthy were starring, at last dates, at the London Standard theatre. They were to leave for the United States on the 14th ult.

M'me Bosio is engaged at the St. Petersburg opera.

The Washington theatre is opened under the management of Mr. Ford. C. W. Taylleure is the acting, and Mr. Jos. M. Dawson, stage manager. Booth has just closed a brilliant engagement. The Florences followed him.

One of the little boys playing with the Keller troupe at Buffalo, while descending from the gallery to the parquette upon a rope, missed his hold and fell to the floor, receiving severe injuries.

Solomon M. Wilson, Esq., of Chicago, formerly of Boston, has translated from the German a tragedy by the author of Ingemar, entitled The Gladiator of Ravenna.

Religion of Revolutionary Men.

The following, from the pen of the great Lamartine, will explain better than anything else, perhaps, the cause of the failures which have always attended the efforts of the French people to establish a republic. Every free government must be based on virtue, and when its founders are cautious to religion it cannot be expected that their fabric of State will stand:

LAMARTINE ON THE RELIGION OF REVOLUTIONARY MEN.—I know—I sigh when I think it—that hitherto the French people have been the least religious of all the nations of Europe. Is it because the idea of God—which arises from all the evidences of nature, and from the depth of reflection—being the profoundest and weightiest idea of which human intelligence is capable, and the French mind being the most rapid, but the most superficial, lightest, the most unreflective of all European races, this mind has not the force and severity necessary to carry far and long the greatest conception of the human understanding?

Is it because our governments have always taken upon themselves to think for us, to believe for us, and pray for us? Is it because we are and have been a military people, a soldier nation, led by kings, heroes and ambitious men, from battle field to battle field, making conquests and never keeping them, ravaging, dazzling, charming and corrupting Europe, and bringing back to their country, with glory, lightness and impiety of the camp to the fireside of the people?

I know not, but certain it is that the nation has an immense progress to make in serious thought if she wishes to be free. If we look at the characters, compared as regards religious sentiments, of the great nations of Europe, America, and even Asia, the advantage is not for us. The great men of our country live and die, forgetting completely the only idea for which it is worth living and dying; they live and die looking at the spectator, or at most at prosperity.

Open the history of America, the history of England, and the history of France; read the great lives, the great deaths, the great martyrdoms, the great words at the hour when the rulling thought of life reveals itself in the last words of dying—and compare.

Washington and Franklin fought, spoke, suffered, always in the name of God, for whom they acted; and the Liberator of America died confiding to God the liberty of the people and his own soul.

Sydney, the young martyr of patriotism, guilty of nothing but impatience, and who died to expiate his country's dream of liberty, said to his jailor: "I rejoice that I die innocent towards the king, but a victim resigned to the King on High, to whom all life is due."

The republicans of Cromwell only sought the way of God even in the field of battle. Their politics were their faith, their religion, their prayer, their death a psalm. Our hearts, even, feel that God was in all the movements of these great peoples.

But cross the sea, traverse La Manche, come to our times, open our annals, and listen to the last words of the great political actors of the drama of our liberty. One would think that God was enthroned from the soul that his name was unknown in the language. History will have the air of an atheist, when she recounts to posterity this annihilation, rather than death, of celebrated men in the greatest year of France! The victims only have a God; the tribunes and fetters have none.

Look at Mirabeau! on the bed of death. "Crowns are of flowers," said he, "intoxicate me with perfumes, and let me die to the sound of delicious music!" Not a word of God or of his soul. Sensual pleasure! He desired only supreme sensations; a free voluptuousness is his agony.

Contemplate Madame Roland, the stoic, big-hearted woman of the Revolution, on the cart that conveyed her to death. She looked contemptuously on the benefited people who killed their prophets and sybils. Not a glance towards heaven. Only one word for the earth she was quitting—"O, Liberty!"

Approach the dungeon door of the Girondins. Their last night is a banquet; their only hymn, the Marseillaise!

Follow Camille Desmoulins to his execution. A cool and indecent pleasantry at the trial, and a long imprecation on the road to the guillotine, were the last two thoughts of this dying man on his way to the last tribunal.

Hear Danton on the platform of the scaffold, at the distance of a line from God and eternity. "I have had a good time of it; let me go to sleep." Then to the executioner, "you will show my head to the people—it is worth the trouble!" His faith, annihilation; his last wish, vanity. Behold the Frenchman of this latter age!

What must one think of the religious sentiments of a free people whose great figures seem thus to march in procession to annihilation, and to whom that terrible minister, death itself, recalls neither the threatenings nor promises of God!

The republic of these men without a God has quickly been stranded. The liberty worthy so much heroism and so much genius, has not found in France a conscience to shelter it in God to avenge it, a people to defend it against the sibleism which has been called glory. All ended in a soldier and some apostate republicans travestied into courtiers. Atheistic republicanism cannot be heroic. When you terrify it, it bends; when you would buy it, it sells itself. Who would take any need? The people—ungrateful, and God nonexistent? So finish atheistic revolutions.

Medical Butcheries.

If the operating tables of our hospitals and surgeons' halls could speak, they would tell of many an unnecessary mutilation of the human body. We would say to all sufferers from Cancer, Scrofula, Mercurial Disorders, and all other flesh-consuming maladies, do not submit yourselves to the surgeon's knife until you have first made a fair trial of BRAGG'S ARCTIC LINIMENT. In ninety-nine cases out of every hundred a cure would be effected without pain or inconvenience. This invaluable remedy is for sale at all respectable Drug Stores.

Bragg's Arctic Liniment is for sale by all respectable Druggists throughout the country. sep28-dawlw

It is quite a Common Observation,

THAT consumption is the chief cause of this climate, carrying upon old and young, and scattering widely its shafts of destruction. But all who have ever travelled through the South and West, or, indeed, through any portion of the interior of the country, must have noticed that there is a disease far more prevalent among Americans than consumption. Day after day they are alternately shaking as with a nervous fit, or rendered helpless with fever. Most of them find an early grave. Those who live year seen or experienced this disease, will fall to appreciate that we allude to what is called Fever and Ague. The discovery of a remedy for this evil omit, and should be considered a public benefactor, and Dr. J. HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED BITTERS, is the remedy, we know from personal trial.

For sale by Druggists, and dealers generally, everywhere. sep28-dlawlw

Ladies Read This,

FROM a Physician who has practised since 1826—(too well known for comment):

Prof. DR GRATH, Philadelph's—Gentlemen: At intervals during thirty years past, my wife has been subject to Rheumatism of the most violent cast—(say four times a year)—sometimes so severe as to make it necessary to administer large doses of the tincture of gentian and morphia, and to rock her like an infant in a arm-chair to induce any repose. Having frequent correspondence with my son, (No. 102 Chestnut street, of your city,) I informed him of an attack she had about the middle of last month, (January,) which was of such severity as to completely paralyze the system. He, in anxiety for his mother's welfare, sent me a bottle of your Electric Oil; but as I am one of the cautious of medicine in our place, and not a proselyte to any kind of patent medicine, I did hesitate to give it a trial; however, on reflection, I concluded to try it, which I did, of persistence, the city up to the letter, and after the third or fourth application she became rather passive, and before one-third of the bottle was used, not a single vestige of the disease remained in the system, and she still continues well, although she rode out a distance of fourteen miles without a renewal of any of the symptoms. I therefore feel it my duty, for the sake of suffering humanity, and also justly believing that merit, under all circumstances, should be rewarded, to forward this testimonial. I am, yours, truly,

JOSEPH P. BLENSTON, M. D.,
New Gretna, P. O., Burlington Co., N. J.

P. S.—Any communication for me will be received by addressing to the care of my son, (merchant,) 102 Chestnut street.

RHEUMATISM.—Another wonderful cure was that of Mrs. Montgomery, center of Federal street and Long Lane, who "was almost bent double." Everybody in the whole neighborhood knew her for many years past.

FILES.—Further evidence of the magic and almost miraculous power of Dr Grath & Co.'s "Electric Oil" may be seen in the case of Harvey Mead River street, below Spruce, Camden, who was much afflicted and now says he "does much more work since using the Oil, that for many years previous." Ask C Sector, Esq., Ex Mayor of Camden, also.

TRAITORS.—For this complaint, also, gathering in the head and ear-ache, nothing can surpass the "Electric Oil," as demonstrated to hundreds of instances.

Respectable dealers in various places are authorized by Dr Grath & Co. to sell the genuine Oil, with written signatures of Dr Grath & Co and A R Smith chemist.

Principal Office, 25 South Eighth street, Philadelphia, three doors below Chestnut, near the green "Mermaid Tavern."

Price 75c, 63c, 75c, and $1 per bottle. Large bottles ten times the cost.

This Great Remedy can be had of the agent here Office, 148 Main st. Price, 50 cents and $1.

DYSPEPSIA AND FITS.

Dr. O. Phelps Brown,

THE great cause of CONSUMPTION, was for several years so badly afflicted by Dyspepsia, that for a part of the time he was confined to his bed. He was eventually cured by a prescription furnished by a young clairvoyant girl. This prescription, given by a mere child, while in a state of trance has cured everybody who has taken it, never having failed once. It is equally as certain in cases of Fits as of Dyspepsia. The ingredients may be found in any Drug Store. I will send this valuable prescription to any person on receipt of one stamped envelope. Address,
