THE APPEAL.

Plantation Work for October.

From the Cotton Planter and Soil.]

COTTON.—This is still the pressing business of the plantation for the month, and every moment should be devoted to it that can be spared from other urgent work, that must necessarily receive the planter's attention. Pick now with all your available force, while the weather is dry and warm, as are long the short days of winter, with the chilling winds, will be upon you, when cotton picking becomes a tedious and disagreeable business.

CORN AND PEAS.—The housing of these crops is a part of the urgent work alluded to above, and should now be attended to as soon as possible, as much waste results from allowing them to remain longer in the field. It is quite an object in this country—by which we mean the cotton States—to put up corn in such a way as to protect it from the ravages of the weevil. This, however, can never be accomplished with any degree of certainty, until our planters get in the habit of constructing corn houses that will first protect their corn from rats. Whatever of care and attention may be necessary for the construction of a barn or bin, for the protection of your wheat, not less, surely, should be devoted to the construction of your corn houses, for the protection of your corn—to the planter a much more valuable grain.

Pick your peas and put them up in a close, house, in the hull and dry, and the weevil will do them little or no injury. Pick and weigh them up carefully as you do your cotton; at planting time you will get a bushel for every 100 pounds.

SWEET POTATOES.—This crop should be housed towards the close of this month. There is an old notion prevalent among planters of Indian origin, we suppose, that "frost should kill the vines first." It is immaterial in what way you put up your potatoes; you have no guaranty that they will keep sound if the vines be killed by frost before you dig them. Frost, sufficiently hard to kill the vines, will freeze the surface of the earth to a sufficient depth to chill and seriously injure many of the roots. Do not delay digging beyond the 20th in this latitude.

An Extraordinary Case of Elopement.

From the Philadelphia News.]

During the past week the upper portion of society has been thrown into a state of excitement by an extraordinary case of elopement. It appears that a Jewish gentleman, named Mercer Sultzkelter, together with his young and handsome wife, aged 16 years, or thereabouts, came to this city from the goodly city of Memphis, Tennessee, on a visiting tour, and the husband intended to purchase good. They arrived in town one day last week, and took up as their lodging place, the American House. Now it appears that at that time there lived in the "American" a man named James E. Bilger, and lady, of this city. Mrs. Sultzkelter, who, as we said before, was young and pretty, attracted the attention of Mr. Bilger. Notes were passed between them, and during the absence of Mr. S., of Memphis, interviews were held. At these interviews it was agreed that they should leave. And so they did, and that rather unexpectedly to their respective partners.

Information was left at the Detective office, opposite, that they had left on Friday, about eleven o'clock, A. M. The ingenuity of the Detectives were set to work, and resulted in the arrest of the parties on Monday evening, at the house of Ida Penrose, where they had been ever since Friday. Mr. Bilger was taken before Alderman Freeman, and held to answer in the sum of one thousand dollars. The Western gentleman took back his guilty partner to his heart, and left rather suddenly for home on Monday night, on the eleven o'clock train west. We learn that the cause of the elopement on the part of the lady, was that she was forced to marry Mr S., and did not love him. The husband says that when he arrives home he will immediately return for the purpose of prosecuting Mr. Bilger.

OREGON.—We are indebted to our Portland correspondent for the following news from the Yakima country:

The express arrived at Fort Vancouver on the 19th of August, with interesting news from the command of Major S. Garnett, of the 9th Infantry, now on a campaign in the Yakima country. He marched from Fort Simcoe on the 10th. After being a few days on the march, he ordered out Lieut. J. K. Allen with fifteen men on a night expedition, who succeeded in surprising a camp of the hostiles at two o'clock in the morning, capturing twenty-one men, fifty women, with a corresponding number of children, seventy horses and twenty-five head of cattle. We regret to say Lieut. Allen was killed in the fight.

Three of the prisoners were identified as among the murderers of the miners killed last June, in Robertson's party, and, after a drumhead court-martial, were hung by order of Maj. Garnett. The effect of this brilliant little affair upon the enemy must be important, and our mining population must be gratified to see one instance of punishment of the Indians for their murderous acts. The message sent by Major Garnett to Anahim, upon the reception of his impudent letter by the hands of Pearson, was contemptuous and decided. We are glad to see that he has followed it up in this manner. We shall await with much interest the further results of this expedition.

Lieut Jesse K. Allen, of the 9th Infantry, the gallant young officer who was killed in this affair, was born in Tennessee, was appointed a cadet at West Point, from Illinois, and graduated in 1855. His death is greatly to be deplored; but he has met the death of a true soldier, and in the performance of meritorious and difficult service. With only fifteen men he accomplished the work, and conducted the march with so much celerity, silence and skill, as to foil and surprise even a savage foe. Though but three years in the army, he had already, by his service in this frontier, gained a reputation for zeal, energy and efficiency, and the manner of his death has but added to and confirmed this reputation.

You can speak well for the golden prospects of Washington Territory and British Oregon. The facts will bear you out. We will freeze to them, for one, to-day. He has greatly endeared himself to the church here, and has won the increased respect and esteem of the public by his truly Christian deportment and his ministerial ability.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

THE NEGRO ABDUCTION CASE.—The abducted negro boy was taken before the police magistrate at Chatham, yesterday, and questioned by him. He manifested much indignation at the course taken by the negroes, and demanded that he should be allowed to return to his master. The magistrate asked him: "Do you want to go back South, or to go with these gentlemen?"—pointing to the negroes. The boy replied that he didn't want to go with them—dirty niggers; he wanted to go home. Nothing different could be got from him, and he was finally remanded to their custody, which is equivalent to his being spirited out of town and secreted. The case has been hard, guilty of the gross outrage has been repeatedly owned to us as a sorry specimen of a man, and this act of his fully sustains that representation. He manifestly fears the negro population there, and for that reason dares not do his duty, as humanity and justice would dictate.

A private telegram from Chatham, has been received at this office, stating that the boy can not be got. The police magistrate has taken no information against some of the principal rioters, and the trial has been set down for to-day. In the meantime the matter has been laid before the Attorney-General of the Province for his action. The Great Western Railway Company are, we suppose, responsible for the boy, but they seem to be either afraid to act, or unwilling, so up to the present time they have taken no measures to secure his recovery. If they deem the through travel from the Southwest of any value to them, they will be wise enough to use their endeavors to secure the recovery of the boy.—Detroit Free Press, September 30.

PARTIES AT THE NORTH ON THE TARIFF.—The Richmond South, in an elaborate article, describing the position of parties at the North, speaks as follows:

The tariff question at the North, with the exception of a few Free Trade Democrats, balanced by a few Southern Protectionists, are in favor of a protective or a revenue tariff, with incidental protection, is obvious from the following extracts from their most recent avowals of opinion upon that subject.

A very large Democratic meeting in Philadelphia, which recently adopted sound resolutions on the subject of slavery, added: "We endorse and re-affirm the long established Democratic doctrine of a tariff for revenue, with a judicious incidental protection to our home industry."

The Rock Republicans of New York denounce the system of "borrowing" by the Federal Government, and call for "some comprehensive and adequate system of finance." What this but a preparation for an increase of the tariff, since the idea is the only financial alternative of "borrowing?"

The American party of New York proposes to "Americanize the Government," by "protection for home labor and home manufactures, and a due encouragement and protection of our established works of internal improvement." How can this policy be carried out without a protective tariff?

LEGAL TENDER.—Gold and silver dollars, of the United States coinage, are a legal tender to any amount. Three cent pieces to the amount of thirty cents only; and five, ten, twenty-five and fifty cent pieces to the extent of five dollars.

The silver dollar has disappeared mysteriously, and few could tell how, or what has become of them. The mystery is now solved. To give place to the gold dollar the silver one has been melted up and coined into half dollars and thus the government has imposed upon us an immense quantity of money, which is only a legal tender to a small amount. We are completely flooded with silver of this denomination. The banks will only receive an dollars on deposit, and yet on it is that our merchants have to sell this specie, either sheep, at two per cent. discount.

Our mint, we believe, has not coined silver pieces above the dimentsion of fifty cents for two years.

The Custom House will not receive anything but gold for its duties, and still the coinage of our mint are kept at work coining gold to a $300 dollar work, while the uncurrent commodity.

If we had our old genuine currency, this would not be the case. The Custom House would be compelled to take it, for no amount the law, and there would be no such intrinsic value.

We consider this a great act of injustice to the people, and we call upon our legislators to have the matter investigated, and if possible, correct it.—Louisiana Courier
