LETTER LIST.—The official list of letters remaining in the Memphis Post Office, will be found in this morning's paper.

Matthew, 25th chapter, 46th verse: And these shall go away into everlasting punishment: but the righteous into life eternal.

Job, 32d chapter, 8th verse: But there is a spirit in man: and the inspiration of the Almighty giveth them understanding.

Mr. THOS. GALES FOSTER, editor of the Banner of Light, Boston, and an entranced speaking medium, will discuss the foregoing texts of Scripture, on Sunday morning, at Odd Fellows' Hall, at 10½ o'clock, and 7½ o'clock at night.

THANKS.—Our thanks are due to the courteous BORDEN of Adams & Co.'s Express for late New York and Nashville papers.

CONCEALED WEAPON.—For carrying a weapon hid about his person A. C. BEATTIE was yesterday fined ten dollars by the Recorder.

TENNESSEE BONDS.—At the New York Stock Exchange, on Tuesday, twenty-two thousand Tennessee Sixes were sold at ninety-four cents—this is another advance.

RECORDER'S COURT.—The Recorder had nineteen persons before him yesterday; many of his best customers have been absent this week, being attracted by the bustle at the fair.

HELD FOR TRIAL.—THWEAT, the youth who so savagely attacked MRS. WEISBICH with an axe on Thursday, was yesterday held by Esq. HORNE for trial at the Criminal Court.

CRIMINAL COURT.—This Court is taking steps for a long session; it adjourned yesterday at noon without doing any business of importance.

☞ Messrs. W. R. STRANGE & Co. have laid upon our table Ballou's Dollar Monthly Magazine and Gody's Lady's Book for November.

☞ We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of TYLER & Co., who have opened a magnificent gallery of art at 219 Main street, for the purpose of making a new style of pictures at low prices. 11

FIXED.—JOSEPH BUCKLEY—in connection with the celebrated troupe—was yesterday fined by the Recorder for having three carts running in the city without licenses. He had to pay fifteen dollars a cart—dear.

LATE HOURS.—E. WOLFE, who has a liquor saloon on Main street, between Adams and Washington, was fined ten dollars yesterday by the Recorder, for selling liquor after eleven o'clock at night.

IMPROVEMENT.—The street commissioner, Mr. MILLER, is making a great improvement on Main street, near Odd Fellows' Hall, where he is laying down a gutter, using for the purpose blocks of stone from the Navy Yard.

REMOVED.—Our advertising column contains a notice of the removal of J. E. CHADWICK, Esq., from the store beneath our office to the office on Main street, two doors below Madison, lately occupied by the Southern bank.

DISCHARGED.—CONNOLLY, who was accused of abducting Miss BARRETT, and his three friends, indicted as accomplices, were before the Criminal Court yesterday, to answer for the offense; but, none of the prosecutors appearing, they were discharged.

SHIPPED.—The amount of cotton shipped from this port during the last week was 7,749 bales, and the bluffs are loaded with thousands of bales more awaiting transit. There is a fine chance now for light boats to do a large business between the ports of Memphis and both New Orleans and St. Louis.

RECOVERING.—We are glad to be able to state that Mr. SAM. RICHARDS, who was so severely injured by the fall of his horse, at the Fair grounds, on Friday, was yesterday able to converse and take food. It is thought that he will not long be confined to his room, as no bones are broken.

THE CUSTOM HOUSE.—Under this imposing name Messrs. M. R. MORTON & Co. have opened a drinking and eating saloon on Union street in the building formerly occupied by Mr. DEMPEWOLF. They intend to keep at all hours of the day and night all the nicest delicacies of the season. Remember the CUSTOM HOUSE and see their advertisement in another column.

GREAT AUCTION SALE.—To-morrow CATCK & Son make an important sale of real estate and other property belonging to Capt. A. B. SHAW. On Union street will be sold his valuable residence, with all the handsome furniture it contains, besides a number of valuable building lots. On Monroe, Gayoso, and Madison streets; also, lots of a most desirable character will be offered for sale. This is a most important sale, and capitalists and others will find it an excellent opportunity to make investments.

☞ We had the pleasure, yesterday, of meeting the Hon. J. S. YERGER, Circuit Judge for the river counties of Mississippi. On Wednesday last he concluded the session of the Tunica Court, and to-morrow will commence his Court in Coahoma. Although not as sound in politics as we could desire, Judge YERGER is confessedly one of the best legal minds of Mississippi, and is withal a most agreeable gentleman.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—About five o'clock last evening, as the special train on the Ohio Railroad, that runs backwards and forwards to the fair, was starting out, several boys got upon the cow-catcher. The conductor, Mr. S. B. JONES, desired them to get off, but they paid no attention. As a number of boys have been in the habit of misbehaving in this manner, risking their own lives, and annoying the officers of the road, Mr. JONES, with a view to stop these dangerous frolics of the children, caught up a bucket of water and threw the contents at those who were seated on the cow-catcher. One of them, who is a son of MRS. PITMAN, who lives on Market street, over the bayou, either jumped or fell from his dangerous position, and the wheels passed over his leg, almost severing it at the thigh. He was not killed on the spot.

Dr. TAYLOR attended upon him, but there was no expectation of a recovery. The little fellow asked his brother, who was one of the party, to kiss his mother for him. The scene was a most painful one. The conductor was taken into custody by officer CUNNINGHAM.

On Friday last we went to the fair ground on this train, and on that occasion saw something of the reckless manner in which a number of boys exposed themselves to the utmost danger. As the train came in on that occasion, several of the little fellows of from eight to ten or twelve years old, stood on the track near the platform, as if to try how near they dare let the engine come to them. One boy stood so much behind, that the bystanders, in alarm, called out to him to jump out of the way, which he leisurely did. Mr. JONES we have known some time. He is a gentleman of most inoffensive manners, and one of the last persons we know who would wilfully do a fellow creature an injury.

We learn that the train was not in motion when the water was thrown, but started immediately afterwards. It was moving very slowly, and had not passed its own length when the accident happened.

Port of Memphis.

River News.

The river still continues to fall. It was declining yesterday at an accelerated rate, and pilots are having a difficult task in navigation to perform. The landing was lively with business yesterday; the dust made loading a very irksome labor.

To-morrow, according to intelligence that has reached the agents, the Philadelphia will again be at her landing. She is a splendid boat to travel on, roomy, commodious, and well fitted up. Her steward gives a good account of himself at the table, and the ever attentive Captain Marshall leaves no effort unmade for the comfort of his guests, while his skill and watchful care insures their safety

The Langley is the Napoleon packet; she will leave at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, with the mail for Napoleon. Passengers by the Langley will find her punctual to her time, while Capt. Worman and Sam. Woods will be lavish of their polite attentions.

The Ben Franklin is loading for New Orleans. She is a splendid boat, and leaves at four o'clock to-morrow evening.

The officers of the Hiawatha report 7 feet scant at Plum Point, and 6½ feet at the foot of Island Eighteen.

The Little Rock Gazette of October 2, reports:

Near low water mark and on a stand. The light steamers Rough and Ready and Lightfoot are now plying between this place and Napoleon. The Rough and Ready is due, and may soon be expected from Napoleon.

Since writing the above we learn that the Rough and Ready sunk, on her downward trip, near the White river bar off.

From same paper of October 9:

At low water, and no prospect of a rise. The Rough and Ready, the sinking of which we mentioned last week, we are happy to learn has been raised.

THE WEATHER.—We had superb weather yesterday, but the dust was as unmerciful as ever.

THAT TRUNK.—That magnificent trunk so much admired at the fair, and which it seems our reporter overlooked, was from the manufactory of Mr. GREENBERG, 244 Main street.

AFTER DARK.—Most readers of the current literature remember what interest was created by WILKIE COLLINS' "Dead Secret," the most original, striking and interesting work of fiction, that has appeared since "Jane Eyre." The same writer has published a new work, which is presented to the public of the United States by the New York house of DICK & FITZGERALD. It is entitled "After Dark" and presents that interest of plot, that delicate analysis of character, and that most truthfulness of principle, so interestingly conspicuous in the "Dead Secret."

THE BUCKLEYS—ASH'S THEATRE.—Every individual in the multitude who heard the BUCKLEY's burlesque of the opera of Sonnambula last night, will join us in pronouncing it the chef d'oeuvre of the tit bits this family of geniuses have thus far presented to us, and we know the announcement will be hailed with pleasure that it will be repeated to-morrow (Monday) night. The music was exquisitely rendered, and the burlesque indescribably laughable. Miss GOULD, FRED. BUCKLEY, BISHOP BUCKLEY, SWAINE BUCKLEY, BARQUIN, MULLEN and CLARK, merit all the encomiums the musical world has showered upon them. Indeed, we doubt whether this opera has ever been produced here more creditably in white faces, and the paraphrase of the sentiment, and the darkie gems interpolated now and then, add greatly to its comic interest. The old fashioned part of the entertainment, in which SWAINE BUCKLEY's banjo and bones, FRED. BUCKLEY's violin, and BISHOP BUCKLEY's mouth, take so prominent a part, as usual was unique, and entirely of a higher order than contemporary bands aspire to.

"His command of language was immense. With him did the creative spirit of poetical diction of England—the art of producing rich effects by familiar words. The longest and most lofty period of language became, under his touch, flexible. His versification in the same manner, while it gave the first model of that sweetness and precision which, after Pope, seemed almost to be alone attained, exhibited at the same time the last example of nobleness, firmness, (and) variety of pause and of sound. * * He was, perhaps, the greatest of those whom we have designated as the critical poets."—Edinburgh Review.
