THE APPEAL.

THE SNACK IN SCHOOL.

The following incident in a district school is told by Mr. Orison Blanchard, of New York, President of the Manhattan Insurance Company, in a postical address before "The Literary Society," in Stockbridge, Massachusetts, his native home:

A district school, not far away,
'Mid Berkshire hills, one winter's day,
Was humming with the wonted noise
Of three-score mingled girls and boys;
Some few upon their task intent,
But those on further mischief bent;
The while the master's drowsy mood
Was fastened on a copy-book;
When suddenly, behind his back,
Rose sharp and clear a venomed SNACK!
As if were a battery of lips!
Let all in one tremendous like!
"Who's that?" the startled master cries!
"That, sir," a little boy replies,
"Walt William Willis, if you please!"
"I thought 'twas Walt William Willis!"
"With treen to make a statue thrill,
The master thundered "Walter, Will!"
"Come up!" and when in his track,
With slow chattels at his back,
Will hang his head in fear and shame,
And to the awful presence came—
A great, green, bashful simpleton,
The butt of all good-natured fun,
With smile suppressed, and knit browed,
The thoughtless laughter-loving crowd
Thus, my bright pupil, should
Be guilty of an act so rude!
Before the whole we intend to shoot—
What evil genius put you at it?"
"Twas she, herself, sir," sobbed the lad,
"I didn't mean to be so bad—
But when Susannah shook her curls,
And whispered I was a pair of girls,
I couldn't stand it, sir, at all,
But spoiled myself for the spot!
I know—boo-hoo—I ought to not,
But, somehow, from her locks—boo-hoo—
I thought she kind of wished me to!"

Correspondence of the Appeal.

MARSHALL, TEXAS, Nov. 5, 1858.

Some days since I was in Paris, Texas, Lamar county, the headquarters of the El Paso Railroad Company. This is the main trunk to connect with the Cairo and Fulton, the Memphis and Little Rock, the Gaines' Landing and Ouachita Railroads, at a point called Texarkana on Red river. The report of the President of this road, in May last, presents very many interesting items, but I think there is very little vitality about it—enough to save the charter perhaps; when that's said all's said. There is no portion of country that needs a railroad outlet half as bad as Eastern and Northern Texas. Transportation absorbs all the profits, but there is no money to build roads with. The curses here against New Orleans are loud and deep. Poor city! how much it has to stand up under, all because her merchants will not work for nothing. There is no feature new as to the Pacific Railroad, the parties here are ripe for a compromise, that is, they are willing to give the road up to any body that will pay its debts. I now take leave of Texas, and in so doing do not know that I could furnish for your columns anything more readable than the following additional Russian Sketches, clipped from the Texas Republican, of November 5th: MUSTANG, JR.

RUSSIAN SKETCHES.

The Greek Church—Visit to Peterhof—The Dinner—Ball—Review in Pleasure Grounds—The Imperial Family—Presentation to the Emperor and Royal Family.

From the Private Correspondence of Mrs. Lucy Holcombe Pickens, Lady of the American Minister.]

ST. PETERSBURG.

The churches here are exceedingly magnificent. The St. Isaac, (the Greek Church,) it is said, cost one hundred and thirty-two millions of dollars. The dome is all covered with solid gold. The outside of the altar which sat in rear of the altar are studded with diamonds and emeralds. The pillars which support the interior are Malachite, Jasper and Porphyry. The altars are of solid gold, set with diamonds, emeralds, pearls, and all precious stones. The Greeks have no seats nor organs in their churches, but the most heavenly vocal music ever listened to.

They profess not to worship images, and yet the paintings of their saints are set around with diamonds and precious stones, before which they bow, crossing themselves, touching the cold marble floor with their foreheads. You see a prince of the blood and the poorest serf constantly bowing side by side, before the Virgin of some saint, rise, light their offering of wax candle at the altar, drop some coins in the alms-box, and go out, crossing themselves devoutly.

They have no preaching in the Greek Church, but all kneel or stand, and come and go as they please—each individual having his own secret worship in himself, in devout prayers. The Emperor is the head of the Church, and it is supported by voluntary contributions from the worshippers, and not by tithes or any tax by law. The priests marry, and inculcate it as a duty.

The great Church of the Greek faith is situated forty-five miles northeast of Moscow, in the very heart of Sclavonic power and wealth, and it is said to have in its church service twenty-five thousand dollars worth of gold and silver, etc.

The church is not used for political purposes, as the great mass of the people look with as much or more idolatry to the Emperor as they do to the Church of the priest; and he has far more power over them, every way, than the Church can ever have.

The lower class here are very ignorant; and yet the higher classes are well informed, fine looking, and remarkably cordial and kind. They have manners more like the planters of the South than any people I have met with in Europe.

* * * * * * *

We left St. Petersburg at 1 o'clock, in the cars, reaching Peterhof, (the Imperial summer residence) about half before two. At the depot we were met by Count Orloff, (Chief of Staff,) who conducted us to the court carriage, which was drawn by four white horses. The coachman and two footmen were in scarlet livery, trimmed with gold and black lace. We were received at the palace entrance by a double file of soldiers, through which the carriage passed, the soldiers presenting arms, (to the Imperial crest and livery,) and the majecks, or common people, who had assembled in great numbers to see the guests, bowing their uncovered heads almost to the earth. The Grand Master of Ceremonies met us descending from the carriage, and delivered us in charge to two courtiers of the court, who preceded us, with many bows and gestures, up stairs into the hall. Here the herald, with the golden trumpet, announced "His Excellency Monsieur Pickens, Ambassador of America; Madame, the Ambassadress, and Mademoiselle." The Aid-de-Camp of Ceremonies then came forward, and preceded by him and followed by the courtiers, we were conducted to our rooms. We rested until 4 o'clock. At this hour, we entered the grand saloon, in which was assembled the whole diplomatic corps. I was immediately led in to dinner by Chevalier Regina, Neapolitan Minister, and on my right sat Count Fedotoss, Master of the Household.

The dinner was beyond imagination in richness and style. A superb orchestra, led by Strauss, son of the great Strauss, played rapturously from an elevation in the lower part of the immense dining hall. When dessert came on, Count Fedotoz arose and gave the health of her Imperial Majesty, which was drunk standing. It was her Majesty's birth-day. Dinner through, we returned to the drawing room and took coffee.

* * * * * * *

Imagine me seated on a green velvet sofa, with my feet, after the Russian fashion, on an immense silk cushion, just high enough to show the delicate gold embroidery on black satin slippers; and, while I listen to the kindly meant English of Prince Altenburg and the Duke de Sodia, I will spread out the folds of my dress, that your eyes may duly observe it. White silk, two skirts, each trimmed with alternate puffs of white tulle and lemon colored silk, stripped irregularly with bands of black velvet; the corsage is low, long points behind and before, laced in the shape of a Y, with cord. There is a Grecian tulle on the corsage in front and back. But, in the mean time, Lord Wellesdale and the English attache have joined our group, and, as we are becoming rather merry for court etiquette, I hear the roll of the carriage of the American minister is announced; for at this I arise, and walking to the centre of the room, make a profound courtesy, old style, to the floor—am taken into the possession of two aids of ceremonies, and put into the carriage.

Col. P. takes his seat and we drive in the grounds, which are very handsome, for an hour. Then I go to my room and lie down, and I assure ladies my toilette while I tell her that the dinner was very grand—like unto fairy-looking—the ladies wore silk and tulle dresses just as we do in America; but that I am very tired, and would like to sleep. But before I can compose myself, Col. P. knocks and says I will be late for the ball. So I get up and put on a white moire antique, with lace trimmings over it, looped up on side with white lilies of the valley, and a wreathe of the same around my head.

We go down into the first drawing room, (there are six, each opening into the other, and the last into a large ball room,) and find most of the guests already assembled. The rooms are gorgeous with gold and silver of the court officers and the Foreign Ministers, and with the gay toilettes of the court ladies. While I am looking with all the wonder and delight of a child on this magnificence, which is so new to my provincial eyes, there comes a blast from a silver trumpet—at which sound Count Fedotoz clasps his hands and cries, "The Emperor!"

The doors open and his Majesty enters, with his mother, Dowager Empress, on his arm. He has a noble person, with fine blue eyes, and the most benevolent of faces. He wears the white and blue uniform of a Colonel, and makes a very graceful and affable acknowledgment of the low obeisance made by all the company. The Dowager is an old woman, with traces of beauty which must have been wonderful in her youth. She wore a white silk dress, with point lace, and a crown of diamonds and rubies that almost out-blazed the sun. The English crown is said to be paltry in comparison with it. They passed down the room, followed by the reigning Empress and her maids of hon.r. The young Empress wore a lace robe, looped with white and scarlet lilies; head-dress of the same, ornamented with diamonds, and in entering the ball room, (Prince Gallitzin took me by) I was presented to her majesty; afterwards to the Dowager and the Emperor. They all speak English, and received me with the most gracious kindness.

I did not dance, for I was not very well, and my train was in the way. But it was pleasant looking on and listening to the fine music of the Strauss. Their dances are similar to ours, except the Mazourka—that is beautiful and peculiar.

The ball is about closing and I am anxious for this to go, though I have given you scarcely a glimpse of that love which holds you so closely in my heart. Pray for me in your truth and faith, and surely God will bless me and bring me home.

CARSON'S

PUMP SHOP,

On Second Alley,

BETWEEN UNION AND MONROE,

THE undersigned would respectfully inform the citizens of Memphis and its vicinity, and his numerous customers living at a distance in the country for their past patronage in his line of business, which business has hitherto been confined to the manufacturing and putting up the Chain-Pump alone, and still believing them to be the best pump in use, which made of good materials and properly put up, (and the nearest when not so made and put up,) will last a lifetime; there are places where the Chain Pump cannot be used; also a few persons preferring of the "olden times," who still think that there are other Pumps in use superior to the Chain Pump, I have determined to accommodate the taste of all by putting up or shipping to order, any kind of a Pump that this market can furnish. I have therefore, employed an experienced workman, lately from the East, who will attend to putting up and repairing all kinds of Iron Pumps. He will also do every kind of PLUMBING, all of which I will warrant; and, to them I say warrant, I mean what I say, and say what I mean.

I have in the last year attended machinery to a number of the Chain Pumps with entire success. I have also used large balance wheels on Hand Chain Pumps with equal success. In one case I have used the welded Link Chain and Turned Wheel Pump, which is quite expensive, but it "taketh not away."

"MULTUM IN PARVO."

I have recently invented a CHAIN PUMP BOX, embracing two complete, accurate and distinct Chain-Pumps, joined for double accommodation, (and double price) two persons can draw water from this box at the same time, having no interference with each other whatever, being so hole-set in the partition, wall or frame, large enough for an urchin, dog or cat, chickens or geese to crawl from over yard to the other. I would refer you concerning the Pump, to F. G. Smith and J. R. Morrison & Co. W. CARSON.

P. S. I am prepared to ship Pumps on orders in short notice, up or down, east or west of the Mississippi river. jan26-dly W. C.

Cheap Plantation for Sale.

I OFFER my plantation for sale, lying three miles northwest of Lafayette Depot, on the Mississippi, containing Eight Hundred and Nineteen Acres, (819.) This place was formerly owned by Capt. Thos. J. Polk, and at present is rented by Mr. N. H. Cotterell. It is now in a high state of cultivation, well adapted to the production of cotton and all kinds of grain usually grown, and could easily be converted into one of the most valuable stock farms in the west, being divided into four large fields. The improvements are comfortable—the dwelling house is of log, and has four large rooms; cabins (comfortable) for twenty or thirty negroes, gin house, stables, and all other necessary buildings; a good well of water, and one of the best selections of fruit in the country. This is one of the most healthy and beautiful sites to build a fine house in the county, being high and elevated and surrounded by a beautiful grove. SALE OF

LAND AND NEGROES,

IN SOUTH ARKANSAS.

BY virtue of an hereby given in a deed of trust executed by G. A. Nelson on the day of 1856, and recorded in Columbia county, Arkansas, I offer for sale about

2,500 Acres of Land,

Lying in Columbia county, on the waters of the Smackover Creek, about thirty miles from Camden. The body of this land contains some two thousand acres—three or four hundred of which are opened. The other, of some five hundred acres, has, perhaps, a hundred opened. On the latter is a Water-gin, and other buildings for the accommodation of a small force; but the overseer and negroes live upon the larger tract, have horticulture cultivated both together. There are about twenty of them field hands. None are very old. They have been well treated, for their likely than common, and are increasing rapidly.

Forty-Five or Fifty Slaves,

I will also sell the Crops (except Cotton) made this year, the Stock, Plantation Tools and all other perishable property on the Estate.

I would prefer selling Land and Negroes to one purchaser; and if arrangements satisfactory to me are made, such a purchaser can get a reasonable credit on a portion of the money. But having determined to sell, I offer the Negroes—in families—for cash; and the Land one-third cash, the balance in two equal instalments, on a credit of two and three years, bearing eight per cent. interest—the interest on the deferred payments to be paid annually.

A portion of the land and slaves are under mortgage to secure a debt of about eight thousand dollars to I. W. Moss, of New Orleans.

J. H. Appleton is manager upon the place, and to him, and to C. L. McKee, of Mount Holly, Union county, I refer persons who wish to examine the property. I expect to be on the place, or in that neighborhood, by the middle of December next.

$150 Reward.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will apprehend, and secure in jail so that I can get them, three Negro Men, that ran away from me. Dave I hired out on the 15th instant, September, and the other on the 25th inst. If taken up out of the State, are shipped; if taken in the State, should be sent home to me. One of the two, that last fired, is named ADAM—about 5 feet 6 inches high, light complected and bright gray, and a scar on his nose and face somewhat resembling a cut, about 22 or 23 years of age. The other one is named PRIDE, is about 6 feet 2 or 3 inches high, weighs about 195 pounds, is about 25 years of age. I believe they were dressed R. and are aiming to get to a free State.

The man Adam is the black man last, is named CHARLES, very black, about 30 years of age, and 5 feet 6 inches high, heavy built and very stout, has rather a down look when spoken to, speaks very slowly and smart. SAMUEL NEAL,
