NATURE.

FROM AN UNPUBLISHED SEQUEL TO "RASSELAS."

Her harp hangs on a spirit tree,
High waving in the air,
And sounds sweet breathing minstrelsy—
Hope-music in despair.
Each wandering breath that o'er it sweeps,
Gives forth a purer lay;
Each heart that with it sighs sweeps,
Grows nobler by the way.

Each passing zephyr from the dell,
All stooped in limpid dew,
Responds to her harp, when a deep swell
Sweeps o'er the earth anew.
The ripples at the flowing stream,
The bee in flowered bell,
And nightsome sprites who paint earth-dreams,
Dance to the zephyr's swell.

The dew-bathed moon attunes its strings
To spirit harmonies,
The sun-tinted moon, its
Its earth-toned melodies.
One thrills the soul, the other sense,
Yet both so blend in one,
That charming here they lead us hence
Toward life's setting sun.

Anon the wings of falling day
Brush gently o'er its strings,
Its thought-tones rise and pass away,
As pulse through nature springs.
Thus are its day-songs, at e'en sung,
When sunset the heavens sight
And its twilight tones, at noon so young,
Thus take their evening flight.

And yet when every breath is still,
And zephyr lulled to rest,
And weak earth-tones no longer fill
Its harp divinely blest,
Spirit fingers reverently its strings,
And unfolding its wrathful,
As course—thoughts spend all dreaming things,
Where night nature breathed.

Yet anon comes life's wintry blast,
And sweeps it from the lyre,
Still lives music of the past,
And music not to be.
The light and shade of summer played
Soft o'er its fallen form,
And all who by its earth-grave strayed
Still felt its magic charm.

There's still a voice in its crumbling form,
Whispering of the past
In echoes beyond life's fitful storm—
Beyond life's wintry blast.
An echo harp with echoes strong,
A harp for every ear,
An echo-tone for every tongue,
A hope for every fear.
Though fallen here, its spirit's fever,
And sings forever there.

North Carolina Senators.

As will be seen from the letter of our attentive Raleigh correspondent, the election of Senators took place yesterday, and resulted in the choice of Hon. T. L. Clingman to fill the unexpired term of Hon. Asa Biggs, and of Gov. Bragg to succeed Gov. Reid, whose term will expire on the 4th day of March next. In the caucus held on Monday night, Mr. Clingman was nominated by acclamation, Gov. Bragg was nominated on the second ballot.

In regard to the Senators elect, it may be remembered that months ago common consent appeared to assign to Messrs. Clingman and Bragg the positions to which the legislature has called them; or at least, it was generally conceded that these gentlemen's chances were decidedly superior to those of any other aspirants. It appeared all along to be regarded as certain that Mr. Clingman would be chosen for the balance of Judge Bigg's term; and, as but one Senator could be expected to come from the West, that, therefore, Mr. Reid might be regarded as virtually out of the field. Gov. Bragg was regarded as the Eastern enterprise to the extreme Western location of Senator Clingman.

This was the position of things during the most of the year, or until a state of tanglement occurred about the centre, and opposition feelings and thoughts and hopes arose. We most sincerely hope and trust that all unpleasant feeling in the party, as between members of it at Raleigh or elsewhere, will pass away with the occasion which excited them. To nourish such feelings, or to act upon them, can only result in evil.

We said that we would carefully acquiesce in the choice of the party for Senators, and we do. No party or person will deny the ability and standing of the gentlemen chosen. Mr. Clingman is the possessor of a national reputation. Governor Bragg is not unknown beyond the limits of his own State, and will not fail to obtain a prompt recognition in the Senate. The Governor certainly is a life-long Democrat; and Mr. Clingman has served a longer probation than Jacob did for either of his wives. The election will give very great satisfaction, a satisfaction in which we share, while at the same time, we must add, that we are not satisfied that the Democracy of the southern portion of the State have met with proper recognition of their claims and services, nor shall we cease to press this matter while the present obvious disparity exists between the Cape Fear and Yadkin sections and those watered by the Dan of the Roanoke.—Wilmington (N. C.) Journal.

POWER'S STATUE OF WEBSTER.—A correspondent of the Boston Courier, writing from Florence, visited Power's statue of Webster before it was prepared for shipment. He states that it was a noble figure of more than life-size, representing Webster as standing erect, his left hand resting on a bundle of papers, while his right holds across his breast a roll of manuscript. The drapery is modern throughout, and the dress-coat is buttoned over the chest. I was greatly disappointed in the head of the statue; it appeared to me a failure as to form, likeness, and intellectual expression. Instead of the noble dome like brow, projecting from and shadowing the deep-set eyes, that the most faithful portrait often seems otherwise to those who never beheld the man, the forehead in the statue seems actually to recede from its base to the crown. Instead of the characteristic poise of the head, thrown far back in a sort of proud, defiant way, the head of the statue, the whole figure, indeed, is quite too much advanced. The statue was cast in one piece; the bronze is quite different in color from that of the Munich foundry, being dull and muddy looking.

A GIRL FRIGHTENED TO DEATH.—A SINGULAR CASE.—Two young men have been in Lancaster manufacturing at Lancaster, Ky., under peculiar circumstances. It appears that on a certain evening, six small girls left a factory to go home. While proceeding along a turnpike, near dark, they discovered a coffin lying across the foot-path, and when they came to within a few feet of it, it moved, and a hollow sound came from it. The girls all screamed and fled. Shortly after they saw the two young men with the coffin on their shoulders, and from their subsequent admission, it appeared that, in order to frighten the girls, they had placed it in the road, tied a string to one of the handles, and concealing themselves in the bushes, utered unearthly sounds, and pulled the string as they approached. One of the girls became so frightened that on the following morning she was taken ill while at work, and fell dead in a few minutes. A physician gave it as his opinion that death ensued from the rupture of the gall bladder, superinduced by the fright. The two young men were immediately arrested, indicted for manslaughter, and committed for trial.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will apprehend, and secure in jail or otherwise, a negro boy I lost on them, three Negro Men, that ran away from me. Two of them left on the 19th of August, and the other on the 24th inst. If taken out of the State, one-half if taken in the State, one-third for either or them. One of the two that left first is named ADAM—about 5 feet 8 inches high, light complected and slightly gray, and a scar on his nose and one knee somewhat enlarged by a cut, and about 40 years of age. The other one is named PAUL, is about 5 feet high, very black, weighs about 155 pounds, and is about 25 years of age. I believe they were decoyed off, and are attempting to be a free State.

The one who left on the 24th inst., is named CHARLES, very light, about 20 years of age, will be not quite 5 feet 8 inches high, heavy built and very stout, has rather a down look when spoken to, nevertheless very shrewd and smart.

Cheap Plantation for Sale.

I OFFER my plantation for sale, lying Southwest 3 miles northwest of LaGrange, Tenn., containing Eight Hundred and Nineteen Acres, (819.) This place was formerly owned by Capt. Thos. H. Polk, and at present is rented by Mr. N. H. Cotlard. It is now in a high state of cultivation, well adapted to the production of cotton and all kind of grain usually grown, and could easily be converted into one of the best valuable stock farms in the country, being divided into four large fields. The improvements are comfortable; the dwelling house is of log, but has four large rooms; cabins (noncertain) for twenty or thirty negroes, corn cribs, stables, and all other necessary buildings; a good well of water, and one of the best selections of fruit in the country. This is one of the most commanding and beautiful sites to build a fine house in the county, being high and elevated and surrounded by a beautiful grove. The purchaser will be convenient to both the male and female colleges in LaGrange, and can save the expense of boarding his children as well as have the pleasure of their company at home. I have more land than I can cultivate which is the only inducement to sell. Any one wishing a bargain in land can not do better in West Tennessee. Call and examine the land as I am determined to sell. I can be found at my residence three miles north of LaGrange, and will take pleasure in showing it to any one wishing to purchase.
