☞ Extra copies of the APPEAL, containing the city tax list, can be had by application at our counter. Price 5 cents.

CHANCERY COURT.—This court convenes at the office of the Clerk and Master, this morning, at 9 o'clock.

LIST OF CASES.—For the complete list of the cases of felony tried at the Criminal Court, we are indebted to the kindness of the assistant clerk, CHAS. W. JOHNSON, Esq.

☞ The City Tax List will be found on our fourth page this morning. As this is the last time it will appear, every one interested will consult their interest by laying this paper away for future reference.

PERSONAL.—We are glad to learn that our young friend, B. S. MORGAN, formerly clerk on the Alvin Adams, is now engaged as clerk in the Charleston depot. We welcome him amongst us as a citizen of Memphis.

☞ We would invite attention to the fact that, on Monday, 27th inst., THOMAS B. MYNATT, Esq., will sell at 11 o'clock, A. M., in front of the Sheriff's office, a negro man, named SAM.

☞ We had the pleasure, yesterday, of meeting the Hon. A. P. GOFF, of Nashville, one of the Representatives in the last Legislature from the county of Davidson. We were gratified to see him in the enjoyment of excellent health.

MORE FRESH OYSTERS.—At his depot on Monroe, corner of Second street, PANCOAST received another fresh lot of the Baltimore oysters, last night, and those who want a fresh article, should send early. He has also received a supply of beautiful fresh celery—a splendid article. Try it.

☞ By reference to our advertisements you will see that G. B. LOCKE & Co. will sell today, at their auction rooms, 262 Main street, a number of valuable negroes. We deem it unnecessary to particularize, as those in want of bargains will attend. Sale positive, regardless of the price or weather.

JACOBS' ANTI-CORROSIVE PENS.—These pens are declared superior to gold or steel. They are made of an amalgam, write smoothly, do not injure the ink or leave a gritty sediment like steel pens. HAWKS, SMITH & Co. have them for sale. We have tried them, and found them excellent.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—During the last term of the Criminal Court, we were under daily obligations to Messrs. C. W. JOHNSTON and J. R. J. CREIGHTON, for professional information, and assistance; we tender them our thanks, and congratulate them on having discharged their duties in a manner creditable to themselves, and satisfactory to the public.

MEMPHIS MERCANTILE ASSOCIATION.—This Association—with which we have not yet had opportunity to become much acquainted—has a most praiseworthy object in view in seeking to spread information abroad by means of a library and reading rooms, and by lectures. For season tickets to the latter, we thank the Treasurer, H. N. STICKNEY, Esq.

OMNIBUSIC.—EDWARD STACKS, omnibus driver, assures us that we wrong him in our account of the incident at the Charleston railroad depot, for which he was fined by the Recorder. He states that he is not in the habit of getting into quarrels, and that he entered into RYAN's wagon to take out a carpet-bag, by the desire of the owner of the bag, for which RYAN assaulted him.

UNFORTUNATE ACCIDENT.—We are sorry to record the occurrence of a serious accident to D. T. ASH, proprietor of the Washington Street Theatre. While in a stooping position yesterday at 2½ o'clock, a pistol he happened to have about him—for he is not in the habit of carrying weapons—went off. The ball passed through the thick part of the left hand, then passed into the fleshy part of the thigh, wounded the lower part of the abdomen, and passing out, lodged in the door of the place. The wounds, though severe and painful, are stated by his medical attendant not to be dangerous.

MR. ROBERTS' PANORAMA.—Mr. ROBERTS, having kindly given way to Rev. J. C. FLETCHER's lectures, on Tuesday evening, and tonight, will be more fully prepared than on Monday evening to interest and amuse his audience on Thursday evening next, having added several more views to the beautiful and artistic ones presented on Monday night. We advise all to go who wish to obtain a sight behind the scenes to the life of the greatest showman in America.

ASH'S THEATRE.—At this place of amusement to-night, HARRY MACARTHY takes a benefit, and presents an excellent bill, as a reference to our advertisement columns will show. The WEBB sisters have volunteered their aid, and an evening's entertainment of a superior kind may be looked for. The entire company are striving to secure public approbation, by using their best efforts. The proprietor is unfortunately suffering from an untoward accident, but an efficient manager will attend to his duties until he is about again.

☞ The Commercial Hotel of this city, though still carried on by the owner of the property, Mr. JAMES I. ANDREWS, is as yet without a lessee. The wants of the traveling community demand more hotel room, and we trust that the project of building a fine hotel on Poplar street, opposite Exchange Buildings, will be speedily carried out. We learn—and we chronicle the fact with pleasure—that Mr. ANDREWS, who has done as much as any other one man toward building up the city, has subscribed liberally to the new enterprise. The new hotel, we understand, is to be appropriately named the "Overton House."

A MEMPHIS INVENTION.—On Tuesday last, the Patent Office at Washington granted letters patent, for fourteen years, to GEORGE W. GRADEN and BENJ. F. COWAN, of Memphis, Tennessee, for an invention of the former. The invention is an improved steam and water alarm gauge for steam boilers. It consists in a novel and very simple and effective arrangement of the parts of an alarm guage for steam and water, whereby the whole, with the exception of a float that is arranged within the boiler and a whistle, are brought into a very compact form, within a closed case of neat appearance and limited size, without the use of stuffing boxes or packing of any kind, making an instrument which can be placed in the cabin of a steam vessel, and which is beyond the control of the engineer, or any other person on board the vessel, but serves to announce to the captain or other officer and to the passengers, whenever there is any likelihood of danger of explosion of the boiler—whether in consequence of excessive pressure of steam, or of deficiency of water. The danger from explosion by the water getting too low in the boilers, is obviated by floats resting upon the surface of the water, with which is connected a rod that works a lever, by which a valve is opened, admitting steam to the whistle, which continues to sound the alarm until sufficient water is thrown into the boiler to raise the floats and close the valve. The danger of explosion from the pressure of steam is thus met. While the steam is below the pressure to which the valve is loaded, that valve remains closed, but as soon as it gets beyond that pressure, it lifts the valve and allows the escape of steam to the whistle, which continues sounding until the pressure is reduced below that to which the valve is loaded.

The invention is a most valuable one, and the object it is intended to accomplish is one of the most serious importance. If—as the inventor confidently expects—accidents on steamboats are, by this invention, rendered of rare occurrence, thousands of human lives and millions of property will be saved, and Mr. GRADEN will be well entitled, not only to the wealth his success will bring him, but to the lasting gratitude of mankind.

City Council

Council met in regular session last night, the President, Alderman Hughes, in the chair.

Gen. R. Robinson offered a protest on behalf of the Aldermen of seven and eight wards, against any further appropriation of the revenue of offices, until the interest on time bonds, until these wards have two-thirds of the revenue collected in said wards expended therein, as provided in the charter.

Mr. Douglass moved that the protest be referred to the Committee on Wells and Cisterns, which motion being ruled out of order by the chair, the protest was ordered to be spread on the minutes.

The Mayor sent in a message recommending that the wharf be improved in a permanent manner; the City Engineer shall be instructed to furnish a plat of the portion requiring improvement. Piling should be driven at low water mark, and stone laid over the whole surface. The receipts for wharfage last year were $20,000; this year will probably be over $25,000. He is ready to make the improvements, and take pay in wharfage receipts.

The Mayor vetoes the resolution of Council, adopting a basis for the construction of waterworks by a chartered company, as being inconsistent with section 12, article 1, of the city charter, which requires the city to construct such works, when required, itself, and does not authorize it to subscribe to any company, or enter into co-partnership with it, or to take stock in it. Such a proposition, by the 22d amendment to the charter, cannot even be submitted to the people. The Mayor will cheerfully co-operate any scheme for the construction of waterworks free from objectionable features.

The Mayor further states that the time has arrived when the Little Rock Railroad Company must give the city its stock or bonds for $300,000, in connection with the mortgage of the Navy Yard.

Also, the loan of between $70,000 and $80,000, made to the Ohio Railroad, still remains on the books of the city, as an open account against said road. It is time this obligation should be settled, and in such a way as to avoid any increase of the city's stock in that road.

Alderman Douglass offered a resolution, which was adopted, appointing a Special Committee to report a plan of wharf improvement, the extent, probable cost, length of time required and the terms upon which a contract can be made to bring about the proposed improvement.

Alderman Kortrecht offered a petition from the "Overton Hotel Company," who propose to finish the grade of the landing east of Water street for fifteen cents per cubic foot, and take the payment in taxes on the hotel property, hereafter to be assessed. The subject was referred to Messrs. Douglass, Street, and Kortrecht, as a Special Committee to consider the proposition.

Alderman Douglass offered an ordinance requiring the Little Rock Railroad Company to issue 300 bonds of $1000 each, as first mortgages on the road and its equipments and effects, with coupons attached for interest at 7 per cent. All interest on these bonds to the 1st of January 1859, to be refunded in stock, for interest, after that date the city shall open an account against the road. Passed a first time and referred.

The portion of the message referring to the Ohio road was referred to the Mayor and Finance Committee.

On motion of Alderman Robinson, a resolution was passed requiring the Mayor to advertise the letting of sand privileges on the batture, between Court and Jefferson streets.

Alderman Foote, of the Ordinance Committee, reported the following ordinance, which was finally passed:

No policeman shall resign his office, except in writing, to be handed to the Mayor and acted upon by this Board. In no case shall any balance of wages due any policeman, who wishes to resign his office, be paid to him until he has complied with the first section of this ordinance, and the Board has accepted or otherwise acted upon his resignation.

The same reported an ordinance defining what officer shall collect the license payments from tippling houses. Passed finally.

Alderman Douglass, from the same committee, offered an ordinance appointing a Gas Inspector, and defining his duties. He said it was stated that threats had been made, that if such an officer was appointed, and attempted to exercise his duties, the lights should be cut off.

Alderman Robinson called the attention of the Board to the fact that, although eleven burners were giving their light into the Council room, the Chairman required two candles on his desk to see what he was doing.

The Mayor said the company had informed him that the gas now furnished was not pure and could not be made so until half the gas in the city was turned off for a time. Alderman Robinson observed that this excuse had been started only since the subject had received public attention.

Alderman Kortrecht, from the Ordinance Committee, introduced an ordinance to prevent the landing of paupers within the city, to become chargeable to it. Passed a first reading.

The same offered an ordinance, requiring the city Auditors to furnish monthly, for publication in the official paper of the city, an abstract of the receipts and expenditures of the month, and an estimate of the wants of the month to come. The proposer was of the opinion that the public ought to know the precise condition of their own finances.

Alderman Street believed the city would have to go to protest if its financial condition was made known.

Alderman Jefferson believed that the city would stand better than she does this day in money matters if this system of openness had prevailed.

Alderman Robinson considered it a solemn duty to let the people know what is done with their money. They often asked the question, and it ought to be replied to.

The subject was referred to the Finance Committee.

The Mayor, in the name of Mr. Newsom, presented one of Rucker's Maps to the city. It was received, and the thanks of the Board returned. Adjourned to Thursday night.

Port of Memphis.

River News.

We have still to report a rising river, some of the streams above are pouring out heavy floods.

The swift and elegant freight and passenger boat Memphis, Capt. John Bugher, H. E. Dean, clerk, is at the landing receiving for Louisville, Cincinnati, and way points, she will leave for these places and ports on the Ohio river at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Capt. Bugher is an experienced and able commander, and Mr. Dean will be found kind, polite and sociable. The boat keeps an excellent table, and being a regular packet is punctual to her time.

The splendid logoman is the regular packet boat for New Orleans this evening.

The Evansville, with the popular Capt. Baird in command, leaves this evening for White river, this being her regular day.

The St. Louis Republican of December 20, says:

The river at this point swelled fully one foot in the twenty-four hours, ending at dark on Saturday, and was still rising at the rate of half an inch per hour. Small quantities of freight came down Saturday, doubtless from the Missouri river, the lower end of which stream is rising. The Upper Mississippi and Illinois rivers are both falling. The Upper Mississippi is quite low from Keokuk down, and there is a good deal of ice in it.

THE HOSPITAL.—There were fifty-five patients in the Hospital yesterday.

RECORDER'S COURT.—At this Court yesterday, the principal business was ordering thirty-nine lashes to be applied to the back of Mr. WELLS' negro PHILIP, who had stolen a bale of cotton; fining J. BARDON and J. PARDEVANT eleven dollars each, for carrying concealed weapons, and sending FRED ARRENCAMP to jail for forty-three days for whipping his wife.

JOHN ABLE.—This well known individual, we learn, died the other day in the calaboose at New Orleans, where he had been taken on account of some difficulty he had got into. His life, especially during the last eighteen months, was a troubled one. He has reached the bar where the "secrets of all hearts are made known." Let us charitably leave to his friends the charity of silence.

THOSE WHO HAVE USED IT.—Among the many testimonials in favor of the effects of SCHENCK'S HOLLAND BITTERS, we offer the names of the following, many of them well known in this city:

James Colvin, of South Pittsburgh, says: "It is certainly a valuable medicine; it cured me of Dyspepsia."

Captain Henry Eaton says: "It cured my wife of Neuralgia."

J. A. von Bonhorst says: "I never met with an article possessing the virtuosity of the stomach."

Henrich Paulus says: "It cured me of a severe chronic diarrhea in two days."

Samuel Woodruff, of Athens, Ohio, says: "When I commenced using your medicine, I was so prostrated that I could not walk across my farm; after using one bottle, I can eat anything."

NEW JEWELRY STORE.—The best evidence of the onward progress of Memphis is the steady influx of substantial business men of enterprise and capital, who come here to make our city their permanent future home. Among the number who have recently established themselves here, we have to mention MR. JAMES POOLEY, late of New Albany, Indiana, who will engage extensively in the watch-making and jewelry business. He has taken the house on the corner of Main and Court streets, formerly occupied as a clothing store by MR. GASKILL. Speaking of MR. POOLEY's determination to make Memphis his home, the New Albany Ledger says:

"Many of our readers, but more especially those who have had dealings with MR. JAMES Pooley, jeweler, during the past six years, will regret to learn that he is about to remove from our city to Memphis, Tenn., where he intends opening a splendid jewelry store, far surpassing his establishment in this city. Those who have dealt with Mr. P., and are in the least conversant with the business, know that he has no superior here, and that his store, for several years past, has had no equal here, and but few superiors in Louisville or at Newport at large; that none are more neatly arranged and display goods to better advantage, or have a more varied, choice and beautiful stock of watches and jewelry than was kept by Mr. P. during his residence in our city. We are sorry to lose so good a citizen and so fair a dealer in his line, but Memphis will afford a larger field, and we predict for Mr. P. a success in that city commensurate with his merits as a gentleman—one to every way competent in a business point of view, and highly honorable in all his dealings, large hearted, genial and social in his intercourse with friends, and gentlemanly in his demeanor to customers and strangers. As a dealer, we are sorry, we will be appreciated in Memphis, and draw to himself, soon, a liberal share of public patronage. We learn that Mr. Bradford, from New York city, takes the store vacated by Mr. P., and will continue the same business. He will have to be well appointed, in many respects, to keep the reputation of the stand up to the flattering condition in which Mr. P. leaves it!" d21-1w

THE GAIETY.—At this place of amusement to-night, Mr. and Mrs. WALLER will certainly appear in the tragedy of Macbeth—Mr. WALLER taking the part of "Macbeth," and Mrs. WALLER as "Lady Macbeth." The critic of the Cincinnati Enquirer, speaking of the performances of these artistes at Wood's Theatre there, says:

"To the lovers of the legitimate drama, the week just closed has been one that will not soon be forgotten. The great tragic artiste, Mr. and Mrs. Waller, last night, concluded a successful engagement at Wood's Theatre, during which they have wreathed their brows with fresh chaplets of fame, and won an exalted position among the brightest stars in the dramatic firmament. Our theatre goers have been rather slow to acknowledge their sterling merits, but they have done it now the leasure. The man who will not now cheerfully concede that Mrs. Waller is one of the greatest living actresses, is certainly an exception to a general rule. In our poor opinion, she has not a peer in this country. In versatility of genius, correct reading, powers of endurance, distinctness of enunciation and naturalness of action, combined with the thousand little nothings that go far to make the perfect artiste, none that we have ever seen can approach her. The greatest success of the week was the difficult role of "Meg Merrilies," in the dramatic version of Walter Scott's Guy Mannering—a part which she essayed for the first time on Friday night, on the occasion of a complimentary benefit tendered her by a large number of our best citizens, in the presence of one of the fullest and most fashionable audiences of the season. The undertaking certainly seemed hazardous, considering the success of Charlotte Cushman in the same character, and particularly so, as Mrs. Waller had not long since attempted it before, but had not even seen it represented. The great original was the standard by which she was to be judged. But her genius is this, as in everything else, did not fail her; she was fully equal to the task. * * On Mr. W.'s "Manny Waller," the dramatic world will not fail to set its seal of approval."

The evening will conclude with The Captain's not A-Miss.

THIRTY THOUSAND DOLLARS STOCK AT COST. The subscribers, wishing to retire from the clothing business, are desirous of closing out their large and well selected stock, at first cost for cash. Wholesale and retail buyers will find it greatly to their advantage to call and examine the goods, as we must close out soon.

Mr. Post had over four hundred thousand dollars worth that Northern friends had surrendered freely for the company to cancel. Speaking of Holiday presents, we would respectfully call the attention of the young people in particular to the celebrated spectacles of our friend Muller. What can be more acceptable to the aged parents or relations, whose sight has become dim, than the ease and accurate vision they possessed in their younger days. To those living at a distance, he can assure them that, from long experience, he can invariably suit their eyes, by giving him their age, &c. C. MULLER, 341 South Main-st.

Buffalo City.

From the Little Rock True Democrat.

The indefatigable John H. Quisenberry has an advertisement in another column worth the attention of business men. Whatever Mr. Q. puts his shoulder to, is bound to move, and we know of no enterprise, at this place, which will come in city in fact and of note. The situation of the proposed city with reference to navigation, and proximity to other points, as well as a rich back country, is admirably calculated to become a great business center. The Des Arc Citizen says:

SALE OF LOTS IN BUFFALO CITY.—We direct special attention to the advertisement of our townsman, J. H. Quisenberry, Esq., for the sale of lots in Buffalo City. He has become the sole proprietor of this admirable location, and we know from demonstration during the past four years, that he possesses the energy and the practical experience to build up not only a town, but a city, at the above point. No citizen of Des Arc has contributed as much towards her onward progress as Mr. Quisenberry. He has built residences, business houses, and contributed liberally in aiding to erect our public edifices. It is most fortunate for the people of the north or northwestern portion of Arkansas that this magnificent site for building up a commercial point has fallen into the hands of a gentleman who is competent to do it, and who is willing to do it. His liberal offers for establishing a saw and grist mill, are in consonance with the policy which actuates a liberal mind—wishing to contribute to the comfort and benefit of others, as well as to enjoy a profit and advantage himself. We again solicit a careful perusal of his advertisement, which demonstrates beyond doubt that Buffalo City is compelled to be the commercial emporium of northwestern Arkansas. d21-3t

PRODUCE.—The Cincinnati Gazette has the following interesting remarks upon the state of the produce markets: The produce markets of the country are now in an anomalous condition, at exceedingly low prices. At the decree prevailing in the west there are few articles that will bear the cost to the seaboard markets, either East or South. Taking the article of flour, for example, we find it a favorite one in New York. The quotations for a good family flour in the four markets named, now compare as follows:

New York.....7½@7½ Cincinnati.....7½@7½
Cincinnati.....6@6@7 Chicago.....5@6@6
St. Louis.....5@5@5½ (Source included).....5@5@5½

The shipment of Corn from the West, towards New York, need of course cease. The Eastern Corn crop was much better in proportion to the amount usually produced, than in the Western States, and the latter will not be able to be any further considerable, of consequence, towards supplying the Eastern trade. There is no European demand. If the taller should spring up, which is not probable, it would only lead to the establishment of higher figures. Prices are now above a fair indication of relative supplies, but in this case, we think they are to be so rewarded. The same may be said of Oats, which, as regards Corn, Wheat, Oats, and we may add Potatoes, the surplus in the East is unprecedented, and there is the West, and adjacent to the south of these articles, from East of Lake Erie to the West, before next harvest, will or bulk be made.
