☞ Owing to the great length of the exercises of yesterday, a full account of which we publish this morning, we are compelled to defer the publication of a variety of interesting matter prepared for this issue.

An Incident.—While the cannon were booming yesterday, the lady of Mr. Cavaline, of the White House, gave birth to a son. The young stranger was appropriately named Andrew Jackson Cavaline.

☞ The funeral of the late Marcus B. Regan will be preached by Elder T. J. Drane, at the First Baptist Church, to-day, at 11 o'clock, A. M. The friends of the deceased, and the public, are invited to attend.

Re-arrested.—John Ward, who was discharged on Friday owing to a want of evidence to convict him of passing counterfeit money, with which he was charged, was re-arrested yesterday, new testimony having come to the knowledge of legal officials.

The Weather.—Yesterday morning was the coldest of the season, the thermometer was down to a little over eighteen degrees above zero. The mud in the streets was frozen making it agreeable to walk about the streets; the sun shone in an unclouded sky throughout the day—which was a pleasant and reasonable one.

☞ Messrs. W. R. Strange & Co., are in receipt of Frank Leslie's Illustrated Weekly for January, and Yankee Notions, for February, gold pens, &c.. See their card this morning.

Thanks.—Mr. J. S. Armstrong, of Adams' Express, has laid us under obligations for New York dates of the 5th. Besides those furnished us through the courtesy of the Express Company, we have had no eastern files for several days, owing to the smash-up on the Memphis and Charleston Railroad.

☞ Our acknowledgments are due Mr. W. N. Moring, of Gibson Wells, Tenn., for a club of eleven new subscribers to our weekly at that office. At our cash club rates, the Appeal is the cheapest paper published in the South, and it is gratifying to us to know that it is daily growing in favor.

The Bunyan Tableaux.—Many of our readers doubtless remember with pleasurable emotions, the magnificent Panorama of the Pilgrim's Progress, which was exhibited in Memphis some two or three years since. It attracted crowds nightly at Odd Fellows' Hall, for more than a week, and was universally and enthusiastically admired. The same painting will be put on exhibition again, next Tuesday night, and we would advise all to see it who would become familiar with the Pilgrim's Progress to the Celestial city. As a work of art, it is unsurpassed, while the subject is one that cannot fail to awaken the most pleasant reflections and meditations.

Acknowledgment.—The proprietors of the Daily Appeal have to make their acknowledgment of thanks to Mr. John Wilkinson, of this city, for the present of a large and splendid American flag—being the one in which the bust of the Hero of New Orleans was veiled during the ceremonies of yesterday. Mr. W. is a clever, whole-souled, gentleman—a worthy type of the generous Memphian—and was most active in procuring subscriptions to the "Jackson Fund," where the purchase of the first was for his estimable lady. We shall cherish his gift both for the high esteem we hold the donor, and for the glorious associations connected with his splendid present. When in each succeeding 8th of January, we, and our successors, shall give these stars and stripes to the breeze, for generations to come, may friend John always be there to see that it floats.

Hon. Andrew Ewing's Oration.—Many citizens who listened to the oration at the Theatre yesterday, being desirous of having an authentic and full copy of it, applied to the speaker for the copy which we give in another place. The following is the correspondence that took place on the occasion:

MEMPHIS, January 8, 1859.

Hon. Andrew Ewing—Dear Sir: We, the undersigned, respectfully request that you will furnish us with a copy of your eloquent and impressive oration delivered to-day, upon the occasion of the inauguration of the bust of General Jackson, for publication.

Very respectfully,
James Coleman,
Leon. Trousdale,
G. H. Monrarrat,
J. Knox Walker,
Leon. Trousdale,
R. D. Baugh,
Committee.

MEMPHIS, January 8, 1859.

Gentlemen: With many thanks for the kindness of your request, I enclose you a copy of my address. Very respectfully,

Andrew Ewing.

To Messrs. James Coleman, G. H. Monarrat, J. Knox Walker, Leon. Trousdale, R. D. Baugh, Committee.

Dr. John White, Union street, Memphis, is most happy to publicly announce that he has associated with himself J. R. McGinnis, M. D., long known to him as a gentleman of high attainments in the profession, having enjoyed the advantages of the best Medical Colleges and Hospitals of our country, and fifteen years of eminently successful practice. His great success in the treatment of both Acute and Chronic diseases, will commend him to the confidence of the citizens of Memphis and surrounding country. Dr. J. White's remedies effectually eradicate every vestige of virus or disease from the human system. The great success which they have met with, and the beneficent results following their use, secure for them a reputation with the afflicted never to be forgotten. Grateful for the kind and generous regard of the people of Tennessee and surrounding States, and feeling fully our responsibility, no status, moral or professional, which the grasp of our abilities, shall be overlooked. [dtf. wtf

Tree Camel.—Major Wayne (says the Savannah News) has written to New York to procure a model of that "ship of the desert"—the camel—to the Washington National Intelligencer, and he thus sums up the general advantages that may be derived from the use of camels, as the result of ten years' experience and observations:

They will flourish as well in the United States as either horses or mules.

They may be introduced at Mobile or Pensacola at rates not greater, certainly not much greater, than present prices for good mules.

They are not as expensive to feed as horses or mules.

They require no stables nor grooming.

They are as tough and hardy as either horse or mule.

They save a heavy outlay for wagons, carts, harness and shoes, and a constant tax for their repairs.

Their physical energy is not largely drawn upon for the drawing of a wagon or cart, and therefore is proportionately given more usefully to the transportation of goods.

They will do more work at the same cost and keeping than either horse or mule.

A Frightful Possibility.—A farmer from the neighborhood of Galston, (in Scotland,) took his son to see the wonder of the solar microscope, which happened to be exhibiting in Kilmarnock. The various curiosities around to please the good woman very well, till the animalcule contained in a drop of water came to be shown off. These seemed to poor Jamie not so very pleasant a sight as the others. She sat patiently, however, till the "water tigers," magnified to the size of twelve feet, appeared on the sheet, fighting with their usual ferocity. Jamie then rose in great trepidation, and said to her husband, "For gude sake, come awa, John—we'll still, yeman," said John; "and are the sheep?" "Eh the sheep! Keep a' man, what wad ye mean o' us if the auld ewe broken wad break out of the water?"

☞ Glass put in—glass put in," shouted a Polish glazier in one of our streets. "No, thank you," replied a passer-by. "I'm not fond of glass nothing," "I cry aye to get one put in the stomach."

☞ A double headed girl is to be exhibited in Selma, Ala., on the 1st of January.

Commercial Matters.

MEMPHIS DAILY APPEAL OFFICE, SUNDAY, January 9, 1859.

Cotton continues to come in quite freely, more merchants were engaged in the Jackson and Arkansas trade, and we hear of the purchase of the majority of the crop. The reported receipts of the Ohio and Mississippi for the week ending yesterday, are sufficient to fulfill all our forecasts we expressed the opinion that the expectations of an early falling off of receipts, will not be realized, but that there will be an unusual amount of Cotton thrown on the market, to the detriment of prices. Notwithstanding these views, they are sufficiently close for holding, unless encouraging news from Europe stimulates them. The last intelligence from that quarter, though not positive, has had the effect of paralyzing foreign buyers, and they have not been in report in Liverpool, as we have seen, for some days, but we have no apprehension that the cotton market will generally for cash. Our mails, quick sale and small profits.
