

AT THE CAPITOL

THE DISTRICT APPROPRIATION BILL UP IN THE HOUSE. DISCUSSION OVER OUR REVENUES.

Mr. McAdoo Says a Good Word for the People of Washington

COCKRELL GIVES REED A RIGHT-HANDER.

The One-Man-Power Policy Denounced in the Senate—An Appraiser Nominated—Other Proceedings.

Immediately after the reading of the journal to-day fifteen applications for leaves of absence were made. Mr. Cheate inquired if this would leave the House without a quorum. The Speaker said he did not know whether it would or not. Mr. Cheate said he would object to granting the applications until this question was settled, as they were over the heads of the House.

Mr. McAdoo's speech was a good one. He said that he was a native of Washington and that he was proud to represent the people of the District.

Mr. Cockrell gave Reed a right hander. Reed was talking about the one-man power policy and Cockrell interrupted him.

Mr. McAdoo contended there would be no deficiency. He showed from the Commission's statement that the District revenues were concerned, would be $23,300, provided the revenues this year do not exceed those of last year.

General Henderson of Iowa was ready to change the policy which has prevailed for some years in regard to appropriations. Millions come here from all parts of the country because half the taxes of the District are borne by the General Government.

Mr. Cockrell spoke of the difficulty of arriving at any idea of what a majority of the citizens of the District wanted in regard to any particular measure. He said wealthy people who come here for the "season" had more influence on legislation than the mass of plain citizens. He favored giving to the people of the District the right to vote and manage their own affairs.

He said wealthy people who come here for the "season" had more influence on legislation than the mass of plain citizens. He favored giving to the people of the District the right to vote and manage their own affairs.

The bill was passed by a vote of 91 to 66. Those present and not voting were counted to make up the quorum.

In the Senate. In Senate this morning the resolution offered by Mr. Sherman yesterday for the daily meeting of the Senate at 10 a. m. was taken up.

Mr. Cockrell said he would support the resolution, and made a long statement as to the amount of business transacted by the Senate the present session, showing that public business had not been neglected or the time of the Senate wasted. The whole number of bills disposed of by the Senate was 1,445. The House has passed 935 out of 10,000 bills introduced.

On the House Calendar of bills pending in the Committee on the Whole were 291, of which 103 were Senate bills. There were 344 Senate bills (acted on by House committees) now on the House Calendar, with the iron heel of the one-man power securely resting on that.

That reason that the House had not done more business and disposed of more bills was that it ignored in its organization, and in its changed rules, the fundamental principles of parliamentary discussion.

After further remarks by Mr. Cockrell to the effect that the Democratic Senators would come early and stay late to facilitate legislation, they wanted the Republican Senators to do the same, the resolution was agreed to.

Mr. Morrill then addressed the Senate in the tariff bill. He made a general statement as to the effect of the bill.

Presidential Nominations. The President sent to the Senate to-day the following nominations:

Thaddeus S. Sharrett of Maryland to be General Appraiser of Merchandise, under the provisions of the act approved June 19, 1889.

WASHINGTON FORFEITS A GAME TO THE BALTIMORE CLUB. RATHER THAN SUBMIT TO A DECISION.

That Was Outrageously Unfair—It Won the Second Game, However—The Rules of the Game Quoted.

The Washington Club lost and won a game yesterday. The first game at the beginning of the third inning was forfeited to the Baltimore, and after a long struggle another game was played, which resulted in a victory for the home team by a score of 4 to 1.

As the Critic has remarked on numerous occasions there are umpires and umpires. Mr. Hunt is a new accession to the Atlantic staff, although he is not an umpire, and was dismissed for incompetency. When he made his first appearance in Hartford recently, the local papers, after seeing an exhibition of his work, were led to remark more in sorrow than in anger, that there were no more.

IN A NEIGHBORING GRAVEYARD who were better fitted for the position than he. The gentleman who made that assertion had his views wonderfully corroborated yesterday afternoon.

The trouble occurred in the third inning. The score was 3 to 1 in our favor, and Donohue, the first batter, had reached first on balls. The first ball pitched to Gleason struck him on the arm, and according to the umpire, he had thrown himself across the plate with the intention of being hit. Mr. Hunt's wisdom then began to shine in all its brilliant glory, for he declared Gleason out for interfering with the catcher. The Washington man protested, and Hunt was firm. Oh, he knew his rights! And when Gleason refused to leave the plate he took out his watch, and after waiting three minutes, declared the game forfeited to Baltimore—3 to 0.

THE CROWD SURGED on the field and for a time things looked serious, but finally the spectators quieted down and after a long wait the second game proceeded.

Had Mr. Hunt known anything about the rules he would never have made that declaration. It is a well known fact that there is a special act in the District making the time three years. Yesterday another warrant was issued for the arrest of Foster and Detective Carter re-arrested him last night.

In the Police Court this afternoon testimony was heard that has been heretofore published. The ministers who performed the two marriage ceremonies were on the stand, as were also Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Monroe. Judge Miller bound defendant over to the grand jury in $500 bonds.
