COL. TOPP AND THE OPPOSITION.

A number of citizens have addressed a letter to Col. Robert Love Topp, requesting him to become a candidate for the Legislature from Shelby county. Col. Topp admits that the country is in danger, but declines the arduous task of saving it in the manner proposed by his good friends. It is a great wonder that so patriotic a gentleman should be unwilling to deny himself the discharge of minor duties, such as the completion of the Ohio Railroad, which is great in itself, but minor when compared to the great work of saving the country. Col. Topp, however, does not decline to point out the way and means of saving the country, which is to beat the Democracy and install the Opposition into power. This is undoubtedly a labor of love with our friend, the Colonel. He would like vastly to see the Democracy beaten, and has passed his entire life in saying all manner of hard things of them. Under all the diversified phases of opposition to the great fixed party of the country, Col. Topp has been uniform in wishing and praying for the defeat of the Democracy, and devout in believing that it was destined to bring ruin upon the country. No canvass in Tennessee has occurred without his name being brought prominently forward to combat its doctrines, and to defeat its champions. Almost every two years he is seriously afflicted with a cholera morbus or a cousin to one, and he writes and talks, and works against so year after year, and day after day. His prejudices preclude his appearance upon the witness stand. We, however, commend his discretion in merely writing and talking, and most compliment him in keeping out of the conflict.

THE TRUTH WELL AND FITLY SPOKEN.

On this day one year ago, that is, on the 26th day of May, 1858, the Memphis Morning Bulletin gave utterance to the following sound views, opinions, sentiments and convictions. We republish the extract at this time, not for the mere purpose of making a point on our neighbor of the Bulletin, but for the truth and sound doctrine it contains. Its declarations are as true to-day as they were one year ago. Let every Opposition man in the country read and reflect.

From the Memphis Bulletin, May 26, 1858.]

"An effort is being made to bring together all the elements of hostility to the Democratic party in one loaded Opposition. Thus should the endeavor now in progress have temporary success, we shall see Black-Republicans, 'Americans' of every hue and stripe, fire-eaters and federalists, and every conceivable political antagonism, making the fruitless effort to coalesce, not from identity of sentiment, but uniformity of hate. Black-Republicanism will have the greater strength; and it will be hard indeed to share in the spoils—if there is ever any to divide.

"But there will be none. The whole scheme is a total failure in its very conception. It is the old old blunder of Know-Nothingism over again, in a shape even more fatal to those of our ancient Whig friends of the South, who have predicted so little by experience as to be precipitated or seduced into it. We adjure 'Old Line Whigs' to keep their skirts clear of it. Better abide in complete political orphanage for a lifetime, trusting to the after generations for a restoration of the true faith, than rush into life-blood by co-habiting in such a monstrous second marriage. Sane had thousands upon thousands of just such 'ringed, streaked and speckled' discordant elements, all freely sworn upon his altar to be, and to remain 'all right on the goose,' but it was a dead failure. The heterogeneously constructed party fired outward from its own inherent repulsion, just as the one will do, despite even of the vigilant attraction of a 'conservative.'

"The Savannah Republican expresses our own opinion in regard to the 're-construction of parties' so precisely and forcibly, that we incorporate its suggestions as being about the out own. We wish every man in the land who was once a Clay Whig could read and ponder them. Any new party organization, says the Republican, 'should set out with the intrinsic merits of its own principles, and not avowedly as the antagonist of any pre-existing organization. It should be the opponent of all who do not agree. It should be open to all. It should be brought out and pitted specially against the Democratic party. The word democratic is too comprehensive now-a-days; and embraces too many shades of political opinion, for a general declaration of war against all who may call themselves by that name. A good portion—a majority, no doubt—of the present Democratic party are men holding correct and conservative sentiments on nearly all the political issues of the day. We shall not make war against such men, standing where they do, but would rather invite them to co-operate with us, our sentiments being the same. Our idea is that when a new party shall be formed—and the day has not yet arrived for even the commencement of the work—it shall stand on its own principles, rather than as the opponent of any political body or organization. There are thousands of political men, in all sections and of all parties, who would gladly rally to the proper standard, whenever it shall be raised.'"

WILL NOT VOTE THE TICKET.

We have seen and conversed with a number of Old Line Whigs of late, as well as members of the American party, who declare they will not vote the Opposition ticket, for the reason that they do not care to give aid and comfort to the Republican party of the North, in this they are right. Scarcely a member of the party in 1856, among those who voted for Fillmore, would have deigned to vote the Republican ticket against the Democracy; yet this is precisely what they will be asked to do in 1860. The leaders of the Opposition in the South do not intend to be trammeled with a third or middle candidate in the next race. They intend to have no Fillmore and Donelson ticket in the field, but are determined to make a clean race in connection with the Black-Republicans, in order to defeat and break down the Democratic party. This is the game or programme of the Black-Republicans, not because they expect to get the vote of a single Southern State, but because they desire to break up the compact unity of the Southern Democracy, and lay the foundation for a Southern wing of the Republican party, which may be relied on as a faithful ally in future contests. We ask our readers to watch closely the current of events which we are sure will justify these conclusions.

POLITICAL.

A number of the States have already appointed the time and places for the meeting of their State Conventions, to make preparations for the fall campaigns, as well as to select delegates, in whole or in part, to the great Presidential Nominating Conventions of 1860. In Ohio the Democratic State Convention will meet in Columbus the 20th inst., to-day. Candidates are to be nominated for Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Supreme Judge, Auditor, Treasurer, Secretary of State, School Commissioner, and member of the Board of Public Works. The election will take place on the 11th of October. In Iowa, in Des Moines, on the 1st of June, Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, and three Judges of the Supreme Court, are to be chosen; election takes place on the 11th of October. In California, in Sacramento City, on the 23d of June, all the State officers are to be selected; the election takes place on the 7th of September. In Maine, in Bangor, on the 30th of June, a candidate for Governor is to be nominated; election on the 12th of September. In Mississippi, at Jackson, on the 4th of July, candidates for State officers are to be selected; election takes place on the 3d of October. In Minnesota, in the city of St. Paul, on the 17th of August, candidates for Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary of State, Attorney-General, Treasurer, and two members of Congress, are to be selected; the election takes place on the 11th of October. In Louisiana, at Baton Rouge, on the 25th instant, candidates for State officers to be selected; election on the 7th of November.

CONDITION OF THE TREASURY.—The receipts of the United States Treasury, says the Washington States, for some weeks past, have been equal to its current expenditure, the amount of means on hand being but slightly less than that of the past loan, so far as issued. The Secretary anticipates a surplus of ten millions of dollars on the 1st of July, the opening of the new fiscal year. There is yet unissued of the loan of 1858, $1,500,000. The Treasury has redeemed $4,000,000 of treasury notes, which it has the power to re-issue, and the balance of cash in hand, by the last return, was nearly $8,000,000, making a total amount of available means of $24,000,000.

TENNESSEE NEWS.

We clip the following paragraph from the Clarksville Jeffersonian of the 18th:

The locomotive for the Memphis, Clarksville and Louisville Railroad has arrived. The greatest part of our population have looked at and examined the wonder, and all have concluded that it will do. We shall hear his shrill neigh in a few days, when he will be at work laying the track, and then we shall see whether he belongs to the fast line, or whether he is only scrub stock. This locomotive is called the Clarksville. It is an excellent piece of work, and appears to be very perfect in all its parts.

The Columbia Herald learns that on Sunday last the ice house of Mr. Fleming Rankin, two miles South of Columbia, was struck by lightning and entirely destroyed. A very large quantity of ice was in the house.

TERRIBLE OCCURRENCE.—The Columbia Herald has been informed that the house of Mr. Alfred Parrent, of Giles county, was destroyed by fire a few days since, and that two of his daughters perished in the flames.

The Railroad Company have received, since our last issue, two cargoes of iron—one of 350 tons by the steamer Fort Wayne, and one of 350 tons by the steamer Melrose. This will lay about eleven and a half miles.—Clarksville Chron.

THE WHEAT CROP.—We regret to learn, as we do from many of our friends in the country, that the rust has attacked the wheat crop, and that from present appearances it will be very much damaged.—Shelbyville Telegraph.

We are pained to learn that a most serious accident befel Mr. Washington Bane, by getting his skull fractured, besides other injuries received at Lea & Dotson's Steam Mill in this county, on Friday last. We are glad to learn that hopes at present are entertained of his recovery.—Columbia Herald, 21st.

☞ We have already stated that the capitalists interested in the Peters' Colony of Texas, as it is generally called, (says the Louisville Journal,) had been in consultation with Dr. Fowlkes, the President of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and discussing matters for their mutual benefit. The result of those interviews will be ascertained by the following report, which we have received for publication. If the committee, consisting of Hon. James Guthrie, William Garvin, Esq., and Judge Bodley, can influence their associates to carry out the spirit of the resolution adopted, we have no doubt that the line of the railroad can be fixed to pass near, if not through their immense tract of land.

TEXAS EMIGRATION AND LAND CO., }
LOUISVILLE, MAY 20, 1859. }

At a called meeting of the members of this company at their office, in the city of Louisville, on Friday evening, May 20th, 1859, W. H. Stokes, Esq., in the chair, the following resolutions were, on motion, unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That, whereas the Texas Emigration and Land Company (owning one million and eighty-eight thousand acres of selected land on the waters of the Brazos and Trinity rivers, conveyed and patented to them by the State of Texas) is not any longer a body of stockholders, each stockholder is now a landholder, and that they cannot therefore act as a company; therefore be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting to recommend to each land owner in this company to act liberally to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by the conditional donation of a portion of his, her, or their lands, or by subscription to said company, of stock, and that it is the unanimous belief of this meeting that, if said Southern Pacific Railroad Company should locate their road by or near Bellasap, on the route to El Paso, every land owner of the Texas Emigration and Land Company, whose lands may be within a reasonable distance of the line of said road, will be greatly benefited thereby; and we pledge ourselves to donate a portion of his, her or their lands to said company.

Resolved, That Messrs. James Guthrie, Wm. Garvin and Wm. A. Bodley, (a committee appointed at a former meeting,) are hereby requested to bring the matter of the foregoing resolutions to the attention of the members of this company generally, and to fix the terms and mode of carrying out the same.

W. H. STOKES, Chairman.
A. B. FONTAINE, Secretary.

WHY THE AMENDMENT TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONSTITUTION WAS MADE.—Our readers are aware that the Republican party of Massachusetts has made an amendment to the State Constitution which requires foreigners to wait two years after naturalization before they are allowed to vote. Why they did it is thus explained by Col. Scheuler, in the Boston Atlas, of May 4. He was answering some objections to the law:

"Napoleon said, in effect, that the secret of his success was in doing the thing they least expected. The Republicans of Massachusetts have made an amendment to our State Constitution which requires foreigners to wait two years after naturalization before they are allowed to vote. Why they did it is thus explained by Col. Scheuler, in the Boston Atlas, of May 4. He was answering some objections to the law:

FIRE ENGINE FOR SALE.

THE city authorities of Baltimore, having substituted the steam fire engine for the hand engine, the Directors of the Friendship Fire Company offer for sale their handsome Hubley Engine (a description of which is given below), built by the celebrated makers, John Agnew & Sons, and as perfect as new. Its original cost was $4,500.

DESCRIPTION.

Box 8 feet 6 inches long, 42 inches deep, made of Mahogany, veneered with Rose-wood. Diameter of Cylinders, 10 inches; stroke, 5 inches. The outer frame of the engine is rose finished, the panels of box being filled with metal Gothic moulding, five gilded extending around the outer edge, and a gilded ornamental center, with stamped hands. The end panels are ornamented in like manner, with the addition of ornamental scrolls, in which are placed silver-plated clasped hands. Around top of box are private metal mounts of semi-circular form. The gallery, of the same design, is of silver, gilded together in the most substantial manner. It is of octagon form, richly chased and fitted with silver scrolls and ends having silver plates, within each to its general appearance. In our opinion they are deserved very big paintings by Volkmar, representing different scenes of friendship. The rear of gallery is also ornate, partaking somewhat of a Market shape; this is also fine gilded. The engine plate rear gallery and two side plates are of the full size of those in front, which is highly polished. The brasses are also polished. The name of the company has a prominent place upon the front panel, the back ground of which is silver, the letters being fire gilded and set with brilliants. Altogether, it is more of the most costly, and without serviceable, engines in the country, having been in constant service since January, 1856, and the repairs for the last year, not having cost more than twenty-five dollars.

Also, about 600 feet of Hose and Two Wheel Hose Carriages.

FOR THE PURPOSE OF KEEPING FRUIT AND VEGETABLES IN THEIR ORIGINAL FRESHNESS FOR ANY LENGTH OF TIME.

And confidently claimed to be superior to any Jar that has hitherto been offered to the public.

THESE JARS have, in the process of manufacture, been Twice Tested under a Pressure of 24 lbs. to the inch, and then rendered legally receptable of absorbing any deteriorous chemical action. They are superior to those introduced in Boston, being more durable and convenient for the purpose intended. They are superior to glass, because while being free from poisonous ingredients, they will last great length of time, and are not liable to breakage. Being thus constructed of glass are powerfully acted upon by the acids of fruit, and are therefore unfit for articles of this description, and yet with all these advantages they are more economical than glass, because, as they are made of the same material as the jars in which the fruit is put up, they will last much longer than glass, and are not liable to breakage.

A Race for a Purse of $10,000---East Time.

The great race between Ethan Allen and mate, and Lantern and mate, for a purse of $10,000, came off on Wednesday afternoon at the Union course, L. I. There were, it is said, nearly 10,000 people in attendance. The race, which was for the best three in five, was won by Ethan Allen in three straight heats, one of which being made in 2:24½, said to be the greatest trotting on record. A large amount of money changed hands on the result, and it is said Ethan Allen's owner won $18,000 outside.

The Times thus describes the race:

"Go!" was shouted from the judge's stand. Lantern had the inside of the track, and Ethan Allen was a little behindhand the start. Lantern broke badly just beyond the first quarter, and Ethan Allen took the inside of the track and opened a wide gap between himself and his opponent. He kept several lengths ahead, Lantern most of the time on a gallop, until on the home stretch. Lantern brought down to a trot again, made an astonishing effort, and though Ethan Allen was pressing forward at a splendid pace, closed up the gap, and the horses came in neck and neck, amid the shouts of the spectators. The time made in this heat was 2:24½, the quickest time in public harness on record. Some thought Ethan Allen was half a head in advance when the horses passed the judge's stand. The judges announced "A dead heat."

The excitement while the horses were on the home stretch was intense; it was not equalled during any of the heats that followed. Immediately after this heat $100 to $80 was offered in favor of Lantern, and was freely taken. After twenty minutes' rest the horses were brought up again for the second heat, and after two false starts—Lantern each time breaking before any of again, Ethan on the inside of the track. Lantern soon breaks and Ethan Allen shoots ahead. They continued several lengths apart as before, until on the home stretch Lantern again endeavors to take the lead, but this time unsuccessfully. A loud shout announces that Ethan Allen has won the heat, and presently the judges suspend a black board from the judges' stand, on which the time is written—2:27½. The winning horse was only half a length ahead.

The track, which during the first and second heats was in excellent condition, was now becoming very heavy, and the rain, which till now had fallen lightly at intervals, began to descend steadily. The effect was apparent in the third heat, which was run in 2:40. Ethan Allen starting a little ahead on the inside of the track, kept ahead during the whole heat, winning easily and as before, Lantern was on a gallop. The drivers were spattered with mud from head to foot. Ethan Allen was beautifully handled, and Lantern was driven exceedingly well throughout.

The next was a dead heat—time 2:35. On the third quarter Lantern passed Ethan Allen, and was on the inside of the track. Ethan, now a length or two behind, overtook his opponent on the home stretch, and the two horses came in abreast. It was claimed that Lantern was ahead by a head, but the judges, after a long consultation, decided that it was a drawn game. The last heat was contested closely; but Ethan Allen had the inside and kept it coming in, with Lantern at his shoulder. Ethan won the heat in 2:30, and thus won the race.

CLIPPINGS.

It turns out that the "Vegetable Wax" of Japan, about which so much has recently been said in the papers, is nothing more nor less than the product of the common Myrtle bush, so well known in North Carolina.

The Swiss journals speak of an archæological discovery made at Vindonissa, a place in Canton Aargau, Switzerland, in the Roman country. A peasant, while engaged in digging in a field, near the amphitheater of the Augusta Rauracorum of the Romans, came upon the remains of a building, the walls of the chambers of which were covered with painted stucco, and the floors were in a good state of preservation. In one of the chambers was a fireplace. Hundreds of coins, some of which were also found, as well brass utensils, all unusually well preserved; and, what is not the least curious, a glass vessel of considerable thickness, with the circular grains of sand inside.

In a late English journal we noticed the announcement that the Irish tenants of the Marquis of Westminster had petitioned that nobleman for leave to vote according to their convictions, but that his Lordship in his reply replied that the tenants were expected to support their landlord's nominees. This pregnant fact explains many of the mysteries of British elections.

It is reported that Louis Mallard, the executor of King Joseph, has brought with him to Florence the original manuscript of Joseph's Memoirs of Napoleon Bonaparte, which has never been published entire, owing to a prohibition of government. It will probably be reissued in full.

Mrs. Anderson, of London, C. W., insured her life for $5,000, for the benefit of her son, who administered strychnine to the mother, from the effects of which she died.

Solon Robinson recently presented some friends in Connecticut with some wine, which was drunk and highly praised, after which he exhibited to them the vessel which had held the rhubarb (pie plant,) at the rate of eight hundred gallons per acre, in Wisconsin.

It is stated that Jenny Lind's fortune has been largely increased of late, and she shows no tempt it make another. She is advertised to sing in England.

Meeting of Italians in Paris.

On the 28th of April a meeting of the Italians residing in the French capital was held in the saloon of the Conserva de Paris, for the purpose of appointing a committee for the promotion of the Italian cause in France and elsewhere. The number of persons present were about four hundred. M. de Franchis having commenced the proceedings by a long speech, Ballanti, banker, appointed secretary, the chairman rose, and in an animated speech adverted to the object of the meeting. The hopes of centuries, he said, were about to be realized—an Italian King, admired for his chivalry and generosity, and aided by a powerful sovereign, was about to deliver the Italian nation from bondage. The Emperor of the French, he regretted to say, had long been an object of unmerited hatred to many Italians, blinded by prejudice or party strife; but he trusted that, now that Napoleon III had put the cause of Italy, his name would be held sacred by all as the deliverer of the Peninsula. [Loud applause.] Let us, then, raise the cries of Viva l'Imperatore! Viva l'Italia! Viva Vittorio Emanuele! But were the Italians in Paris to remain passive while such great things were being achieved? No, they must each and all do their duty in aiding the common cause. It was for that reason public spirited Italians had joined to convene the present meeting, that a committee should be appointed for the purpose of collecting funds, sending volunteers to Italy, and in general doing all that in any way might further the national cause. (Cheers.) He then proposed that the committee should consist of nine members, which was unanimously agreed to. A gentleman then stepped forward, and alluding to a small statue of Victor Emanuel which stood on the table, said, that before he proceeded he would wish to see the bust of Napoleon III side by side with the figure of the Sardinian King. This suggestion was received with great enthusiasm, the statue of Victor Emanuel was immediately rushed out, and in a few minutes two busts of the Emperor were procured, and placed on each side of the statue amid prolonged cheers. The business of the day was then proceeded with, and a committee appointed by ballot, the names being as follows: M. Ballanti, DeFranchis, Count Gritti, Pasquiler, Rocquier, Lanza (the celebrated Arabic scholar,) Duke Loudi Mourtelfiro, and Tibaldi. The meeting then separated.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, MAY 22—Saturday morning the Knights Templars from Boston and Rhode Island, accompanied by the Washington Commanders all in full uniform, proceeded to the President's house. They were received by the President in the east room. Major French introduced them as good men and true, who hail from the cold winds yet warm hearths of his own beloved New England. The President in a few words made a response and that if the Knights went to Richmond with any prejudices against the South he felt confident they have been removed by their intercourse with that warm hearted, generous people. Although they never will be called upon to defend their holy sepulchre at Jerusalem as had the Knights Templars of old, yet he had no doubt they would be ready and delighted when occasion fairly valuable, viz: the Constitution and the Union, not with swords but with their moral influence and with the strength and power of their example. Let the spirit of patriots and patriots and heroes had passed away, but that sacred deposit is committed to the men of the present generation, and he trusted that every generation would be able to make it a matter of exact science and of pride to exert all just influence to perpetuate our glorious institutions and preserve the Constitution and Union for generations to come. These sentiments were received with applause by the assembled Knights who passed in review, the bands alternately playing Hail Columbia. The Knights left for home in the early afternoon train.

AMERICAN OFFICERS IN THE EUROPEAN WAR.—The Paris correspondent of the New York Times writes: "Capt. Jerome Bonaparte, who lately returned to France from a visit to the parents at Baltimore, has been placed in the most dangerous service in the army. He will command in the Chasseurs d'Afrique, a body of light cavalry, every man of which is mounted on an Arab stallion of great speed and endurance. This body is divided up and thrown forward in advance of the army in skirmishing parties, and is employed in all dangerous and rapid reconnoissances. The captain, on arriving at Paris, ten days ago, left immediately for Algiers to join his company, from whence he will most probably land at Genoa, on Sardinian territory, which is to be, on account of its proximity to Toulon and Marseilles, the future base of operations of the French army.

"I have been told that Major Kearney, of New York, has entered the staff of one of the French generals of division, as a volunteer. Major Kearney, it will be recollected, distinguished himself in the Mexican war, in which he commanded a volunteer cavalry company, raised and equipped entirely at his own expense.
