Local Matters.

Tuesday Morning, 11 P. June 7, 1859.

Shelby County Democratic Association.

Our Democratic friends of city and country, should not forget that this Association holds its regular meeting every Thursday night at 8 o'clock at their hall on Adams street. Every Democrat in the county is a member, and not invited but urged to attend these meetings.

We are requested to give notice that on Tuesday night next, at the appointed hour, there will be a special meeting to consider of matters of interest and importance to the party. General and punctual attendance is requested.

☞ Col. R. C. Wintersmith, of this city, was in Paducah, Kentucky, on Thursday last.

☞ The TRUE LIFE is inserted in our paper this morning for the last time. We have printed an extra numbers of copies, which may be had at the counter. Price five cents.

INCENDIARISM.—James Leary, accused of setting fire to Watt & Co.'s warehouse at the navy yards, will be examined on the charge before Esq. Horne at 10 o'clock this morning.

THE WEATHER.—Warm weather yesterday was welcome after the cold spell we have been shivering under. The dust is on his summer visit, as freckleness, volatile and disagreeable as ever.

☞ The Overland Mail, with San Francisco dates to the 12th ult., arrived Sunday night at half-past 8 P. M., in 22 days, 8 hours and 30 minutes from San Francisco. We are indebted to Mr. J. B. Nichols, the efficient agent, for slips of papers.

DISORDERLY HOUSES.—T. Brady and John McNutt were fined by the Recorder ten dollars each yesterday for keeping disorderly houses; Brady on Poplar street, and McNutt on Commerce street. Brady appealed against the decision in his case.

NUMBERS ON A BUNDLE.—Three negroes, belonging to Ch. Jones, were taken into custody on Saturday night for being intoxicated and disorderly. They were sentenced to receive thirty-nine lashes and to pay a fine of three dollars each.

SALE ON WEDNESDAY.—The splendid lots which are to be sold on Wednesday, June 8th, will doubtless attract the attention of all who are desirous of securing a residence near the northern business part of our city. See advertisement of Mossell, Dupree & Co.

RECORDER'S COURT.—The Recorder had fourteen cases before him yesterday. The fines inflicted amounted to about ninety dollars, of which about one-fifth was paid; the remainder has to be worked out on the chain gang by those guilty of having no money—six in number.

APPOINTED TO A PROFESSORSHIP.—Dr. David W. Yandell, a young gentleman of fine ability, has been appointed to the chair of Pathological Anatomy and Clinical Medicine in the University of Medicine at Louisville. Dr. Yandell is a son of Prof. L. P. Yandell, of this city.

SUMMER SUITS OF HATS.—Read the advertisement of Francisco & Co. They are manufacturing, at their establishment, some beautiful styles of cassimere and melekin dress hats, which will be found vastly superior to the flimsy fabrics of the North, that are sold in our markets to the injury of the faithful home producer.

DUST ON MONEY.—A number of storekeepers in one of our principal streets having refused to pay for the sprinkling done in the street opposite their doors, were yesterday left unblest of the welcome shower. Their shelves and goods toward evening gave evidence that though their owners had paid nothing, they had saved nothing.

CANDIDATES SPEAKING.—It is expected that there will be a public meeting of the citizens at Exchange Hall in the course of the present week, at which Messrs. Baugh, Perkins, Robinson and Park, the candidates for the office of Mayor, will address the people and make known their opinions upon the various local questions at present interesting the community.

SUPERIOR LOTTERY.—Our friend King, on Main street, near the Worsham House, is now offering to his customers a pure and superior article of wines and brandies. His brandy has received the approbation of the best of judges and is believed to be equal to anything ever sent to this market. See his advertisement and give him a call.

THE PIONEERS.—THE FAIR—THE SUPPER.—Remember ladies, and do not let the gentlemen forget, to-night is the first night of the great Fair and Raspberry Supper of the Pioneers at Old Fellows Hall. The ladies have made splendid preparations, the gentlemen of the company have spared no pains, and the result is a glorious occasion of agreeable enjoyment. Do not miss a single night.

☞ Real Estate seems to be the theme. M. C. Cayce & Son are to have a sale time to-day. The property to be sold is of such a character as should draw crowds, especially that class who are not afraid to speculate. Such property offer great inducements to buyers, as no cash is demanded. Second street must soon be equal to Main. They also offer four or five houses, all connected with the tract.

KEEPING AN EYE TO THE MAIN CHANCE.—Although it is the law and the custom in Tennessee to exercise the right by ballot, at the election for School Visitors, Saturday, the sine qua non system was very generally observed. We heard of a single exception to the rule, however, and that in the Eighth Ward, in which instance a citizen claimed the right to cast a secret ballot. It is generally known that the voter alluded to is a prominent candidate for the Mayoralty, and that in the matter of voting, he kept an eye to the main chance, deeming it the wiser policy to conceal his preference for the office of School Visitor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.—It will be seen by an advertisement we publish this morning that the special committee appointed by the Council to draw up an ordinance to regulate the Fire Department in a style calculated to meet the present wants of the city, of which Col. Douglass is Chairman, wisely desiring to secure the aid of intelligent gentlemen whose experience and knowledge will fit them for the task of suggesting improvements upon the present system, desire each company to appoint from among themselves three gentlemen in whose ability and discretion they have confidence, to meet with the committee on successive weeks at the engine house of company No. 4, to confer upon the subject of the regulations of the proposed ordinance. The subject is an important one, and perhaps the fire companies will give it the attention it merits.

THE APPROACHING ELECTION.—The approaching municipal election is exciting much attention, and the claims of rival candidates are earnestly discussed by the citizens. It is said that some of the aspirants are "shaky" on certain subjects, and instead of developing their own plan of policy, and laying it before the people for their approval or rejection, frankly standing or falling by their defined position, that they desire these subjects to be "left to a vote of the people." This will not do, gentlemen. The man who is to be Mayor of Memphis must have talent and experience enough to strike out a line of policy, and energy and decision enough to carry it into practice. Memphis is becoming a large city, and the dignity of being its Mayor, and a salary of $3000 a year, ought to secure a good and capable man to fill the office.

WEEKLY APPEAL.—The attention of the reader is called to our Weekly Edition, which will go to press to-day. It will contain as much general information as any paper published in the Mississippi Valley. Looking to the probabilities of a war in Europe in which nearly all the principal Governments of the earth would be sooner or later involved, we have kept the public fully posted on the subject. Our Weekly of to-morrow, besides various other matters, will contain all the most reliable information touching this great conflict, which could be obtained. We have not, however, neglected the merchant or planter. Both will find that we have catered to their interests and tastes. Our local department and market reports will be found complete. Price of subscription to Weekly, $2.50; Tri-Weekly, $5; Daily, $10. Single copies, ten cents.

BOISED AND FOXED.—G. W. Strickland, a countryman, was found in Jefferson street, on Friday night last, entirely overcome by liquor. He was taken into custody and restored to consciousness, when he found that he had been robbed of the sum of three hundred dollars. He was taken before the Recorder and fined five dollars for disorderly conduct. The rascals by and the five were equally useless as a warning to the imposed. Strickland, and on Saturday night he again fell into the hands of the police, being too top heavy from whisky to be able to stand. He was again before the Recorder yesterday and a second fee of five dollars was inflicted. His folly had left him without means, and he was about being put on the chain gang thirteen days, when some connections of his wife, gentlemen from Mississippi, rescued him from the degradation he was so near undergoing. Country gentlemen should learn from this never to come to Memphis to "spree." A reduction to the ranks of the chain gang is no trifle as the conclusion of a bout of extravagance and dissipation.

The Chain Gang.

EDITORS APPEAL: I see this question is likely to become an element in the approaching municipal election of this city. It deserves the calm consideration of all who profess to believe in justice and humanity. For a period of about five years, this institution has been a nursery of crime; or, in other words, an engine of vast potency, whose powers have been wielded toward the transformation of men into beasts. I remember that, about five years ago, I was walking along the streets of this city, when my attention was attracted by the clinking of chains; and, on observation, what was my surprise on beholding a body of men—free, whitemen, guilty of no crime—chained, as a West India planter would not chain his slaves, without some compunction of conscience. I asked myself, is this indeed a land of liberty, where men, who are guilty of no crime, are forced to work upon the public streets with chains clinking about their limbs? I have no doubt but this question suggested itself to many others; yet, the practice of chaining was not abolished until the city was sued for damage, by some one who had his leg broken in consequence of being chained down.

Although the practice of chaining has been discontinued, still the institution retains the name of "Chain Gang;" and whoever is so unfortunate as to be sent to this inhuman and odious receptacle of nameless beings, will ever have olium cast upon them, from which it will be almost impossible for them to free themselves.

If we will but look at this question in all its bearings, we will be bound to come to the conclusion that this institution should be done away with, and a work house erected in its stead.

It benefits not the city; but it is, on the contrary, an expense.

It blasts the reputation of those who are guilty of no crime, but of a mere misdemeanor.

It makes confirmed vagabonds, outcasts and criminals of those who happen to be guilty of a little misconduct, and then happen not to have a few dollars to pay the fine imposed upon them.

A man may get drunk, commit any little misdemeanor he pleases, and still be as respectable as ever—provided he has the money to pay for his misconduct; but if a poor man is so unfortunate as to be guilty of the same act, and yet has not the money to pay a small fine, he is sent to the chain-gang, which is sufficient to damn any one for a lifetime. I ask, in the name of enlightened reason, in the name of the sacred principles of freedom, in the name of impartial justice, is this right?

Some men have no reputations to lose; of such I do not speak. I refer to those who have been unfortunate, and for that reason sent to a den of infamy.

Men are sent to the "chain gang," not because they get drunk, and the like, but because they happen not to have the money to pay for it.

I will conclude by making a few assertions which I conceive to be self-evident.

It ruins others.

It manufactures criminals.

It makes a distinction between the rich and the poor.

It is not a pecuniary benefit to the city.

The Legislature never granted the city the power to establish such an institution.

It is "cruel and unusual punishment," and therefore contrary to the Constitution of the land.

Therefore, in view of these facts, it should be speedily abolished, and a work house established in its place. W. P. F.

POPULATION OF THE CITY OF MEMPHIS IN 1859.—The daily Dispatch published in this city in its number printed February 21, 1859, sets down the population of Memphis as follows:

First Ward—From the Bluff to Jackson street, north	410
Second Ward—From Jackson street to Market street	592
Third Ward—From Market street to Washington, north	1,096
Fourth Ward—From Washington street to Court, north	1,266
Fifth Ward—From Court street to Union	1,272
Total	5,035

Ten years ago, therefore, the entire population of our city was five thousand two hundred and fifty-three. If our population exceeds now thirty thousand, as those best capable of judging, estimate that to be the least number, we have increased in the space of ten years nearly six hundred per cent. Should we in the next ten years increase in the same proportion, our population will largely exceed 150,000 in 1869. Who can even be astonished at this estimate, and who will say that it will not be realized? Memphis is attracting more attention abroad, North, South, East and West, than any other city in the Southwest. Every railroad car, or steamboat that arrives here brings more or less persons desiring to make this their permanent residence. We think now is the time for our citizens to secure a home in one of the best localities in the neighborhood of the city, and which will, in a short time, be the most densely populated of all its environs. Remember the sale of Monsarrat, Dupree & Co., on Wednesday. Take the omnibus and attend this sale. See advertisement and be sure to take their losses.

COUNCIL AND THE FINANCIAL REPORT.—Council to-night holds its first meeting for the month of June, and this afternoon at three o'clock the various city officials make their reports. Among these reports should be one from the City Register, showing in a condensed form the exact condition of the City Treasury, and explaining how much has been spent during the month on improvements, police, lighting the city, for the various city offices, for interest and so on. It is now about four months since a resolution, offered by Ald. Kortkreit, was passed requiring this to be done, that the secrecy and mystery in which the city financial affairs had been enveloped might be done away, and the people informed of what was done with their money; yet thus far the report has been withheld, not one monthly report of the character required having been presented to Council. Will it be offered this afternoon? We shall see.

SOUTHERN FIELD AND FIRESIDE.—The second number of this paper, published at Augusta, Georgia, by James Gardner, Esq., is before us. It is gotten up in beautiful style and is every way creditable to the patronage of the Southern public, to whom, we take it, it looks principally for support. The first number contains in part an article—"Master William Mitten; or a youth of brilliant talents who was ruined by bad luck," written by Judge Longstreet, (author of the Georgia Scenes,) which is alone worth the subscription ($2.00) to the paper. It gives us pleasure to commend the work to our readers, who could advantageously exchange for it the trashy and namby-pamby papers and periodicals with which we are flooded from the Northern States. Specimen copies of the Southern Field and Fireside may be seen at all our book stores.

POLICE REPORTS.—As at present made, the police reports to council are worthless; they give some information which is obtained in a better shape from the Recorder, and withhold the classification of offenses which alone makes such a report of value. The report should specify the charges, as assault, drunkenness, vagrancy, murder, larceny, etc., and state the number of arrests for each. This would allow of one month or year being compared with another, and show where crimes and misdemeanors were increasing or decreasing. If it is desired to show what the individual officers have done, let their names be given as each case of an arrest each man has made.

☞ We had the pleasure yesterday of an interview with Gen. R. M. Gaines, late of Natchez, Miss., but now a resident and prominent citizen of Arkansas. The General was a member of the last Arkansas State Senate, and while in that capacity, he was not unfaithful to his immediate constituents; he gave unmistakable proof by his efforts in behalf of the Memphis and Little Rock Railroad that he fully comprehended and was determined to advance the interests of the whole people of that State.

STREET PAVING.—We learn that Mr. Loudon, who has contracted to pave our wharf, will be here in two or three days, bringing with him eight hundred perches of stone, and that he will at once enter vigorously upon the work of wharf improvement. His pay, it will be remembered, will come entirely out of the wharfage paid by boats, and the improvement will, therefore, pay for itself.

Congress Water.
MUCH spurious Mineral Water is imposed on the public as "CONGRESS WATER," by unprincipled persons or combinations, who when they dare not use that name, call it "Saratoga" Water, which many persons suppose to be a mineral water from the Congress Springs, although it is only the name of the town where the Springs is.
To protect the public from such impositions, we have all our kegs branded thus ☞ and the corks of our bottles with the name, CONGRESS & WATER, upon the corks, are counterfeited, and the jacket branded CONGRESS WATER, the safest for swindling.
Orders will receive prompt attention if addressed to us at Congress Spring, Saratoga, N. Y., or of our Resident Agent at Congress Spring, in New York City.

The river still continues to recede steadily, and has fallen three feet in the last twenty-four hours.

Our last night's St. Louis dispatches report a fall of six inches at that point within the preceding 24 hours. The Cheshire and J. C. Swon had arrived, and the Imperial departed.

The Vicksburg Sun, of June 4, says the river at that point has fallen but one inch during the last forty-eight hours. The stench emanating from the cotton left under the levee by the receding river is very offensive.

The New Orleans Picayune, June 4, reports the river still falling slowly, and now about thirty inches below Bainbridge mark.

The Washington (Ark.) Democrat, May 31, says Red river is still in boating order to Fulton. The Opelika is at a few stage.

The Red Branch Times, May 31, has the following:

The river is in fine boating order—about eight feet water in the channel, the interim being the highest we have had this season.

We learn on his regular day (Friday) of P. M.

The Vicksburg Sun, June 4, says the Yazoo river is falling slowly at Yazoo City.

The Cairo (Ill.) Gazette says that the rise reported in the Upper Red river was not sufficient to float the boats over the shoals. The rise in Little river raised the Lakes, and also the river opposite Caddo about four inches. This addition to the supply of water will enable large boats to cross the Sample bars for two or three weeks longer.

The Ouachita river is still navigable as high up as Camden, but is declining.

The Natchez Free Trader, of May 30, reports:

The river at this point is either stationary or falling very imperceptibly. It has declined from highest mark this season from seven and a quarter to seven and three quarter inches. The Tensas river is falling slowly.

The Natchez (Ark.) Pioneer of June 2 says:

The St. Francis is falling apace at the rate of about six or eight inches in twenty-four hours, and has fallen at this point about eight feet. If this continues, of which there is a good prospect, the river will soon be within its channel, and clear the bottoms. This will give our railroad men a chance to repair damages and put the road in running order again. It is supposed this can be done in three weeks after the water goes down. We are pleased to state in this connection that our thriving town has been visited this season by four P-ot when at the highest point.

Wednesday night, between 11 and 12 o'clock, the S. H. Winslow, lying on the Kentucky side of the river at Cincinnati, was discovered to be on a sinking condition. At about 4 o'clock she went down, in over eight feet water. The cause of her sinking was the taking away of the upper "shoe" which supplies the "doctor" with water. It was doubtful by a shade of odds, who took it in Cincinnati, and was about selling it when he was arrested. The thief was a free nigger, of the name of Rodney. The Winslow has been laid up, and was partially disembarked. The Newport editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer says it has been hinted that there is more in the sinking of the S. W. Winslow, which we spoke of in yesterday's issue, than is dreamed of in the philosophy of the general reader. It is thought that the abstracting of the copper pipes, stolen by a fellow hailing from Cincinnati, who was subsequently arrested by the Cincinnati police, was not the main cause of her sinking at the wharf-boat, and it is believed that she was scuttled by some one who feels aggrieved at the course that was taken with her; one who felt that he had some pecuniary interest in the manner of her disposal. It will not be a very difficult matter to raise her, for which purpose she is added to the list. Gentlemen and Northwesterns free to send. G. B. LOCKE & CO.,
