Daily Appeal.

MEMPHIS.

SUNDAY, : : : : : AUGUST 21, 1859.

Reading Matter on Every Page.

Larges. Circulation in the City.

PARLIAMENTARY SKETCHES.

MR. DISRAELI

From the London Illustrated Times.]

Every one knows, on his rising, when Mr. Disraeli means to make a long speech. When he only intends to make a few introductory remarks he leans over the table, speaks in a low tone to the gentlemen opposite, and shows by his manner of standing and speaking that he intends soon to sit down. But when he rises for an oration he starts bolt upright at once, lays his notes on the official box before him, stepps a pace backward, pulls down his waistcoat, brings his arms into position, and waits until due silence is secured. Mr. Disraeli's office on this occasion was to defend his financial operations, and in some degree the foreign policy of the late government. When the right honorable gentleman delivered his financial statement in 1858, he made all things fair and square upon paper. He estimated the revenue in round numbers at £64,000,000, the actual receipts were £65,500,000; and yet, when he left office there was a deficiency of about £5,000,000, and he naturally enough wanted to show the country how this occurred, and we venture to say that he did this with complete success. The estimate of the revenue, so far from being too sanguine, had been exceeded, and his estimate of the expenditure would have been correct but for the disturbing influence of his own act, and the consequent necessity for a large increase in the army and navy expenditure. This first part of Mr. Disraeli's speech, though able and successful, was of course somewhat dull, for who can be eloquent in dealing with figures. The House, however, listened with due gravity, and, on the whole, was amused, though it was not excited to cheer; but when he came to the latter part of his speech, in which he touched upon foreign policy, he was all himself again, brought down cheers from his party, and applause from many of his opponents, and managed to touch a chord, when he advised a closer amity with France, that we may relieve our armaments, and thus terminate "this disastrous and wild expenditure," but did not cease to vibrate during the whole of the debate.

HIS SARCASM.

But the most noticeable feature in Mr. Disraeli's speech was the fine vein of irony or sarcasm which ran through the latter part. Mr. Disraeli is nothing unless he can be sarcastic. Sometimes his sarcasm is blunt and somewhat coarse, but here it was as fine and delicate as a razor's edge. The late government had been taunted with being the friend of Austria, and with having no sympathy or friendship with France. "We have been told," said he, "that it was entirely from the absence of some of those distinguished statesmen from the bench opposite which prevented us so pre-eminently adorn (?) that the war broke out at all. Had they been there it is well known that the Emperor of the French would never have taken a single step without consulting them, etc., etc. And then he went on to intimate that now they were in power, they had a fine opportunity of exercising their influence, and he earnestly to exert it to induce the Emperor to reduce his armaments, that we may reduce ours. The opposition saw, appreciated, and cheerfully thanks being, and it seemed also to take the fancy of the gentlemen behind the gangway on the other side, for they also joined in the cheers.

HIS COUNTENANCE.

We were curious to observe closely Mr. Disraeli's countenance when he was thus speaking, to see if there was any signs of feeling; but we saw, as usual, none. Mr. Disraeli's face is a mask, and he wears it even on occasions, and in most cases even to those who are near him, is simply the most unimpassioned countenance that ever stood upon the shoulders of a man. At a distance you can see no more expression than you would upon the face of an automaton. It is so utterly emotionless and inscrutable. In his dress, and even not a trifle is discernible. In his dress, and even in his bearing, there is a little of the dandy, but in his face not a trace. It is a mask, and we are forced to the conclusion that our neighbor has attained a point in order to make an issue with the APPEAL.

MISSISSIPPI NEWS.

SHOWER OF FROGS.—In the neighborhood of Artesia, in Lowndes county, it rained frogs last week. The ground was perfectly block with them. This we have from a reliable gentleman just from home.

NOMINATED FOR THE LEGISLATURE.—To Democrats of Noxubee county have nominated W. B. Augustus, Esq., to represent them in the State Legislature.

TATTOO COUNTY.—Harrison Barksdale and Dr. H. J. Thomas have received the nomination of the Democracy of this county for the Legislature.

SINGLETON AND SMITH.—These gentlemen have made joint appointments to canvass the Fourth Congressional District. The Vicksburg News says:

MAGNIFICO.—Several of the planters in this county, near the Vicksburg line, are offering their plantations for sale. They design going to Texas.

A SAD ACCIDENT.—We regret to learn just as we go to be out, that young Henry Martin, son of Mrs. Martin, residing on Mound Bluff, and Dar. A. Adams, accidently shot himself in the neck with a pistol yesterday evening. We understand the wound is considered dangerous, though hopes are never aired of his recovery.—Jackson Eagle.

GEN. WM. CLARKE.—This venerable and selfless is almost dead as Redmond, on the 18th inst. Gen. Clarke was a native of Virginia, and was formerly a leading and filled some of the highest and most responsible positions in the State.

A BOY WITH HORSE.—The Hinds county Gazette gives an account of a negro boy in that region, eight years old, who has horse on his head like a "young devil." The horses are said to be three inches long, to project from the head above each ear, and to interfere considerably with wearing a hat. They are stiff and hard, but not fatty, as are the horns of quadrupeds.

CROPS.—We hear most cheering reports from every part of our county in regard to the growing crops. In fact, the prospect for unprecedented crops is so fine, that croakers have ceased to croak, and Thomsers to doubt.—Coffeeville (Miss.) Intelligencer, Aug. 13.

SPEAKING AT PANOLA.—To-morrow the Hon. John J. Ferguson, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Mississippi, addresses his fellow-citizens at Panola. His Democratic friends have made all the necessary preparations to honor him with a Barbecue.

CANVASS IN TISHA.—On Monday Hon. S. C. Rutherford and Gen. W. C. Falkner, Democratic candidates for the Legislature, addressed a large and intelligent audience at the Court House. Their friends were highly pleased and delighted. There is no doubt of the election of our entire ticket, notwithstanding the unpopularity of the act of certain gentlemen who seem to have become professional candidates. Defeat too seems to have made a deep impression on their profession, and in that branch they have attained eminent success.—Ripley Advertiser.

Levee Convention, in Coahoma County, Miss.

We learn from the Coahoma Citizen, that a very large meeting of the citizens of Coahoma county was held near Friar's Point on the 13th inst., for the purpose of considering the levee interests of the county. The meeting was organized by calling Dr. J. A. Pease to the chair, and appointing Samuel N. Delany, secretary. The following resolutions, introduced by Col. J. G. Miller, and ably supported by Col. J. L. Alcorn, were adopted without a dissenting voice:

Resolved, That notwithstanding the recent disasters to the levees of the Mississippi river, our faith in the system is unshaken, our will is still fixed, and our determination more than ever established to prosecute the work, at whatever cost, to a permanent finish.

Resolved, That the principle of the late levee law of our Legislature has our hearty approval; that the action of the Board of Commissioners under that law meets with our warm approbation, and that its officers have our full and entire confidence.

Resolved, That we cordially indorse the spirit of the Proctor resolutions of the 1st inst., and we invite a general co-operation of the citizens of the Yazoo Valley, that Coahoma will be ever found in the line of battle, until her colors shall be planted high up on a levee sufficiently high to hold the waters forever off the river "Father of Waters."

Resolved, That if there be any among us who desire to continue the Mississippi River to take its own course, we hope such will leave; for it is our fixed determination to defend the interests of Coahoma against the rapacity of the fruitful fields, fetid by the labor of man. The dark forests must yield to the great civilizer, "cotton," and instead of the croaking of frogs and the scream of wild water fowl, we shall hear the whistle of the steam boat and the hum of the cotton gin.

Resolved, That if there be any among us who desire to continue the Mississippi River to take its own course, we hope such will leave; for it is our fixed determination to defend the interests of Coahoma against the rapacity of the fruitful fields, fetid by the labor of man. The dark forests must yield to the great civilizer, "cotton," and instead of the croaking of frogs and the scream of wild water fowl, we shall hear the whistle of the steam boat and the hum of the cotton gin.

Resolved, That we earnestly invoke the ensuing Legislature to give us laws adapted to our wants and purposes; that the area of the Levee District shall embrace all lands below the first bluff, from the base of the levee on the West to the base of the hills on the east; that the period of taxation shall be extended, and the sum increased; that the necessary details we leave to an enlightened Legislature—but and vigorous law is all we ask.

Resolved, That regarding our present necessities, that we can only be guaranteed in our boundary for the ensuing year, that the President of the Board of Police of this county, be requested to convene the Board on the first Monday in September next, and when so convened we earnestly urge said Board to exercise their prerogatives under law, to the extent of 50 cents on the taxable land of Coahoma; to be applied to the construction of the levees of Coahoma county, under the direction of the President of the General Levee Board.

Resolved, That it is manifest and evident that no levees can be built this season unless the tax proposed herein is assessed—action is therefore of the most vital importance. We desire to be so opposed to the Board as an enemy to the best interest of the county, and upon each shoulders rest the responsibility.

Resolved, That the chairman of this meeting appoint five persons from each beat to wait on the Board of Police on the day appointed for their meeting, to respectfully present these resolutions, and to urge the necessity of prompt and decisive action.

☞ In the Alabama Legislature the Opposition to the Democracy will not number over six Senators and about twenty Representatives. The Democrats have a majority of over five to one. There are a number of distinguished men in the Legislature. From the county of Mobile, Hon. John Forsyth, the former editor of the Columbus Times, and late Minister to Mexico; Gen. Dabney Walker, Ex-Member of Congress; Hon. A. B. Meek, a talented poet-laureate, and author of a poem, entitled "Red Eagle;" Hon. W. P. Chilton, Ex-Chief-Justice Supreme Court, from Mason county; Hon. Samuel F. Rice, Ex-Chief-Justice Supreme Court from Montgomery county; William H. Chambers, Esq., a rising man in the State, from Barbour, and others. These gentlemen all take their seats in the lower branch of the Legislature.

CLIPPINGS.

A New York correspondent says that ten millions of hooped skirts are manufactured in that city a year.

Mrs. Brown, widow of the late Postmaster-General, has presented the Tennessee Historical Society with a valuable collection of rare books.

A gentleman killed himself in Florida last week for the love of a Miss Bullitt. The poor fellow couldn't live with a Bullitt (bullet) in his heart.

Gen. Scott writes to Gov. Banks that bodily infirmity will prevent his being present at the State Encampment of the Massachusetts Militia.

A correspondent of the St. Louis Republican recently paid a visit to the hot springs of Arkansas, in the valley of the Rio Mimbres. The water is very limpid, and sufficiently hot to cook an egg in four or five minutes.

Capt. Schenley, well known in this country, and Mr. Leetham, brother-in-law of Mr. Bright, have been unseated in the British Parliament for corruption at the polls.

The amount of the debt of India on the 1st of May, 1858, is returned at the sum of £50,704,084—of which £33,165,605 was registered debt, and the rest floating.

Judge Lowe, of Cincinnati, has decided that inasmuch as a Jew observes strictly the Sabbath of his religion, he has a right to transact his ordinary business in the usual manner on Sunday.

Some of our early rising citizens state, says the Madison (N. Y.) Observer, that a slight frost was perceptible on the morning of Friday last. If this is so it is safe to predict that 1859 will be followed for a frost occurring every month of the year.

The annual assessment of property in the city of Boston, just completed, shows an aggregate of $205,621,500, which is the same the real estate is $157,092,800, and the personal property $104,921,700. This assessment shows an increase of $7,260,100 in the total over that of last year. The rate of taxation is $9.70 on $1000; last year it was $8.60.

ABOLISHING SUNDAY WORK.—A movement is now on foot among the journeymen barbers of New York city to secure for their own benefit the freedom from work on Sundays. All the establishments down town have been canvassed, and both employers and employees are in favor of the movement.

The Galveston (Texas) Examiner says Col. James Glover, of the California Overland Mail Company, informs us of the existence of a remarkable spring on his route, two hundred and eighty miles east of El Paso, on the road leading to San Antonio. It is fully one hundred and fifty feet in diameter, and has been sounded to the depth of eight thousand feet without finding bottom. The surface is as smooth as that of a mountain lake. It breaks out, running about three miles, when it disappears, and again rises in a mile and a half, forming a stream fifteen to twenty feet deep in many places. It is slightly impregnated with alkali and contains the five varieties of fish. It is called the Leon Hole.

Senator Seward had not left Paris at the date of the latest accounts. He was then staying at the Hotel Villmont, where he proposed remaining until the 1st of August. He had reached in triumph through the fete day honor, which was to have taken place the 15th of August.

The Romans are represented as saying that the Pope is too upright, too generous, and too fatherly for a temporal ruler. They say they want a wicked worldling, he be ever so much worse. They should have their pleasure for a short time.

The people of the United States show a strong predilection for a light and fictitious literature. Of two thousand odd and new novels issued in this country in a recent year about one-half were works of fiction or imagination. In France only one-ninth are works of the same class, and in England works of fancy constitute only one-seventh of the whole number published.

An Englishman of recent importation dropped into a restaurant in New York a few days since, and called for a beefsteak, intending to top off with a piece of pie. Upon tasting the pie he found it to be cold, and calling the Ethiopian waiter by the Homer, much to the chagrin of the latter, he ate the pie and "cut it." His celestial nation was great when Sambo walked to the fire and quietly devoured the pie.

FULL DRESS.

We take the following semable article from the Philadelphia Bulletin:

Dress is a very considerable, artificial, modified, and by no means immodest, Bloomerism rapidly gaining ground among English ladies—especially among those belonging to the elite of the metropolis, if the accounts of travelers are to be trusted. This consists of the "darling little Spanish hat," now so popular at our watering-places, a regular gentleman's sack overcoat, with nothing in the sides, and comfortable, short black dresses, without hoops. In some parts of Europe and the East, where men wear long, flowing dresses, and women, therefore, it will to be difficult to distinguish them—at a little distance, be it understood—from these fair daughters of Albion.

We think the day will never come when American ladies, in traveling, will ever "come up to the exigencies of the case." Will they, when incarcerated in railroad trains—especially in the ladies' cars, with a few short inches to two passengers—lay aside their crinolets of dignity, regularly known as hoops, to be crammed in more fitting places? Not as yet, we fear. It would be premature to predict the adoption of such a dress upon all occasions is all the rage in this country among all classes. In France and Italy the dress is modified, but the wearer has a decidedly superior station, as regards her dress and self-possession, to not include in all the glories of hoops, at least, "on dit," on occasions of "dress" occasions. It must be admitted that only one who is very truly a lady can afford to do this. The lorette—for all fashionable purposes, apparently, the same as ever—is, no matter how nominally virtuous they may be—cannot afford to lay aside her "gorgeous array." She must be gay or nothing, for she, in her ignorance and want of cultivated feeling, sees no difference between simplicity and meanness.

We think American women are not as morally corrupt as the class in Europe who dress full on all occasions, but they have most unluckily adopted the uniform of the unfortunate sisterhood by the misnomer of "full dress."

Thus ended that fearful tragedy that began with "only a single game of euchre."

The Democratic Candidate for Congress Elected in Oregon.

The rejoicings of the Republicans over their reported victory in Oregon were premature. Mr. Stone, the Democratic candidate for Congress, is certainly elected over Logan, his Republican competitor. His official majority is forty-five. The Portland (Oregon) Advertiser of the latest date says:

Dan Wilson left Salem on Monday evening, July 11, after the mail had arrived from the South, bringing the official returns of the counties south of the Calapooia Mountains, and he reached Portland on the 12th. Mr. Wilson reports to us that he visited the office of the Secretary of State—was present when he opened and examined the official returns from all the counties south—saw him compute the votes and compare them with those given north of the Calapooia Mountains, and saw the result obtained by the Secretary, which was forty-five majority for Stout throughout the entire State. The following are the official majorities as given by Wilson, and obtained by him at the Secretary's office:

Counties.	Dem. Stout.	Rep. Logan.
Clatsop	20	20
Columbia	9	2
Washington	154	154
Tualatin (previous report)	119	119
Clackamas (Gross City)	53	53
Yamhill	32
Polk	50	305
Marion (Salem)		305
Linn	119	88
Benton	200
Lane	4	4
Douglas	150	150
Josephine	200
Jackson	300	300
Wasco	187	187
Umpqua	75	75
Coos and Curry	4	4
Total majorities	1,360	1,595
Logan's majority	235
Majority for Stout	45

Mr. Stout arrived in Portland, from Salem, on the evening of the 12th July, when the Democracy of the former town "burst considerable powder" as a token of their rejoicing at his election.

SOUND SENTIMENTS.—The Daily North Carolinian, speaking of the Democratic party, in view of the serious loss of one or two Democratic members of Congress in that State, with the following sound sense:

It is a pitiful sight to see Southern men rejoice at the victory—so styled, of this anomaly, the Opposition. Min whose fidelity to the South can not be questioned, but whose prejudices have blinded them to such a extent that is impossible for them to see what is to their interest. The defeat of the Democratic party in the South will be a blight upon the present, supported her, from what quarter none she look for assistance? Where will she go for backers when she has by her own hand crushed those who have put all other considerations aside for the love of their country and the Union, and stood firmly the jeers and taunts of their northern fellow-citizens—those northern Democrats, truer and more reliable than whom cannot be produced—they have upheld and supported her; but where will they go? Are their services no longer needed in the South prepared to dispense with them? If such is the case, then the time has come for an Opposition triumph.

WHO HAS BEEN BENEFITED BY THE LATE WAR.—Mr. Raymond, in the latest letter sent by him from Europe, puts it plainly that the News has been strikingly correct in all we for bound to urge as to the direct result to Italy and Austria of the peace at Villafranca. The reader can answer for himself. Here is Mr. Raymond's own words: "Many regard Austria as substantially the gainer, inasmuch as she has now a recognized legal position in Italy, and a conceded right to intervene in Italian affairs, whereas before the war she could only rely upon her secret treaties, her family alliance and illegitimate influence which in various ways she pushed so far. Nor, now, as mistress of Venezia, has a recognized voice and vote in the affairs of the Italian Confederation, and she will never lack the means of making that influence preponderate over the smaller States, whenever it shall be worth her while." That is just exactly what we contended at the first moment would prove to be the case when the terms of the peace came calmly to be discussed. But Mr. Raymond, for our other post-Section, adds: "This is the view taken by the warmest friends of Italy among the Liberals of Northern Italy." Yes, the warmest friends of Italy among the Liberals of Northern Italy are those who are most anxious to be classed.

☞ The longest straight line of railway in New England is seven miles, in the town of Rumney, near the White Mountains. On the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Road, there is a piece of seventy miles in an air line in Northern Indiana.

THE FIRST GAME OF EUCHRE.

BY JOHN A. CONFORD.

It was a cold and windy night in January, the snow was spreading the earth with her mantle of white; there was a continual ringing of sleigh bells. Look! one, two, three, four sleighs are running by us. What can this mean? Oh, yes, there is a party at Judson's to night. On they went, a gleaming of sleighs, horses, pretty faces, and a waving of handkerchiefs. The jingle of the bells has ceased—the sleighs have stopped before the palatial dwelling of Mr. Judson, lights are in the hall, lights are in the parlor—in fact, the whole house is illuminated.

Servants in livery are at the door, and on the broad stone steps, to attend to the wants of the young and the gay, who have just alighted. Many peals of laughter welcome the invited; there is indeed a musical expression on the countenances of the assembled; the piano is playing soft accompaniments to the melody of song; "a dance, a dance, let's have a dance," is echoed from two or three, eager to "trip the light fantastic toe."

Now all have joined in the mazy dance; all seem to enjoy themselves; fun to our heart's content is the motto by which all seem to be inspired; the sideboard groans with the tables are produced, and all save one are playing euchre. Cards of different kinds are turned up as trumps on the different tables.

"One, two, three, four—only three are playing at this table," explained Lizzie May, looking around inquisitively—"only three; for my part I despise euchre, miserable card game at three; only one more is wanted to make the set. We have him—there he is," pointing to Harry James, who was reclining lazily upon the sofa.

"I thank you, he does not play," said his friend, Mr. Reed, "for he would have joined us at the very first."

"No matter," answered Lizzie, "we can learn him. I will ask him at any rate." And she hastily joined Harry. You are alone, and without enjoyment. We want a partner, come and join us," said Lizzie.

"I cannot play," answered Harry. "I hardly know the name of the cards, save the various tricks that experienced players resort to."

"We will not cheat you, Harry," retorted Lizzie; "its only euchre,—you are not afraid, are you? If you are, the fates preserve you."

"I am not afraid, Lizzie. I'm no coward. As for cards, I have no choice for them; to learn and play well, would require diligent application. I don't wish to become a puppy again said Harry.

"Come, Harry, be a puppy of mine," said Lizzie, with earnestness.

There was a strange fascination in Lizzie, thought Harry, as he felt himself impelled to learn the game of euchre—to become a puppy of Lizzie's. The temptation was there; he felt the tempter struggling in his mind against the precepts he had learned in his earliest maturity. Suffice it to say that Harry played the remainder of the evening.

* * * * * *

Six months have rolled around, and in that time things will have their change; for Harry they had their change. Rumor has it that Harry James plays wonderfully well; in fact, men who know and men who have experience, pronounce him a finished player. The sunny countenance and careworn face bespeak a change. Harry does not resemble the same man at all, when last I saw him at Judson's party; that open, sunny countenance, that noble expression is gone.

So Harry is a gambler! What a desperate situation; he's a desperate player, too, and drinks to the dregs the bitter cup forced upon him. 'Tis a sorry tale—a few months ago we saw him—we had to coax him to play, in fact we learned him then to play, and what a change! We can hardly realize it; he was once a fine young man, the idol of society, beloved by all who knew him; and there he goes a gambler! Look at his careless dress, at his careless and haggard look, that he has lost heavily at play lately. He has just turned the corner—he's running. The thought flashed upon me, as he passed me, that he was a fugitive from justice. I followed him—every moment he seemed to quicken his pace; now he's bounding along with mantle speed. My God! he's turned the gate in the Judson residence! Lizzie May. See him—he opens the door, not stopping to ring the bell. I was on the steps after him. I called him by name—he turned around; there was a satanic expression in his countenance; he meant no good, was my hasty though firm conclusion.

A moment more and I had him in my grasp. From his side pocket he pulls out a revolver. I saw him as he presented it; the rays of the setting sun were peering through the glass sides of the hall door. I was gazing in the sun. My God! he'll fire if I don't release him! release him and he perhaps will murder the inmates. No use to try help, for the door is closed against our best use. Imagine the horror that filled one at that moment of anxious suspense. I did release him; he stood by me, not moving an inch. He bent his head, and, whispering, said:

"They say I'm mad! I'm as sane as my accusers! one thing more," and, stamping his foot vehemently, exclaimed, "I'm a murderer! I played for money! its lost! lost! all gone! My pile grew thin—I staked it all! lost! lost! and, as my antagonist coolly pocketed my pile, I shot him! he fell! I fled! enough. Oh, God! I'm a murderer! No time for repentance. The officers are upon me. Tell them they'll find my body here. One sentence more—I die by my own hand. Shall an earthly cain escape me from it! Look you, Miss Lizzie, I come to return you in my dying hour! One year ago, when things went merry as a marriage bell, I swear you to be my bride. Lizzie, I love you, because you had shunned the game. You so doomed me to it! You, by your flattering seeming, insinuating society which has made me I am now a ruined man! an enemy in society because I'm a murderer! Life has no charms for me. Farewell, Lizzie, farewell! You have witnessed the first lesson in my downfall, shall witness the last act of my life's misery! To my parents—tell them for me that I died in my sin, without a hope of forgiveness! and tell to the world, and to young men especially, that the way to avoid my fate is to avoid the shoot upon which I was shipwrecked! Hark! hark! he exclaims. "I hear the footsteps of the police! They have traced me here!"

Scarce had he uttered these words than, putting the revolver to his head, he ended his existence. A loud report was heard, and the soul of Harry James was launched into eternity by his own hand.

Thus ended that fearful tragedy that began with "only a single game of euchre."

The Democratic Candidate for Congress Elected in Oregon.

The rejoicings of the Republicans over their reported victory in Oregon were premature. Mr. Stone, the Democratic candidate for Congress, is certainly elected over Logan, his Republican competitor. His official majority is forty-five. The Portland (Oregon) Advertiser of the latest date says:

Dan Wilson left Salem on Monday evening, July 11, after the mail had arrived from the South, bringing the official returns of the counties south of the Calapooia Mountains, and he reached Portland on the 12th. Mr. Wilson reports to us that he visited the office of the Secretary of State—was present when he opened and examined the official returns from all the counties south—saw him compute the votes and compare them with those given north of the Calapooia Mountains, and saw the result obtained by the Secretary, which was forty-five majority for Stout throughout the entire State. The following are the official majorities as given by Wilson, and obtained by him at the Secretary's office:

Counties.	Dem. Stout.	Rep. Logan.
Clatsop	20	20
Columbia	9	2
Washington	154	154
Tualatin (previous report)	119	119
Clackamas (Gross City)	53	53
Yamhill	32
Polk	50	305
Marion (Salem)		305
Linn	119	88
Benton	200
Lane	4	4
Douglas	150	150
Josephine	200
Jackson	300	300
Wasco	187	187
Umpqua	75	75
Coos and Curry	4	4
Total majorities	1,360	1,595
Logan's majority	235
Majority for Stout	45

Mr. Stout arrived in Portland, from Salem, on the evening of the 12th July, when the Democracy of the former town "burst considerable powder" as a token of their rejoicing at his election.

SOUND SENTIMENTS.—The Daily North Carolinian, speaking of the Democratic party, in view of the serious loss of one or two Democratic members of Congress in that State, with the following sound sense:

It is a pitiful sight to see Southern men rejoice at the victory—so styled, of this anomaly, the Opposition. Min whose fidelity to the South can not be questioned, but whose prejudices have blinded them to such a extent that is impossible for them to see what is to their interest. The defeat of the Democratic party in the South will be a blight upon the present, supported her, from what quarter none she look for assistance? Where will she go for backers when she has by her own hand crushed those who have put all other considerations aside for the love of their country and the Union, and stood firmly the jeers and taunts of their northern fellow-citizens—those northern Democrats, truer and more reliable than whom cannot be produced—they have upheld and supported her; but where will they go? Are their services no longer needed in the South prepared to dispense with them? If such is the case, then the time has come for an Opposition triumph.

WHO HAS BEEN BENEFITED BY THE LATE WAR.—Mr. Raymond, in the latest letter sent by him from Europe, puts it plainly that the News has been strikingly correct in all we for bound to urge as to the direct result to Italy and Austria of the peace at Villafranca. The reader can answer for himself. Here is Mr. Raymond's own words: "Many regard Austria as substantially the gainer, inasmuch as she has now a recognized legal position in Italy, and a conceded right to intervene in Italian affairs, whereas before the war she could only rely upon her secret treaties, her family alliance and illegitimate influence which in various ways she pushed so far. Nor, now, as mistress of Venezia, has a recognized voice and vote in the affairs of the Italian Confederation, and she will never lack the means of making that influence preponderate over the smaller States, whenever it shall be worth her while." That is just exactly what we contended at the first moment would prove to be the case when the terms of the peace came calmly to be discussed. But Mr. Raymond, for our other post-Section, adds: "This is the view taken by the warmest friends of Italy among the Liberals of Northern Italy." Yes, the warmest friends of Italy among the Liberals of Northern Italy are those who are most anxious to be classed.

☞ The longest straight line of railway in New England is seven miles, in the town of Rumney, near the White Mountains. On the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Road, there is a piece of seventy miles in an air line in Northern Indiana.

New Advertisements.

All Advertisements for the Appeal must be handed in at the Clerk's desk.

All Advertisements published in the Weekly Appeal are charged One Dollar per square for each insertion.

All transient advertisements must be marked for a specified time. When not thus marked, they will be charged for one week, and discontinued at the end of that time.

Wanted.

A GENTLEMAN, having a thorough knowledge of business, with the best kind of city references, desires a situation as Bookkeeper, Corresponding Clerk, etc. A Back or Commission House preferred. Address COMMERCE, at this office. aug21-1w1t

COME ONE! COME ALL!

TO G. BESSHAR'S Furniture Warerooms, at No. 182 Main street, one door north of Adam's. We can and will sell cheap this stock of Furniture. So do not fail to come to the new Furniture house.

G. BESSHAR.
aug21-dw1w S. O. G. MILES, Agent.

MEMPHIS Manufacturing Company.

(LATE VARIETY WORKS)

Corner Main and Sycamore Streets,

THEY have recently completed a stock of general job work, and are now prepared to do work in the best, and most approved machinery for manufacturing

Panel Door Stock
Window and Door Frames
Venitian and Panel Shutters,
Mantels, Pilasters, Brackets
Moulding, Turning,
Wheelwrights and Collins
White and Yellow Pine Flooring,
Planing and Sawing, etc., etc.

Parties, either in the city or country, who desire something buildings, will find it to their advantage to call at this establishment before making their contracts.

☞ Orders left at McKINNEY & CO.'S, 192 Main street, will receive prompt and immediate attention.

aug7-d1m

MEMPHIS AND ST. LOUIS RAILROAD COMPANY.

BOOKS OPENED FOR STOCK.

NOTICE is hereby given that books will be opened, on the 5th of September, 1859, by the Commissioners of the Memphis and St. Louis Railroad Company, to receive subscriptions to the Capital Stock of said Company, at the following places, to-wit: At the store of Bain & Bates, Hernando, Desoto county, Mississippi, and at the office of J. T. Swayne, Madison street, Memphis, Tennessee.

By order of the board of Commissioners.

aug21-d10 J. T. SWAYNE, Secretary.

Notice of Insolvency.

Wilson Lloyd, Adm'r, vs. In County Court of Shelby county.
W. Little, Adm'r.

HAVING suspended the insolvency of said estate, all persons having claims against the same are notified to file them with the Clerk's office of said Court, properly related in the manner prescribed by law, on or against the 1st of January, 1860, for pro rata distribution.

WILSON LLOYD, Adm'r.

Dissolution.

THE firm of COPELAND EDMONDS & CO. is this day dissolved, by the withdrawal of C. W. Edmonds, who has disposed of his entire interest in L. M. Caldwell, late of Memphis, Tenn.

The business will hereafter be conducted under the name of CALDWELL, COPELAND & CO. Either partner has the right to use the firm of the old firm in liquidation only. This 8th August, 1859.

F. M. COPELAND,
C. W. EDMONDS,
E. W. CALDWELL.

I take great pleasure in recommending my successors, Messrs. Caldwell, Copeland & Co., to my friends and customers.

C. W. EDMONDS.

L. M. CALDWELL.....F. M. COPELAND.
Late of Memphis, Tenn. Late of Memphis, Tenn.
E. W. CALDWELL, Memphis.

CALDWELL, COPELAND & CO.,

WHOLESALE GROCERS,

Commission Merchants,

AND

COTTON FACTORS,

No. 46 Front Row.

aug6-dw1m (Register copy)

VALUABLE LIBRARY EDITIONS.

ALLEN'S BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY—Revised and Enlarged by American Biography.
THE BRITISH ESSAYISTS—Including Addison, Macaulay, Wilson, Goldsmith, Mitford, etc.
NOTES ARRIOSARIA—Complete in five volumes.
KNIGHT'S SHAKESPEAR—The best edition extant; now out in numerous parts.
BAYARD TAYLOR'S TRAVELS—Complete in 6 vols.
BANCROFT'S UNITED STATES—7 vols.
PRESCOTT'S HISTORIES—Uniform edition.
ABBOTT'S HISTORY OF FRENCH REVOLUTION—one volume.
FAC SIMILE OF THE WICKLIFFE TESTAMENT—Being the first translation of this volume into English; dated A. D. 1380; London edition; very rare.
IRVING'S WORKS—Volumes sold separately.

At Geo. Pattison's Co.'s.
aug21 No. 263 Main street.

H. G. DATE.....JNO. G. M'DATE.
Late of Dallas, Texas. Late of Fairfield, Fairfield county, Texas.
DATE, BOWEN & CO.

DAVIS & McDADE,

COTTON FACTORS,

Commission, Receiving and Forwarding

MERCHANTS.

OFFICE—NO. 48 FRONT ROW, MEMPHIS, TENN.

OUR charge for storing, weighing and selling Cotton is 75 cents per Bale.

We are prepared to furnish our customers with the best bagging of Bagging and Rope, and all other Plantation supplies at the lowest market price, on the usual time, unless instructed to the contrary.

We will also give prompt attention to all business entrusted to our care, and will carefully obey instructions regarding the sale of Cotton or other Produce consigned to us. We will also give special attention to the purchasing and forwarding of goods.

aug7-1m&6m

ISAAC NEVILLE.....D. G. JAMES.....W. M. JAMES.

NEVILL & JAMES,

DEALERS IN

Slaves,

No. 174 MAIN STREET,

Memphis, Tennessee.

SIXTY LIKELY NEGROES

FOR SALE.

WE have, and will constantly keep on hand for sale, a good lot of Negroes, such as field hands and house servants, which we will sell on reasonable terms. Forty negroes.

☞ We will hold and sell Negroes on Commission.

☞ The highest cash price paid for all kinds of Negroes.

J. FOWLKES.....T. J. FOWLKES.....T. P. ADAMS.

FOWLKES & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS

AND

COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

POST-OFFICE BUILDING, JEFFERSON STREET,

Memphis.....Tenn.

ALWAYS KEEP ON HAND AND FOR SALE,

BAGGING, ROPE, TWINE, MESS PORK,	BACON, SALT, CANDLES, LARD,	SUGAR, COFFEE, MOLASSES, NAILS,

And Plantation Supplies generally.

ORDERS ATTENDED TO WITH DISPATCH, AND AT LOWEST MARKET PRICES.

—ALSO—

CONTINUE TO STORE COTTON

IN THEIR

Large Fire-Proof Cotton Shed.

AGENTS FOR THE

Celebrated Taylor Cotton Gin,

MADE BY

CLEMENS, BROWN & CO.,

COLUMBUS, GEORGIA.

S. M. GATES.....A. M. WOOD.....M. M'KNIGHT.

GATES, WOOD & McKNIGHT,

GROCERS

AND

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

Nos. 285 Main and 5 Monroe street,

MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE,

Agents

Collier White Lead and Oil Company,

ST. LOUIS, MO.

HAZARD POWDER COMPANY,

NEW YORK.

DEALERS IN LINSEED, CASTOR, LARD AND TRAIN

OILS,

Lime, Cement and Plaster Paris,

Spirits Turpentine,

AND NAVAL STORES GENERALLY.

A large stock of

BAGGING, ROPE AND TWINE,

With a general stock of

PLANTATION SUPPLIES.

WE will open here in store a large stock of the WINE, liquors and cigars, which we and in fact everything usually kept in our line of business.

Memphis, Tenn., 1859.

Just received by aug6 W. R. STRANGE & CO.

For Sale.

TWO HORSES AND LOTS, 216 Greenlaw's Row. I will sell at a bargain.

E. B. MILLER,
204 Main street.

Ye Lovers of the Weed.

24 BOXES Tennessee Tobacco, on consignment, aug6-d3m for sale low by DOBBIN, aug6-d3m No. 19 Front Row, up stairs.

Extra Flour.

25 BBLS. just received and for sale low by CHENEY & SHERTOCK, aug6-1w No. 20 Madison street.

New Irish Potatoes.

40 BBLS. just received and for sale low by CHENEY & SHERTOCK, aug6-d w No. 20 Madison street.

Hams, Shoulders and Sides.

HAMS and for sale low by CHENEY & SHERTOCK, aug6-1w No. 20 Madison street.

Notice.

THE copartnership heretofore existing between the undersigned, under the firm of SMITH & FOWLER, is this day dissolved by mutual consent. Either party is authorized to use the name of the firm in liquidation.

Memphis, Aug. 1, '59.

New Firm.

THE undersigned have this day formed a co-partnership under the name and style of

Porter & Macrae, and having bought out the entire stock of Messrs. Porter & Smith, will continue the General Grocery and Commission Business, at Lauer's old stand, where they will be pleased to wait on the friends of the old house and the public generally. They will keep constantly on hand large stocks of GROCERIES, and will be prepared always to furnish them at the lowest market rates.

H. P. PORTER,
G. W. MACRAE.

Bagging and Rope.

1000 PIECES Bagging and Rope, at the lowest market price.

HILL & DORION.

New Advertisements.

Wanted.

A SITUATION as clerk or to run the undersigned the business in every department. Can take the management of a Nursery of Fruit Garden. Would prefer to be a partner in either. Satisfactory references given. Address "J. S." Box 105. aug19-1w*

For Sale.

I HAVE for sale a very lovely suite of marble topped Furniture, which I will sell cheap for cash.

F. BUK WILLIAMS,
No. 289 Main street.

Wanted to Hire.

A NO. 1 Cook, Washer and Ironer. Liberal wages. Apply to A. C. CRIGHTON, At Chandler & Co.'s, next door to Odd Fellows' Hall.
aug19-3t

Boarding.

TWO fine and large unfurnished rooms, in a private house, with board, on reasonable terms, can be secured by two small families, by applying soon at the first residence house on Adams street, north of Vance. Distance about ten minutes' walk from Court Square, and in a healthy, quiet neighborhood. Also—Board and Room for six single gentlemen.

Rev. T. J. DRAKE, Memphis; J. G