Local Matters.

Tuesday Morning, January 24, 1860.

OLD NEWSPAPERS.—One or two thousand old newspapers for sale at the APPEAL OFFICE.

☞ A. S. Levy & Co. will sell furniture, groceries, etc., at auction, at 10 o'clock this morning. Buyers will do well to attend.

PERSONAL.—J. B. Jones, Esq., formerly conductor on the Ohio railroad, now agent in Columbus, was in the city yesterday.

☞ Mr. E. F. Fuller, the popular general western agent of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, is at the Gayoso House.

FAST DRIVING.—Two more reckless drivers were fined by the recorder yesterday for fast driving.

MORE RAILROAD IRON.—The John Simonds arrived from New Orleans Sunday with 1,036 bars railroad iron for the Memphis and Ohio road.

RECORDER'S COURT.—Three were twenty-seven cases before the Recorder yesterday, and six delinquents were sent to the chaingang.

EDITORIAL.—J. T. Shelton, Esq., the well known editor of that popular and widely-circulated sheet, the Lagrange Monitor, is in the city.

☞ Mr. Nichols, the well-known and popular agent of the overland mail company, which gentleman is located at Fort Smith, is in the city.

RETAILING ON SUNDAY.—L. Kuppermann, for a second offense, was fined $20 by the recorder, yesterday, for retailing liquor on the Sabbath day.

WHOLESALE HANGING.—William Kieran has commenced a hanging business on Union street in this city, in the expectation of a considerable southern demand for his services. He hangs bells.

☞ Attention is directed to the advertisement of Messrs. Andrews & Gibson, in new advertisement column. These in want of fresh Goshen butter, cheese, etc., will find it to their interest to call on them.

NARROW ESCAPE.—A mule and horse fell from the staging of the steamer Nebraska last evening, and made an almost miraculous escape from drowning. The mule was swept down by the current under the starboard wheel, but made a safe landing near the lower wharfboat.

THE NEW MEMPHIS THEATRE.—Mr. Collins, it seems, has lost none of his attractions for our theater-goers, as he had another immense audience last evening. He will appear again this evening in His Last Legs, and in the play of The Wrong Passenger, the entertainment to conclude with Julius and Cleopatra.

☞ The house of Wm. B. Campbell & Co., Philadelphia, we take pleasure in stating, is an A No. 1 importing house, composed of gentlemen who enjoy the confidence of southern merchants to a large extent. They are importers of dry goods, white goods, fancy goods, etc.

THE COAST TO LAND ON.—That coast is Pancoast, for at Pancoast & Bogue', on Madison street, next door to Speidel's saloon, are to be found Baltimore oysters, chickens, game, venison, vegetables and a hundred other good things that make that coast desirable to land on.

LARGEST RECEIPTS OF THE SEASON.—The steamer St. Francis No. 3, which arrived from the St. Francis river Sunday evening, brought seven hundred and nine bales cotton for merchants—the largest consignment made to this port by a single boat during the season.

☞ We invite attention to the card of Messrs. Aldridge, Austin & Co., No. 411 and 413 Market street, Philadelphia, importers of hosiery and fancy goods. The firm is composed of southern men, two of whom are natives of West Tennessee, and we earnestly commend it to our friends as a first class importing house.

THE FRATERNAL BANQUET.—The Louisville Courier says: We understand that the superintendent of the Louisville and Frankfort railroad has placed a special train of cars at the disposal of Governor Magoffin and the members of the Legislature, on the occasion of their visit to this city to meet the members of the Tennessee legislature at the grand banquet in this city on the 24th instant.

CHARGE OF LARCENY.—A man named A. B. Kendall, or A. J. Kendall, was arrested by Officer Smith, in this city, yesterday, by order of the chief of police of Cincinnati. The accused is charged with having stolen a sum of money and some jewelry. He will be held until a requisition is received from the Governor of Ohio.

AN ATTRACTIVE ENTERTAINMENT.—We are promised a most pleasing entertainment at Odd Fellows' Hall this evening, in the form of a lecture, recitations, and vocal and instrumental music, by Mr. Le Grand B. Cushman, assisted by the popular ab singer, Miss Viola Pomeroy. The entertainment will be instructive, as well as pleasing, and will doubtless attract a large audience.

PERHAPS FATAL ACCIDENT.—A laborer, while engaged yesterday at the excavation at the Bluff, at the foot of Jefferson street, had a leg broken and received internal injuries which it is thought will prove fatal, by the fall of an embankment of earth. He was rendered speechless, and therefore could not articulate his name. The unfortunate man was conveyed to the hospital for treatment.

CHANGE OF FIRM.—Mr. E. A. Shryock has disposed of his interest to the grocery, liquor and commission establishment, at No. 20 Madison street, to Mr. G. J. Davis, late of Clarksville. The new firm is styled Crews & Davis. The junior partner is highly recommended, and our old friend Crews is too well known in this community to need any commendation. Their stock of groceries, liquors, etc., is now very complete and desirable.

SHOOTING WITH INTENT TO KILL.—A youth named John Burke invaded the premises of Mrs. Bridget Kelly, on Main street near Winchester, on Saturday, and secreted himself under a bed. He was discovered, however, and ejected. He turned about, as he left the apartment, and fired a pistol at Mrs. Kelly's little boy, the shot taking effect in the hand. Burke was arrested, and in consideration of his youth, was sent before the recorder merely, who sentenced him to the chaingang for the period of fifty-three days.

LOSS OF A PAIR OF CHANDELIERS.—As a pair of large exclusive were entering the chute at the head of President's Island, within view of this city, Sunday evening, one of them struck a barge, the collision knocking a hole in the bow of the coal boat. The boat settled immediately, and as she went down her stern struck the remaining coalboat, causing her to spring a leak. The latter boat floated down a short distance, when it, too, went down. The crew, which was a large one, barely escaped with their lives, losing all but the clothing upon their backs. The sunken boats were the property of Mr. Charles Miller, of Louisville, and were intended for New Orleans. We are informed that Mr. George Burrette was the pilot. The crew belonged in Louisville, and returned by the steamer Moses McLellan last evening, with three or four exceptions. Charles Genet and Richard Richardson are of the number who remained here.

☞ Owing to the fact that so many of our friends accepted the advice we gave them on last Saturday, in regard to where to buy their goods in the clothing line, Messrs. Tickner, Robbins & Co. were unable to pay proper attention to all, and we know of many who came away without being able even to gain admittance. We are exceedingly sorry such was the case, but would say to all such that the assortment is still complete, and if you go to-day we promise you the best of goods and the lowest of prices. Tickner, Robbins & Co. are on Jefferson street, next door to the Planters' bank.

The Minnehaha Falls in Winter.

The Minnehaha Falls, in Minnesota, are described as presenting a very beautiful sight, especially in winter. The St. Paul Times says:

The creek which forms the fall cannot be seen until you are close upon its brink; then the most beautiful sight "fairies e'er conceived or minds dreamed," is before your admiring eyes. The brook comes leaping and dancing along, seemingly unconscious of the fall directly in its path, and over it leaps in a laughing, careless, flowy manner; then on again, to mingle with the "Father of Waters" half a mile below. The ledge of rock, over which the water falls, forms underneath quite a cavern, so that in summer you may pass into it behind the fall. The sides of the ravine below the fall are steep, and are now entirely sheltered with ice from the spray of the water fall. By dint of sliding, creeping, and rolling, the bottom is reached, where you behold a "Crystal Palace" more rare and unique than human mind ever designed. The ice has formed behind the fall in suspendous columns and slender stalactites reaching from top to bottom, shutting from view the passage behind the fall, except in one small place, through which you may manage to squeeze in, and then the eye falls upon a most beautiful grotto. Words fail to describe its icy, frosty, purity and fantastic splendor. Three hung from the solid rock for above your head those crystal pearly columns, large and symmetrical, reaching to the bottom of the fall, and interwoven with icicles of all sizes and shapes. Never did nature in her wildest fantasies produce sight so splendidly beautiful as Minnehaha, in winter.

ASTRONOMICAL.—The evening sky is very attractive just now, especially the south-eastern heavens, where "the hands of Orion," the Pleiades, Hyades, Sirius, Procyon, and other beautiful fixed stars and constellations show themselves. At the present time the planets are in unusually favorable positions for being seen. Venus is in Aquarius and is a beautiful object in the western sky, appearing directly after sunset. Jupiter is near the star Pollux in Gemini, it must be looked for in the east after it is quite dark. Saturn is in Leo, north-west, and in the neighborhood of the bright star Regulus. Mars may be seen in the morning preceding the rising sun, it is in Libra, east of the star Zabenesch. Mercury is rarely seen, owing to his great proximity to the sun; it may, however, be discovered when near its elongation on the 12th of March it will set an hour at 7½ o'clock in the evening, and if the weather is fine may then be distinguished. Uranus is in Taurus, and of course invisible.

GENUINE ARTICLES.—Heckles & Co.'s liquors and cigars, on Union street south of Main are obtaining a fine repute—their ginger wine is excellent for coughs and colds.

Port of Memphis.

River and Steamboat Matters.

THE RIVER was but stated on readily rest stay as for several days previously, having risen but about one inch during the forty-eight hours ending at six o'clock last evening. The water last evening was within three feet six inches of the rise of 1858. The weather cloudy and yesterday was clear, warm, and springlike, with unusual activity at the landing yesterday. The ohio river is falling very rapidly from Louisville to the mouth. The steamer Lady Walton, which arrived yesterday from the Arkansas river, report that river falling, with plenty of water, however, for navigation to Fort Smith.

TELEGRAPHIC.—The Glasgow at Louisville was recording last evening, with 4-feet water in the canal and six feet on the falls.

ARRIVED AND DEPARTED.—Of the local packets in port Monday from New Orleans, the St. Francis No. 3 from St. Francis river, the Moses McLellan from Louisville, the Glendale from Cincinnati, the W. H. Patton from White river, and the Lady Walton from Arkansas river, have arrived since our last report. The John Simonds had a fine trip, including 1,036 bars of railroad iron for the Memphis and Ohio road. The other packets also brought good trips.

THE STEAMER NO. 3 had on consignment to our mercharts 700 bales cotton, the largest amount brought to this port during this season by a single boat. The W. H. Patton from White river, brought 50 bales cotton, and the Lady Walton 60 bales. The Nebraska for New Orleans, and the Moses McLellan for Louisville, departed, both with large numbers of passengers and good freight. The John Simonds left about 1700 bales cotton, together with a large amount of stock. The McLellan took 35 bales cotton for the Ohio river. The transient arrivals were very small, as will be seen by referring to our port list below. The Messenger from Cincinnati, arrived with one of the heaviest freight trips of the season. The little new side-wheel steamer Flora, Capt. W. W. Wilson, for the Red river of the South, arrived Thursday last evening, taken mainly with shoulders. She discharged a consignment of buckwheat flour at this port.

INCIDENTS.—The receipts of cotton, since Saturday embraced 921 bales, 709 bales of which were brought by the St. Francis river packet St. Francis No. 3, 92 bales from White river, and 60 bales from the Arkansas. The shipments of cotton yesterday aggregated about 700 bales, of which amount all but 35 bales were taken by the Nebraska for New Orleans, and the 35 bales by the Moses McLellan for the Ohio river.....We furnish in our local columns this morning, the particulars of the loss of two steamboats, the property of Chas. Miller, of Louisville. The accident occurred in the chute, at the head of President Island, Sunday night.....The wheels of the steamer Atlantic were considerably damaged by the heavy drift which she encountered on the trip up the lake at Mount J. D. Morton & Co.'s wharf-boat Sunday afternoon. Six several hours repairing.....Workmen were actively engaged yesterday repairing the chimneys of the Mary Patterson, which had been knocked down by the timber Saturday evening. She will leave again for White river this evening.....The steamer Stephen Decatur, which passed down yesterday, by for some time at Island 40, having to see her before leaving.....The Glendale is at present in charge of Capt. Jas. Carroll, Capt. A. H. Burger having gone to Washington city.....The steamer Cambridge, which sank at Hat Island a short time ago, has been raised, and has gone to St. Louis for repairs.....The Belvidere and Brownsville packet is loading at Louisville for this port.....We are indebted to Mr. Clemmin, of the John Simonds, to Mr. Wolfolk, of the Messrs. Morton, Shirley and Taylor, of the Moses McLellan, and to Jackson and Mitchell, of the Messrs. Allen, for the late papers.....The Glendale will leave for Cincinnati at the usual hour to-morrow evening.

NEBRASKA.—The steamer John Simonds left New Orleans Wednesday, January 18th, and arrived in this port for Memphis, steamer Choctaw. Neil M. R. W. Hill, of Hinds county, lessee of Bahia Rouge, Edward J. Harper, of Natchez, Bolivar and Washington counties, Robert S. Robertson, of Coffee Point, Victoria co. (the Mary Blair), Imperial at Delta, Forest the river Bank Hill from Vicksburg, etc. It is reported that the water in the river and lakes below Vicksburg, rise in Red River Bend. The Simonds brought up 1,036 bars railroad iron and 1700 bales cotton. Advices from Red river are very high, a portion of the corpus water is running through back of Ns. close into the Mississippi at Cypress Bend.

Boats Leaving To-day.
