Local Matters.

Tuesday Morning, January 31, 1860.

FALSE ALARM.—There was a false alarm of fire about four o'clock last evening.

RECORDER'S COURT.—There were twenty-one delinquents before the recorder yesterday, nine of whom wage sent to the chain-gang.

☞ Capt. J. H. Pepper, of the Memphis Gas Company, having become a permanent citizen, reached this city yesterday, accompanied by his family.

LARCENY OF A SKIFF.—Thos. Block and Hagman Matti were arrested yesterday on the charge of stealing a skiff from Thos. Thompson.

☞ Merchants and dealers in produce will find it advantageous to call on Vernon & Co., 36 Front Row. See advertisement in another column.

ATTEMPTED INCENDIARISM.—An ineffectual attempt was made on Sunday night to fire the residence of Mr. Ed. Dyer, on Fourth street, near Jefferson.

MR. COLLINS, THE ACTOR.—Mr. Collins left this city for Nashville last evening having an engagement to fill there with Manager Crisp, of the Gaiety.

OPENING OF THE POSTOFFICE.—We are requested to state that the new city postoffice, at 94 Front Row, will be opened for regular business at 10 o'clock this morning.

GEN. W. W. WOOD.—We were pleased to meet with Gen. W. W. W. Wood, editor of the Natchez Free Trader, yesterday. He was en route for New York, Washington City, etc.

THANKS.—We tender our thanks to our friends, Messrs. Howard & Spivey, of Senatobia, Miss., for a club of ten subscribers to our weekly at their office.

FRESH ARRIVALS.—Fancourt's larder, at No. 43 Madison-st., is now filled with every description of fish, flesh and fowl, including a large supply of fresh and luscious oysters. Domestic men seeking supplies should apply early this morning.

☞ The great rush for fine clothing which has continued for the last week at Sproule & McCown's seem to be one of the best evidences of the satisfaction they give to every one. Go one, go all, while they are selling at reduced prices.

SLIGHTING AFFRAY.—In an affray on Water street, Sunday night, Patrick Dolan was severely cut in the shoulder with a knife in the hands of John Swinney. Swinney was examined before Esquire Horne yesterday and held in $1,000 bond for final trial.

ENTERPRISING.—The burnt district in the vicinity of the postoffice block will be built upon at once, and workmen are already engaged clearing away the ruins. A block of four story business houses will also be erected on the site of the late Gaiety stables, by the owner of the estate, Mr. J. T. Safferans.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Esquire Horne was called upon yesterday to hold an inquest upon the body of John Foley, who had died very suddenly at Michael Glenn's boarding house, on Poplar street, Sunday evening. The jury came to the conclusion that Foley had died of a congestive chill. The deceased was from St. Louis.

BEAUTIFUL GOODS.—We invite the attention of housekeepers to the stock of glassware, Japan and Britannia ware, at the establishment of Mr. Chas. N. Erich, at No. 323 Main street. Mr. E. has everything desirable in his line, the most useful and substantial goods. He is a worthy young gentleman, and deals liberally with his customers.

COTTON ON FIRE.—A bale of cotton which lay on the bluff at the foot of Court street was discovered to be on fire at a late hour Saturday night. Messrs. S. H. Shock and J. P. Horbeck, extinguished it before it was entirely consumed. The bale was branded "P. O. P." and is in the possession of the above named gentlemen.

THE PROSPERITY OF MEMPHIS.—We notice a continued increase of business of all kinds in our city, and some of the most magnificent stores are now being built on Main street, which will, in point of size and finish, compare favorably with any in the United States. We notice the card in to-day's paper of Messrs. J. J. Fry & Co., from Virginia—and we under stand several large wholesale dry goods houses will open this spring to supply the great demand for goods in our back country.

THE ADVANTAGES OF OATS.—Messrs. Orgill & Bro., and Fowlkes and Moorse street, "the city, are making themselves famous by their enlightened and enterprising attention to the advancement of agricultural matters. We yesterday received from them a sample of the seed oats they have received from England and Scotland, to supply the place of seed now used which is incurably subject to rust. The grain is very beautiful, large, bright and clean. See the advertisement of the firm we insert this morning.

TWO BODIES FOUND IN THE RUINS.—Those who have been so laboriously engaged at work upon the ruins in the burnt district, at the corner of Jefferson and Second streets, have been rewarded for their toil by the discovery of portions of two bodies, in the cellar of the building which was occupied by Mr. Cardoza. Although mangled, and burned and disfigured, there can be but little doubt that the body found Sunday morning was that of the late Mr. Lewis, who is known to have been buried in the ruins. The other body was not identified, and the name of the deceased may forever remain a mystery. An inquest was held upon the remains by the coroner yesterday. The body of Mr. Coets, and the remains of the unknown man were interred last evening. It is feared that other bodies are yet entombed in the ruins.

AN EXTENSIVE BUSINESS ESTABLISHMENT.—This city is progressing not only externally but internally. While large and beautiful buildings are going up in every direction, wholesale and retail business are springing into existence that will shortly entitle Memphis to assume the coveted appellation of a "commercial emporium." Among the "mammoth" establishments that are growing up around us, we have one which is more strikingly displays the progress making in the direction we are speaking of, than that of Mansfield & Co.'s large drug establishment on Main street, between Madison and Monroe streets. We had the curiosity to visit it yesterday, and were courteously shown over the premises by our friend J. W. Rogers, Esq. The store is one of the largest in the city, being exactly double the width of the ordinary stores, and extending back to the alley. A glance at it will impress the casual observer at once with the magnitude of the operations of the firm. It contains a splendid display of fine and fancy articles for the toilet, etc., and an array of bottles and drawers that appears absolutely bewildering. Here can be found not only the ordinary articles of the pharmacopeia, but the most exquisite productions of chemical science. These curious in experimental investigations can find all they need for their fascinating pursuit.

The basement is a vast storeroom crowded with chemicals and other merchandise. In one division are stored the finest wines and liquors the vineyard or the still can supply, sure for medical use. Acids and explosive articles are stored away apart in vaults, safe from danger. Varnishes and other inflammable substances are placed together, away from possible contact with fire. In the rear is the manufactory where the various chemical and compounding processes engaged in by the firm are conducted. In the large rooms above are stored immense masses and varieties of goods are stored. On the fourth story the manufactory of "Hurlbard Bitters," a valuable tonic manufactured solely by Mansfield & Co., and found for southern use to be much superior to any other similar preparation. The fifth story includes among its vast contents every variety of glass ware required in the laboratory and in the apothecary's store.

The business of the house is very extensive, and rapidly increasing, from the fact that storekeepers in the surrounding country, along the railroads, and in connection with the river, find that goods bought in New York and carriage paid upon them, cost more than they can be bought for at Mansfield & Co.'s. We must not forget to observe that Messrs. Mansfield & Co. employ none but qualified, steady and polite assistants, and their customers can always rely upon patient attention, rapid dispatch, and unfailing courtesy.

Messrs. Mansfield & Co. conduct their business, on the largest scale, importing on their own account, and doing an extensive wholesale and jobbing trade. The great object aimed at in conducting their business is to build up a home market, establishing a direct and successful competition with New Orleans, Louisville, Cincinnati, and St. Louis—an object deserving the warmest encouragement. In establishing such a wholesale drug business, the firm bring high qualifications and matured experience—one of the partners having been in the profession twenty-five, the other twenty years. This enterprising house only requires the firm and hearty support of the public to do so this city the very best class of trade. Their efforts merit success, and we feel confident that deserts so high, and claims so well founded, will meet with an encouraging and triumphant response.

THE NEW MEMPHIS THEATRE.—Mr. Benj Sullivan, the eminent tragedian, made his first appearance in this city last evening, in the character of "Hamlet." His fame had preceded him, and he was vouchsafed a good audience. His "Hamlet" differs in many respects from that of our leading representations of the character, but we cannot withhold our admiration for the very many fine points made by him which have escaped all who have preceded him. Mr. Sullivan was well sustained by the company, who no doubt felt a relief in the return of the legitimate drama. The entertainment this evening will consist of Richelieu and A Widdy Ashore.

COMPLETION OF THE MISSISSIPPI CENTRAL RAILROAD.—The link in the connection by rail between this city and New Orleans will be completed to-day. The ceremonies on the occasion will be of a highly interesting character. We will have a special reporter on the ground, who left this city last evening, and who will furnish a detailed report of the proceedings.

☞ Tremendous excitement on Jefferson street, next door to the Planters' Bank, at the new clothing store of Tickner, Robbins & Co. New and late styles of goods just received and prices lower than the lowest, and here everybody can be suited—the tall, the short, the big, the small, the rich, the poor, and their friends.

NEW WHARFBOAT AT HELENA.—A joint stock company has been organized at Helena for wharfboat purposes, and have dispatched their agent, Mr. J. T. Burton, late of this city, to Paducah and Louisville in search of a suitable boat for their use. The new wharfboat will be under the management of Mr. Burton, who is an experienced business man.

PROF. JACCOS.—This world-renowned magician gave his first entertainment at Odd Fellows' Hall last evening. His tricks are most astonishing in their character, and excite not only the wonder of children but the admiration of older people. The Professor will give another entertainment this evening.

ROBBERY AT A BOARDING HOUSE.—Various rooms at the Bedford House, corner of Madison and Second, were entered by burglars Saturday night, who stole clothing and other valuables to the amount of about three hundred dollars, which belonged to the boarders.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.—The regular semi-monthly meeting of the board of mayor and aldermen will take place this evening.

☞ Clothing can be bought cheap on Jefferson street, next door to the Planters' Bank. Try it.

River and Steamboat Matters.

The river is falling very rapidly at this point, having declined about 2 feet during the twenty-four hours ending at 4 o'clock last evening. The Arkansas is also falling, with from very dead places above Little Rock, Brinkley stated that the Arkansas River was rapidly gaining in many places, but the water is now falling. The St. Francis river was rising at Wittsburg Friday, but falling from Madison to the mouth. The Bazette stated it very high, but falling. The waters of the Bolinda have been thirteen by 10 inches at Belvoir landing the present season than ever known before. The upper Mississippi and Ohio and tributaries are falling fast. The weather was again clear, dry and pleasant yesterday, with a continuance of dust in the streets and at the landing. Last evening there was an indication of rain.

DEPARTURES.—The Fleet of Louisville was falling and crowding with up for six inches water in the canal.

ARRIVED AND DEPARTED.—Since our last report the following regular packets have arrived: Belle, from New Orleans; Walnut Hills, Mitchell, from Upper River Ports, from Cincinnati; E. M. Ryland and Alonzo, from White River; S. H. Tucker, from the Arkansas river; St. Francis No. 2, from the St. Francis river; J. H. Dickey, from St. Louis; Kate Frisbee, from Vicksburg; Jonas Jones, from Hinchie river, and Carl, from Forked Deer—with the river. The St. Francis brought 500 bales cotton, the Jones of Ark 625 bales, the Carl 200 bales; Mitchell 70 bales, and the Tucker and Dickey each small consignments of the cotton. The Dickey had one of the heaviest cargoes ever brought to this port from St. Louis, and the McLellan, from Louisville, was also heavily freighted. The River Moon had over 700 tons freight for this port, and all who had have injured Saturday by improper calculations, will find it in their interest to call on Mr. Pickering promptly.

DEPARTURES.—The Arkansas, Capt. Scull, the new Louisville, Brownsville and New Orleans packet arrived from Louisville yesterday, call at Freight, but limited as to passengers. She is a very fine boat, and deserved to be popular. She was built at Pittsburgh for Capt. Scull, and Messrs. Wm. Brown and Wm. Greer, of Evansville. She is 170 feet long with 32 feet beam, and 7½ feet depth of hold. Her engines were built from the Southern Belle. Mr. Wm. Greer is the chief clerk, in whom we are indebted for Louisville papers. The W. H. Russell, a Missouri River boat, is making a trip to New Orleans, and passed down yesterday heavily freighted.

INCIDENTS.—Capt. Miller, of the Cincinnati Commercial, has the satisfaction of the sinking of the steamer A. O. Taylor, one mile and a half above Aurora, but at Taylor's Friday morning. She struck the wreck of the Dakotah, causing her to leak so rapidly that it was deemed necessary to run her on the bar, a mile below Aurora, on the Kentucky shore, where she sunk with her stern in about thirteen feet water, w ventg the pitch from the shore. She lies perfectly straight, with just how to appear, and it is conceded can be easily raised. The freight in the hold and on the boiler deck is damaged. No lives were lost. It is rumored that she struck her larboard bow against one of the Gibson's float chains. Capt. Miller returning, for the Cincinnati, this morning and entered protest. After consulting the underwriters, he went the better River Moon down to the wreck in tow of the Forest Queen. All the freight stowed in the midship room, and on deck—300 tons—was taken to Cincinnati on the barge. A bulk-head will be built, and every effort will be made to raise her forthwith. The Taylor had 500 tons principally for New Orleans. The A. O. Taylor was built at Cincinnati two years ago, and had just commenced her third season. She is rated at $35,000, and insured for $18,000—$7,000 each in the Western, National, Firemen's, Ætna and Mechanics' and Manufacturers' offices, of Cincinnati, and $4,000 in Boston on her freight. The Taylor will be heavy in her cargo, 400 tons of which was stowed in the hold. The Taylor is the fourth steamer sunk in the vicinity of Aurora recently—the Dodd Gibson, Nat Hudson, Madison and Taylor. Sue went down in about thirty minutes.....The steamer Sam Sam, an upper Red river boat, took fire on the night of the 20th at Stanton's woodyard; the boat, together with her cargo, consisting of 700 bales cotton and 30,000 pounds of hides, was entirely consumed. Capt Hanks, her commander, saves a little cotton and hides, and the hull of the boat.....The new Richmond packet Virginia House, Capt. Gardner, while landing at Monroe, near Cincinnati, on Wednesday, broke her water-wheel shaft.....We learn from the officers of the H. Pinkney that the Newark and Arkansas Traveler are both hard aground at Sycamore Shoals, in the Arkansas.

Charley Clarke, of the Louisville Courier, says the Fred Tutt and R. P. Rust are evidently having a contract entered on their hands to Memphis, to unknot which will make the most time. The Rust reached this port first, but the Tutt passed her at the wharf and was ahead in the race. The Rust and Tutt came very near colliding the moment in her own favor, but an attempting the unnecessary feat of going into the middle of the river with steam up, she struck the sheltered, or breakwater, head on, and swung round. Just at that moment one of those dreadfuls sweeps occurred, a mere turn of the wind which lasts but a few minutes, and which is not a gentler shifting of the wind, a change lick, a mere puffing of a storm, that sometimes decide the fate of empires as well as steamboats, a turn in favor of the Tutt, for, instead of crashing out on the breakers of the Independence Kentucky shore, she turned into the wind's eye.....The left aboard Cincinnati shore—and went leaving smooth, short formal. That gave her the lead, but she went aft in a fishing attitude, with her line to the bow, which apparently taking out the slack, the Rust was ahead and she gained in the chase, but she passed this port last evening, in advance of the Rust.....The Admiral met with an accident after she left Jacksonport on the return trip, the wrist of her starboard engine giving way and disabling her for another trip. The Admiral here on one wheel.....Capt. Jno. Scott, of the Arkansas, The remains of cotton by river since Saturday embraced 1,275 bales. The shipments yesterday aggregated 911 bales, some 600 of which were taken for New Orleans and 211 for the Ohio river.....Capt. Edward J. Gay, for New Orleans, and the H. Pinkney and Silver Moon, for Cincinnati, were receiving cotton at our landing last evening.....The J. H. Dickey brought down a portable engine for Capt. Stephens' Little Arkansas river boat, that, now in the ways near the mouth of Wolf river. It was contemplated once to build the larger river of ship stable yard for the Dickey, but the design was never entered upon, and the job for the small should be in the hands of a vessel that has been contracted for here, the days of the Gypsies, the T. P. Leathers, and the fleet Alonzo.....Mr. M. R. McDowell, the popular clerk of the J. H. Dickey, we regret to learn, is confined to his room in St. Louis by sickness. A severe cold settled on him, and, intermingling below Little Providence, and the water therefore not tempered, Cincinnati's plantation.....The Atlantic left Louisville Sunday, and the Jas. Woods, Capt. Rose's opposite Nashville and New Orleans packet, left Louisville for New Orleans Saturday night.....We have the notes and departures of large boats, the freights have been cleared out of the Ohio. Since Sunday, the 22d, there has been no less than fifteen New Orleans boats in port at Louisville, as follows: Louisville, Fanny Bullitt, Aurora, Monroe, J. C. Fremont, Diana, James Woods, Admiral, Universe, Republic, Atlantic, Fred Tom, Kate, Bulliard and Windsor, all clearance for freight and all getting ready.....We are indebted to Messrs. Mosby and Quinn, of the Kate Frisbee, to Capt. Dunn, of the Silver Moon, to Capt. Greer, of the Admiral, and to Mr. Bell, of the Eclipse, for late papers.....The new Silver Moon, Capt. Bugher, will leave for Cincinnati at the usual hour to-morrow afternoon.

Thirty-Sixth Congress—First Session

WASHINGTON, January 30.—HOUSE.—John Sherman having withdrew, the House proceeded to take another ballot for speaker with the following result: Wm. Pennington, Republican, of New Jersey, 116; Wm. N. H. Smith, Southern Opposition, from North Carolina, 112; scattering, 6. The result of this ballot caused great excitement. After taking two more ballots with short intermission the House adjourned.
