That Admission Fee.

Some of the organization are slightly worked up over the charge of 25 cents admission to the driving park on Labor Day, because, it is claimed, there are so many workmen who cannot afford the 25 cents.

McKinley prosperity came swooping down upon us, the industrial conditions made it absolutely impossible for many unions to pay their dues, the already inadequate revenues dwindled away, and by the time the year was half gone it became necessary to draw upon the special fund or quit business.

There was this choice: An admission fee to the grounds, a raise in dues of 200 or 300 per cent, or an abandonment of the assembly's work that would amount to practical disbandment.

Heretofore tickets to the Labor Day picnic have cost 50 cents, twice what it will cost to get into the driving park. There was an admission fee then, the only difference being that it was combined with the railway fare and the fellows who never use their think boxes any thought the railroad corporation got it.

This kick illustrates the disposition of too many thousands of workmen both inside and outside of labor organizations. They will pay 50 cents without a murmur when it goes into the pockets of a corporation, but the mere idea of paying 25 cents into the treasury of a protective organization of practical benefit, like the trades assembly, throws them into a spasm.

Don't Be Bigoted.

Some ardent reformers object to discussing half way measures, like free silver, for example. In one sense they are correct. If a man is suffering from a bullet imbedded in his body dangerously near a vital center, he can never be cured by such palliative measures as are calculated only to reduce his fever.

the capable doctor would not neglect the fever, since its ravages tend to exhaust the patient's vitality. Reformers must give all phases of the problem their due weight, and while never losing sight, even for a single day, of fundamental principles, on the one hand, on the other, they should never fail to adapt their arguments to the mental stomachs of the people they seek to influence.

The existence of a certain economic school, though it be not built upon a logical principle that is perfectly symmetrical, is prima facie evidence of the existence of a class of minds to which the particular phase of the industrial problem emphasized by that school, appeals with more than ordinary force.

Granite in St. Louis County.

It has just been remembered by some Duluthian that there is at Hinsdale, on the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, a granite quarry the product of which is of such excellent quality that it was used in preference to all other material in the construction of the auditorium building at Chicago.

Duluth has a double interest in seeing that this stone is given due consideration in the selection of material for the state capitol. If this stone is good enough to compete with the Bedford and other standard stone almost in their home market, it must be of extremely high grade, and surely is good enough to be loyally stood up for by the state of Minnesota. Let the the capitol commission look into this matter and give home products and home labor at least as good a chance as is afforded to outsiders.

Wheat and Silver.

Our gold bug friends now ask jubilantly: "What has become of the theory that the price of wheat depends upon the price of silver and that they rise and fall together, since wheat has gone to $1 per bushel and silver has fallen lower than ever?"

Don't get too gay. Silver always falls when the plutocrats get to discussing an international agreement; and wheat always rises when there is a short crop in the wheat exporting countries. When there is no wheat in the silver using countries to be measured by silver at its bullion value in gold, manifestly the relation between wheat and silver ceases and the value of the latter has no effect upon the wheat market.

Never in the history of the English speaking people has there been a time when gross acts of tyranny on the part of the judiciary aroused so few expressions of popular indignation as at present. We have become callous to invasions of popular rights and take them as a matter of course. Were one disposed towards pessimism he surely would see in this indifference evidence of extreme decay in the love of liberty.

Political methods, in bringing about improved conditions, are doomed to failure. So, too, efforts to work out independent results under the community plan will fail unless there come a remodeling of governmental conditions. Theory and practice should supplement each other. Neither, except by accident, can make a success alone. The reason why the Social Democracy marks a new epoch is because it is the first great movement in social reform to recognize this truth.

And so McKinley is responsible for the rise in the price of wheat! Since when has the "advance agent" become dictator of climatic conditions in the wheat countries of the world?

THE NEW TIME.

Remarkable Success of the Reform Magazine.

The 20,000 edition of the July New Time, the new Chicago magazine, was exhausted in less than a week and its publishers have not been able to keep up with the demand for this able reform monthly.

The August New Time contains a wealth of contributions on timely subjects from a score of the best economic writers in America. Eugene V. Debs in an article on "The Social Democracy," declares that "within twelve months its national representatives will have formulated a national political platform."
