Business Notices.

☞ Gentlemen, the great test for the past year by the citizens of Memphis, has proven, beyond all doubt, that the only true and reliable remedy for Corns, or old Bunions made sure, is to send them to Marshall & Cook's and have them pulled through the modern method of tying, cleaning and repairing. Their office is on Main street, near Gayoso.

CORNS, BUNIONS, ETC.

Dr. C. Green, Surgeon Chiropodist, is now at the Gayoso House, and will remain there for a few days, and any of the citizens who are troubled with bad Corns, Bunions, Club and Inverted Nails, can have them successfully treated without pain or drawing blood, and without the use of acids. Dr. G. does not use the Corn or apple remedy, but easily and painlessly separates the Corn from the natural flesh without as much pain as a person would experience in paring their own Corns. Dr. G.'s charges are very moderate—a trifle. Indeed, compared with the relief and satisfaction he affords the sufferer. Make use they have and encourage enough to have their Corns or Bunions cured. To such Dr. G. would state, that they need no mirrors, as there is no pain or blood attending the operation. Dr. G. can be seen at his room from 7 to 12 M., and from 3 to 7 P. M.

☞ We copy from the Bulletin of yesterday morning, the following accurate description of the model cottage, now offered for sale by Mr. J. M. Woodward. The place is one of the most desirable in everyway, that has ever been on the market, and persons looking out for a home should call and examine it:

A CHEAP HOME.—What is there more desirable than a neat, comfortable, cozy "home-place?" Who that has spent money in the purchase or building of one thinks it illusory? None. From Maine to California it is the first desire of every man of fortune and energy, to at least secure a shelter that he can call his own—a home. We see every had the pleasure of looking into one of these as much desired "home-places," and gladdened our eyes with a sight at comforts and conveniences rarely met up with in this section. We dispose of the property we discovered any where in the world—one of those trim and neat, well kept and well furnished cottages, for which many wear lives out in sighing for, and which are the result of good taste and nice discrimination, backed by a little money. In the front yard, about twothirds of the way from the road, a handsome little fountain of about 15 feet, surrounded by a few fine forest trees, and adds much to the outside appearance of the premises we shall endeavor to describe, and which is three miles from the city. The cottage is of Doric and Gothic architecture, painted a dark cream color with white trimmings, having two beautiful porches, upon the principal of which the parlor windows, door, and the library windows open on the other. On the south side is situated a very convenient and handsomely fitted hot house, and in the rear, in the back yard, is situated a well built coach house, with accommodations for three horses and two carriages, while to the north is the chicken coop, wagon house, etc. In the rear of this back yard, and cut off from it by a substantial railfence, is three-quarters of an acre of ground, used as a vegetable garden, and capable of producing enough "truck" for two or three families. So much for the outside. There are six rooms in the house (besides well furnished E-glen basement, now used as a kitchen and servants' room), which are appropriately named, the parlor, library, dining room, family chamber, gues's room, and little room.

The parlor, 18 by 18, is furnished with a handsome suit of rosewood, including a piano of Harrison's make, a half-dozen chairs, two tete-a-tetes, a rocking and arm chair, a whatnot, a handsome and full length pier glass and Brussels carpet. The window curtains are of fine damask and lace.

The library, 18 by 17, is appropriately furnished with a suit of rosewood, including a book case, writing desk, easy and revolving chair, etc.

The dining room is 16 by 20, and is furnished with a handsome suit of oak, embracing extension table, chairs, safe, and side table, with a handsome matting on the floor. All of the rooms open into the hall. The family chamber is the coziest little place in this cosy little cottage. It is 17 by 18, having three windows, and is furnished en suite with rosewood. Adjoining is a well arranged wardrobe or closet, with a stained glass window, as also a comfortable and well-appointed bath-room, with a stained window corresponding with that in the closet. This bath-room has a marble topped wash-stand and faucet, from which water can be had at any hour, and also a shamoonic apparatus.

The guests' room is 17 by 18 and is comfortably furnished, with a stationary wash-stand, sewing water at any time, without the trouble of ringing for it.

Immediately over the bath-room is the tank or reservoir, having capacity for three hundred gallons, from which the fountain, bath-room and wash-stands are supplied. The water is forced up by a small steam power, from a sawyer-filling mill, and the reservoir can be filled in twenty minutes.

There are bells from every room, hung in the kitchen, as well as one from the hall, which is appropriately furnished.

This handsome residence, the property of Mr. Marshall Woodard, is offered for sale, with a new rockaway and horse, and a likely cook, washer and ironer.

COUNCIL MEETING.

Council met last evening, in regular session, President Martin in the chair.

Several accounts were presented for printing, and referred.

ELECTION OF ALDERMAN.

An election was gone into to elect an alderman for the third ward, in the room of N. B. Forrest resigned. Ald. Robinson named Wm. Park, L. O. Reeves, A. Woodruff, and Charles Kortrecht. The mayor said he believed Mr. Forrest would consent to re-enter the board if re-elected.

On a ballot, William Park received 5 votes, Reeves 2, Forrest 1, Woodruff 3, Kortrecht 0. Second ballot, Park 6, Reeves 1, Forrest 1, Woodruff 3, Kortrecht 0.

Six being a majority of votes present, Wm. Park, Esq., was declared elected alderman of the third ward.

Ald. Robinson, from the improvement committee, reported a number of grades and other matters, which were appropriately acted upon.

The same reported in favor of paving Court street with stone, from Second street to Pigeon Roost road, provided the property holders bear the expense. Report adopted.

Ald. Kirby, from the vigilance committee, reported in favor of the appointment of two secret and four extra police "for the benefit of the mayor." Adopted. (What the mayor had done to make it necessary to give him the "benefit" of six policemen, was not stated.)

Ald. Frazier from the ordinance committee reported an ordinance for the taking up of estray animals. Recommitted.

The same introduced an ordinance remodeling the fire department, which was postponed for consideration at a special meeting.

Ald. Frazier suggested that the fire department ordinance should be passed a first time without reading it.

Ald. Hughes was opposed to that kind of legislation, and the matter was dropped.

WHARF BOATS.

Ald. Molloy stated that petitions for and against the continuance of wharf-boats at the levee had been received. The signatures were principally those of merchants, and were about equal in number, something over one hundred names on each. The committee had agreed on no report.

Ald. Robinson offered a resolution disallowing any wharf-boat except one for the use of the Little Rock railroad; also forbidding sales from flatboats, the weighing or measuring of articles on the wharf for sale, except related fees; also forbidding the keeping of any boat for dwelling in, or selling from. Passed a first time and referred to the ordinance committee.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

Ald. Merrill, from the education committee, reported a resolution constituting Messrs. Scott, Grant and Hope a committee for the selection of grounds and the performance of other business preliminary to building a school house. The whole subject was referred to the finance committee.

A resolution was offered to enter into correspondence with the chairman of the wrecking company, upon the subject of removing the wreck of the Collier from the landing. Adopted.

THE BLACK-HOLE OF MEMPHIS.

Ald. Merrill, in a speech replete with good sense and warm-hearted benevolence, moved that the jail committee should demand from the jailor the keys of the city prison. The suffering in the jail is such as few who have not here from a week to week have had any idea of; it is beyond that endured in the black-hole of Calcutta—it is such as is without a parallel in any part of this continent. The jail cost forty-five or fifty thousand dollars. Those who built it had before them the best plans the experience of many years had furnished. They had disregarded them all and had built a structure which, in parts of it, acts with extreme cruelty upon such as are confined within it. There is no law an horizing us to take away prisoners' breath or the air that sustains it; nor is there a law permitting us to deprive them of the light of heaven by bolts, and we must read the word of God, and which is necessary to their health. So great is the suffering, so extreme the injury inflicted in that building, that it was a little the high authority, and he could not sleep in comfort until something was done to put an end to the horrible state of things existing there. He would have the county prisoners removed, and give the prisoners the whole place to breathe in until a new prison could be built at a proper time, and this disgraceful place be taken down and removed.

Ald. Mahoney agreed with the mover, and said that the prison was the parallel of the black-hole of Calcutta; no w'te man present could live in the dungeons there a day. He, the speaker, would not keep his dog there. The jail is a nuisance to the city, and a great change ought to be made very soon. He agreed heartily with your worship, Dr. Merrill had uttered.

Dr. Merrill's resolution to demand the keys of the jail was adopted.

THE INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE.

Ald. Martin, from the committee appointed to investigate the condition of the various city offices, reported that the committee have examined the accounts of the city treasurer, Mr. Fowlkes, and found the books correct, and the whole business in his hands in a condition that is greatly to his credit. Under the new system of accounts now introduced, the accounts will, for the future, be more easily kept. The accounts of the late recorder, Maj. East, showed a deficiency of $497. The committee, from circumstances and from the high character of that gentleman, incline to the opinion that the amount apparently deficient was never collected. That persons believed to be too respectable to put on the changing had been made to go on their word to pay, the payments had not been made, but the debt remained registered against them. In the accounts of his successor, S. A. Moore, a deficiency of $111 was discovered, which that gentleman promptly paid over. The committee are satisfied that the mistake arose from the fact that when Mr. Moore's accounts were made up he was suffering from a complaint of the eye which did not allow him to even overlook them when they were made out for him by others. The puppers' check book was found in a very unsatisfactory condition. There was no system in keeping the checks. A sum of $150 and many checks have not been entered. A plan for the better management of our whole pauper system should be put in operation. Parties have been receiving their regular allowance per month who ought to be sent to the county poorhouse. Men from the levees and other public works, out in the surrounding country are continually coming here when they are taken sick, to get put in the hospital. The bad condition of the books is not attributed to individual error or improperly, but to a want of system, and the secretary of the board of health—Dr. Mitchell—has been appointed examiner of parties applying for admission to the hospital, he has entered upon the service, but his duties are entirely neglected, for which he ought to receive an addition to his salary as very onerous duties are thus placed in his hands. The report was received.

SALE OF CHARLESTON RAILWAY STOCK.

☞ Ald. Vollintine, from the committee appointed to investigate the matter of the sale by a former board, of the Charleston railroad stock belonging to the city, reported that the legislature had not simply conferred the power of subscribing to railroads on the board of mayor and aldermen, but had made the people parties to the transaction—their vote being a necessary preliminary. The power conferred on the board conferred no power to sell. Before the board could do that, a new grant of power from the legislature was necessary. At the time the sale was made, the city was entitled to $300,000 dividends, although for some reason no dividend had been declared up to that time. Since that time the purchasers had received eight per cent. dividends, and eight per cent. more is now due. In selling this stock the board transcended its powers; neither the charter nor the act of the legislature upon the subject of subscribing, clothed it with the power of sale which has been exercised. The sale being made by parties who had no power to make it, is null and void, and the bonds so disposed of belong still to the people of Memphis. In this opinion the city attorney and Messrs. Yerger, Farrington, Bartlett, and other eminent lawyers who had been consulted, concurred.

Ald Vollintine offered a resolution authorizing the city attorney to take such steps as may be necessary to annul the sale of the railway bonds, and appointing a committee to employ legal assistance to aid the city attorney in the proceedings.

Ald. Martin believed Messrs. Yerger and Farrington would be very proper parties to employ. He believed there would be no trouble in getting back the stock if the right kind of talent were set to work.

Dr. Merrill was astonished at the developments he had listened to; he had no idea that such transactions had been made. In a case like this, something should be done, not only on behalf of the people, but of the honesty, its character was at stake. He moved that the report should be published in full, that the people might know the merits of the case.

Ald. Merrill inquired, could the legislature, when it gave the power to purchase, withhold the power to sell? He supposed the members of the board who authorized the transaction were sensible men, who knew what they were doing.

Ald. Martin begged to interrupt the gentleman; the chairman of that board when interrogated acknowledged that the legislature had authorized the sale, never investigated the question of their authority to sell. Did the gentleman think that a board who went to New York ignorant upon so vital a point knew what it was doing?

Ald. Crews did not know what to think of a member who would consent to the transaction without knowing whether he had the power to make it. He, however, did not like the proceeding proposed, unless more inquiry was made; if had about it too much the look of repudiating the act of a former board to be engaged in unless strong reasons for it were shown.

Ald. Martin was sure that there was not only no repudiation in the matter, but there was no shadow of repudiation, if the act was an illegal one. Repudiation is refusing to do what the law says should be done. The records of the old board show that it made a great bad bargain, contrary to the charter of railroad company, granting it an important privilege; it might act from reasons that seemed good to it, but it refused to carry out the terms upon which permission to exercise a privilege it had conferred; it drew a sophistical distinction between legal and moral right. This board repudiated its own act. Must we sustain from rectifying a great wrong from fear of repudiating an act performed by a board that had repudiated its own act?

Ald. Crews remarked that repudiators always believed the act they repudiated was an illegal one. If the act was not illegal no proceeding can make it void. He thought a suit upon the question should not be gone into without further investigation; the expenses would be great and the city was already overwhelmed with debt.

Ald. Vollintine explained that there was no approach toward repudiation in the course recommended. When the people had voted and the board had obeyed the instruction of the people, their powers in the matter were at an end. If an agent was employed to make a purchase, and the employer attempt to set aside the purchase, that is repudiation. But if the agent transcended his powers and performed acts not within his province, then to inquire into the proceeding and to take such steps as were necessary in the case, had about it no semblance of repudiation.

Ald Hughes said it was well known the agent can do only what the principal gives him power to do. The board never had power to make the sale in question, he had asserted that fact in the board at at the time. The sale was authorized by only a minority of the board, ten individuals met at a called meeting. Mr. Forrest fought against it, Mr. Street joined him, (Mr. Hughes) in a protest against the sale. Eight persons passed the resolution for the sale, one half the board sold the other half. They made the sale without authority from the legislature, from the people, or from the majority of the board. Made out it was it is due this corporation that a legal investigation should be entered into. To call it repudiation was folly. If the sale was illegal it should be abrogated.

The resolution offered by alderman Vollintine was adopted, ayes 9, noes three—The minority were Messrs. Crews, Molloy and Robinson.

PETITIONS.

Several petitions were presented and referred to various committees. Among them was one from the Street Railway company, upon the subject of the projected railway, which was referred to a special committee of one from each ward. In consequence of a petition from the chief of police, asking for assistance, the vigilance committee were required to attend to the question of supplying the want, and similar wants on the part of the mayor and recorder.

A long and animated discussion was held upon the subject of the firemen and their troubles, without any other result than a settled conviction that the paid system must be adopted, and a force of steam engines, and that right speedily.

Adjourned to meet to-day at 3 o'clock.

ICKA SPRINGS.—The popularity of these celebrated springs is daily on the increase. Located on the line of the Memphis and Charleston railroad, midway between Huntsville and Memphis, they have become a favorite resort for citizens of both places, and all living on the line of the road. The medical properties of the water are unsurpassed, the scenery and surroundings of the springs, one among the most picturesque and interesting in the South, while the accommodations for visitors are unsurpassed. At present there are over one hundred Memphians at these springs, all of whom are enjoying themselves finely.

MANUFACTURED FOR THE SOUTH.—We this morning present to our readers in another column the card of B. Walker & Bros., No. 195 Main street, Clay Building, who do an immense wholesale business in clothing. They manufacture their own goods, and they make them expressly for the Southern market; their stock is immense, and their terms extremely liberal. No one should go out of this portion of the country to other places to buy without giving Walker's stock and terms an examination. The firm have also dry goods and boots and shoes. See their advertisement.

MISSISSIPPI AND TENNESSEE RAILROAD.—The business of track-laying on the Mississippi and Tennessee railroad was resumed on Monday last. The passenger train will in a few days run some two miles further down the road. It will be the object of the company to shorten as fast as cousists the staging to Grenada. Another object in completing the road as far south as possible is to afford facilities to that country between Oakland and Grenada for the shipment of the present crop of cotton.

MORE NEW COTTON.—The crop of new cotton is rapidly being brought in. At Vicksburg several hundred bales have already arrived and been shipped to New Orleans. Yesterday seventy-bales of the new crop, six from the plantation of J. Williams Esq., of Choctaw Miss., and one from the plantation of George Gaddy Esq.; of Laconia, Ark., were received in this city. They were consigned to Titus & Co., and E. M. Apperson & Co.

PAID FIRE DEPARTMENT.—A special meeting of the board of aldermen will be held this afternoon. The meeting has been called for the purpose of taking measures for the remodeling of the fire department, making arrangements for the purchase of two steam fire engines, and the organization of a paid fire department.

THE WORSHAM.—We looked in at the Worsham yesterday. The house continues to present its usual claims to the public. A good meal and courteous attention can always be had at the Worsham.

☞ Call in at the book depository on Court square and get a fine engraving of the Rt. Rev. Bishop Otey, or a copy of the "Union Pulpit," or "The Pulpit and Stage." We are also some fine pictures that will repay a visit.
