CURES FROM 1 TO 3 DAYS.

CHEROKEE REMEDY

AN UNFAILING CURE FOR

GONORRHEA,

And all Diseases of the Urinary Organs

THIS remedy comes when all other preparations fail. It is entirely unlike every other compound—containing no Mineral Poison or Powerful Drug, as it is prepared solely from Roots, Barks and Leaves, and has been handed down from generation to generation by the Cherokee Indians. It is offered to the public on its own merits, and we feel confident it will do their validity and thoroughly. The unfortunate, of either sex, will be regaled by using this remedy, instead of plunging themselves at the hands of some Quack or Professor. This remedy strikes at the root of the disease; its tendency is not simply to control the poison, but to remove the cause on which it depends. Full directions, in pamphlet form, accompany each bottle. The speedy and permanent relief afforded by this remedy, in all cases of Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Strangury, Pain in the Back and Loins, Gravel, Brick Dust, Mucous Flow and Whites (in females), and all diseases of the Urinary Organs, has astonished the most scientific men of the age. This remedy not only eradicates at all poison from the system, but invigorates the most delicate constitution.

☞ It does not affect the digestive or interferes with any class of business, or requires any deviation from the usual diet.

☞ It requires no assistance from other medicine.

☞ Men and women enhance the value of the article in sense of all nauseous taste, being a pleasant and delicious syrup. Price $1.00 per bottle.

PETTUS & MERWIN,

Sole Proprietor, St. Louis, Mo.

☞ Sold in Memphis by Chandler & Co., and all druggists everywhere.

DELICIOUS FRUIT.

Dr. Wheaton, proprietor of the Bellevue gardens, two miles south of the city, yesterday brought into our office, as a specimen, a basket of his Bartlett pears, the most delicious fruit to which we have treated our palate this season. It possesses a vinous flavor, is as juicy as the pineapple, and melts like highly flavored ice-cream in the mouth. Dr. Wheaton informs us that a full bearing tree of this fruit will yield at least from fifty to seventy-five dollars. Thus, counting sixty trees to the acre, we have a yield of about four thousand dollars for each acre planted in trees. This is a better yield than can be had from any other species of production. To all such as desire to supply themselves with trees bearing this fruit we say, pay the doctor a visit and examine his nursery.

SHELBY COUNTY AGRICULTURAL FAIR.

FIFTH ANNUAL MEETING—SECOND DAY.

Again, yesterday, the artisan and the husbandman met together at the grounds of the Shelby county's agricultural society, to compare notes in their march of improvement, and learn from each other those lessons of wisdom which are taught in experimental effort at benefitting and improving the departments of mechanics and agriculture; not was the labor of the artist wanting in interesting display.

Yesterday opened with a cloudy sky and slight indications of rain, but about 9 o'clock the clouds disappeared, and everything gave promise of a beautiful day, which was fully realized. At an early hour every means of transportation to the grounds was employed in conveying the loads of living freight to a means of spending an interesting and profitable day. Omnibusses, carriages, buggies and the Ohio railroad were called into requisition by the eager crowds who thronged our streets, and who were loud in their inquiries for a means to reach the fair grounds. The Memphis and Ohio railroad have committed the oversight of not organizing a proper ticket with the time and order of the running of their trains, and many persons were at a loss to obtain the desired information.

On reaching the grounds about 9 o'clock we found the people pouring in at the principal gate, and on the inside crowds gathered at different points discussing the merits of the various articles on exhibition, while every face wore a smile of animation, and every voice was pitched to the tone of pleasure.

Through the moving field of human forms we passed on to the agricultural department, which we found materially enhanced in interest. Orgill, Brothers & Co. have on exhibition a large number of interesting articles in the line of agricultural implements, among which we may mention Cumming's patent stalk and straw cutting machine, and Krauser's patent cider press, both of which possess peculiar merits, and are manufactured by Carter & Buchanan, of Louisville, Kentucky. Both of these machines have carried off several premiums, and are well worthy of attention. Messrs. O., B. & Co. have also on exhibition Catoon's broad cast seed sower, Manning's patent reaper, Pennock's patent wheat drill, Smith's power corn sheller, a revolving hay rake, a variety of wrought steel plows, and Elliott's improved corn and cotton planter. Wm. Park & Co. have on exhibition the telegraph feed cutter and the eagle corn sheller, implements which are well calculated to save the agriculturist a great amount of labor. In looking through the stock of farming implements visitors should examine the Lancaster cotton seed planter. It was invented by a North Carolina planter, and is the simplest of all the machines used for planting cotton. It is a light as well as strong machine, and plants the seed with great regularity in hills or drills, and opens the furrow and covers it at one operation. The display in this department was large, and the planter can scarcely give the articles an examination without making observations which will be valuable to him.

In the machinery departments we noticed no material improvement over Tuesday's exhibition. A portable grain mill has on exhibition the merit of extreme simplicity is on exhibition by John Swayne, of the navy yard, to which he has attached two grist mills, a sawing machine and a spoke lathe, the manufacture of the Columbus machine company, of Columbus, Ohio. An Ericsson engine presented by Orgill Brothers & Co., has not yet made its appearance.

In the fine art apartment there has been most improvement over the first day's exhibition. We observed a very convenient counterfeit coin detector, Marinville's patent, which is a neat and perfect arrangement for detecting any deficiency in the weight of foreign or domestic gold and silver coin; also J. B. Newbrough's patent addition machine, which for the facility with which it makes additions by a simple manipulation is truly astonishing. It casts up one or two columns at a time, and besides dispensing with all mental labor, its results are always and absolutely correct. Messrs. Plummer & Gilbert, 263 Main street, exhibit in this department a fine display of chemicals, medicine chests, etc., the chemicals embracing over 300 different articles, comprising nearly the whole pharmacopia. Mr. Joseph A. Miller exhibits a variety of elegant architectural drawings, comprising a prospective of a Gothic church at Springfield, Ill.; St. Paul's Episcopal church at St. Louis, in the gothic style of architecture; the concert hall at Alton, Ill., in the Italian style; a design for a gentleman of Memphis of a suburban cottage, in the composite style of architecture; a design proposed for the new court house to be erected for Shelby county, in the Italian style. It is proposed to construct the court room in an oval form, with the judge's office in the rear of the bar, and private offices for jury rooms, etc., in the corners of the building. A private entrance is provided for by which the judges, attorneys, witnesses, etc., may enter, so as to avoid the crowd which often jam court rooms. The design contemplates the outlay of about $50,000. All the county offices are designed for the first story, with two fireproof rooms for records. This gentleman has furnished the design for five different courthouses, and we think this one deserving of the attention of the committee recently appointed to take this matter in hand. We noticed an elegant landscape painting in the Dusseldorf style, by a lady, an Alpine scene of rare beauty and finish; also, a Mississippi view by a gentleman, which is somewhat wanting in detail and prospective, though rather striking at a cursory glance. The rocky pier, an oil painting of much merit, with the attention to filling up and clearness of prospective which is so frequently wanting in amateurs, is the picture that some time since occupied a prominent place in the post-office. We pronounce it fine. In the fancy painting line, we observed a fine imaginary portrait of Beatrice Cenci, the great picture at Rome, so celebrated as an exhibition of female beauty. Also a spirited painting of the Gipsy dance, painted in oil, by a girl fourteen years old. In the line of Grecian painting is a good specimen representing a female in a wreath of flowers. A fine crayon drawing, representing September, is on exhibition, by a girl fourteen years old. We observed a fine design for a diploma, on which are vignettes representing a rural scene, industry, literature, mechanics and the arts. It is a beautiful thing, and might well be adopted by our agricultural society. A. McLean, of St. Louis, has his lithograph press on the grounds, and is printing from the stone a representation of the fair grounds, drawn from nature by Mr. M. T. Ryder, of this city. It is a fine picture, printed in two colors and a tint. Mr. McLean has also on exhibition a representation of the St. Louis turnverein, in which one hundred portraits are accurately presented. This department is rapidly filling up, and is constantly crowded with ladies, who are ever eager connoisseurs of all that is beautiful; and not the least interesting feature of this hall are the beautiful, smiling faces that fill its aisles.

As the fair progresses, various objects of interest—specimens of the ingenuity and skill of American mechanics from all quarters, and an endless variety of the productions of female handicraft, none of which have been specially provided for in the lists of premiums, are being added to the heterogeneous collection in floral hall. It is the intention of the directory, we learn, to pass upon all such under the head of "discretionary," and to award premiums wherever, in the opinion of the committees, the articles exhibited shall be deemed worthy such distinction. In so doing, the directory exhibit a spirit of liberality worthy of all commendation as well as a determination to do all that lies in their power to enhance the interest and value of the exhibition.

The mechanical department has some fine articles in the way of trunks and valises, on exhibition by Gensberger & Levy and W. & G. S. Wright, both from houses belonging to this city, and manufacturing the goods they have on exhibition. Also a fine collection of carriage hardware by Linsday & Sheldon, of stoves and tinware by Saffarrans & Stratten, and of furniture by J. & M. Flaherty.

Messrs. Cavins & Dillon, of Fayette county, Ky., have some fine thoroughbred Durham cows, cotswold and Southdown sheep, and Irish grazier and Chester white pigs on exhibition; and we observed two fine Cashmere goats, from Georgia, but could not learn the name of the owner.

R. D. Fort's dark bay gelding colt Pedro, a fine young animal, full of spirit, became frantic in his stall yesterday, and with his heels soon demolished the building in which he was confined. He was secured before any particular damage was done, however, and his groom managed to pacify him.

Inside of the amphitheater the benches were lined with a multitude of spectators, all alive with expectation and glowing with animation, a large portion of whom were ladies, who are ever ready to give their smiling countenance to exhibitions of laudable enterprise. They were found in profusion on all parts of the grounds, but principally graced the fine art hall and the amphitheater.

The exhibition in the amphitheater yesterday was far superior to any ever held at our fair grounds. In most of the classes there was spirited competition, while some of the rings were pronounced by persons who have recently visited the great fairs of the valley above us, equal, if not superior to any they had seen. This was especially the case in the class of horses for general utility, the number of entries in which was so large, and the competition so close, that the task of deciding upon the relative merits of the contestants was one of much delicacy, as well as considerable difficulty. It was gratifying to know, however, that the awards in the main were regarded as just, and accepted as satisfactory, and that nothing occurred to mar the good feeling and pleasure of the occasion.

The following is a list of the premiums awarded yesterday:

The display of cattle was very meager and unsatisfactory—a fact which, when the liberality of the premiums is considered, must excite general surprise. Among those to which premiums were awarded, however, there were several very superior animals which excited universal admiration.

Best specimen blackberry wine, premium $3—Mrs. M. J. Hovell.

In addition to the above, there were several awards made, which we were unable to obtain—the effort to bring up the unfinished business of the preceding day occupying much more than usual of the time of the gentlemanly and efficient Secretary and his polite and accomplished assistants. As there will be more leisure to-day on all hands, we shall obtain and publish them in to-morrow's issue.

Col. Crain arrived by the Ohio road yesterday, having left the steamer Chester Ashley at Columbus, with ten fine horses on board, which are to grace the stables at the fair, and be exhibited in the ring. Among these horses are Stockbridge Chief, of Ohio, the successful contestant as the best thoroughbred roadster, for the $1000 premium at the St. Louis fair of 1859, and Young Ripton of Louisville, both trotting horses of some note, and Rifle Lewis of Cincinnati, a horse not without fine points. The boat was expected in port last evening, and, without accident, the horses may be looked for on the grounds to-day.

Among the representatives of the press from abroad in attendance upon the fair we are pleased to meet our friend Hendren, of the Athens (Ala.) Union Banner, Young, of the Huntsville Independent, Shelton, of the LaGrange Reporter, and N. A. Messenger, of the North Alabamian.

The reportorial corps are pleased to acknowledge their obligations to the officers of the society for courtesies. Where all seem to have exerted themselves to render whatever assistance lay in their power, it may seem invidious to particularize. But we trust to be pardoned for naming among those who have especially contributed to the lightening of the labors incident to the reporter's duties, the esteemed President, Col. Pope, Mr. Secretary Stewart, Col. James T. Leath, the Messrs. Lake, and our good humored and smiling ex-city marshal, Underwood. To Col. William Strong, E. J. B. L. Winn, Esq. and lady, and Col. and Mrs. Gen. L. Holmes, the corps are indebted for occular demonstration that they not only know how to evoke the choicest products from mother earth, but also to prepare them to minister to the wants of the inner man. Next to his head, the reporter's stomach is generally his weakest point, and an attack in that quarter rarely fails of success. What could withstand the siege being carried on with vigor against a quarter so weak and defenseless?

It will perhaps be interesting to parties having articles on exhibition at this fair, to know that the fair at Decatur, Alabama, commences on the 19th and continues four days, that at Athens on the 23d, continuing four days, and that at Tuscumbia on the 30th instant, to continue four days.

We append the programme for to-day:

☞ Tyler & Co.'s art gallery is alive with citizens and strangers at all hours.

EXHUMED.—Near the place of Mrs. Hogg, some eleven miles from the city, near the Pigeon Roost road, in making an excavation recently the workmen, at the depth of about fourteen feet, came upon what had at some day been a brick kiln. The earth showed no signs of ever having been disturbed, and this exhibition of the labor of another race, had probably been undisturbed for untold years. The bricks are of an unusual size, being both longer and wider than those used at the present time, of a very bright red color, and exhibiting evidences of having been carefully pressed and skillfully burned. No effort has been made as yet to ascertain the extent of this singular discovery, but it was found to extend some distance on every side. It is impossible to offer any conjecture as to the race who left these traces of a higher state of civilization than the aborigines of this part of the continent are supposed to have ever attained to, or the time of their having been buried. It may only be placed on record as one of the many evidences that this country was not always the exclusive home of the savage, but that these hills and valleys have been the theaters on which another race "strutted their brief hour upon the stage."

☞ Tyler & Co., by a new and ingenious method, are enabled to take 500 pictures daily.

"A THING OF BEAUTY IS A JOY FOREVER." "As ugly as a worm fence," is a remark we often hear applied to persons and thing; that are peculiarly ill-favored. The expression is no less trite than true—a worm fence is an ugly thing, and what is more, it is one of the costliest kind of fences. We have often wondered why farmers persist in using the old-fashioned rail fence with the stake and rider, when for one-half the cost of the rails they can put up one of Vandemark's portable board fences, which will last twice as long as the rail, and look one thousand per cent. better. Everybody in attendance at the fair this week will have an opportunity of examining this fence, and testing its utility, as Messrs. Bowers & Borden, the proprietors of the patent, have a model of it on the fair grounds, where they will exhibit it to all who may feel interested. It is far superior to all other fences, as it is put up without posts, is very strong, and can be taken down and moved from one portion of a farm to another at will. For the purpose of fencing in railroad tracks this fence can have no equal. The proprietors of this patent will remain in the city, at the fair grounds, during the week, and we advise all our farmer friends to make their acquaintance and examine their fence.

☞ An illustration of non-committalism—the dealerds suffering with a "dumb chill."

☞ In looking through the stock of farming implements, upon the Fair Grounds, visitors should not fail to examine "Lancaster's Cotton seed Planter."

It was invented by a North Carolina farmer, and is the most simple of all the machines used for planting cotton. It is a light, as well as a strong machine, sows the seed with great regularity in any quantity, in drills or hills—opens the furrow and covers it, at one operation. It is sold at a price very little more than half that of other cotton planting machines. The testimonials which are given by the North Carolina farmers, (many of them the largest planters in that State) say they work to perfection, and their simplicity especially adapts them to negro management.

Mr. Bornum, of Norfolk, Va., who has the machine in charge, offers to sell county and State rights at reasonable rates. An active man can sell a hundred machines in every county he will exhibit in, the first season, and make one hundred per cent. profit on each machine sold.

Persons disposed to purchase rights, need not necessarily go into the manufacture of them. The machines can be bought ready for use in any quantity, and at a convenient point for shipment to any part of the South and Southwest. All necessary information given, if application is made on the Fair Ground, or at the Gayoso House, room 258, or by addressing S. R. Bornum, Memphis, Tenn., or Bornum & McClean, Norfolk, Va. STREET RAILROADS—THE COMPETITION BETWEEN SECOND AND MAIN STREETS.—The proposition to have street railroads still lingers among the confused records of legislative wisdom, which in after years will furnish ample materials for the amusement of curiosity-mongers among the archives of our municipal government. The difficulty consists, in part, in the fact that contractors are unwilling, in the inception of such works in this city, while they are still experimental merely, to build passenger roads except upon the leading thoroughfares. The aldermen are unwilling to grant the privilege of constructing such roads upon any street, unless a majority of those owning property on it will consent. It seems that a majority of the tradesmen on Main street are anxious to have the street passenger lines on that great thoroughfare, but the owners of the ground oppose the proposition. Such are the facts as stated to us by an alderman. We know men who will put down a passenger road on Second street, provided no one shall have the privilege of putting one on Main street, and who will at the same time agree to run a line through Main whenever the property owners desire it, which would be in less than six months after the road went into operation on Second street. It is said that the Second street people, with one or two exceptions, favor the idea of having a horse railroad. They are wise in this, if experience in other cities is worth anything. If a man should propose in Baltimore or Philadelphia to tear up a street railway track he would be tarred and feathered by a mob of property-holders; and then, it is a plain proposition to a Second street tradesman, that if a passenger comes down that street to make a purchase, he will not walk across to Main to effect his trades, but will stop at a Second street house hard by. So with the ladies who go shopping through the mud in winter and dust in summer, they will go to places most accessible, and avoid both dust and mud by using the street railroad. Believing that the first street railroad constructed in the city will be on Second street, we are inclined to the opinion that there is not in this city property more valuable than that at the corner of Second and Madison streets, to be sold on this morning at ten o'clock, by Monsurrat, Dupree & Co. Seven lots in the very heart of the city, invite the attention of capitalists and speculators.

☞ Tyler & Co. attend personally to their visitors, assisted by a corps of talented artists.

THE HARRIS ZOAVE CADETS.—We understand that this company will give an exhibition of their peculiar drill at the fair grounds to-morrow, on which occasion Gov. Harris will present the company with a beautiful sword. At the same time will be presented to the Cadets, by their many admirers, a beautiful banner, purchased from the proceeds of a collection instituted by parties who believed that they should have received the banner awarded on Tuesday to the best drilled military company. The flag is to cost $400, and the occasion may be looked forward to as one of unusual interest.

☞ Remember the sale of business lots on Second street to-day, at 10 o'clock A. M.

ARRESTED ON SUSPICION.—Dennis McCarty was yesterday arrested by officer Butler, on suspicion of being a watchstuffer. Officer Klinck testified before the recorder to the fact of having known McCarty for a suspicious character during the past two years, but there was not direct evidence sufficient to convict him, and he was discharged with an admonition to leave the city.

RECORDER'S COURT.—Thirteen gentlemen dressed attendance at the Recorder's levee yesterday morning, six of whom were sent to do service for the city, two were discharged, and the remainder paid their fines.

RUTLEDGE.—Rutledge is the most popular book of the day, and it was written by a southern pen. Not to have read it is to be "behind the times." Cleaves & Valien have received a large supply.

THEATRICAL.—Miss Annette Ince, who has just finished a successful engagement in this city of two weeks, is now playing in the Louisville theater.

MONTEDONICO HOUSE.—The strangers now in the city will find an excellent lunch at this establishment every day at 10 and 12 o'clock.

THE IRON PAVEMENT.—The laying down of the iron pavement at the corner of Main and Monroe streets was finished on Tuesday evening. Every citizen should notice well this pavement, see how it wears and compare it with other pavements in this city, for the time is near when a general system of paving for the city must be decided upon, and it would be well for public opinion to be settled as to what would be the most desirable material to be used. We have now in Memphis, besides the native mud, the gravel pavement, the gas-tar cement pavement on Monroe street, between Main and Second streets, the stone block pavement at the wharf, the Nicholson pavement on Jefferson street, and the iron cellular pavement opposite the Calhoun block. Mr. Hite deserves much credit for his public spirit in introducing the latter article from St. Louis.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY ON A FEMALE.—Jno. A. Walker and J. Tague were arrested yesterday morning, for an assault and battery upon the person of a Mrs. Brown, who lives about five miles from the city. It appears that this brute of individuals, being wagoners from Mississippi, were encamped within the vicinity of her house, and all of them indulging to too great an excess in the ardent, became somewhat too "spiritual" to keep on good terms.

☞ Visit Tyler & Co., opposite Odd-fellows' hall.

☞ The pianos being sold on six months time by Monsarrat, Dupree & Co., will be closed out to-night if possible. They are sold to terminate the agency of C. W. Alexander for Stodart, the prince of piano-makers. One instrument will be sold to-night which cost eight hundred dollars at the shop. Call and examine them during the day.

☞ Attention is called to the perfection of the eye in Tyler & Co.'s portraits.

DISCHARGED.—M. M. Witt, who testified before the recorder some days since in the case of the riot at the Charleston depot, was up before Squire Horne yesterday, for alledged perjury in his evidence, but was discharged for want of sufficient proof.

☞ Citizens and strangers, procure Tyler & Co.'s celebrated ambrotypes—from fifty cents to fifty dollars.

YE QUAKES OF YE EARTH.—This ancient and antique order of fantastic fellows will appear in public on to-morrow, and after parading through the principal streets will visit the fair grounds.

HYMENIAL.—Justice Horne tied "the gordian knot" for a couple of "lovlers" yesterday morning. There was little pomp or circumstance about the ceremony.

THANKS.—We again "thank our kind friend, Hamilton Borden, Esq., of Adams' express, for useful exchange papers.

☞ Strangers, Tyler & Co. make better pictures for fifty cents than their rivals charge one dollar for.
