Fritz in a Stew—Lager to the Rescue.

The peaceful ocean of mud that washes the southern boundary of our city was violently agitated, on yesterday, by the denouement of an affair of the heart of a most intense and chivalrous character. Fritz Klamerbach, an honest young German, having recently wedded a fairy creature "to the manor born," thus forming an individual alliance between America and the Fatherland, invested the hoard of seven years' experience in making apparel for the human form, in a pleasant cottage, in which he placed his happy bride. The joys of wedded life rolled on uninterruptedly for several months, when one day an old acquaintance of the blissful couple dropped in, and made himself agreeable enough to the lady to excite the ire of the faithful Fritz. Fritz pondered, when the old acquaintance left, what to do, and voted within himself as to the feasibility of a row, coming to the ferocious conclusion that Johannes Rhinbummer was one very big rascal, and should be magnificently whipped if ever he spoke to the virtuous Mrs. Agnes Klammerbark again. Mr. Rhinbummer did not appear again until yesterday morning, when, with a delightful smile and a voluptuous swagger, he sailed into the suburban cottage, and rushed into the arms of Agnes. He did not dream that Fritz was on hand, having encountered the worthy husband some distance down town only a few moments before, and when he sank into the bosom of his adored the jealous Fritz waded into him from behind, dragged him into the street, and wallopped him in the mud. Strange to say, the deserted Rhinbummer, stung to the giant and with his guilt, took it patiently and wiped his head.

"Ach! donderwetter!" That was all he said.

His eyes were knocked into imitations of peeled onions, his nose split like a squashed crab apple, and mixed up so miscellaneously with his mammoth moustache, that it was difficult to tell which side of his head his mouth was on. As soon as he found himself at liberty, the unhappy man mizzled, and the mud flew off his coal-skuttle and the soles of his boots with the sunbeam splatter of a mud-covered sulky wheel in a state of frantic circulation.

The irascible Fritz watched him till he was out of sight, and then commenced scratching his head, shook his fist at his wife, and in thundering tones exclaimed: "I gits trunk for you, mainam; I trinks all de lager in town; I trinks kirschenwasser; I trinks Johannisberger; I trinks every dings, mainam, and gits so trunk as never was. Tuyvel! dunder, ya! ya!" and he plunged impulsively through the mud, and when last seen by our informant, was in a condition of that speechless good feeling so peculiarly illustrative of the healthy effects of lager, and the seductive results that arise from its frequent imbibition.—Petersburg (Va.) Express.

NEGRO WORSHIPPED AS A HEATHEN IDOL. A letter from Hayti says: "Among the Acul mountains there has been found, in an old house, a bust of Lord Nelson. It is of white marble, somewhat stained by time and neglect. Nelson is represented in his costume of admiral, and bears on his breast five decorations. One in commemoration of the battle of Aboukir, has the inscription: 'Rear Admiral Lord Nelson of the Nile.' Another medal bears the words: 'Almighty God has blessed his majesty's glory!' This bust, interesting in its artistic and historical association, was found on an altar devoted to the fetish worship, where, for half a century, it has been revered as the deity of the mountain streams. The names of the sculptors were 'Coale and Lady, of Lambeth.' There, for fifty years, a bust of an English admiral has been worshipped as a heathen idol."

HEAVY DECLINE IN NEGROES.—A lot of negroes—some twenty or thirty—were sold at Eutaw on Monday last, by the sheriff. The prices brought, we understand, were at least forty to fifty per cent below the ruling rates of last winter. A fraction over $1200—and that for a very likely fellow—was the highest price that was obtained. A very likely young woman, such as would have commanded $1500 to $1600 last fall, brought only a fraction over $1000. The scarcity of money doubtless had something to do with the matter, but an apprehension of a dissolution of the Union (a measure which some men contend would enhance the value of slave property) we strongly suspect had also something to do with it.

Preliminary lectures will commence on the 15th day of October, and rooms will be opened for dissection at the same time.

The regular course of lectures will commence on the first Monday, the 5th day of November, and will continue sixteen weeks.

The present arrangement of the faculty is by far the most complete and effective (as proved by our satisfactory experience) the department of Surgery being organized in the colleges. Every department is represented by a full professor, and by the greatest possible diversity, and the truths of natural and medical science are investigated and illustrated, without the intervention of hypothetical deductions, which will do the principles of pure reason in the mind of every candid and intelligent observer.

To those who design practicing medicine in the Middle, Western or Southern States, we would say that our institution presents great advantages for acquiring a practical knowledge of the diseases of this climate, which differ over those of the North and East, and it is a duty the student owes to himself and his section to patronize home institutions.

Requisites for graduation the same as those required by all other colleges of the country.

Good board can be obtained at from $3.50 to $4.50 per week.

For further information address either Prof. Gayle, Garrett, G. W. Morrow, or Rewtin, at Memphis, or W. R. Morrow, M. D., Dean of the Medical College, Memphis, Tennessee.

By a special arrangement with the board of trustees of the Memphis hospital, the students of this college are allowed the privilege of attending the hospital, with those of the Allopathic college, and those who desire it will visit the hospital once or twice a week with one of the professors.

Prof. Wm. Rewtin is now in New York selecting additional material for the illustrative departments of the college, and the facilities for acquiring medical knowledge will be much greater than heretofore.

All are advised to come in by the 15th of October.

Students on their Arrival will please call immediately at the office of Drs. Gayle & Woodard, 275 Main street, or Drs. Gaskins & Morrow, Union street, north side, second door east of Main.

A CURE FOR THE MILLION!

THE CELEBRATED

HIGHLAND BITTERS!

Or, SCOTCH TONIC,

Has no equal as a Stomach Medicine in the

IT history can be told in a very few words, but the wonderful cures effected by this remedial agent would require a volume of details. When the Crimean war was in progress, thousands of Pirogoff and more experienced British soldiers, fell victims to the change of climate and unaccustomed exposure. The surgeons attached of the newspapers detailed with graphic power the miseries and dejected state of the troops. The press and the public became aroused to a sense of their duty, when thousands of their countrymen were sleeping the long sleep of death, and their homes were bereaved of an irreparable stave. Commissioners were appointed by the English government, and Sir George Ballingall, Professor of Military Surgery in the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, was ordered to the Highland Brigade, under the command of Sir Colin Campbell. Dr. Ballingall knew that the natives of the Scotch highlands had been, from time immemorial, in the habit of using certain herbs and roots, collected in their fields and glens, which had the extraordinary effect of preservation, as well as acting as a cure for diseases of a certain kind, which all mankind are more or less liable to under certain conditions of the system or locality. The extraordinary success of Sir George's scientific combination is world renowned. The effects of a change of climate, and the miasmatic influences arising from an irrifitated section of country, which invariably leads to fevers of different kinds, and to bowel complaints more immediately connected with the great functions of the human organization, such as the stomach, the liver, and the bowels. The qualities of this medicine first tried in the Crimea, and its astonishing success alone, have placed it upon an unprofitable foundation. In restoring diseased and debilitated health, it has no parallel in the wonderful innovation of the advanced age. For the following complaints it has been tried by millions of enlightened Christendom, and found to be the sure and certain remedy: Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Heartburn, Acidity, Jaundice, Costiveness, Loss of Appetite, Headache, General Debility, Chills, Ague, Bilious, Intermittent, Remittent, Typhoid and every other type of Fevers.

In all sections of the country this noble boon to sufferers is now extensively used by the most eminent physicians in their practice with unbounded success, and has restored to health thousands who were apparently beyond the reach of the healing art. It has been prov d beyond a doubt, from authentic documents, that consumed Scrofula, of the most distressing kind, is unfavorably cured by the Highland Bitters, in a period varying from one to six weeks; and that its return is effectually prevented, and the digestive powers preserved in the fullest vigor by a subsequent occasional use of this remarkable invigorant, which removes the oppression after eating, common to the stomach, or dyspepsia, morning tremors, fluttering of the heart, broken sleep, nightmare, loss of memory, fickleness of mind, irritation of temper and general despondency. In tetters and other kindred diseases, the Highland Bitters has been used with the utmost success, and we have in our possession innumerable correspondents in all parts of the United States.

It is a gratification to the proprietors to know that the Scotch tonic has been of incalculable service to the aged and infirm. Being the most agreeable and palatable medicine ever dispensed, possessing peculiarly cheering and refreshing properties, it is the best and safest stimulant of ordinary impure stimulants, which has been testified by Liebig, the great German chemist, and the best pharmacentists in New York. This tonic is deservedly popular with persons in the decline of life. It is invaluable in cases of nervous prostration of nature, where all other nutritives have utterly failed. Being entirely compounded of extracts from the pure mountain herbs, grown in Scotland, imported for ourselves, and scientifically prepared under our own supervision, it presents a combination of anything infectious to the most delicate female, and may be given in small doses to the youngest child. All are benefited by its invigorating influence on the frame and constitution, wherever there is a wasted vital force, it is invigorating power we are sure has neglected to supply. It only behooves the public to try its magical effects, and apply our motto—"Drink and Live."

Beware of Counterfeits,

Which unprincipled persons have introduced to imitate, but never can equal, the genuine. Each quart bottle has the name, Highland Bitters, or Scotch Tonic, blown in the glass, and bears the signature on the cap of Memphis, September 3, 1860.

Referring to the above correspondence, and in view of the important interests involved, we have concluded and have entered into a limited contract on custom warehouses, of the second class, and third class, owned, or to be owned, by a greater frequency of first than heretofore, and an increased number of fire-proof warehouses, for the past year, and have selected Memphis as the place to store cotton commonly itself to every planter or shipper. Planters and wanting insurance can justly feel more than usually secure. But believing the principle insurance on cotton in our warehouses can be effected at low rates, we shall cover all shippers against fire, or in good standard, responsible and undoubtable wise insured. We respectfully solicit a share of public favors.
