DEHORNETTE.—We have recently had organized in this city a house of DEHORNETTE, and can well afford, from the book designed by his art, to add our testimony to that of hundreds of others, as to its efficacy. It answers the purpose of a perfumer for the hair, and at the same time cleansers it from impurities, leaving the hair perfectly soft and silky. We recommend its use to those in need of an article either to invigorate, preserve, or purify the hair.—St. Joseph (Mo.) West. 19

A LIBRARY FOR MEMPHIS.—One of our great social wants for Memphis is a good public library. It is a painful thing to reflect upon, that the very many young men employed in this city have nowhere to spend their evenings but such as more pleasure or dangerous indulgence offer. A considerable portion of the young clerks in our stores and offices are from a distance, and the sweet and holy influences of domestic life are denied them. They live in boarding houses and how little opportunity there is there for mental cultivation most perverse know. Can we expect youth to compress life within the three occupations of work, repose and sleep? Is it desirable we should, if we could? Yet, what does the boarding house offer, beyond the labors of the day, but meals and bed? The "world"—to use a religious phrase—has taken advantage of the state of things, to spread before the young the allurements of the liquor saloon, the billiard-table, the ten-pin alley, gards and gambling, the hell, the theater, and other pleasures and dissipations. What have the religious and the moral done to counteract these unfavorable influences. Literally and positively nothing. Several young men made the effort, by the origination of Young Men's Christian Association, and that well-meant effort failed. In other cities the library has been most important and successful means of meeting the state of things we have pointed out, and it is in the establishment of a public library that we shall find the great instrument wanted. The difficulty is to get the intellectual, the moral, and the progressive minds in the community to unite their aid and influence in establishing the wanted institution. We hope, however, that an attempt to do so will not fail. We are happy to know that there are minds in the community at work upon this subject, and it is with great gratification we announce that a nucleus of the proposed library institution exists. The members of the Pioneer hook and ladder company have, from the time of accompanying the handsome engine house at the corner of Second and Adams streets, contemplated the establishment of a library. They have a handsome and lofty room which they will devote to its location. They have a charter from the legislature under which a library association can be organized. More than this, a number of books have been presented towards starting the library, and already fifty free gentlemen have subscribed twenty-five dollars each; a little effort is in certain will increase this number to one hundred. The project therefore is good. What is now wanted is the influence and assured support of a number of substantial citizens, and the Memphis public library will soon be in existence. We hope many who read this will be disposed to come forward and encourage the few who are taking an interest in the subject with assurances of their cooperation. Those who will at once take part in this good work will aid its progress and ensure its success by calling upon Mr. James H. Edmonson, of the firm of Edmonson & Armstrong, 274 Main street, opposite Court square, and leaving with him any book or books which they desire to present, writing their name and address in such a way as to bring in their names as subscribers toward the establishment of the library, or leaving their written address if they are desirous of becoming members of the proposed institution. The long winter nights are now upon us and now is the time to move at once in the matter. Let all who are favorable come forward without delay.

SECRECY IN COURT.—In the case of the reporter lately forbid to report the testimony in the Skinner case, we are glad to find that Judge Swayne has reversed his decision. We know the judge and are sure he is a friend to perfect openness. The judge said in the matter: "The rule which the law clearly authorizes to be made is intended to keep the testimony untainted that goes to the jury. The object is to keep from the witnesses who are to testify in the case a knowledge of the testimony which any other witness has given. The object is not to prevent the people's having information on the case. The object is in reference not to the public, but the witnesses placed under the rule. The court clearly has the power to put the witnesses under that rule, and the object is that their testimony may be unbiassed by any such thing as that. The court, I supposed, was not clearly understood. I made this order on the authority presented to the court, and intimated doubt as to what might be said by other authorities. No further authorities were presented by any person, and the court could only make the order. I am still not satisfied but what if the question were fully examined, in its common law privileges, the press might be entitled to make the publication."

WATER GAGE.—The city engineer, Mr. Recker, is engaged at the present time in the construction of a most important work, ordered by the city council some time ago—the construction of a water gage at the foot of Union street, by which the hight of the water at this port can always be measured. The information which the gage gives is always important to a steamboat port. In time of high water, the information it will give will be of immense advantage to those living below us. The planters below, during the last two floods, looked to the intelligence of the state of the river contained in the Memphis papers, to learn them as to what they might expect, but for want of a standard of reference of the ability to say so many feet or inches below highwater mark, the intelligence given was of little practical value. When the state of the water is published daily, steamboat captains in distant parts will always be able to know when they can find water to this port for their boats, and packet companies will know what tonnage of boats to put into the trade at any given time. All these things save loss, and are an advantage to our commerce.

☞ Mysteries upon mysteries at Heller's.

ESCAPED.—At the time of the onslaught of the police upon the house in which they caught a number of counterfeiters day before yesterday, a notorious individual by the name of Forrest was in the house, who escaped by the following feint: After searching the lower part of the house, Capt. Garrett went above when Forrest requested one of the officers to let him out, as he had a commission to perform for Capt. Garrett. The officer opened the door and Forrest decamped to parts unknown. Of course he forgot to return.

THEATRICAL.—Mr. Collins appeared before a delighted audience again last night in his own beautiful play of The Collen Bawn. Nothing has been left undone to place this interesting piece on the stage with all the advantages which scenic effect can impart. Some of the scenery is as fine as we have ever seen, and some only wanting in some slight amendments to be perfect. The Collen Bawn will be presented again to-night.

COMMON LAW COURT.—In this court yesterday the suit of Norville & Bomar against Baily & Prewitt, was decided in favor of the former parties with damages in the amount of nearly three thousand dollars; the matter was a disputed partnership. The case of Pollock against Jones, in which the ownership of property in the Metropolitan saloon is in question, was taken up. George S. Hebb, Esq., of Maryland, was admitted to practice in the court.

JEWELRY RECOGNIZED.—We mentioned yesterday that when Carter and Kennedy were arrested, beside a quantity of counterfeit money, a quantity of jewelry were also seized. The announcement sent a large number of people to jail yesterday, who had lost jewelry, to examine the goods. One lady, Mrs. Mary L. Hurtelle, of this city, recognized a bracelet, a pair of ear-rings, and other articles, as being stolen from her in New Orleans, nearly two years ago. We expect now justice has got hold of the two men, she will keep hold of them for some time to come.

CRIMINAL COURT.—At this court yesterday the case of Skinner was still in progress. The testimony was gone through with, and the counsel were proceeding with their statements and appeals to the jury.

THE H. R. W. HILL DISASTER.—Coroner Beach of New Orleans, held an investigation on the 11th inst., into the causes of the disaster to the steamer H. R. W. Hill, on the night of the 2d inst. John Christy, engineer of the steamer Nebiot, being sworn, said, that from an examination of that part of the boiler that gave way, it appeared that the explosion was produced by natural causes. The ends of the boiler were part cast iron and part wrought iron. The cast iron head being thicker than the flange of the boiler caused the contraction and expansion to be unequal. The consequence was an unequal strain every time the boiler was heated, which caused this cast iron to be gradually cracked until it could stand but very little pressure, and gave way. He was satisfied there was plenty of water in the boiler at the time, and could see nothing to cause blame to be attached to the engineer. He was not acquainted with the engineer of the boat, but understood the head had been on the boat some six or seven years. John C. March, United States local inspector, as well as the head engineer of the Hill, and R. S. Brewster, were sworn, and concurred in the testimony of Mr Christy. On the evidence the jury rendered a verdict acquitting the officers of the boat of blame, and recommending that the use of cast iron boiler heads be hereafter prohibited.

HEALING THE SUPERNATURAL.—As a performer of "conjuring" experiments Mr. Heller is certainly an eminent proficient; with a facility that is almost as astonishing as the wonder itself, he works what to the eye are veritable miracles. It is impossible to watch the astonishing acquirements he displays without being struck with astonishment words cannot readily express. It is easy to say of his amazing performances—"Oh! it's only conjuring," but let the thinker try to account for and explain what he sees and he will find "only conjuring" no trifle. This is said of his ordinary displays—what shall we say of the wondrous, astounding second-sight. We have seen it but once, and can say nothing. We shall go again and try if we can find anything comprehensible upon the subject. He performs again at Odd-fellows' hall to-night; he has crowded audiences.

☞ Maj. Wm. H. Polk, one of the national Democratic electors for Tennessee is in the city, stopping at the Gayoso. Although not successful, he is not dispirited, but intends, like all good and true Democrats, to stand by the time-honored organization which affords the only protection to State and individual against our common enemy, the Black Republicans. He was a national Democrat at the commencement of the canvass, and he is a national Democrat still, notwithstanding the reverses which we have encountered. The true Democracy of Tennessee are much indebted to Maj. Polk for the ability, energy and boldness with which he prosecuted the canvass, and they will not soon forget him.

DISCHARGED—Wm Fay, who has been in custody for some time on the charge of swindling, the property being a suit of clothes made in his brother's shop, was before the grand jury yesterday, who found no true bill in the case, and he was discharged.

FIRES.—We mentioned a fight at the Wormsham house on Monday, in which a secession gentleman, Mr. J. R. Dixon, received a blow from a Union man, Mr. R. H Powers. The latter party was yesterday fined ten dollars for using coercive measures against a secessionist.

☞ Let no one fail to see Heller.

THE CAMPBELLS ARE COMING.—Do not forget that they are a troupe of minstrels that have obtained a high reputation, and they never were in no line a state of excellence as now. They are masters in the art.

THANKS.—The Adams express company, that universal messenger, which "bringeth glad tidings," as well as "evil reports," is every day making itself more and more a necessity. To Messrs. Borden and Gillespie, of this institution, we have again been placed under obligations for favors in advance of the mails.

☞ Secure seats in the morning to see Heller.

LIBEL SUIT.—The libel suit instituted by T. J. Heistand, against the Argus newspaper, was dismissed at the common law court, yesterday; neither the plaintiff nor his council appearing in court.

LEGION TO SLAVES.—For selling liquor to slaves at his saloon Joseph Rebel was yesterday fined ten dollars by the recorder.

SUNDAY SELLING.—The recorder yesterday fined A. D. Bello five dollars for selling liquor in his saloon on Sunday.

☞ Second-sight puzzles every one.

GENIUS AND MERIT.—Rather says that the fires of genius need not be fanned by the bellows of puffery or fed with the fuel of adulation. True enough; no more than it is required by Hostetter as a great dyer, scourer and repairer. Office on Main, between Gayoso and Beal.

PERSONAL.—Our friend W. H. Rhea, publisher of the Des Arc (Ark.) Constitutional Union, and who has been in the city for some days past on business connected with his paper, left for Des Arc last night on the Admiral.

☞ The only correct time is Heller's clock.

☞ The proposition to allow negro suffrage in the State of New York, without the property qualification as now existing, was voted down even by the negro-worshippers most overwhelmingly. In the city of New York, where there were 39,793 Republican votes, this philanthropic (?) measure only received 1640 votes. It presents a fair illustration of preaching versus practice.

☞ Dr. C. H. Britton will be at Odd-fellows' hall from nine to twelve to sell secured seats.

SECESSION MOVEMENTS AT THE SOUTH.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., November 12.—The military State convention met here to-day. The attendance was very large. Resolutions favoring secession were passed. Governor Brown made a long speech, declaring the right of secession, and that it was the duty of other States to sustain them. The proceedings in the legislature are not interesting.

COLUMBIA, S. C., November 12.—In the Senate a bill to suspend penalties for the suspension of specie payment by the banks passed after a second reading.

In the House the circuit court bill was read the third time, and passed unanimously.

Resolutions were passed instructing a joint committee on military affairs to prepare during the recess a plan for arming the State, and a joint committee on finance to prepare a scheme to raise the necessary supplies. A resolution providing that the military inquire into the propriety of fortifying various exposed points on the sea coast was lost.

WASHINGTON, November 12.—The State newspaper comes out as an independent journal, opposing Secession.

A company of United States artillery has been sent to Fayetteville, South Carolina, to protect the arsenal there.

CHARLESTON, S. C., November 12.—The largest and most enthusiastic meeting ever held in this city assembled last night, to ratify the call made by the legislature for a State convention. The galleries were crowded with ladies. Speeches were made by Judge Mobrath, the presiding officer, and others. When one speaker declared the Union dissolved, the enthusiasm was perfectly wild. Outside meetings were addressed by prominent secessionists, and martial music continues to excite the populace. The general feeling continues to carry the day in favor of the maintenance of the honor of South Carolina. There is no longer any doubt but that South Carolina will secede. The Courier office displays the Palmetto flag, with the inscription "South Carolina the first State that will follow." On the reverse is a single star with a moon for others. The banks of Charleston have agreed to loan four hundred thousand dollars for arming the State. Senator Hammond has resigned. NEW YORK, November 12.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Times says: Several leading Virginians here believe it to be the purpose of Virginia to mediate between the sections when South Carolina has accomplished secession. The basis upon which the mediation is to be made is, that no President shall be elected unless he receives a majority of votes from both sections of the Union, and no law be passed except by a majority of the Representatives of both sections.

The World's Washington correspondent says: Several Virginia Congressmen in this city represent that Virginia is in favor of submitting to Lincoln's election.

The Union men overall that Attorney-General Black, and Secretary Floyd informed the President that they would resign if he upheld the Federal laws in case of secession by any State.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMSHIP CANADA.

THREE DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE

NEW YORK, November 12.—The British and North American royal mail steamship Canada, Captain Lang, arrived at Halifax to-day from Liverpool on her way to Boston with advices to the 31 and 4th inst.

It has been ascertained that France prevented the bombardment of Gaeta, merely to facilitate the escape of the King of Naples and prevent complications in case of his capture.

According to Neapolitan accounts, Gen. Cialdini was beaten at the Garigliano, losing two thousand men killed and wounded. Garibaldi's detachment from Turin, on the other hand, deny that the Sardinians met with any defeat whatever.

Capua was attacked on the 31st inst., and capitulated on the 2d. The troops leave with honors of war, and go to Naples on the 81. There was great rejoicing at Naples; the city was brilliantly illuminated.

An attack on Gaeta was shortly expected. Victor Emmanuel had crossed the Garigliano.

It was reported that Turkey was about to negotiate a loan at Paris of 18,000,000 francs, at 3½%. A national forced loan was also spoken of.

ELECTION RETURNS.

ST. LOUIS, November 13.—The result in this State is still doubtful. It is between Bell and Douglas.

WASHINGTON, November 13.—Breckinridge's majority in Virginia will be about 1200.

Arrival of the Steamship Kangaroo.

NEW YORK, November 12.—The steamship Kangaroo arrived at this port to-day from Liverpool, with dates to the 27th ult. Her advices have been anticipated by previous arrivals.
