A CURE FOR THE MILLION!

THE CELEBRATED

HIGHLAND BITTERS!

Or, SCOTCH TONIC,

Has no equal as a Stomach Medicine in the World!

THE history can be told in a few words, but the wonderful cures effected by this celebrated aperitif would require a volume of details. When the Crimean war was in progress, thousands of French, and more especially British soldiers, fell victims to the combined effects of climate and miscalculated commissariats. The correspondents of the newspapers detailed with graphic power the miserable and dejected state of the troops. The press and the public became aroused to a sense of their duty, and thousands of their countrymen were stirring the long sleep of death, and their bones were bleaching on an inhospitable shore. Outstripping the slow movements of the British government, and Sir George Ballingall, Professor of Military Medicine in the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, was appointed by special request of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, to institute inquiries and if possible suggest a remedy. His object, of course, being principally confined to the Highland regiments, under the command of the Duke of Cambridge, he soon became aware that the natives of the Scotch highlands had been from time immemorial, in the habit of using certain herbs and roots, collected in their hills and glens, which had the extraordinary effect of preventing, as well as acting as a cure for diseases of a certain kind, which all mankind are more or less liable to under certain conditions of the climate or locality. The extraordinary success of Sir George's scientific composition, in warding off the diseases consequent on a change of climate, and in subsequently curing those arising from an inclemerate section of country, which invariably leads to fevers of different kinds, a train of dysentery and more immediately connected with the great functions of the human system—the blood, the stomach, the liver, and the bowels, etc. The great fame of this medicine first tried in the Crimea, and its astonishing success since, have placed it upon an unquestionable footing. In destroying disease and indolent health, it has no parallel in the wonderful invention of this advanced age. For the following complaints it has been tried by millions of enlightened Christendom, and found to be the sure and certain specific: Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Heartburn, Acidity, Jaundice, Costiveness, Loss of Appetite, Headache, Giddiness, Dizziness, Ague, Bilious, Intermittent, Remittent, Typhoid and every other type of Fevers.

In all sections of the country the noble boon to sufferers is now universally held up to the most eminent physicians in their practice with unbounded success, and has tendered to health thousands who were apparently beyond the reach of the healing art. It has been proved beyond a doubt, from authenticated documents, that one-third Proprietary of the most distressing kind, is immediately cured by the Highland Bitters, in a period varying from one to six weeks; and that its return is effectually prevented, and the digestive powers preserved in the perfect vigor by a continuance occasionally use of this remarkable invigorant, which removes the oppression after eating, arrests in the stomach, or diaphragm, morning sickness, dyspepsia of the bowels, costiveness, nightmare, loss of memory, dimness of sight, prostration of mind and body, nervous debility, seminal weakness and other blighted diseases, the Highland Bitters has called forth the warmest expressions of gratitude from innumerable correspondents in all parts of the United States.

It is a gratification to the proprietors to know that the Scotch tonic has been of invaluable service to the aged and infirm. Being the most agreeable and palatable medicine ever discovered, possessing the peculiarly cheering and refreshing properties, without any of the drawbacks of ordinary medicines, which has been tested and found to be healthy, the great German chemist, and the best pharmaceutists in New York. This tonic is decidedly recommended by persons in the decline of life. It re-establishes the exhausted powers of nature, when all other means have failed to have any effect. This tonic is decidedly composed of selected herbs and roots, gathered and preserved in Scotland, according to Sir George's recipe, and prepared under our own supervision, it possesses not a particle of anything injurious to the most delicate constitution, and adapted to the weakness of a child. All are benefited by its vivifying influence on the frame and nervous system, whenever there is a want of vital force, it so assumes every where nature has implanted in man, to recommend the public to try its tropical effects, and apply our motto—"Drink and Live."

Beware of Counterfeits,

Which unprincipled knavery have endeavored to imitate, but without success. Each genuine bottle has the name, Highland Bitters, or Scotch Tonic, blown in the glass, and bears the signature on the rear of $200 REWARD.

STOLEN from the subscriber, living in the city of Memphis, on the first day of October, by the driver, a TWO-HORSE WAGON, and two medium sized HORSE MULES, about six years old, both dark brown, nearly black, about six or seven years old. The near Mule has the remains of a sore under one of his eyes; also, each mule, land other in harness. The off Mule paces. Both are somewhat dull. The Wagon has from 1 to 2 inches of a brown, painted red, the bolts, tires, The harness is styled Turkey harness, made with back and hip straps.

FRANK, the driver, who stole the said Wagon and Mules, is a German, speaks English very broken, is about twenty-five years old, about 5 feet 10 inches high, has sandy hair, his lips are inclined to be thick, one of his upper fore teeth are out, when he speaks or laughs he shows his teeth very plain, he has recently had a rivetting on one of his fingers, which shows a tender case.

I will give one hundred dollars for the apprehension of the thief, and one hundred dollars for the Mules and Wagon, or fifty dollars for any information enabling me to recover said property.
