ANTI-FREE LUNCH ORDINANCE

Some Arguments Answered and Several Other Good Reasons Why the Anti-Free Lunch Ordinance Should Become a Law.

One of the topics for discussion in municipal affairs just now is the anti-free lunch ordinance which is pending before the city council.

The brewers are unanimous in their opposition to the passage of the ordinance. They claim that its passage will decrease the sale of beer ten per cent.

Assistant City Attorney McKeon rendered an opinion on the ordinance at the council meeting last Monday evening which can be punched full of holes by the most ordinary layman in this city.

A free lunch ordinance was passed by the Minneapolis city council some time ago. It was introduced at the instigation of the health department, and was passed purely as a health ordinance.

If the wives of a good many workmen in this city had a chance to be heard on this ordinance they would tell in short order some good reason why the free lunch should be abolished in saloons.

The argument that a great many poor people would be made to suffer by the abolition of the free lunch in the saloon is unworthy of consideration.

Down in Mankato the chief of police is advocating the passage of a free lunch ordinance. He says that the many street improvements there is causing large demands for labor, but it is necessary to import men to do this work, and that there are a number of able-bodied men who hang about saloons phase to the question, just as there is a moral phase to it.

We have been asked how organized labor takes to the anti-lunch ordinance. In answer to this let it be said that the Cooks' and Waiters' union was the first to ask for the passage of the ordinance. This is, of course, a business move on the part of the union.

The officers of every trade union in this city, and more particularly the financial officers, know something about the evils of lunches in saloons. These are called upon repeatedly to furnish money to workmen to pay their bills, who would not leave a saloon so long as there was something to eat there, and until their last dollar was spent.

The Plumbers' union evidently does not believe in free lunches for its members who may be in hard luck. The union has a paid up restaurant ticket on hand at all times so that worthy members in hard luck may get something to eat.

Some of the saloon keepers themselves are the most ardent supporters of the lunch ordinance. This is commendable. A man who is trying to remedy some of the evils that surround the sale of liquor is a useful man in the saloon business.

Is it not funny that the principal opposition to the lunch ordinance comes from an organization of men who are absolutely incapable of looking at the liquor question from any other standpoint than a commercial one?

GOOD RECIPE TO MAKE YOUR OWN GRAPE NUTS

Post, the Union Hater, Getting Squeezed Hard by the Boycott, Pours Out Venom.

A Contemporary Tells His Readers How to Make Your Own Food at Home.

Our readers will notice that the Labor World does not contain the large advertisements of Grape Nuts and Postum Cereal, manufactured by the union hating Post, which appears so lavishly in the daily papers.

"Do not boycott Mr. Post. I am sorry that Mr. Post has been so badly hurt by those wicked boycotters that he is obliged to protest so strongly. It is wicked to boycott—if you don't believe it ask Mr. Post or Mr. Parry. But why boycott? You can make 'Scrape Nuts' and Faken Cereal for your own use without infringing upon the patent laws. To make 'Scrape Nuts' for your own use get some stale bread, the older the better, soak in water, then squeeze out the water as much as possible, and add to the well squeezed bread enough cheap New Orleans molasses to be able to work the mass into a very stiff paste.

"As for Cereal Coffee, if you like such sloppy stuff, just get a quantity of seed barley at about a cent a pound, grind it, cook it according to Mr. Post's own directions and you will have the most delicious drink imaginable, provided, of course, your imagination is in good working order.

"I make no charges for this friendly tip on the much buncoed American public, and hope the liberal press will give it wide publicity."
