SUNDAY TRADING.—For selling liquor on Sunday, P. Lewis was yesterday fined by the Recorder.

COL. SMITH'S REGIMENT.—The entertainment given by the young ladies of the Seventh ward, for the benefit of this regiment, takes place on Wednesday evening next.

DEAD.—Ed. Mainspe, who was shot in an affray with Alec. Nuttall on Friday died yesterday. Nuttall was doing well but is not considered out of danger.

TEAMSTERS WANTED.—Ten teamsters are wanted for Carroll's brigade. Apply to Quartermaster F. M. Gailor, Walker's Block, Main street above Madison, before noon on Monday.

ELDORADO.—The proprietors of the Eldorado Billiard Saloon, at the corner of Second and Madison streets, offer to the lover of billiards every possible facility for playing the game in the first style.

CONFECTIONERY.—The new confectionery opened by Mr. Rocco, at the corner of Madison and Third streets, is becoming one of the most popular institutions of the kind in Memphis. Mr. Rocco has a fine building, handsomely furnished, and has a stock of goods that cannot be surpassed.

TO THE LADIES.—In accordance with the request of the Chamber of Commerce, and out of respect to the brave ones fallen, the sale of ladies' goods by A. L. Andrews & Co., will take place at their new rooms, 330 Main street, on Monday, at 10 A. M., instead of yesterday, as advertised.

INJURED.—As T. B. Jones, Esq., was driving in a buggy down Union street below Front Row, at 4 o'clock last evening, the horse took fright and ran off. Mr. Jones sprang from the buggy but fell as he reached the ground, when the vehicle passed over his hand causing a painful injury.

RECORDER'S COURT—Recorder Moore had eighteen cases yesterday, five for misdemeanor, two drunk, seven fighting, two disorderly, one contempt of court, and one for selling on Sunday. Among the fighting cases were two specimens of crinoline. Seven of the accused were fined, four were sent to the chaingang, six were discharged, and one whipped.

JUMPING.—There is a vicious and dishonorable practice prevalent among the laboring men working on steamboats of deserting the boat just as she is about to leave port, unless the boat will pay them just such wages as it suits them to demand. This practice has been prevalent of late at our landing, the scarcity of hands affording facility for the proceeding, and in some instances boats have been delayed in consequence.

MORTUARY.—We are indebted to the health officer, Dr. Peyton, for the following mortuary report for the week ending November 9, at 12 o'clock M: Parotuens abcess, 1; congestion of the lungs, 1; spasms, 1; gastro enteritis, 2; congestive chills, 2; premature birth, 2; congestion, following measles, 1; unknown, 1; total, 12. Adults, 6; children, 6; males, 7; females 5. Citizens, 7; strangers, 5. Whites, 8; Blacks, 4. Total, 12.

MAKING CHANGE.—They have adopted a new way of making half dollar change in New Orleans. The Delta says: "We understand that the several banks that have issued small notes will recognize and redeem all their notes that are cut in half, even to the three and one dollar notes. Some apprehension had been felt in regard to these notes, but we have authority to state that all halves of notes bearing the signature of the president or of the cashier will be recognized and redeemed."

TABLEAUX AND SONGS.—Ladies who have heretofore taken a part in exhibitions already given, and who have thus obtained some of the experience necessary, will to-morrow evening give a most splendid and charming exhibition at the theater, for the benefit of the soldiers wounded at Columbus. The object alone will fill the house with sympathizing crowds. Pioneer's defense, Indian maiden, soldier's return, captive maid, poet's dream, Hiawatha, Romeo and Juliet, fanal signal, and tableaux of twenty different countries, besides the Confederate and Northern States, will be given, with a number of splendid songs.

CRIMINAL COURT.—On reading the record, Judge Venable rose and stated to the court, that the wounded soldiers from Columbus would arrive on the 10 o'clock train, and being citizens of this city mostly, and relatives and friends of our entire community, including all the parties connected with this court, it was desirable that the court adjourn over till Monday to allow the attentions necessary and proper from said parties, under such circumstances, and he moved the court adjourn. Said motion being concurred in by all the attorneys in the causes on trial, on both sides, and it seeming right and proper in the opinion of the court, and due to the public immediately concerned in the business of the court, as well as consistent with the sensibilities of the judge personally, under such circumstances the court was adjourned till half past eight o'clock to-morrow morning.

On 'Change--Business News.

In accordance with a resolution adopted on Friday, there was no 'Change held yesterday, and business houses in the city were very generally closed. The Charleston railroad brought in 908 sacks and 2538 barrels flour. The receipts of cotton during the week were 267 bales, the shipments 258 bales. Receipts during the season, from September 1, less than last year, 191,521 bales, and shipments 72,711 less. The stock on hand is 2256 bales.

The New Orleans True Delta, of Friday, says: "Many of our coast packets are beginning to find it rather a difficult matter to obtain full loads, from the fact that many of the planters have received orders from their consignees not to forward any more sugar or molasses for sale. This move of the consignees is, we believe, to enable them to dispose of the stock on hand, and to command an unusual price for the same." The New Orleans Crescent, says: "The fare-up in the cost market a few days since, has subsided, but the price of coal has advanced to famine prices—$1 50 to $2 per barrel. The stock on hand will last the winter through, that is, the stock in yards. The coal afloat was seized by the authorities for government use. No interruption occurred with the coal yards. There was a good deal of talk about raising two millions and a half of dollars towards a navy, building steamers, etc. If the war continues, it will be well to consider after the steamers are completed, where the coal is to come from to put them in operation. It might be well to look a little ahead, and devise measures for a supply of coal for city consumption for the next year.

To the Ladies of the Seventh Ward.

We, the managers for the Sixth ward, take this method of informing you, the members of the Southern Mothers' Association, that next Tuesday will be the beginning of the week during which you are expected and solicited to take care of the Home for the sick and wounded soldiers.

We hope, one and all, you will come forward to your duty, in supplying food and nurses, with your usual promptness and liberality. If it is not convenient to send supplies of food, send your contributions in money, and the managers will see that supplies are furnished. The sufferings of our brave soldiers in the late battle at Columbus, must be alleviated, and the Home, it is expected, will be filled. Let us take care that they lack for nothing that the Southern Mothers can bestow.

MRS. Y. AND L., Managers.

The City Yesterday.

There was much gloom and anxiety in the city yesterday, and hundreds of hearts were aching in painful suspense to know the fate of loved friends, who were in the battle near Columbus. It was expected that the steamboat Kentucky, which was due the previous day, had been detained to bring down a portion of the wounded, and that she would arrive in the course of the day. From morning into night, crowds, a large portion of which were ladies, waited in sad expectation at the landing, straining their eyes for long, weary hours, to catch a sight of the expected boat; but the boat did not come. It is presumed, of course, that the roll call has made known at Columbus who are killed, wounded, or missing; and to the fearing, tearful waiters it appeared cruel and thoughtless in the extreme that no word of official intelligence should be sent from Columbus—no list arrive of the names of the killed, wounded and missing. There may be some reason for the delay which we do not know, but the suspense that exists is sadly painful. The stores on Main street were generally closed, the daily 'Change did not meet, the criminal court adjourned—all were desirous of being ready to testify their regard for the dead, to give their help to the wounded, and to manifest their deep sympathy with those whose friends had fallen in the fatal strife. Crowds awaited the arrival of the train from Columbus. On its arrival it was found that a number of bodies of the dead had been sent on from Columbus, all but eight went down the Mobile road for Mississippi, that number came here. They were reported as the bodies of First Lieut. Rhea, Second Lieut. Middlemas, privates Miles and John McCulley, and Matthews, of the Fayette Ride Guards, and Frankland Stockings, and Henry Burnett, of the Macon Greys, and the son of Esq. Ferrar, of Hernando Plank road. We are not positive as to the accuracy of the list. The public were prompt in offering contributions, and liberal sums were received in the course of the day in addition to the $1275 subscribed at the meeting on Friday night. Persons in moderate circumstances pressed forward, as well as the wealthy, to offer their money in aid of the wounded. The committee appointed at the meeting, Messrs. Walker, Loffland, Ferguson, Merrill and Patrick, were industriously at work. The Overton Hotel was secured as a hospital, thirty-six rooms were cleaned and fitted up with two and three beds each, some of the rooms being yet without fire grates. Mr. Cubbins, with a vigor that shows what a man can do when his heart is in it, had fifty grates put up between two o'clock in the afternoon and dark. The beds were fired with clothing and comfortables made. The place was made a government hospital, and placed under the care of Drs. Keller and Fenner as surgeons, with R. Brewster, Esq., as dispensing druggist. A physician's office, an operating room and dispensing room were prepared, and a crowd of ladies were waiting ready to offer their kind services, to soothe the suffering and console the dying. All was prepared, doctors, nurses—all were waiting, but not a word from Columbus to tell them when the sick would arrive, or whether they would come at all. What circumlocution office, red tape, routine formality, and official conventionalism could be at work could not be guessed, but many whose services will be greatly required, were kept waiting in vain expectation for want of what a few words flashed over the wires would supply. By this evening the cooking apparatus will be put up, and scarcely to detail necessary to the full operation of a surgical hospital will be wanting. We learn that the hospital of the Southern Mothers is at present not more than a third filled, and those in the wards are generally doing well, and that institution is preparing to render a large share of assistance. Our citizens will certainly spare no toil and no expense to render every aid to the suffering soldier, and to show the estimation in which they hold the brave men who stand in the battle field ready to lose life and limb for their country.

WANTED AT THE OVERTON HOTEL TO-DAY—Eight negro men to attend the rooms of the wounded. Please let me have them.

J. M. KELLER, Surgeon.

A CIRCULAR JOKE.—On a recent occasion Capt Lynch, who is at Fort Pillow, exclaimed to an Irishman who was lifting a stick of timber rather slowly—"Up with it man, why, I could swallow it!" The Irishman replied—"Well capp'n, mebbie you could, but if ye haven't a circular saw in your stumick I reckon it wouldn't pass."

DONATION OF WOOD.—We announced sometime ago that Col. Chas. D. McLean had offered the handsome donation of a hundred cords of wood for distribution among the poor of this city. Yesterday Mayor Park received from him the following communication:

The one hundred cords of wood donated by me, through you and your Board of Aldermen, for the families of absent volunteers and the real poor of your city and vicinity, has been corded on the railroad, thirty-three miles east of Memphis.

You will please designate a day of next week when the railroad managers can receive all or one-half the same, as I wish to be present when it is delivered.

If deemed best it can be delayed until cold weather, when I hope my donation will contribute, in some degree, to relieve those for whom it is intended, from the extortion which threatens our whole community, in regard to the prices of fuel, and other articles of necessity.

I have requested John Newsom, and S. T. Morgan to see my donation distributed for the city at large, and vicinity, and Ald. Amis in his own ward, which I hope will prove satisfactory.

☞ St. John's College, located at Annapolis, Md., a venerable institution of learning, has been suspended.

MARRIED.

On the 6th inst., by Rev. J. O. Steadman, Mr. DAVID SEWELL to Miss LIZZIE BROWN, all of this city.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. JULIANA YOUNG, late consort of Prof. W. S. Young, of Vicksburg, Miss., departed this life on Monday, the 4th instant, after a brief but painful illness. Her remains were brought to Memphis, to be laid beside an only son, whose untimely death, or rather the manner of it, having been ruthlessly akin, although supplicating for life, was the cruel blow which sundered "the silver cord and broke the golden bowl of the fountain." This sad bereavement has desolated the heart of the fond husband, who, during a union of sixteen fleet years, was unable to appreciate the full measure of her excellence. All the virtues which ennoble and make the perfect woman, were clustered in her life and set like a crown of beauty upon her brow. But she one charm-trinkle more prominent than another, it was her unconquerable love of the truth. In her social intercourse she was governed not by that false philosophy, "what will others say?" but by that true rule of conduct, "do it as I would have others do." In her friendship she was as sincere as sincerity itself, and thus had bound to her, as if by bands of steel, the most nearly of the community in which she lived. How truly her friends loved her, was evinced by the deep drawn sigh and the subdued tear of sorrow, as they bore round her bier when the last solemn rite of the Holy church were performed; and the band of devoted friends who here followed her to the grave, showed by their sorrow that the love of twenty years had lost a wided strength and leave to their friendship. She died in the true faith. To her death had lost its sting the grave its victory. She was gently led by the Savior down the steep of death, and His arm was her stay through its dark valley. The cup of her eventful life was filled with less of joy than of sorrow, but her afflictions only served to polish the rough "a blot," and make it meet for the Master's use. Now the incense of her joy is full, for her's is the blessedness of those who die in the Lord.

River News and Steamboat Business.

The river is fearly rising. The weather was hazy and cool. Business was not very active, the stores in the city being generally closed.... The Cotton Plant, which left Columbus two hours before the battle commenced—brought in 33 sacks corn, 124 sacks wheat, 142 sacks potatoes (for New Orleans) 353 boxes apples, 412 sacks potatoes, 223 sacks beans, 1 cask, 2 barrels and 387 heads cabbage, 347 pumpkins, 68 barrels and 10 sacks peas, and a quantity of dried fruit, bacon, oats, turnips, tallow, turkies, whisky, and lard. She leaves for Columbus to-morrow.... The Ferd. Kennett arrived last night with a splendid trip of sugar, molasses, and salt from New Orleans. She will start on her return to-morrow evening. The Kennett is a good fast running boat, with spacious berths, conveniently arranged and well furnished—passengers are well fed, well waited on and politely attended to. Capt. Brierley is a careful and experienced officer, and the clerk, Mr. Harper, is untiring in his efforts to make the trip agreeable to his passengers.... The Col. Morgan arrived with a large flat in tow—boat and flat were loaded with wood. Capt. Graham is doing good service to the city, and those wanting wood will find his pile at the foot of Washington street.... The Nottebe came in light from the Arkansas river. The water there is too low to be navigable and the Nottebe, like the Little Rock, will lay by for better times and more water.... The Victoria left for Vicksburg, and the Admiral and Sam. Hale for White river, and the Mary Keene for Vicksburg.... The Republic was due last night from New Orleans. She will return on Tuesday.... The New Orleans packet company have made some changes in their line, which now runs as follows: Tuesday, the Republic, Capt. J. D. Clark, and the Prince of Wales, Capt. Lee; Thursday, the John Simonds, Capt. J. F. Hicks, and the Ed. J. Gay, Capt. Wm. Wray; Saturday, the Mary E. Keene, Capt. W. R. Richardson, and the Wm. M. Morrison, Capt. F. H. Newell. J. T. Bourne & Co., agents.... The New Orleans Delta says:

This fine steamer arrived yesterday from Columbus. In noticing the arrival of the Dolsen, we take pleasure in stating a fact which we learned, not through any officer or party having any connection with or interest in the boat, that Capt. Denning refused to charge for the passage of any of the families of our soldiers, or whom there were several returning from Columbus. Such facts as these deserve record and remembrance.

Business on the levee yesterday was not as active as usual. The coast packets brought in half loads. The Memphis boats continue to carry out good trips of freight. The Grand Duke and Gen. Quitman left last evening; the Quitman was drawing over eight feet. She has a lot of sugar and molasses engaged to take in as she goes up on the coast.

The J. F. Pargoud will leave to-morrow evening for Memphis. The Red river packet J. M. Sharp, was purchased yesterday by Capt. A. J. Dye, formerly of the steamer Ashland, and other packets, for the sum of $16,000. Capt. Lanone sold the steamer Moro for the sum of $3500.

ROATS LEAVING.

FOR COLUMBUS.—The excellent steamer Yazoo, Marshall, master, leaves as above Monday at 3 o'clock P. M. Ellis & Vinson, agents.

FOR NEW ORLEANS.—The steamer Ferd. Kennett, Brierly master, leaves as above Monday evening at 5 o'clock. Apply on board.

From Pensacola.

(Correspondence of the Mobile Register.)

PENSACOLA, night, November 5.—The Paymasters have had a busy time of it in settling the pay-rolls of the different companies. For two or three days it has been pay, pay, pay—and yet there is plenty still.

The State Artillery, of Mobile, have received their new uniform. It is dark gray, with red trimmings, and will no doubt last the men their term of service. The uniform was made by Mr. Provost, of your city, and under special directions of Capt. Homer.

By the mail this morning we get the enemy's account of the battle of Santa Rosa. The historian gives some truths in his account, particularly in regard to our forces and loss. The first he place at 2500; just double the number; the the latter 850. Lord help their lying souls! They must have got mighty tired burying our dead.

About eight o'clock this morning a sloop-of-war arrived outside, and after communicating with the steamer-frigate on watch, sailed at eleven o'clock to the southeast.

It is said the Great Northern railroad, connecting this place with Mobile, in a few days will be completed to the river. This will place Mobile and Pensacola within five or six hours of each other.

Paulsen's Blindfold Chess Play in England.

The arrival of Mr. Paulsen, the American chess player, in London, has already been noticed. Mr. Paulsen, it will be remembered, played against Paul Morphy at the chess tournament held in New York some time since. He now appears in London as a blindfold player, beating no less than ten opponents simultaneously. The London Star has this account of his wonderful performances:

Mr. Paulsen offered to play, blindfolded, ten of the best players of this country, and carry on the games simultaneously. Mr. Paulsen had previously been victorious in a contest on the same terms with fifteen players; but they were not all first class, and after his triumph he expressed a wish to be pitted against ten of the ablest players that could be produced.

The match yesterday has excited great interest in chess circles since the preliminaries were arranged, and when it commenced there was a numerous company in the room, which, it is needless to say, consisted chiefly of chess-players. The following are the names of the ten gentlemen who were Mr. Paulsen's opponents viz: 1. Mr. Mackenzie, amateur; 2. Mr. Saborouff, Russian Embassy; 3. Mr. Mutile, London Chess Club; 4. Mr. Mongredien, do. do.; 5. Mr. Barnes, St. George's Club; 6. Mr. Borden, amateur; 7. Mr. Campbell; 8. Mr. Robey; 9. Mr. Lumb, amateur; 10. Mr. Wormald, Hon. Secretary St. James's Club.

At two o'clock in the afternoon, Mr. Paulsen ascended a platform in the center of the room and seated himself in a chair. For the instruction of those who are uninitiated in chess matters it may be stated that literally he was not blindfolded—that is to say, there was no bandage round his eyes; but as his back was toward the players, and his face directly towards the window, it was physically impossible that he could see anything on the boards of his opponents. He was quite cool and collected, and appeared to contemplate the result without any misgiving. He had the first move in all the games, and he announced king's pawn 2 and all round. The game proceeded slowly, and it soon became apparent that, although Mr. Paulsen had undertaken to combat ten opponents, he was really playing against the most of the gentlemen in the room, who were consulting with his opponents as to the tactics by which he could be defeated.

The match was entirely for honor. Mr. Paulsen, indeed, had a small bet in his own favor with Mr. Mackenzie, but otherwise there was no betting. Now as to the result. At five o'clock Mr. Campbell was declared the victor in his game; at ten o'clock Mr. Sabour, was equally fortunate, and at half past ten Mr. Mackenzie confessed himself beaten and resigned. About half past twelve Mr. Robey offered to draw, which Mr. Paulsen agreed to, although he had the best of the game, and about five minutes after the game with Mr. Barnes was also drawn. Shortly after one o'clock Mr. Lamb's game was also drawn. The remaining games were drawn.

During the contest, which lasted nearly twelve hours, Mr. Paulsen was out of his chair for about two minutes, and the only refreshment he partook of was a glass of water.

GEN. BRECKINRIDGE.—Hon. John C. Breckinridge arrived in this city yesterday afternoon by the train from Virginia, which had been delayed by a freight train running off the track. In consequence of the misconnection he was compelled to remain here until to-day. He has been appointed by the President a brigadier general, and is on his way to Kentucky, the field of service to which he is assigned. The appointment will be hailed with satisfaction by the country, and especially the patriots of Kentucky.

Last night Gen. Breckinridge, in response to the calls of a large number of citizens, whom the rumor of his arrival drew to the Lamar House, appeared upon the balcony and made a brief, but eloquent and patriotic speech.—Knoxville Register, Nov. 5.

COL. T. B. R. COBB.—This gentleman has written a letter to a friend in Athens, in which he says:

"Do not suffer my name to be run for Congress. I would not serve if elected. I shall go to Richmond for a short time in November, to fight for the army, then return to fight with it."

This is the spirit of the true soldier. If it should prove to be contagious, it will do good.

THE BROOKLYN A SHAM NAVAL VESSEL.—The Philadelphia Bulletin says the United States steam sloop-of-war Brooklyn, which was launched in 1858, and ought to be almost as good as new, is now at the navy-yard there, as rotton as if she had been twenty years at sea. Scarcely a timber in her is sound, and her engine and boilers are in a terrible condition, and before she can be put in serviceable order, forty or fifty thousand dollars will have to be expended upon her hull and machinery.

Messrs. Clark, Gregory & Co.,

I have been afflicted with the worst form of inward Piles and a very bad diarrhea. I have been to and by various physicians, who pronounced my case incurable. Finding no relief, I was persuaded to try your Anderson Oil, and after using one bottle, I was enabled to go about my usual avocation. Three bottles have cured me whole and sound, and I wish to make this public, that other sufferers of this disease, the worst in the world, may try it and be convinced as I have been, that its equal is not to be found. M'LEAN'S CORDIAL.

As may be seen, we insert this week the advertisement of McLean's Cordial, etc.

It is very well known we are not particularly favorable to patent medicines, and, as a general thing, eschew the whole of them with her Bills ceremony, and with these sentiments we declined inserting this advertisement until we know what were the ingredients of the medicine, and how compounded. This we have learned and believing, as we do, that the ingredients are good, and the compound judiciously made, we recommend it as a mixture worthy of public confidence.

The above is from the St. Louis Christian Advocate edited by the renowned Rev. Dr. McAnally, which speaks volumes in favor of McLean's Cordial. We say to all, try it. See the advertisement in another column. feb0-daw

IN compliance with instructions to me from the Government of the Confederate States, through General A. Sidney Johnston, I hereby make known to all companies, battalions and regiments mustered in, or hereafter to be mustered into the service of the Confederate States, for twelve months, under the late call for volunteers for the Confederate service, that they will be required to arm themselves within a reasonable time with shot guns, rifles, or any other effective gun, the Government paying the value of the arms. Every facility will be afforded by the State that is possible, and when arms furnished as soon as practicable. RELIABLE SOUTHERN INSURANCE.—It has been the misfortune to place Agents, thought to be Southern Companies in place. Agents thought to be South, and to the exclusion of all Southern companies, usurping the business. It is now her post for Northern insurance companies to take risks on Southern property. All policies payable in the Southern Confederacy held with Eastern companies are about on a par with the Tennessee and Mississippi State bonds—entirely worthless. Policies amounting to millions of dollars, held by Southerners with Eastern Insurance companies, at present amount to nothing. In the South are many good and reliable Insurance companies, which now have no interest in the business that Northern gear North. Our companies must increase their capital and all of every facility to insure.

The LYNCHBURG FIRE AND FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY is prepared to take risks. This company has a capital and surplus of $400,000, and takes risks against loss or damage by fire, marine and river risks. Also, on the lives of negroes.

Persons who hold policies with this company and suffered by the recent fire on the corner of Washington street and Front Row, were paid promptly, the company not taking the sixty days usually allowed.

D. C. Trader,

INSURANCE AGENT.

Corner of Second street and Court Square is the authorized Agent of the Lynchburg Home and Fire Insurance Company, in this city. Mr. Trader is also agent for several other good and reliable companies. no6
