It proposes to exclude all alien and feeble-minded persons and persons not comprehended within any of the classes now excluded by law, "who are certified by the examining surgeon as being mentally or physically defective, such mental or physical defect being of a nature which may affect the ability of such alien to earn a living." Aliens who admit having committed a felony or other crime or who admit their belief in the practice of polygamy; women or girls coming into the United States for any immoral purpose; children under 17 years of age who are unaccompanied by parents, unless coming to join parents, brothers or sisters already in this country.

BRITISH UNIONS WIN IN POLITICAL BATTLE

Magnificent Political Victory Won by Wage Earners of Great Britain.

What the Leading London Daily Papers Said Before the Returns Were In.

The magnitude of the victory gained by the laboring people of Great Britain in the general elections which closed this week were but dimly reflected in the cable dispatches and it is only now, when the daily and weekly newspapers are beginning to arrive that the American workmen are able to obtain details of a political upheaval which almost amounts to a revolution.

While the latest dispatches state that the Labor party has captured 50 seats in the new Parliament, against seven held heretofore, there are many districts strongholds of Liberals and Tories, in which the labor candidates were that it virtually amounts to a moral victory, and in another year or two those districts can safely be counted in the working class column.

But overshadowing the halting that swept the fossilized policies of the old conservative party out of existence is an awakened conscience that is causing even the triumphant Liberals of the reactionary wing great uneasiness. While it may be too clearly to make predictions, yet the fact is looming up on the horizon of British politics that the present Liberal government will be driven forward and be compelled to embark upon an era of progressive legislation or there will be a break between the radical and conservative wings of the party in control.

That the ruling class of Great Britain, whether it be designated Conservative or Liberals, is thoroughly alarmed is shown in the comments of the London capitalistic dailies, following closely upon the statement of Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, the only Tory leader who has some political life left when he declared that England had her choice between tariff reform and socialism and is choosing socialism.

The London Times, the leading organ of class privilege in Europe, says: "What the Tory (the politicians) have been disputing about the issues, and other issue has been shaping itself, after the fashion of such things, quietly, silently, without observation. That issue is whether the working classes who form the bulk of the electorate are to dictate the policy they desire, or to go on contending themselves with choosing between policies offered them by the traditional parties in the state. They have decided for the first alternative. They have done what some observers expected them to do long ago, but what they have so long abstained from doing that these observers had forgotten to go on expecting. The polls fully bear out what we said about the Labor vote. Where the workmen have run candidates of their own they have returned them by immense majorities."

The Daily Mail remarks: "The enormous Labor polls are, indeed, the great feature of the election, and even where Labor has not won it has voted in a manner that is beginning to cause nervousness to its Liberal ally. It is significant too that of its nominal Liberal candidates, many are distinguished from communists or extreme Socialists."

Says the London Standard: "If Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman counts upon the members of the Independent Labor party to swell his majority at Westminster, he is nursing a delusion. They will give him their votes so long as his policy suits their demands; but they feel no scruple when he fails to satisfy them, about leaving him in the reach of a critical division. He will require all the liberal adherents he can muster if he is to hold his ground in the lobbies against a party, compact and unattached who will neither offer nor accept terms from officialism."

And this from the Daily Telegraph: "We should be the last to deny the rights of the industrial classes to combine to secure what advantages they could from the exercise of the franchise. At the same time it would be futile to ignore the fact that their leaders—one of the most conspicuous of them in the cabinet—have declared their undying hostility to capitalists and capital has realized his own power and has communicated to the members of that much-abused class—upon which nine out of every ten artists depend for their existence—who are standing as radical candidates and who are supplying the sinews of war for their less affluent friends?"

And the Pall Mall Gazette adds: "A new power has arisen in the land. That is Labor. Today we are face to face with the future. Hitherto the British workman has had the vote, but has hardly cared to use it; he has in the main, treated the franchise much as a Polar bear would treat a fur-lined overcoat—he has had no use for it. This time it is otherwise—the workman (when he has used it at all) or one or been moved to use it for his own purposes, not as heretofore, for the benefit foregoing, will suffice for the present."

Official Liberalism will find it its cost that politics is not all a Gospel Tea of a Pleasant Sunday Afternoon when it has to deal with the powerful Labor party in the House of Commons. And it is already an assured fact that the giant is awake, refreshed from his long slumber, and rejoicing to run his course."

Inquiry made by the Chicago Tribune of J. Keir Hardie. This is what Mr. Hardie cabled to the Tribune:

"Mr. Carnegie in 1890 sent $500 to my election fund, which I forwarded to his locked out, starving workmen at Homestead, since when he has not troubled us. Our election campaign fund comes from trade unions, the Independent Labor Party, and Socialists."

AID PROSECUTION OF TIMBER TRESPASSERS

ST. PAUL, Feb. 14.—Governor Johnson today received a communication from the citizens of Park Rapids in which his action in reference to the prosecution for alleged timber trespasses in Northern Minnesota is heartily endorsed. The letter is written by W. W. Wooley and says:

"I have been asked to inform you that at a special meeting of the citizens of this city held last Saturday it was voted to pledge to yourself and to Messrs. Finney and Batcheller our hearty co-operation and support in bringing about the immediate prosecution of all parties guilty of trespassing upon state lands and adjoining counties, realizing as we do that sufficient evidence is here to convict if taken up before the cases outlaw."

Governor Johnson replied, heartily commending the action of the citizens.

CAPITOL COMMISSION ANSWERS CRITICISM

ST. PAUL, Feb. 14.—Members of the board of state capitol commission have addressed a letter to Governor Johnson in reply to the criticisms on the board contained in the report by the public examiner of his investigation of the accounts of the commission.

The members collectively state they feel a distinct grievance in that they were not in any way consulted by the public examiner, nor were they asked to explain any of the apparent irregularities. They also deny the right of the examiner to question their motives.

The letter then proceeds to take up the criticisms contained in the report and explains them in details.

The request is made of the governor that he file the communication with the public examiner's report.

AT THE LYCEUM.

The Marriage of Wm. Ashe.

Mrs. Humphrey Ward, author of "The Marriage of William Ashe" which was dramatized for Grace George by Margaret Mayo, arrived from England last week to witness the vivifying of her brain children. Mrs. Ward recently wrote a play in collaboration with Louis Parker.

While critics are pining in praise of Mrs. Ward's greatest novel, "The Marriage of William Ashe" it will be interesting to hear what they have to say of her success as playwright. Those who have seen "Agatha" consider its essential quality to be its extreme naturalness. At the Lyceum, Monday, February 19.

KERRY GOY.

A number of years ago it was "Fritz" Emmett who sang his tender love ballads to his little frauleins or it was Scanlan who made love to his pretty colleens by sweet words set to music. They were the two representative German and Irish singing comedians of their days. The memory of those two great artists will never die. It was they who originated and created the demand for the sweet singer in plays of the Fatherland of Old Ireland which today is more popular than ever. A pure and simple story interspersed with song characteristic of its surroundings touches a sympathetic chord in the hearts of all and bids fair to outlive all other class of plays. Of all the society or romantic plays ever written, or the cleverly conceived melodrama with its thickening plot, not even the opera or so-called musical comedy can offer so substantial and satisfying an entertainment.

For the present season the management of Joseph Murphy's beautiful "Kerry Gow" offer Ireland's sweet singer Allen Doone in Mr. Murphy's former role. Mr. Doone while a newcomer to the legitimate drama, was formerly prominent in vaudeville, where he demonstrated his vocal qualities and his cleverness to excel in more important roles. While the season is still young Mr. Doone has sang and acted his way well to the front and bids fair to be an admirable disciple of an Emmett or a Scanlan.

Possessed of a sweet, melodious tenor voice of great range, his singing of the pretty little Irish love ballads "Sweet Nora Drew," "The Cooling of the Doves," "The Song of the Forge," etc., written especially for "Kerry Gow" offer a rare musical treat in addition to the rich study of character type that this pretty play affords. The admirable scenic features of the blacksmith shop where the horse is shot in full view of the audience. Does exciting race track scene, the flying home of the carrier pigeons "mid the shouts of the excited peasantry are still continued among the many delights of "Kerry Gow." To appear at the Lyceum, Wednesday, and Thursday matinee.

REILLY & WOODS'

BIG SHOW AT MET.

Amateur Night Friday—Ladies' Matinee and Night. Thursday—Handsome Souvenirs to Each Lady Attending. One of the real big successes of the theatrical season has been the ever-popular "Reilly & Woods' Show." There are good reasons for this big success. For the entertainment presented this season is a meritorious one and above the general average of shows who play the burlesque houses. Headed by the only Pat Reilly himself who has been before the public continuously for 22 years, and during all this period of time he and his show has become big favorites everywhere, and when it is known that the Reilly & Woods' Show is announced to appear in each city it means "big business." Never in its history has the show been as good as it is this season. There is a whirlwind of laughter from the beginning of the show to the finale. The entertainment is divided into three parts opening with a musical absurdity entitled "Simon Simple," and "Simple Simon," followed by an unusually good olio of specialties embracing O'Connell and Fern, in their famous sketch "Sign That Book," Daly and Rethe Butterick Publishing company. This institution caters principally to the family—fashions, the home, the family and matters that pertain to morality. It thus comes with extremely bad taste from that concern to oppose the eight-hour movement. Its magazines are largely purchased by the working classes, especially the mothers and children, and it is therefore possible for them to strike an effective blow for the maintenance of their homes in a comfortable manner, and to help make and keep those homes happy ones for themselves and their husbands and fathers, who in the event of the strike being successful throughout the international jurisdiction, would be able to spend more time with them.

no, comedy acrobats, introducing some new and sensational tricks; the Revere Sisters, a duo of good singers and dancers; Kennedy & Evans in their amusing and laughable act; Kessner in illustrated songs, one of the best acts of its kind, and the Golden Ballet in three scenes. The performance terminates with the laughable farce, "A Hot Time at Reilly's." There are twenty show girls in this company who are gowned very elaborately, and they sing, march and dance in an admirable and excellent manner. The attraction is announced to appear at the Metropolitan for a one week engagement, and this means capacity business throughout the engagement.

Enormous Crowd Packs Chicago City Hall When Council In Special Meeting Takes Action On Three Important Propositions.

Saloon License Question Leading Cause of Excitement. Ordinance Fixing Price of Gas At 85 Cents Passed Over Mayor Dunne's Veto.

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—The city council, at a special meeting held today, took action on three important propositions. An ordinance fixing the price of gas at 85 cents, instead of 90 cents, and $1 as heretofore, was passed over the veto of Mayor Dunne by a vote of 57 to 10.

An ordinance placing the saloon license at $600 instead of $500, the present figure, was adopted by a vote of 35 to 32, but Mayor Dunne ruled that he measure had failed of passage because it did not receive 36 votes, the constitutional majority. The $1,000 license ordinance was then introduced but it was referred to the license committee to be presented at the next meeting of the council on Feb. 26.

It was also ordered that the question of voting $75,000,000 for the purchase of the street railways for the city be submitted to the voters at the next election.

Enormous Crowds Assemble. The importance of the measures, and the excitement which has attended their agitation, drew an enormous crowd to the city hall. Special guards of policemen were stationed around the building and all the doors were guarded, but despite these precautions the council chamber and its hallways were packed to suffocation. The police were compelled to remove several disorderly persons and one man was arrested.

The question of saloon licenses which came last, was productive of the greatest amount of feeling. The numerous crimes that have been perpetrated against women in this city of late has aroused agitation and it was believed by many that an increase in saloon licenses from $500 to $1,000 would wipe out some of the saloons which has been harboring criminals. The mayor based his veto of the gas ordinance on the declaration that he considered 85 cents too high a price, and 75 cents a proper figure. He also asked that the gas companies be compelled to furnish free of cost to the city such gas as it needs for street lighting purposes. The mayor also asked that time be taken by the council to investigate the operation of the gas companies to determine whether they can not furnish gas at 75 cents and still make a reasonable profit. As soon as the veto of the mayor had been read to the council, Alderman Young, chairman of the committee on gas, oil and electric lights moved that the measure be passed notwithstanding the veto. The ordinance was at once called up, and passed.
