MEMPHIS APPEAL.

WE SHALL BE FORGOTTEN.
BY TENNYSON.

Unwatched the garden bough shall sway,
The tender blossom flutter down,
Unloved that beech will gather brown
The maple burn itself away;

Unloved the sunflower, shining fair,
Ray round with flames her disk of seed,
And many a rose-carnation feed
With summer spice the humming air;

Unloved, by many a sandy bar,
The brook shall babble down the plain,
At noon, or slipe the lime-wash
In twilight round the polar star;

Uncared for gird the windy grove,
And flood the haunts of hern and brake,
Or into silvery arrows break
The sailing moon in creek or cove;

Till from the garden and the wild
A fresh association blow,
And year by year the landscape grow
Familiar to the stranger child;

As year by year the laborer tills
His wonted glebe, or lops the glades;
And year by year our memory fades
From all the circle of the hills.

MARGARET.

Sunny smiles and tresses of pearl
Well become an Irish girl;
There is music in her tone
Merry as the sky-lark's own;
Shrinkest within her graceful form
Is a loving heart, and warm;
Never can the hand forget
Kind and joyous Margaret.

In the contour of her face
Nature's favorite I trace;
Only could the Emerald Isle
Give such magic to a smile;
Better than a flute by half
Is her wild and ringing laugh—
Never has the minstrel met
One more sweet than Margaret.

Talk not of the girls of France
With their light step in the dance;
Boast not of the Spanish maid
In her flashing charms arrayed;
Fairer, lovelier by far
Is my favorite—like a star
In the Heaven of Beauty set,
Gamboling, loving Margaret.

☞ It is understood that Capt. David De Haven, well known as connected with the river navy of the Confederacy, has embarked in the commission business at Mobile.

☞ Geo. Spencer Phillips, a gentleman well known in literary circles under the pen-name of J. Ross Dix, died in Brooklyn on the seventh instant, in very destitute circumstances.

☞ James Townley, a farmer living in Windsor township, Shelby county, Ill., has information from England that his uncle, Lord Townley, died recently, leaving him the snug fortune of eleven million dollars. Mr. Townley has "gone for" the money.

☞ Athas accounts the rebels in Hayti still hold the town of Cape Haytien, and continued fire with the besieged daily. The English were drawn into the troubles by the indignities offered to their Consul. The rebels had raised the blockade of the port by capturing the only vessel attempting to enter it.

☞ A new thing in New York is the "New York City Messenger Company." Its men may be seen along the streets with scarlet caps, with the name of the company. Their duty is to run errands, deliver packages, sweep sidewalks, put in coal and do other things necessary for the convenience of the citizens. The company pledge themselves as responsible for the honesty of their messengers.

☞ A mortgage deed was recorded on the first inst. in the office of the Recorder of Trumbull county, given by the Atlantic & Great Western Railway Company to John R. Penn, of New York, as Trustee, for thirty millions of dollars, for which seven per cent. bonds are to be issued. The instrument required one thousand dollars of stamps.

☞ The Tribune thus speaks of the election in New York: "The returns from this State improve with every revision. Columbia is gone for us, instead of the other way, as usual. Albany gives us an two hundred against us, and elects a Union Senator, for the first time. Erie gives us nearer one thousand than five hundred. Kings gives only fourteen hundred, while almost part of the local ticket is in great doubt. By the election of the Union candidate for Mayor of Brooklyn, and of five Union Assemblymen out of the seven, there is, of course, no doubt."

☞ The New Orleans Picayune says that Judah P. Benjamin has written to his friends in that city that he has been received and treated with great kindness and generosity by many of the prominent statesmen of England; that he is awaiting the legal term of residence to qualify him for admission to the English bar, in order to resume the practice of his profession in London and Liverpool, and that he manages to support himself very comfortably by giving counsel and legal aid to his friends and others in regard to legal matters in this country.

☞ Secretary McCulloch, a few days ago, stated that the systematic reduction of the public debt will be commenced long before the year eighteen hundred and seventy; as before that time the Treasury will have the funds to redeem the entire large portion of the outstanding debt, amounting to one thousand millions, including the seven-thirties which will be maturing in the course of three years, and not including four hundred and fifty millions of greenbacks and fractional currency, which may all be done without any special legislation by Congress. There is the highest authority for stating that this is the policy of the Secretary.

☞ The election in Wisconsin has resulted in the choice of Gen. Lucius Fairchild, for governor, and the election of the entire Union ticket by about six thousand majority. The Constitutional Amendment upon the negro suffrage question is probably defeated by a small majority. Milwaukee gave the Democracy two thousand five hundred and fifty last year, and nineteen hundred at the late election. Winnebago gives Marshall, the Union candidate for Governor, about five thousand majority. The result on the suffrage question is doubtful, but the vote is probably against it.

☞ We have news from Europe to the third inst. by the steamer Belgian, and to the second by the City of Washington. The cholera seems to be generally abating. There have been severe storms on the British coast. No new ministry has yet been officially designated in England, but it seems a foregone conclusion that Earl Russell will succeed Palmerston, and Lord Clarendon take the position of Minister of Foreign Affairs. The French garrison is evacuating Rome. The French troops will probably be withdrawn from Mexico in installments. The elections in Italy have resulted favorably to the Government.

☞ On Tuesday evening Miss Emily Annibleet, of East Cleveland, was so badly burned by the explosion of a kerosene lamp, that she died from the effects of it. She was carrying a lamp across the room, when it suddenly exploded, throwing the ignited oil over her clothes, which caught fire and instantly enveloped her in flames. She ran out of the house into the lots adjoining, and when brought back to the house was found to be fatally burned, and died but a few hours. She was a bright, intelligent girl, aged about thirteen years.

From the Chicago Journal.

Desertion—Misery—Suicide—A Drunken Wife Destroys Herself by Poisoning.

The name of Garret B. Davis was for years honorably associated with the invention and manufacture of water filters for family use in this city; but it has been sadly brought to shame within the past few months, and is now marked with the brand of infamy.

Last spring his wife visited St. Louis for the purpose of sojourning briefly with her relatives in that city, and when she returned to Chicago she brought with her a female friend, whom she took unsuspectingly into her confidence and family circle. A short time escaped, when, instigated by the spirit of evil, Davis deserted his wife and eloped with the St. Louis woman, carrying away funds and effects, so that Mrs. Davis was left destitute. In June last the guilty pair were married. So flagrant a breach of the marital duty and the social statutes of the nation could not be overlooked, and Davis was arrested upon a charge of bigamy and lodged in jail. Some friend, however, bailed him out, and we believe that he is still at large. At any rate the case is still pending in Court.

In the meantime the deserted wife has suffered all the misery that her condition could produce. The bow of life was strung to its full tension, and last night it snapped, and the unhappy woman has passed into eternity, the victim of deliberate suicide.

On Thursday evening she called at the residence of Mr. Peter Wagner, number five hundred and fifteen North Wells street, where, having an acquaintance with the lady of the house, she asked permission to remain, as she was sick and unable to return to the hospital for Women and Children, at the corner of Indiana and Rush streets—the place where for a week past she had found a home. The request was kindly granted by Mrs. Wagner. Later in the night the unfortunate woman became very ill, and medical aid was at once called, but she grew no better, and in the morning confessed that she had taken poison to end a life that had become unbearable with misery. She also repeated the story of her wrongs, as stated above, and at noon on Friday was at rest.

The husband is said to have recently removed to Freeport, in this State.

☞ It is surprising, says a recent writer, how infectious tears are at a wedding. First of all the bridesmaids because she is going to be married; and then, of course, the bridemaids cry, perhaps, because they are not; and the fond mamma cries because she'll bl-loose her d-d-darling; and then the bald pates cries because he thinks it's proper; and then all the ladies cry because ladies, as a rule, will never miss a chance of crying; and then, perhaps, the groomsmen cry to keep the ladies company; and then the old pew-opener cries to show what deep pecuniary interest he takes in the proceeding. But, notwithstanding all these Niobes who make quite a Niagara of eye-water around him, he was never yet to have seen the bridegroom cry, and should about as soon expect to hear the beadle whimper.

Man is a Marvellous and Matchless Model of Mechanism; a Mutable Mass of Mirth and Misanthropy; Merry Midst Mourning, Mournful Midst Mirth. Man Mars his Mundane Mission, by Mixing in Monstrous Mummeries, Mindless of the Meek Monitions of his Mighty Master, Mildly Mispraising his Mild and Moderate Mandates. Mid the Manifold Manifestations of the Multiplied Miracles Meted out by his Maker. Mase, then Misguided Mortal, on the Magnitude of thy Misdemeanors; Mind not the Mercurious Machinations of Malevolent Ministers, but Merit the Meed of a Merciful Mission.

Woman, Who Wilson Was Wrought upon by the Wheedling Words of the Wily one, since Wives the World Weeps o'er its Wickedness. Wanting Women, the World Were a Waste, and We, Wending our Weary Way through its Wilderness, Would Waft our Wailings to the Winded Waves. Woman, Without Wiles, like the Waving of the Wizard's Wand; Witness thy Weariness Watching o'er the Wounded and the Wretched, Withstanding our Waywardness through Weal and Woe. Wanton Willows are the Wane. Writhing under Wrinkles, may Wage thee Warfare, but the Wise Welcome and Worship thee.

DINING AT POMPEII.—A French paper gives the following account of a late discovery at Pompeii:

"Near the temple of Juno (lately exposed to view) a house has been uncovered which doubtless belonged to some millionaire of those days, for the furniture is ivory, bronze and marble. The beds of the triclinium (dining room) are especially of great richness. The floor of the apartment is an immense mosaic, parts of which are well presented, and in the middle representing a table in a large walter, upon which a superb peacock, with its tail spread, and another bird of rich plumage, are represented. Around this center piece are glazed lobsters, one of which holds a blue egg in its great claw; a second an oyster (fricasseed covered with herbs; the third holds a stuffed rat, and the fourth a jar of fried grasshoppers. Then comes a row of dishes of fish, mingled with dishes of partridges, of hares and squirrels, holding in their teeth their paws. The next article is formed of sausages in every form—then eggs, oysters, olives; the outer row consisting of peaches, cherries, little melons, fruits of various kinds, and vegetables. The walls of the triclinium are covered with paintings in frescos, of birds, fruits and flowers, game and fish of all kinds, the whole intermingled with designs which give a singular charm to the apartment. On a table of rare wood carved and encrusted with gold, marble, agate, and lapis lazuli, stood cups of onyx, and amphora (earthenware bottles) still containing wine."

The quantity of gold coin discovered in the late excavations at Herculaneum and Pompeii has been sufficient to pay the expenses of the works undertaken this year.

WORKINGMEN'S TRAINS.—Penny trains are now fully established in London. They run at early and late hours on the underground railroads. The workingman descends into a spacious subterranean depot, well lighted, in a certain part of the city. He enters a third class carriage, and pays a sum of two cents. In ten minutes he is set down at a station in the immediate neighborhood of his house, miles away from where he started. Above ground, and by taking a "bus," he would have consumed an hour in travelling the distance, and have paid a fair of twelve cents. By means of these cheap trains, a mechanic may escape with his family from the dirty, filthy streets of London, occupied by this class, to the healthier and pleasanter suburbs, or country, and his pretty cottage is brought within a few minutes' ride of his work, and by a means of which he can avail himself at all seasons of the year. Thus one great evil of London life is removed. The English are showing true wisdom in the efforts they are making to provide for the comfort and happiness of the working classes.

☞ The following letter of inquiry from the Judge of the Freedman's Court, and the reply by Gen. Fisk, deserve attention. The testimony spoken of would be perfectly competent in the United States Courts—why not in a State Court?

FREEDMEN'S COURT,
Davidson County, Tenn., Nov. 2.

Brig. Gen. Fisk, Assistant Commander:

SIR: I have the honor respectfully to inquire whether I have authority to adjudicate a case between white men where all the testimony in the case is colored? A respectable citizen of Nashville has a claim which can be established by colored witnesses, whose veracity no man acquainted with them would question; but, as you are aware, the civil courts cannot receive their testimony, and, as the only means of redress, he comes into this court and asks that the case may be heard.

Very respectfully, your obt'nt s'v't,
JOHN LAWRENCE,
Judge Freedmen's Court.

GEN. FISK'S INDORSEMENT:

"No sir! Refer the gentleman to the Legislature!

FISK.

☞ The farmers of the great Northwest are going to have a grand mass meeting at Morris, Ill., on the twenty-second instant, to devise some means for cheapening transportation, on the Lakes to the Atlantic seaboard. Mr. Aspinwall, President of the Detroit Board of Trade, favors the movement. Treating about cost of transportation from Chicago to England, he says the various intermediate expenses—freights, insurances, wharfages, commissions, etc.—have sometimes made freight and charges on a bushel of wheat, from place of production in Illinois, sold in Europe, cost over one dollar and forty cents per bushel. The figures for a single freight to Liverpool or London, he says, would more than suffice to build a vessel of forty thousand bushels carrying capacity, to go through from Chicago to tide-water, without breaking bulk. The idea is suggested to endeavor to get the Canadians to enlarge their canals so as to accommodate vessels of such vast capacity.

☞ W. H. Truscott, having been sent to Washington by Gov. Perry as State Agent of South Carolina, to settle the difficulty about abandoned property which has been confiscated, has made a report to Gov. Perry, which the latter has transmitted to the Legislature. Mr. Truscott says: "The 'abandoned lands,' and included in Gen. Howard's order, will be recovered upon application to the Commissioner of the Bureau in the State upon proof of pardon, either special or general, under the amnesty proclamation; and the lands included in that order will be restored by application to the officer assigned to that special duty. The orders to carry this decision into effect will be forwarded to your Excellency as soon as I receive the official copies."

Miss Bessie Green, Teacher Instrumental Music.

OBJECT—To furnish a School for Young Ladies, at a point heretofore reputed the Athens of the South—second to none on the continent in completeness of the Course of Study—the thoroughness of Instruction or the rare beauty and the manners of the pupils.

HOPE OF SUCCESS.—Our Department Teachers are thorough, experienced and selected from the very best circles of society, and the Principal is at the same time proprietor of the Boarding Departments. He will draw almost his entire supplies from a farm, with which he is connected, in the vicinity—thus the expenses are much lessened. Yet the aid of his Mother, who has thirty years' experience in training Young Ladies, in the Boarding Department, and his wife, educated by the accomplished teachers Drs. Hubbard and S. W. Moore, in the Literary Department, will secure ample attention to all the interests of the Institution.

MUSIC—Will be under the supervision of a superior teacher and vocalist of the finest cultivation.

BUILDING AND GROUNDS—Speak fully for themselves. A cistern, ample verandas, and bath rooms on the upper floor.

IN LANGUAGES AND MATHEMATICS—A thorough University Course will be given if desired.

RELIGIOUS CHARACTER—Christian and Protestant, but will not be in any sense sectarian.

FOR YOUNG LADIES—Who have completed their course of study, and who may wish to improve in the Art of reading, there will be an opportunity to pursue a course of general Belles Lettres reading—under the superintendance of the Principal—accompanied with colloquial lectures on style, and exercises to be made of History, Poetry and Fiction.

AN APOLOGY—Is offered to our co-laborers in the work of education. We have placed our terms far below schools of similar grade; not because we intend a WHITE-WASHED education, as is customary in cheap schools, but that, while with us we labor to raise the educational standard, we may take away from some mistaken parents the sad reason for patronizing a class of schools where young ladies are herded like cattle, and educated only in seeming.

PARENTS FROM A DISTANCE, Wishing to board pupils in the Institution, for the Second term, commencing February 1st, are requested to notify us as early as November, that we may be thoroughly prepared for the winter. ONE-HALF OF ALL EXPENSES IN ADVANCE.
