WOMEN OF WEALTH.

Ethel Barrymore pays her respects to the "smart ser of America as

And also they consume-consume not food alone, but all the products of the workers, products both valuable and frivolous.

HOMAGE TO GOOD CLOTHES.

"The species of person feminine to whom man gives up his seat in the street car is a subject of perennial discussion," said the observant wo-"I can tell you definitely. It is the well dressed woman. I have used the street car every day except Sundays and holidays for the .F years. Seats are ordered when I have on my good clothes, and I am left to stand when I have not. "Man's subjection to feminine beauty is a tradition. It isn't beauty subject to; i.e. codies. Ten years ago I was a good deal younger and better looking than I am now, but I didn't get a seat in the street car or other small courtesies from men nearly as often. The reason? Why, I have a good deal more money to spend now, and I have acquired a clothes. Therefore mh mh mhm mh deeper and more thorough acqaintance with the whole subject of clothes. Therefore, I dress much better. If a girls as pretty as a picture in poor, common clothes, came into a car, and middle-aged woman elegantly dressed I would back the 'old 'un' to get the seat. 'Homage to feminine beauty,' indeed! It's homage to feminine clothes men pay."

CARDINAL GIBBONS DEFENDS AMERCAN WOMEN

Cardinal Gibbons, head of the Roman Catholic church in this country, in an interview published here, made what might be called a corrective reply to Andrew McPhail, who, in an article published in a London paper recently, was quoted as declaring that American women are idle and un-

"American women of a certain class and a limited number," said his eminence, "are perhaps the idlest and unhappiest in the world. I refer to the possessors of great wealth, some of whom have either neither religious principles nor domestic virtues to restrain them, and who employ their vast fortunes merely for the gratification of their passions. But also there is a portion of our very wealthy class that lives quietly and virtously Against them and our middle and poorer classes the charge of idleness is absolutely unfair."

NEW CHILD LABOR LAW.

New York Women Have Fought this Law Against Bitter Opposition. Under the new child labor law which went into effect October 1 in New York state, the state commissioner of labor will have charge of inspecting all mercantile establishments in New York, Buffalo and Rochester. He may appoint a mercantile inspector and ten deputies at salaries of from $1,000 to $2,00 a year. These inspectors may be assigned for duty in any city of the first class. This law brings New York up to the standard of Illinois, Massachusetts and Oregon, with respect to protection of women and children in mercantile establishments. New York city women have fought long and well for this law, against bitter opposition.
